Parks List Fall-Winter Activities for All

Activities designed for groups ranging from the play school set to the Over 50 Club are included in the fall-winter-spring program of the Arlington Heights Park District.

Brochures announcing the program will be mailed to all homes in the district in the next few days.

Children's activities start at the 3½ to 5 year level. A three-mornings - a - week play program will be conducted over a nine-week period.

SCHOOL AGE youngsters may find the Acting Workshop, a revised creative dramatics group, of interest. Charm is the subject of a class offered to girls in the sixth through ninth grades.

Other children's offerings include creative arts and—for those with a bent toward activity — tumbling and trampoline, judo, gymnastics, basketball, bowling and after school programs.

Movies are schedcled on a monthly basis, with emphasis on educational and recreational films. First showing: "Prince and the Pauper" on Oct. 11 and 12.

HIGH SCHOOLERS find a teen club (Bo-Gi), a guitar class, judo, basketball and Teen Theatre.

Adults are offered square dancing, guitar, dog obedience, bridge lessons, women's volleyball and dance classes, men's volleyball and basketball, judo (men and women), ceramics, knitting and holiday crafts. Swimming for men and swim lessons for boys are planned.

Oh yes, and for the ladies there's a "move-it-and lose-it" group. (None for men.)

Senior citizens interested in joining the Over 50 Club or learning about its activities should call the park district office for further information.

FAMILY activities include the annual fall fishing early in October, skiing in winter.

Ice — when available — will permit skating at five locations, and ice hockey will be at the three major park fieldhouses.

The program was planned by Supt. of Recreation William Appleby and Recreation Supervisor Demmaree Sunkel. Times and places of activities are included in the brochures.

Residents should wait for receipt of their brochure for registration information.

Green Light Given to 28-Acre Development

A planned development layout for a 28-acre apartment complex at Rand and Camp McDonald Roads was approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday on recommendation of a special committee headed by Trustee Roy A. Bressler.

The $7.6 million Bernstein development will contain 420 units in five four-story and eight two-story buildings.

Bressler said his committee was convinced the development was 1) "entirely within the zoning codes," 2) "unique in design and layout, avoiding clustering of large buildings" and thus providing a "suburban type" layout, and 3) "not detrimental to nearby property owners."

BASIC QUESTION which had held up board action a week ago was the location of one four-story building across the street from a single-family zoning district. Trustee Frank Palmatier, member of the special committee, said the group "rather thoroughly explored possible modifications of this plan" and modifications which appeared feasible "were no more acceptable to adjacent property owners."

Developers had won the same point in the plan commission, where commissioners originally objected to the building's location.

Trustee John F White voted against approval, commenting, "It is still my judgement that this development, instead of absorbing increased density within itself (by providing its own single-family "buffer" to the apartment buildings) fails to do so." All other members of the board voted for the layout.

Board approval was hinged on donation by developer Joseph Bernstein of cash in lieu of land for public purposes.

Only 1 Gets Board's Okay

by DAN BAUMANN
News Editor

Only one of four controversial developments involving apartments got past the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday while another was withdrawn and trustees exercised parliamentary backstopping maneuvers to encourage two other developers to alter their proposals.

1) Approved was the 28-acre apartment complex to be built at Rand and Camp McDonald Roads by developer Joseph Bernstein.

2) Remanded to the plan commission was a 2.9-acre apartment zoning district and planned development layout proposed by developer Harold Eberharde north of Arlington Knolls subdivision.

3) Tabled until Oct. 18 was a 21-acre plan east of Arlington Heights Road and north of Noyes Street which included roughly five acres of multiple zoning.

4) Withdrawn was a petition for 22 acres of apartment zoning and four acres of institutional zoning south of Central Road and east of the Nike base.

THE BERNSTEIN development was the only one of the four which had a favorable recommendation from the plan commission.

Acting Village Mgr. H. C. Best told trustees the Central Road zoning petition had been withdrawn by Atty. Howard Borde, who represented the Chicago Title & Trust Co. and trust beneficiaries Irving Atkins and Sam Beck, owners of the land.

The board's meeting room was jammed with residents of Arlington Knolls and Pinehurst sublivisions, neighbors of two of the proposed developments.

The homeowners in the Knolls area objected to increased traffic through their streets to Eberharde's proposed apartment area and to the effect apartments might have on the character of their community.

THE PLAN commission had cited their objections, the traffic problem and what commission members felt was a lack of evidence of the need for R5 (multiple) zoning.

Several trustees indicated they had no objection to the multiple zoning, since it would act as a buffer between a shopping center along State Road and single-family areas proposed by Eberharde. But they objected to a lack of access to State Road, independent of Arlington Knolls streets.

Access from the north is limited to eastbound traffic on Palatine Road.

Trustee Thomas H. Hanlon moved to reject the petition, and his motion was seconded by LeRoy Bressler. They agreed to withddaw the motion in favor of the remanding action at the suggestion of Village Pres. John G. Woods and Trustee Frank Palmatier.

NEGATIVE action would have precluded Eberharde's petitioning for R5 for any part of the area for one year.

Agreeing to send the matter back to the plan commission, Hanlon said he felt it "improper to close out a man's rights without giving him an alternative."

Residents of the area appeared irked, and Trustee John J. Walsh Jr. told them, "You would be mistaken to assume this is not likely to develop as

Refutes Rumor Assessor Is Full-Time Law Student

A rumor that Wheeling Township Assessor John T. Peters is a fulltime law student is false, Town Auditor Robert Cagann said Monday.

Cagann said the rumor became "widespread" since Peters requested the town board to raise his salary from $7,500 to $11,000 two weeks ago. Cagann, other auditors, Northwestern University Law School where he was allegedly enrolled and the Herald have received numerous inquiries about Peters' status since then.

PETERS HAD told the board he devoted full time to assessing and had done so "for over two years."

Cagann said he went to the Northwestern University Law School and obtained a letter from registrar Mary E. Logan which certifies that Peters is not currently enrolled. The auditor also checked the registrar for day and evening classes in Northwestern's undergraduate and graduate schools and was told Peters is not a student.

And he phoned three other law schools, where he again was told Peters was not registered.

CAGANN SAID the rumor "hit me like a bolt out of the blue."

It was Cagann who voted against a tabling motion on Peters' salary increase. The motion carried 2 to 1, with Mrs. Ethel Kolerus and Merle Willis favoring the delay.

Cagann said he had "no comment at this time" on the question of the increase. "My statement relates only to the rumor which has become widespread. The salary question will be determined when the board of auditors meets to discuss it directly."

Fire Chief Suggests Prevention Measures

Fire Chief Harvey Carothers has announced the Arlington Heights fire department's cooperation with other civic groups in using simple precautionary methods to prevent many damaging fires.

The fire chief, discussing replacement costs, said, "Even in small fires, where the firemen are able to confine the flames to one room, it costs property owners two to three times as much to refurnish the burned-out areas as it did 10 years ago."

THE CHIEF listed the following points:

1. Great damage is caused by rubbish fires. If rubbish is removed from cellars, attics and closets, fire losses will come down and many alarms will be eliminated.

2. Buildings classified as conflagration hazards should be protected by automatic sprinklers. Such installations will pay for themselves out of savings in insurance premiums and as a result our conflagration areas will be eliminated.

3. Basement fires are the hardest to fight. Firemen have difficulty fighting their way in and often do not know what the conditions will be when they reach the basement. Since a fires originate in basements, if fires originatt in basements, if these also were protected by automatic sprinklers, fire losses would be greatly reduced.

The chief emphasized the large number of fires caused from carelessness in handling matches and smoking.

"Matches should be kept where small children cannot reach them, and a liberal supply of ash trays throughout the house would reduce fires," the chief said. He particularly emphasized that, "If you value your life, do not smoke in bed!"

Set Police Examinations

Competitive examinations for positions as policemen and police radio-telephone operators will be held by the Arlington Heights Police and Fire Commission at 9 a.m. Oct. 9.

Men age 21 to 35 years who have filed applications and who meet other qualifications will be eligible to take the exam. A detailed list of personal requirements and application procedures may be found in a notice on today's Herald legal page.

Very Pleased, Worth the Price

"We were very pleased with the results of our ad. Certainly worth the small price."

Thus spoke Mrs. Frank Drake of Prospect Heights.

Village Ready for Jack Frost

Snow tires ready?

Arlington Heights Village Board Monday approved purchase of rock salt for icy roads. Low bidder Diamond Crystal Salt Co. ($11.80 a ton) was awarded the contract for Arlington's supply. Other bidders were International, $12; Morton, $12, and Hardy Salt Co., $13.20.

Diamond had the contract last year, at the same price. Last winter, the village used 850 tons of salt at a total cost of $10,027.

Map Traffic Plans For Downtown Area

Sometime late in 1966, motorists should be able to drive through central Arlington Heights along two main arteries at uniform speeds, with only occasional interruptions by stop signals.

That "dream" situation will be brought about by a revamping of controls at 12 central intersections, now being planned by the village engineering department. The two heavy traffic arteries: Arlington Heights Road (as State Road will be known after Jan. 1) and Northwest Highway.

Planned are new installations along Arlington Heights Road at Oakton, Euclid, Miner, Sigwalt and Grove and at Kensington Road and Northwest Highway, according to staff engineer Jim Crowley, and replacement of existing installations with more modern ones at five Northwest Highway intersections — at Arlington Heights Road. Evergreen, Vail, Dunton and Euclid.

MOST OF those lights—along with the Park-Arlington Heights Road semaphore installed last December — will be tied into a master "monotrol" control system in the village hall to synchronize their timing.

The Sigwalt-Arlington Heights Road installation is virtually complete and will become operable with delivery of mast arms which extend over the street. Bids will be opened Sept. 30 for three additional installations: Foundry at Northwest Highway and Arlington Heights Road at Euclid and Miner.

The Grove and Oakton installations are planned next year, as is the monotrol equipment. Crowley said motorists might find the additional lights a little frustrating until the whole system is tied together. He and Village Eng. Norman Toberman are mapping the stop light program, which he estimated would cost $350,000 in state motor fuel tax funds.

The village board approved development of an integrated traffic control system early in 1964. Advantages, besides the obvious ones accruing to motorists, include improved access and right of way for police and fire department emergency vehicles. The Sigwalt installation will give an immediate green light to emergency vehicles trying to enter or cross Arlington Heights Road, and emergency vehicles would be given an open green light along either of the main arteries, depending on route of travel.

Greenbrier School Decision Praised

School board action to open a six-room addition to Greenbrier School in Arlington Heights next fall—a year earlier than had been planned—has been praised by the president of the Greenbrier Civic Association.

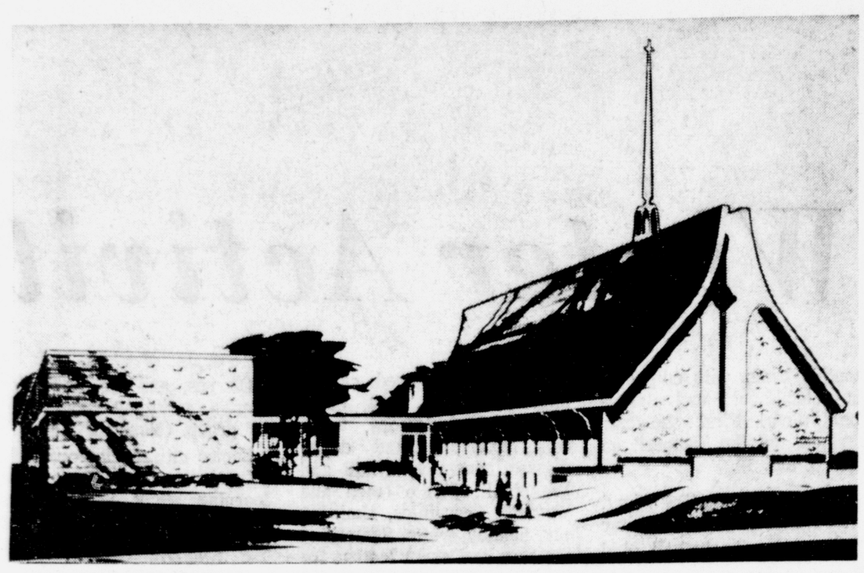
In a letter to association members, Pres. Gordon H. Beguhn noted the association had asked the District 25 board to install mobile classrooms at the school to eliminate double shifting of six classes.

"The decision of the school board to accelerate the proposed permanent building schedule is, in my opinion, a vastly better solution to the problem," Beguhn wrote. "Although it will be necessary to accept the split session concept for this year (and I have one child in each grade), the children will receive the benefit of the permanent single unit school, starting next year."

BEGUHN SAID HE found it "difficult to dispute" school board contentions that existence of a modern school had spurred the development of the area.

"In short, we have a bad situation now which cannot fairly be blamed on any one individual or organization, but it is being corrected by the school district in what they feel is the best means, and in the shortest possible time."

The civic leader thanked members of his association for working "to make our views known and to focus attention on this situation at the school board level." School board members have praised the Greenbrier group for their "sophisticated, adult" conduct in taking their grievance to the board. (A



ARCHITECT'S DRAWING shows the present sanctuary of Southminster Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights and the achitect's conception of the proposed Christian education building, pledges for which will be asked this coming Sunday by 50 men of the congregation under leadership of Lloyd C. Southminster Presbyterian Plans Education Building

Launching its second major forward thrust in its brief four-year history, the Southminster Presbyterian Church at Central Road and Dryden Street in Arlington Heights this week is approaching all its members and friends on behalf of its new Christian education building project.

Five months ago, according to Carl H. Bowen, 115 W. Central Road, chairman of the new building committee, the congregation approved construction of a Christian education building and elected a building and finance committee.

These committees, under the leadership of Bowen and Lloyd C. Peterson, 433 S. Pine Ave., chairman of the finance committee, have been working on the plans and will soon seek congregation approval of recommendations on cost, size and design.

OTHER MEMBERS of the committees include Karl W. Abt, 611 S. State Road; Richard W. Bardach, 525 S. Lincoln; N. P. Crockett, 711 E. Fairview; Chester K. Hayes, 605 N. Chestnut; Clifford R. Johnson, 520 Banbury; Jack V. Keller, 512 W. South; Ray W. McDonald, 215 N. Patton; Joseph Nikoden Jr., 111 N. Forrest; Harold B. Rose, 618 S. Belmont, and Everett F. Wagner, 1516 Mayfair Road, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. M. J. Coolbaugh, 241 S. Hatlen; Mrs. P. M. Schmitt, 315 S. Albert, and William G. Casterline, 815 S. We-Go Trail, Mount Prospect.

Mrs. E. M. Mommsen, the church's director of Christian education, is an ex-officio member of the committee.

According to Southminster's pastor, Dr. W. T. Jones, church school enrollment has now reached 400, necessitating temporary use of Dryden School facilities for part of its program.

Southminster Church this fall inaugurated two morning worship services and two Sunday Church School sessions. A staff of 40 teachers and officers are involved in the church's religious education program.

"FORWARD IN FAITH" was the church's slogan when it entered upon its first campaign in 1962 to build a $300,000 sanctuary. Sunday afternoon, 50 men will call on all homes of the congregation for building pledges under the slogan "Further in Faith."

Collins Elected To Board

Paul E. Collins, president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association, has been elected to the board of directors of the Illinois Savings and Loan League. Collins's election was announced at the 86th annual league convention in St. Louis last week.

Prior to his election as a director, Collins was chairman of the Illinois Savings and Loan League law committee.

A resident of the Arlington Heights area for more than 25 years and long active in local civic programs, Collins was recently named general chairman of the Arlington Heights United Fund for 1965. He ispast president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. In addition, Collins is treasurer of the Cook County Council of Insured Savings Associations.

Harry Goodsitt, executive vice president of the Illinois Savings and Loan League, said that Collins' election to the board of directors represents "an addition of more than 25 years of outstanding experience and achievement in savings and loan management — qualities that will surely strengthen our industry in Illinois. Teen Theatre Meeting Set

Teen Theatre, a group sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District, and the young set responsible for producing "We Are the Grandest" at the end of a summer's work, will meet for the first time this fall on Tuesday, Oct. 6, at Recreation Park.

Membership is open to all high school students interested in learning more about acting, stage technique and backstage skills.

Last year, as a totally new club, the group performed at numerous meetings and special occasions, gained experience on the radio, and was given the opportunity to work backstage for many of Village Theatre's productions.

SOME OF the areas of drama covered were stage technique, voice, building character, studying and playing parts and improvisation.

New officers will be elected and performance dates will be scheduled. Area high school students may attend the first meeting. Dues for the club are $4 per semester.

Drama coach and director is Mrs. Ann Hume.

Career Sessions To Begin Tomorrow

Prospect High School's new career conference program will begin tomorrow (Friday) with Dr. James Tamte, assistant dean of men at Northern Illinois University, as guest speaker.

Dr. Tamte will present the topic, "The Psychology of Choosing Your Life's Work."

Career conferences, each on a particular field, will be held monthly and will give the students a greater insight into the various career opportunities available. There will be nine sessions throughout the year as opposed to the former annual career day.

The purpose of the program is to help keep the idea of careers and career choices in focus throughout the year. Fred Vaisvil and Dave Exline, counselors at Prospect High School, are in charge of the program.

FOUR SESSIONS have been scheduled for the Sept. 24 conference, and they will be held during the four lunch study halls when all the student body is available. The number of sessions for the other conferences will be determined by the people involved, the nature of the subject, and the number of students interested.

As an additional part of this program, the counselors will offer students the opportunity to take either the Strong Vocational Interest Blank, a test for students entering professional fields, or the General Aptitude Test Battery, which is a test for all occupations.

The Strong Interest Blank will be given to seniors to help them in choosing a career, and the General Test will be given to freshmen and sophomores. (ACM-EG

Women Voters Name Mrs. Lunak Delegate

The Arlington Heights League of Women Voters will be represented by a new delegate, Mrs. Tom Lunak of 872 Monroe Circle, Des Plaines, when the Cook County LWV Council has its first fall meeting Tuesday in Chicago.

The Cook County leagues will begin a new study of metropolitan problems at that meeting, held in the state LWV office at 67 E. Madison.

Appointment of Mrs. Lunak, an Elk Grove township resident, as local LWV delegate to the council was announced this week by Mrs. Frank Moore, president of the local league.

Mrs. Lunak and other Cook County league delegates will hear at their meeting a discussion of waste disposal, one of the county's many metropolitan problems.

THE COUNTY leagues' other plans in studying metropolitan problems also will be outlined at the meeting, which will be directed by Mrs. Gordon Monsen of Barrington.

Speakers will be Raymond Anderson, general manager of the North Shore Sanitary District and former secretary of the Randolph Commission on Governmental Problems in the Chicago Metropolitan Area, and Dr. John R. Schaeffer, chief of the hydrology and waste disposal section of the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Plan Commission.

Metropolitan-wide approaches to the area's problems have been given much attention recently, sparked by the release of a report that recommended a metropolitan government.

THE COOK County LWV study of metropolitan problems was adopted in May, several months before that report was announced. The league will study the report and will make its own independent investigations of metropolitan problems and local and inter-governmental approaches to solving those problems.

"We are particularly interested," Mrs. Monsen said, "in getting the advice of local officials in the many communities in which we have leagues as to how they handle — or would like to handle — common problems."

She said that the leaguers will be interviewing various local officials during the year in this regard and would invite many of them to meetings at which metropolitan problems will be discussed. (ACME

MORE THAN 100 people attended the banquet to hear the boys relate their experiences. Honored were: Kenneth L. Proch, Arlington High School; William A. Dax, Prospect High School; Peter L. McCall, St. Viator; James A. Calwell, Wheeling High, and Charles M. Boesenberg and Michael Mesic, both of Forest View.

Church of Cross Tells Fall Plans

The Lutheran Church of the Cross of Arlington Heights has begun its fall schedule of education, service and fellowship activities.

New church school materials for the second, fourth, sixth and eighth grades of the Lutheran Church in America curriculum were introduced last Sunday. The new curriculum is now nearly completed for all grades. These education materials update church school education and keep pace with recent developments in theology and science.

The Adult Forum is studying the Book of Genesis with emphasis on the new interpretation and the modern meaning of this book for life today. The church school meets at 9:45 a.m. every Sunday.

Bibles were given to the members of the fourth grade class and to new Church School pupils Sunday. This is a practice of the Lutheran Church of the Cross so the students will have their own Bibles for reference, study and inspiration. Bibles were given to: James Anderson, Jay Batz, Jan Marie Daniels, Kim Ellefsen, Bruce Hanson, Sue Henrich, David Hillert, Rick Lloyd, Tom Peck, Sharon Peters, Scott Tesmer, Carol and Rhonda Vande Vegte and John Verdico.

The confirmation class also started last week. The Church of the Cross has a three-year confirmation program for seventh, eighth and ninth graders.

The youth work of the church got under way with the program Luther League A-Go-Go Sunday night. The youth are also starting a youth choir, a new program in the Church of the Cross' music department. The youth choir will sing at the 8:30 a.m. service with Herb Meyer conducting.

Starting next Sunday will be another first in youth work at the Church of the Cross with the institution of a Junior Luther League. This league is for youth in confirmation.

The Lutheran Church Women's program begins this month. The programs are centered around the theme, "Our Community-Our Calling." The ladies study the Psalms in circle meetings and have guest speakers at their general meetings. The LCW meets in general session very second Tuesday and in circles every third Tuesday with service projects, programs, education and fellowship. (A

MUCH HARD WORK went into High School District 214 students' "Heavens to Betsy" drive for Louisiana hurricane victims last week. 11 Tons of Help Sent By 'Heavens to Betsy'

High School District 214 students collected over 22,000 pounds of food, clothing, and bedding for hurricane victims in Louisiana last week.

The "Heavens to Betsy" drive netted 6,500 pounds of canned goods alone.

Students from Arlington, Prospect, Forest View, and Wheeling high schools conducted the drive Wednesday through Saturday. Before the week was over, numerous local businessmen and residents had volunteered help and equipment.

MEMBERS OF the 928th Troop Carrier Group (Air Corps Reserves) at O'Hare Field were to have flown the food and materials to the stricken area, but, as of Tuesday, New Orleans officials were still looking for space and personnel to facilitate the shipment.

Edward "Bud" Mills, 402 W. Campbell, a member of the air reserves and Arlington Heights businessman, was instrumental in setting up the "airlift." (ACM-EG

Sheets Looks Toward Third Year of Employment Service

Sheets Employment Service will begin its third year in Arlington Heights next month.

The firm opened a local office, at 207 N. Evergreen Ave., in October 1963, two years after owner Glenn E. Sheets began operations in Chicago. That office is located at 4418½ Milwaukee Ave.

Sheets, who had his start in employment service in 1950, working in two large agencies before starting his own, supervises a staff of 10 counselors at the two offices. Business, he finds, is highly competitive in the booming suburban atmosphere.

SHEETS HANDLES permanent work placement for all categories for employment: office, factory, technical, administrative, sales and supervision. The two offices receive "specs" for 350 jobs a month.

Fee for office women is paid by the employer. Skilled men, according to Sheets, usually will find the employer willing to help with the fee. The fees depend on the position involved and there are no fees until after placement. Sheets sees bringing the "right" person and the "right" job together as the most important function of his counselors. Applicants are screened, where appropriate, to test skills and general intelligence.

"IT'S IMPORTANT to keep to the 'specs' in sending people out for an interview. Companies come to rely on you, and with experience you get to know what they want."

Sheets, a resident of the village, is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, state and national employment associations.

SHEETS

Much of the Arlington Heights office business is generated in a 15- to 20-mile radius from Arlington.

FOR ADVICE to people in the job hunting market, Sheets offers four general points:

1) Be completely honest about yourself and your qualifications. Give the interviewer all facts about yourself and your qualifications so that you may be placed properly.

2) Concentrate on one or two agencies, rather than applying at a number of them. You might create confusion for yourself, the agency and the employer, and you might end up being recommended for two interviews for the same job. Give an agency a day or two; then if you haven't had any results look further.

3) Make a good appearance. While most people dress properly for interviews, some, especially less experienced people, dress poorly.

Sheets recommends "conservative" dress for job applicants. Employers don't like bizarre hairdos, heavy makeup nor—despite fashion—high skirt lines.

4) Be cooperative and patient. Don't get upset if you have to wait for your interview, but allow yourself adequate time. (A

Miss Elaine Exton of the American School Board Journal, Washington, D.C. (left) spoke in opposition to federal aid. Report Tells How Schooling Helps Raise Low Incomes

by HELENE BRISTOL
Staff Writer

A report on "Raising Low Incomes Through Improved Education" issued by the Committee for Economic Development has pinpointed areas of agreement in the High School District 214 National Youth Corps project controversy.

The NYC project was approved by the school board last week. Approval came after three meetings attended by 50 to 100 residents vigorously opposing the program or strongly supporting it.

At the meeting last week a counter proposal was offered by Warren E. Frandsen of Arlington Heights. This would provide part-time jobs in area business and industry for students who would be enrolled in the job corps.

While approving the NYC project, the school board also voted to work with Frandsen in developing the local program.

THE CED REPORT pointed to "new educational steps aimed at raising the incomes of poor families and reducing the high rates of unemployment among certain groups of the population . . . The federal government has recently taken action to support these efforts . . ."

The report further noted, "The federal role in education, always present, has been greatly enlarged in the past several years. The enlarged federal role does not relieve others of their responsibilities.

"Unless all the resources of our federal, state, local, private-nonprofit and private-business education and training system are brought to bear, our educational goals will not be met.

"More than money is needed. To achieve our goals will require leadership, imagination, talent . . . The federal government alone, for all its great financial capacity, cannot supply these requirements.

"One of the main purposes of this statement is to urge greater efforts by states, localities and private business to discharge their proper responsibilities."

DISTRICT 214 Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer quoted from the CED report in his comments to the board in asking approval of the NYC project.

Frandsen indicated his agreement with the basic principles of the report by stressing that it was realized that many students for whom work was needed could be termed "unemployable." "I do not feel they would be more employable next year if we ignore the problem," he said.

He stressed he felt the business community had a responsibility in this effort.

Virgil Bass, representing the Northwest Church Council for Migrant Aid and the local Norwesco Opportunity Council, was one of the most outspoken supporters of the NYC project. While making a plea to undertake the NYC project as necessary, especially for migrant and southern-white high-school age students, Bass commented on local business help for the problem.

THIS AGAIN indicated an agreement with the CED propsition of need for local business help.

"Local business needs pressure from the school district convincing them to give equal opportunity and chances to make good, to these children," Bass said.

To supplement the school board directive to work toward developing the local "comprehensive work study program," Supt. Slichenmyer this week selected three school representatives to meet with the business group. The school representatives are Donald Thomas, principal-elect for Elk Grove High School; Fred Vaisvill, vocational counselor at Prospect High School; and Charles Harrington, distributive education (part school-part store merchandising) instructor at Forest View High School.

The school representatives will meet with Frandsen of Tef Inc., attorney Rolland Franzen and Roy Bressler, village trustee — all of Arlington Heights.

In addition, Frandsen told school officials he would use the services of school board member Dr. Frank Smith, a psychologist, and Supt. Slichenmyer. Smith offered to aid in the program at the meeting last week and Slichenmyer agreed to help whenever needed.

THE COMMITTEE for Economic Development is composed of 200 leading businessmen and educators throughout the country. The 200 trustees generally are presidents or board chairmen of corporations and university presidents, chosen for individual capacities.

The CED's basic objective is "To develop, through research and discussion, findings and recommendations for business and public policy which will contribute to the preservation and strengthening of our free society, and to the maintenance of high employment, increasing productivity and living standards, greater economic stability and greater opportunity for all our people."

The organization is also committed to increasing public understanding of the importance of the objectives and the ways in which they can be achieved.

Slim Crowd Hears Debate On Federal Aid to Schools

THURS., SEPT. 23, 1965

The meeting was billed as "informative and educational."

The speakers were recognized as national spokesmen for their viewpoint.

The topic, federal aid to schools, was a serious issue locally.

Recent High School District 214 board meetings have attracted from 50 to 100 people to lobby for or against what became a controversial federal aid proposal, now adopted, to set up a National Youth Corps job program for needy and dropout students.

But there weren't 50 to 100 residents at the meeting held Monday by the District 214 school board.

There actually were more than 60 people in the audience, but at least 50 were connected with District 214 or the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters which conducted the meeting.

THE SPEAKERS were Miss Elaine Exton of the American School Board Journal, Washington, D.C. Miss Exton has written extensively opposing federal aid as undermining local school board control of education.

Miss Exton several times during the evening moderated her general opposition to federal aid, noting at one point that it was not federal aid which she criticized, but the "type and method of this type of aid."

Speaking in support of federal aid was Dean David Jackson of University of Illinois. Jackson did not take a "hard line" on federal aid, agreeing that federal control must be watched and expressing "serious concern" on a projected national testing program. Such a testing program might be developed to determine how well federally financed programs were being carried out, in line with new requirements of the education act that an annual report on the accomplishments be given to the President and congress.

Jackson stressed the need for "suitable respect for the kinds of problems to be faced by the country now and in the remainder of the 20th century."

ONE WAY OF meeting this educational challenge, Jackson said, was demonstrated by the University of Illinois mathematics curriculum study (UICSM) or the new "modern math" approach to teaching the subject.

This study was financed by college funds, foundation grants and continues under a federal support.

The results of the study "found its way into school in all parts of the United States," Jackson noted. "It was freely taken and freely given."

He said he saw nothing in the current federal picture which would deny this free choice. Instead there was encouragement for school boards and teachers to examine new curriculum to be put into schools on a trial basis, Jackson noted.

HE ALSO stressed that teachers must be trained in how to use new materials and techniques.

Another major comment by Jackson was that citizens traditionally had been nurtured in philosophies of western civilization. Teachers were trained this way, he noted.

In contrast, Jackson said the problems of the second half of the 20th century are more likely to deal with Eastern philosophy. He questioned how many teachers had visited the Far East to develop first-hand knowledge.

"This is one crucial area in which the future depends upon partnership between local, state and federal (educational) levels," Jackson emphasized.

Miss Exton said that the number of school board members was shrinking due to school consolidations. She further noted that the power of school board members to define and direct the course of education in their communities is also shrinking.

SHE SAID this had been taken over by the U.S. Office of Education in great part, and "recent events in Washington suggest (local school board powers) will further decline."

She noted federal programs to finance educational research, train teachers and research and underwrite textbook writing put the federal govenment "one step away" from federal control and able to take that step anytime.

Miss Exton charged that the traditional educational leadership by the "public school crowd" has been supplanted by a "triple headed complex" which is influencing or actually making educational decisions at the federal level. This complex consists of (1) the Harvard-Massachusetts Institute of Technology-California Institute of Technology-Stanford University syndrome, (2) private philanthropic foundations, especially Carnegie and Ford, and (3) the Johnson Administration, Miss Exton explained.

In an active question period monitored by Mrs. Bruce E. Bremberg of the League of Women Voters, Jackson was asked if the federal government was using education as a political football.

Jackson charged that the main thing wrong with education is that it is not a part of the political football game. He said educators were "inept" at the game of politics.

"EDUCATORS do not know the score and do not know that they don't know the score," he stressed.

Both speakers agreed that education should be kept close to the people — the local school board. Jackson noted that he was unconvinced that the local school board system had failed or that it could not adjust to the needs of the future.

Miss Exton noted that changes are coming, and needed, in education. But she questioned who would determine the changes made in local school systems — "Uncle Sam or your school board?"

Closing the meeting, Mrs. Bremberg expressed hope that the audience had come to a "deeper understanding of the problems involved." (ACM-E

An agreement with developer Robert Babbin for the extension of Chestnut Avenue from Campbell to Wing was approved Monday by the Arlington Heights Village Board.

Terms of the agreement had been accepted by the board a month ago after negotiations with the developer and property owners. Under it, Babbin agrees to sell a 50-foot strip for Chestnut north a half block from Campbell to the village for $9,000. The village will pave the street.

Under a separate agreement, the village will purchase a house in the remaining half-block from a homeowner not involved in the Babbin development. The village will pave that half of the street, also. Purchase price of that home is $22,500. Total paving cost is estimated at $15,000.

BABBIN WILL build a five-story, $475,000 apartment building facing the new street. The village has pushed extension of Chestnut to improve circulation around the post office area.

W. A. Schwantz of Annen & Busse Realtors told trustees the 50-foot strip was costing developers $18,750 and the net donation for the street would amount to $9,750.

Under the agreement, the village will move "with all reasonable dispatch" to complete the street concurrently with the opening of the apartment building early next spring. (A Village engineers expect the work will be finished concurrently with the completion of a major special assessment project on Campbell, east of Yale.

Unsuccessful bidders were Arcole Midwest, $34,018; Rock Road, $34,491, and Mayer Paving, $34,619. Engineering estimates had been $32,391.

Plan Music Innovation For Worship

Joe Bryson, director of music for the Christian Church of Arlington Heights, has announced plans for inovations in the inspirational music during worship services.

Musical supervision for solos and small ensembles will be incorporated under the direction of Mrs. Fred Houk beginning Sunday. Mrs. Houk joined the church in 1964 and has experience in all phases of music. She is one of the soloists for the church and is one of five choir conductors.

Mrs. Houk, a native of Texas, received her bachelor of fine arts degree in Fort Worth and did graduate work at T.C.U. She has studied with Peter D'Andria, who studied under Puccini, in New York, besides working in opera, concert, TV and radio. In Illinois, she has sung at numerous state conventions. As a mother of three active boys, Fred, Jr., 14; Guy, 11, and Jack, 18 months, she has found time to participate in other activities in the church in the past. She was active as an officer in the Christian Women's Fellowship in the fourth district in Missouri and was also music chairman. (A

Township Organizes Improvements Board

Wheeling Township officials last Saturday formed a township board of local improvements that could—if it chose—initiate special assessment paving of unincorporated sections of Thomas Street.

The board will meet again Saturday at 4 p.m. at the township hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, to choose a chairman.

The board delayed election of a chairman because one of the members, Highway Commissioner William Luehring, could not be present for Saturday's 8:30 a.m. meeting.

MOST MENTIONED for chairman at the early morning meeting was Auditor Merle Willis of Wheeling, who has been cool toward the idea of initiating a township special assessment project for Thomas Street.

Supervisor Albert C. Peters, who himself is by law ineligible for the chairmanship, told the board that Willis would make a good chairman because he is semi-retired and could devote the "appreciable amount of time" that might be needed. He also asked the other two auditors, Mrs. Ethel Kolerus of Mount Prospect and Robert Cagann of Arlington Heights, if they would have time for the chairman's job. Both said they would.

Duties of the township board of local improvements were explained by Township Atty. Thomas Houser, who said that the BOLI has "what amounts to a veto power" over township special assessment projects. He said that a special assessment project can be initiated either by the board or by a petition from affected citizens but the township BOLI by disapproving the project after a public hearing can kill it. Final approval, if BOLI okays the project, must come through passage of a special assessment ordinance by township electors.

"SO ANYONE who's interested in a project must get your cooperation," Houser told the three auditors and Peters.

Improvement of unincorporated sections of Thomas Street, being urged upon the Wheeling Township officials by both nearby residents and the village of Arlington Heights, was mentioned several times at the morning meeting.

Auditor Willis said of the board's possible activities, "Doesn't this all hinge on this one improvement that the village of Arlington Heights is trying to promote? This is the only one—and the first time we've been faced with one."

AUDITOR CAGANN asked, "Are we set up specifically to work with Thomas Street?"

"Oh, no," he was told by Houser. "Your first activity may be that."

"But not necessarily," added Supervisor Peters.

The board was told that the law provides a $15 per diem compensation for BOLI members and gives the board authority to hire a secretary. The group agreed that while a secretary was not necessary, if one was needed she could be paid out of $1,000 budgeted in a township contingency fund. Compensation for the board itself would have to be authorized by vote of the electors, they decided.

Fire Department Plans Open House

Fire Prevention Week will be marked in Arlington Heights with an open house Oct. 2 and 3 at the North Side Fire Station, with a firemen's recognition program Oct. 6 and other events sponsored by the fire department and the Chamber of Commerce.

Stemming from the great Chicago fire, Oct. 9 and 10, 1871, fire prevention activity was emphasized as "Fire Prevention Day" annually for some 30 years before 1920. In that year, President Wilson proclaimed Fire Prevention Week, to include the anniversary of the Chicago fire.

THE FIRE prevention movement has been an active part in nearly every chamber of commerce in the United States. Since 1922, the national chamber has provided an organized program of leadership in promoting fire prevention and protection.

The chamber program includes a national contest among participating cities. (A

Woods Has Equal Voting Rights Now

John G. Woods got the right to vote Monday.

Like other village presidents, Woods has been permitted by state law to vote only in special circumstances—to break tie votes among trustees, when a quorum of the board was lacking and on certain financial questions. Generally, though, Woods acted as presiding officer and—when he thought his opinion was of interest — as a non-voting panel member.

WHEN THE FIRST vote was called at Monday's Arlington Heights board meeting, Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel advised Woods he could vote. New legislation, he pointed out, allows the president of a village with the manager system to vote on all questions coming before the board.

Woods' first vote under the new system was "Yes" on the proposed planned development layout of developer Joseph Bernstein at Rand and Camp McDonald roads. (AF

Unsuccessful bidders were Arcole Midwest, $34,018; Rock Road, $34,491, and Mayer Paving, $34,619. Engineering estimates had been $32,391.

Plan Music Innovation For Worship

Joe Bryson, director of music for the Christian Church of Arlington Heights, has announced plans for inovations in the inspirational music during worship services.

Musical supervision for solos and small ensembles will be incorporated under the direction of Mrs. Fred Houk beginning Sunday. Mrs. Houk joined the church in 1964 and has experience in all phases of music. She is one of the soloists for the church and is one of five choir conductors.

Mrs. Houk, a native of Texas, received her bachelor of fine arts degree in Fort Worth and did graduate work at T.C.U. She has studied with Peter D'Andria, who studied under Puccini, in New York, besides working in opera, concert, TV and radio. In Illinois, she has sung at numerous state conventions. As a mother of three active boys, Fred, Jr., 14; Guy, 11, and Jack, 18 months, she has found time to participate in other activities in the church in the past. She was active as an officer in the Christian Women's Fellowship in the fourth district in Missouri and was also music chairman. (A

Township Organizes Improvements Board

Wheeling Township officials last Saturday formed a township board of local improvements that could—if it chose—initiate special assessment paving of unincorporated sections of Thomas Street.

The board will meet again Saturday at 4 p.m. at the township hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, to choose a chairman.

The board delayed election of a chairman because one of the members, Highway Commissioner William Luehring, could not be present for Saturday's 8:30 a.m. meeting.

MOST MENTIONED for chairman at the early morning meeting was Auditor Merle Willis of Wheeling, who has been cool toward the idea of initiating a township special assessment project for Thomas Street.

Supervisor Albert C. Peters, who himself is by law ineligible for the chairmanship, told the board that Willis would make a good chairman because he is semi-retired and could devote the "appreciable amount of time" that might be needed. He also asked the other two auditors, Mrs. Ethel Kolerus of Mount Prospect and Robert Cagann of Arlington Heights, if they would have time for the chairman's job. Both said they would.

Duties of the township board of local improvements were explained by Township Atty. Thomas Houser, who said that the BOLI has "what amounts to a veto power" over township special assessment projects. He said that a special assessment project can be initiated either by the board or by a petition from affected citizens but the township BOLI by disapproving the project after a public hearing can kill it. Final approval, if BOLI okays the project, must come through passage of a special assessment ordinance by township electors.

"SO ANYONE who's interested in a project must get your cooperation," Houser told the three auditors and Peters.

Improvement of unincorporated sections of Thomas Street, being urged upon the Wheeling Township officials by both nearby residents and the village of Arlington Heights, was mentioned several times at the morning meeting.

Auditor Willis said of the board's possible activities, "Doesn't this all hinge on this one improvement that the village of Arlington Heights is trying to promote? This is the only one—and the first time we've been faced with one."

AUDITOR CAGANN asked, "Are we set up specifically to work with Thomas Street?"

"Oh, no," he was told by Houser. "Your first activity may be that."

"But not necessarily," added Supervisor Peters.

The board was told that the law provides a $15 per diem compensation for BOLI members and gives the board authority to hire a secretary. The group agreed that while a secretary was not necessary, if one was needed she could be paid out of $1,000 budgeted in a township contingency fund. Compensation for the board itself would have to be authorized by vote of the electors, they decided.

Fire Department Plans Open House

Fire Prevention Week will be marked in Arlington Heights with an open house Oct. 2 and 3 at the North Side Fire Station, with a firemen's recognition program Oct. 6 and other events sponsored by the fire department and the Chamber of Commerce.

Stemming from the great Chicago fire, Oct. 9 and 10, 1871, fire prevention activity was emphasized as "Fire Prevention Day" annually for some 30 years before 1920. In that year, President Wilson proclaimed Fire Prevention Week, to include the anniversary of the Chicago fire.

THE FIRE prevention movement has been an active part in nearly every chamber of commerce in the United States. Since 1922, the national chamber has provided an organized program of leadership in promoting fire prevention and protection.

The chamber program includes a national contest among participating cities. (A

Woods Has Equal Voting Rights Now

John G. Woods got the right to vote Monday.

Like other village presidents, Woods has been permitted by state law to vote only in special circumstances—to break tie votes among trustees, when a quorum of the board was lacking and on certain financial questions. Generally, though, Woods acted as presiding officer and—when he thought his opinion was of interest — as a non-voting panel member.

WHEN THE FIRST vote was called at Monday's Arlington Heights board meeting, Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel advised Woods he could vote. New legislation, he pointed out, allows the president of a village with the manager system to vote on all questions coming before the board.

Woods' first vote under the new system was "Yes" on the proposed planned development layout of developer Joseph Bernstein at Rand and Camp McDonald roads. (AF

Rate of Pupil Influx Slows

While scores of new children continue to pour into Arlington Heights schools, the rate of enrollment growth has declined sharply the past two years.

Children appear in the district in roughly the same numbers, but they are added to an ever larger student population base.

First day enrollments in Elementary District 25 totaled 8,193. That represented a growth of 597—or 7.8 per cent—over the previous September's enrollment of 7,596. The number of new students in September, 1964, was 602 or an increase of 8.6 per cent.

A far greater rate increase occurred in September, 1963, when the district had 6,994 pupils—an increase of 808 students or 13.06 per cent from the previous year. The September, 1962, enrollment was 690 greater than the 5,496 enrollment of 1961 and represented a growth of 12.55 per cent.

WHILE THE number of new pupils varied by only 111 in the four-year period, the base on which percentage growth is figured grew by 2,100 pupils.

The decrease could reflect the fact that much of District 25—covering all but the northern and southern fringes of the village—has been developed. But there still are several large tracts waiting for development—particularly sections north of Greenbrier and around Ivy Hill.

A rapid fill-in of such areas at best could cause crowding of nearby schools. Limiting bonding authority puts a crimp in the district's ability to build ahead of population spurts.

For example, with no new construction opening this fall, average class size grew by two pupils. The 197 classrooms for kindergarten through fifth graders had an average of 29 pupils, compared with 27 last September. The 73 junior high school classrooms averaged 33 pupils, compared with 31 a year ago.

EXCEPTING kindergarten, which many children leave for parochial school first grades, today's lower grade levels are 150 to 200 pupils larger, district wide, than are the upper grades.

September enrollments by grades were: kindergarten, 1,225; first grade, 966; second grade, 966; third grade, 924; fourth grade, 888; fifth grade, 796; sixth grade, 827; seventh grade, 807, and eighth grade, 766.

Miner Junior High led opening day enrollments with 969 pupils. Tallies at other junior highs were 753 at South and 688 at Thomas.

Grade school enrollments were: Windsor, 731; Kensington, 633; Park, 592; Greenbrier, 517; Wilson, 483; Ridge, 481; Westgate, 480; North, 451; Dryden, 374; Olive, 305; Dunton, 263; Dwyer, 246, and Patton, 227.

Traffic Plan

eration in the control planning, according to engineers, is the railway. Crossing gates, for example, will "preempt" monotrol controls at the Arlington Heights Road.

One of the most challenging intersections for design is the estimated $80,000 installation at Kensington and Northwest Highway. Traffic flow westbound on Northwest Highway and on Kensington will alternate. Douglas Avenue, entering Kensington at the intersection, will have a continual red light, unless it is activated by a sensing device.

Traffic eastbound on Northwest Highway will have a continual green light, unless it is activated by a manual pedestrian control.

The pedestrian crossing will give people from the Scarsdale area, using an existing pedestrian underpass under the railway, access to the north side of Northwest Highway and Recreation Park.

'Dialogue' Planned On Open Housing

An equal opportunities housing tour, sponsored by the Illinois Citizens Committee for Freedom of Residence, will make a second visit to Arlington Heights this coming Sunday.

The tour party, headed by Evanston attorney Donald S. Frey, will reach the Christian Church, 333 W. Thomas, at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Richard J. Mueller, who is in charge of local arrangements for the tour, says the group will stay here an hour hoping to "engage in constructive dialogue" on the issue of open housing.

FEWER THAN two dozen persons attended an August visit of the equal opportunities housing visit. Mrs. Mueller said that she and her committee have issued invitations this time to an even wider circle of Arlington Heights religious, civic and business leaders.

Every village trustee and local minister has been invited to the meeting, she said. So have local Realtors.

Asked what concrete measures the freedom of residence group hopes to achieve as a result of the "dialogues" here, Mrs. Mueller cited a public policy statement issued by Skokie village trustees in July and presented at the FOR housing tour's early August stop in that suburb.

The statement put Skokie trustees on record as opposed to denial of equal housing opportunities "whether by express or tacit agreement, silence or custom."

THE SKOKIE trustees promised the FOR tour party a "detailed followup program of persuasion and education" of Realtors.

The freedom of residence tour party will make other stops in the northwest suburbs, going from the Arlington Heights church to St. Joseph the Worker Catholic Church at Wheeling and from there to a meeting with Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights residents at Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Euclid-Lake and Wolf.

Listed as assisting with arrangements were Elic Nekimken and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hutchison, all of Wheeling, and Mrs. Mueller.

All you have to do to get a big hand from a sullen motorist is to give up your parking space to him.

2 Accused Of Auto Theft Try

Two Arlington Heights youths were arrested Tuesday by Palatine police on charges of auto theft.

Frederick Koelling, 18, of 2416 Buffalo Grove Road, and Raymond Cozart, 19, of 23 S. Evergreen, were charged with attempting to steal the automobile of John Miraglia, 345 N. Lytle Drive, Palatine.

Palatine police at 2 a.m. Tuesday received a call that two men in an automobile were seen driving around Palatine's Winston Park area without headlights on.

Police went to the area and saw one car pushing another car down Clark Drive.

The car with two occupants sped away when police arrived. The police chased them to Glenn Drive where the car driven by Koelling spun out of control and stopped on a parkway.

Koelling was arrested on the spot but Cozart got away.

Koelling gave police a signed statement that Cozart was with him.

Both are out on $1,500 bonds. They are scheduled to appear in Evanston felony court on Sept. 27.

A Herald Editorial

The Bus Accident

Arlington Heights police and firemen, and the staff of Northwest Community Hospital, deserve a special word of thanks for their handling of last week's school bus accident.

Most of the injuries, fortunately, were minor, but the efficient handling of a large number of injuries by these agencies is reassuring. So was the response of neighboring fire departments, ambulance services, residents of the Park-Prindle area where the accident occurred and ham radio operators who kept information flowing despite jammed switchboards.

THE MISHAP OCCURRED at a high-visibility intersection. Whether it was a complete fluke, or whether there were contributing factors which affect the safety of school children generally, is a subject for investigation by the village. The village board, without attempting to point fingers of blame, has decided to look into the need for village testing and licensing of school bus drivers.

We hope the safety commission, school authorities and bus firms will sit down together for a calm evaluation of all factors touching on the safety of children on school buses, including driver qualifications, routing, scheduling, loads and the conduct of passengers themselves.

Film to Depict Life on Campus

A film presenting aspects of life on three different types of college campuses will be shown at senior parent information night from 8 to 9:30 p.m. Thursday (tonight) in Arlington High School's Little Theater.

All parents of Arlington senior students are invited to attend the evening's informative program concerning considerations to be examined when selecting a college or university.

The film to be shown, "College Perspecitves," shows college life on the campuses of a highly selective small private school, a medium-sized school and a large university. Miss Leotta Hampton, one of the school's senior counselors, says, "We have used this film before and think it is excellent."

SPECIFIC information about the current admissions situation, pre-college admission testing and application procedure will also be part of the program with time allowed for a question-and-answer period.

Donn Stansbury, director of pupil personnel services at Arlington, will be moderator during the program. He will be aided by senior counselors, Miss Hampton and Vincent Carioti.

Arlington seniors have been meeting with their counselors this week to discuss post-graduation plans. (A multiple either now or in the future . . . He could go to court . . ."

With a court decree, Walsh said, the village would lose much of its control over the development.

A sore spot in the other development, at Noyes, was failure of developers to provide for extension of Lincoln Street through to State Road. The plan commission had rejected the development, proposed by the Bradley family and the Santucci Construction Co., owners, in a terse, no-explanations recommendation.

BUT COMMISSION members individually had cited Lincoln Street and the existence of R5 zoning among their objections. The village manager has called Lincoln's extension "unnecessary." The proposal also included a 6-acre business area along Arlington Heights Road, a 7.5 acre park site and about 3 acres of single-family zoning.

Developers had amended their original plans to reduce the apartment zoning, extend several streets and change the business area from B3 (general service) to B2 (retail). The Bradley-Santucci property presently is outside the village limits.

Trustee Walsh moved to reject the petition; it was followed by a motion to table for 30 days offered by Trustee Carl F. Mees which took precedence. Mees said the petitioners "now have our view on this" and should be given 30 days to offer alternatives before the board acts. Agreeing, President Woods again noted the one-year lapse before a new petition could be submitted.

Telling petitioners "you should have come here tonight with your alternatives," Walsh asked firmly "that my motion stand."

IN A HAIRLINE vote, the board approved the tabling motion. In favor were Woods, Palmatier, Mees and John F. White. Opposed were Walsh, Bressler and Hanlon.

Robert Walsh, a spokesman for Arlington Gardens Homeowners, said his group, living west of State Road, would join the Pinehurst group in objecting to the development unless Lincoln Avenue were extended.

Storm Blamed for Alarms, Accidents

Alarms were shorted, a transformer was knocked out, two buildings were struck by lightning and two persons were injured in auto accidents last Friday night when heavy rains and strong winds moved into Arlington Heights shortly before 8 p.m.

—Police said four burglar alarms and a fire alarm were activated. A power transformer was knocked out, darkening the area along State Road, south of White Oak Drive.

—Lightning did $400 damage to the roof, television and electric stove when it struck the Donald Norman home at 1840 N. Chestnut Ave. An estimated $200 damage resulted when a bolt struck the garage of E. W. Hood, 911 N. Ridge Ave.

—Vicky L. Slater, 17, of 406 W. Fremont St., was taken to Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, for treatment of a broken right thigh after the car she was driving swerved off Euclid, near Rolling Lane, and struck a tree. The mishap occurred at 9:12 p.m.

—MRS. BERNICE Johansen, 53, Norwood Park, was taken to Northwest Community Hospital for treatment of knee and back injuries received in an accident at State and Golf Roads.

The car in which she was riding was driven south by Edwin W. Johansen, 64. It collided at the intersection with a car driven east by Michael Steinberg, 42, Skokie. Both cars spun to the shoulders of the road.

Steinberg said he did not see the intersection in time to stop. Traffic signals had been darkened by the storm. He was ticketed on a charge of negligent driving. The Johansen vehicle had stopped at the intersection.

Neighbors Relax After Getting Kids Off to College

Up-'n'-down antics of the thermometer the past week had hardly any effect upon local sociability—not many people planned to do much anyway. It's Getting Kids Off To College season and for those who have been through it for the first time, that's enough said. There's no time for entertaining and even when the season's past the most entertaining thing parents can imagine is to just sit back, relax and listen to the dust settle. A few families, not entangled in the campus caper, are finding September quite hospitable.

Getting the grade school set back to the classroom seemed a logical enough reason to celebrate recently for 12 couples of the 1100 block on N. Walnut. Former residents of the block were asked to join a co-op cookout in the Frank Regula backyard, 1111 N. Walnut, and at the same time two newcomer householders were given an official welcome to the neighborhood.

"WELCOME BACK" party goers were the Charles Locascios, still of Arlington Heights, and the William Heinrichs, now of Mount Prospect. Neighborhood newcomers are the Ervin Haufs and Mrs. Marie Sass who changed street adresses but not zip codes when they transplanted from other parts of town to the hospitable Walnut Street area.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kale, 1204 N. Dunton, observed their 44th wedding anniversary Friday and celebrated the date for three days straight. Chicago and suburban friends began dropping in Saturday evening just to say "congratulations," and before long a full-scale anniversary party was under way. Next day they were the honor guests at a family party for 20, hosted by their younger daughter and her husband, the James Quinlans of Sandwich. Monday the bride enjoyed the afternoon visit of several longtime friends, and received the belated best wishes of one not-very-alert news correspondant-neighbor.

Marking their 30th wedding anniversary early this month were longtime Arlington Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hassil, 417 W. Oakton. Their four daughters, one of them celebrating her own second anniversary, were co-hostesses at a dinner-out party in Mangam's Beverly Lake and an after-dinner gathering in the Hassil home.

Anniversary greetings to Mom and Dad came from daughters Jeanette and Joan and from Joan's fiance, Tom Jones; from daughters and sons-in-law, the Patrick Morans and Roland Kehes. The bride and groom of 30 years ago returned best wishes to the newlyweds of 1963, the Kehes.

MR. AND MRS. J. E. Jones of Bartlesville, Okla., recently ended a month-long stay with their daughter and family, the C. S. Hansens, 1517 W. Fremont. They returned to Oklahoma with their granddaughter, Claudia, when she motored to Tulsa to begin her second year in the University of Tulsa.

The Alfred Sarvers of Wichita returned to Kansas last Wednesday, after a 10-day visit with their son, David, and his wife, 305 S. Walnut.

Six members of a double bridge foursome ignored the cards last week to shower two other members with gifts for infant daughters born this summer. Co-guests-of-honor were Mrs. John O'Hara, 319 S. Yale, and Mrs. Frank DeSimone, 644 S. Highland, whose daughters are happy, too, that the shower came after the fact and resulted in purely feminine gifts. The DeSimones have four sons and to the ladies of that household pink ruffles seem especially lovely. Party hostess, Mrs. John E. Stipp, 1317 W. Grove, was assisted by Mrs. Roy Scheck of Itasca.

WIER SWANSON, 901 S. Highland, returned yesterday from a five-day business trip to Florida that allowed time for a weekend visit with his brother, Don and family in Homestead. Hurricane Betsy had not ignored Homestead and although Don's home and family were safe, a 15-acre orchard suffered severe crop damage.

In her husband's absence, Mrs. Swanson entertained four local ladies Sunday, enjoying a leisurely dinner and afternoon of girl-talk with them.

Weekend sociability for Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lips, 1215 N. Chestnut, combined goodbyes to Mrs. Lips' sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Leverenz of Covina, Calif., and happy birthday wishes to their mother, Mrs. Fred Duerkop of Des Plaines, who was 86 Tuesday. Saturday evening entertaining for the Leverenzes was in the Lips home, and a family party Sunday for Mom was in the McHenry home of another daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Leverenz returned to the West Coast Monday night, after a week with suburban family memebrs.

MR. AND MRS. Eric Plontke, 424 W. Sigwalt, found last year's hurricane-ridden vacation in Florida so exciting that they tried for an encore this year. Betsy obliged, greeting

Mrs. Vera McWharter of Austin, Tex., left yesterday after a week-plus visit with her father, Al Volz, 6 E. Hawthorne St., and other relatives in the area.

A "POWER OF THE press" item comes to us this week via Istanbul, Turkey, and Arlington High School, and regards a letter that appeared in Paddock Publications "Fence Post" Aug. 5. On that date high schooler, Kathy Bauer, plugged for student rates at the local theatre; Sept. 6 Arlington High School alumnae, Walter G. Meyer and Larry G. Lykken, read their just-delivered issue of the Aug. 5 Arlington Heights Herald aboard their ship, USS Franklin D. Roosevelt, anchored in the harbor at Istanbul.

Seamen Meyer and Lykken agreed with Miss Bauer so wholeheartedly that they wrote her the same day. They wrote, "...we remember, when we were sophomores in high school, it was pretty hard to find enough money to attend the movies we wanted to see ... we wish you and your fellow students the best of luck ... we are behind you all the way in your campaign to establish a student rate ..."

Kathy says, "I'm so happy ... it has given us more ambition and drive." She hopes the power of the press, with a little help from the United States Navy, will provide the ammunition needed by the student council in its admission-price drive.

THE JEROME Mockenhaupts, 430 S. Belmont, went to French Lick, Ind., for a week, to recuperate from the busy social events preceding their daughter, Mary's recent wedding to Brian Daly. The household will be a quiet one now, with their Lynn away, a freshman at Western Illinois University in Macomb, and their son and family the Douglas Mockenhaupts, back home in California, after spending a month here. The newlyweds are back from their honeymoon and have returned to the campus of Western Illinois University where Mr. Daly is a senior and Mrs. Daly a junior.

The 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Miller, 411 E. Fairview, was celebrated Sept. 12, at a surprise party for 50 guests given by the children and their spouses. Hosts were their daughter and son-in-law, the James Tippys of North Aurora, and their son and daughter-in-law, the Ray Millers who cut short their honeymoon to be here for the party.

MR. AND MRS. W. W. Knorr, 405 Bristol, and their three children, spent a long weekend at the Abbey in Fontana, where they were joined by Mr. Knorr's sister and family, the Paul Enrights of Kirkwood, Mo. Sailing on Lake Geneva and the water sports were enjoyed by both families.

Mrs. Richard Bergstrom and Mrs. Harold King will entertain at a tea today, in the Bergstrom home, 507 Grove, in honor of Miss Joyce Brunner who will be married to Allan Kruse of Arlington Heights on Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church.

Miss Hilda Martin of Toronto, Canada, spent the past week in Arlington Heights, visiting her niece and family, the Bob Maybees, 400 E. Park.

Larry Kussow, 815 Burton, went to New York City on Friday to attend the National Paper Trade Assoc. convention. While in the east, he spent a day with his daughter and son-in-law, the Ronald Petersons of Berkeley Heights, N. J. Also visiting the Petersons was his mother, Mrs. Gerald Peterson of Anchorage, Alaska, who had spent a few days earlier in the week in Arlington Heights with Mrs. Kussow.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Chambers, 520 S. Pine, and son, Frank, spent several days last them almost immediately upon their arrival in the Fort Myers area three weeks ago. Last year they blew into Florida on one hurricane and out on another, and in this respect Vacation 1965 was short one blow. They returned without incident or excitement Friday, suntanned and rested from the several fine days that were left after Betsy blew town.

Lisa Weed, 410 Mueller, 6 today, plans to celebrate with a few neighborhood friends at a luncheon party in her home, then greet Chicago and suburban relatives tonight. Looking forward to tonight's fun almost as much as Lisa are her Arlington Heights grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lanciloti. week vacationing at the Greenbrier, in White Sulphur Springs. En route home, they stopped in Cincinnati for a short visit with Mr. Chamber's parents and his sister, the James Chambers and Mrs. Charles Dexter.

THIS PAST weekend the Chambers accompanied their son to Carbondale, where he will be a freshman at Southern Illinois.

Laura Jacobs, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. Jacobs, 904 Burton, celebrated her ninth birthday Sept. 7 with a party for 12, including all her sisters and friends from her Dryden School class.

Another September birthday celebrant was Phillip Rosenfeld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Rosenfeld, 124 S. Brighton. He marked his fifth birthday Saturday at a party for Brighton Place friends.

The Ray Krekles, 214 S. Gibbons, attended an end of the season swimming party, while weekending in Lake Bluff as guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Brodbeck.

Miss Sue Miller, daughter of the Robert E. Millers, 1301 Woodford, spent two weeks vacationing in the Colorado Mountain area before returning to her classes at Coe College, where she is a sophomore. The Millers accompanied their daughter to Coe and then stayed on in Cedar Rapids to visit friends and relatives.

MRS. LYLE W. Ewing and Mrs. William H. Carns were hostesses at a coffee Sept. 14 in the Ewing home, 110 S. Brighton, to welcome new neighbors. Among the guests who are newcomers to Stonegate are the Mesdames William Trotter, Robert Carney, William Stark, Robert Hankel, William Jones and Marion Culpepper.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Flying to San Francisco for the weekend was the way Al and Evelyn Schmitt, 1321 N. Illinois, celebrated their 22nd wedding anniversary. It was a fun-filled weekend highlighted by a night club tour, a trip across the Golden Gate Bridge to Sausalito, an artist colony, dinner at Chinatown, a visit to the top of the Mart, a cable car ride to Knob Hill and Fisherman's Wharf and back and lunch at the Garden Court of the Palace Hotel. They returned home Monday.

The Terrace welcomes Ronald and Mary Avery and son, Christopher, 5, who moved to 1234 N. Yale from Urbana on Sept. 6. Ronald teaches physics at Palatine High School. Both Ron and Mary enjoy camping and rock collecting as leisure time activities.

On Sunday, Ted and Marcy Micek and children, Pam, Mike, and Wendy, 1325 N. Chicago, attended the christening of Marcy's niece's son, Frank Joseph Scislowski, in Chicago. Pam Micek was godmother. After the ceremony, they attended a dinner at the Frank Scislowski home in Chicago.

Sunday dinner guests of Don and Judy Swindell, 1409 N. Race, were Le Roy and Diane Klein of Skokie.

RECENT visitors of Bill and Dawn Thompson, 1239 N. Race, were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lindsey and son, of Morgan City, La. Shortly after the Lindseys returned home, they were evacuated by the recent floods. The Thompsons learned Sunday that their home was damaged only on the outside; they were among the more fortunate.

Dee Dee Leister, daughter of the Le Roy Leisters, 1440 N. Yale, was 9 Sept. 16. To celebrate, the Leisters had dinner at the Elks on Sept. 15. Accompanying Dee Dee were her parents, sisters Marsha and Sharon, brother Eddie, and Mickey Moser.

On Sept. 17, Christy Beauchamp, daughter of the George Beauchamps, 1401 N. Illinois, was 8. A theatre party was given for Christy on the 18th. Party-goers included Cheryl, Wendy and Eric Bloom, Dee Dee Leister and Christy's brother, Don. The young people went to Des Plaines to a show.

Returning from a 10-day vacation Monday were Werner and Leona Becker, 1440 N. Race. The Beckers spent the first three days of their vacation in Bemidji, Minn., on a fishing trip. They were accompanied by Leona's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kahler, and her nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Darb Niss of Truman, Minn. From Bemidji, the Beckers traveled to Grand Forks, N. D., where they visited Leona's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Plantiko, and family, then returned to Minnesota for the remainder of their vacation.

TERRACE newcomers are Don Moore and son, Kim Patrick, 13. Don and Kim moved to 1237 N. Chicago on Sept. 11 from Evansville, Ind. Don is employed by Marathon Oil Co. in Park Ridge. Kim lists baseball, football and fishing as his favorite hobbies.

Smoke Signals

By the Arlington Heights Fire Department

Fire Prevention Week will be observed by holding open house at the north side fire station on Oct. 2 and 3 from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Fire exhibits will be displayed and fire demonstrations performed. Refreshments will be served and souvenirs presented to children.

Just 54 years ago the first public Fire Prevention Week was observed. It's interesting to look back and read what fire authorities were talking about 54 years ago. You find that in all this time, the major cause of fire has continued to be human carelessness. Today, it is estimated that carelessness is responsible for three fires out of four. Some of the principal fire hazards of years ago are the main hazards today, too—such things as matches and smoking, electricity, flammable liquids and gases, rubbish, stoves and furnaces. Let's bring our fire safety habits up to date. Learn the principles of fire prevention and practice them regularly. Make every week fire prevention week.

WHY SHOULD YOU CONSULT A PHYSICIAN?

Because you know a physician has to spend so many years at a medical school and internship in a hospital that he has knowledge about diseases and their treatment that you could not know. Because, when everyone but a physicain selects a medicine to take, they usually do not treat the cause of the trouble but only try to stop the pain or discomfort.

Similar symptoms are often present in differing medical problems. A physician, aided by new diagnostic techniques, x-rays, urinalysis, etc., can find out what is causing your trouble and prescribe the one particular medicine he decides is best for you. That is why, if self-treatments do not help immediately, it is wise to go to a physician before a possible serious disease can develop.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Marie Marshall CLearbrook 5-2936

Best wishes for a speedy recovery go to Mrs. Ed Schnieder, 424 S. Prindle, who underwent back surgery in Northwest Community Hospital Monday, and expects to be hospitalized for several weeks. Cards may be sent to Betty in Room 301.

Mrs. Dale Hinchliff and her mother, Mrs. Martha Matthews, 428 S. Forrest, treated themselves to a spur of the moment vacation trip from which they returned last week. The first night away was spent at the Dells, and from that point continued north on a leisurely drive, enjoying the early fall countryside. After an overnight stay at Ishpeming, Mich., where they visited relatives, they drove on to Ludington, where they took the night ferry to Milwaukee, and then on home.

Mrs. Karl May, 2005 E. Park, her daughters, Bonnie and Debher mother, Mrs. Dorothy Williams of Chicago, spent a week in California before Bonnie had to settle down to the business of returning to school. For Mrs. Williams, her first flight had a little dash added to it by the presence of fellow passenger, Marlon Brando.

HOME FOR THE vacationers while in California was the Royal Palms at Anaheim, and some of the attractions most enjoyed were Disneyland and Knott's Berry Farm.

As soon as school opened Mrs. May launched into a busy schedule and assumed the chairmanship of the hospitality and refreshment committee at Miner Junior High, which has already hosted a luncheon for the teachers and will give another for the room mothers next week.

Mr. May reports that he has received a letter from the Ritzenthaler Bus Company, thanking him and asking him to extend their thanks to the area residents who rushed to offer every possible aid at the time of the recent school bus accident.

The Carl Schmidt family, 515 S. Gibbons, were happily surprised earlier this month when Vicki's brother, Steve Koziel of Scottville, Mich., stopped by to spend a few days with them.

ANOTHER FAMILY who particularly enjoys entertaining are the Frank Jenkos, 440 S. Prindle. Recent weekend guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Ruckh and their daughter, Susan, of Minneapolis. The two families were neighbors at one time and have remained close friends since the Jenkos left Minneapolis.

More recent guests were cousins, the Frank Jenko family who drove from Milwaukee to have dinner with Frank and Betty on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fritz and Mr. and Mrs. John Brunsfeld, both of S. Phelps, enjoyed "doing" Old Town together Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Johnson, 512 S. Prindle, were married 16 years Sept. 15 and celebrated with dinner and a show Saturday.

OTHER AREA couples in line for wedding anniversary wishes are: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNulty, 412 S. Prindle, married seven years Sept. 13; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Streng, 524 S. Waterman, 15 years Sept. 16; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kremer, 417 S. Prindle, married 20 years Sept. 17. The Kremers are planning a belated celebration.

Happy birthday wishes were showered on Dick Rasmussen, son of the H. Bruce Rasmussens, 432 S. Waterman, at a family dinner the day before he left for Champaign to begin his sophomore year in the predental school of the University of Illinois.

Elizabeth Retzlaff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Retzlaff, 2116 E. Gregory, a junior at Valparaiso University at Valparaiso, Ind., missed celebrating her Sept. 19 birthday with her family because she had to be back at school before that date.

Favors Park Manor Planned Development

A recommendation that it approve a planned development layout for single-family areas of Park Manor subdivision was submitted to the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday by Trustee John F. White, head of a special committee studying the subdivision development.

The board put off action until Oct. 4, out of deference to Park Manor residents who had not been informed the subject would be brought before the board Monday.

White said his recommendation was made as an individual trustee and that the committee had not made a report on the subject. It affected only single-family areas in Park Manor, and White said his committee was "still at an impasse" with developers over the multiple-family area layouts.

THE COMMITTEE has been meeting for months in an attempt to untangle questions raised by board members, residents of Park Manor and developers, stemming from an agreement signed early this year by the Wallach Corp., the developer, and the village. Sewer, water and permanent streets were installed in the old subdivision east of Scarsdale this summer in a massive special assessment project. But so far, there has been no building construction.

White said the most recent development was a letter from Wallach's attorney threatening to cancel the agreement on Sept. 21 if no action had been taken.

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said he did not know whether developers could cancel the agreement unilaterally. And he advised the board it could approve the planned development layout for single-family homes without at the same time approving multiple family area.

White characterized differences over the single-family area as minor and said he felt the village should attempt to honor its agreement.

BUILDING Commissioner H. C. Best told trustees Wallach plans homes in the $25,000 to $30,000 bracket. Permit applications for models have been filed in the building department, pending approval of the planned development.

White said he had asked that a supplemental agenda of Monday's meeting be mailed out, but through an oversight none was prepared. Thus, no Park Manor residents appeared at the session. (A

Eastwood Events

After spending a pleasant summer doing office work at a manufacturing office and living at home with her parents at 713 N. Hickory, Mary Ann Glover has returned to campus life at the State University of Iowa. She is now busy serving as chairman for the freshman girls' Orientation Week. Mary Ann, a sophomore in the school of nursing, plans to drive home this weekend and then return to campus by plane.

Sam Cullison, a senior at Arlington High School, is spending Saturday afternoons at the local "Y," as he is enrolled in an 11-week senior life saving course. Sam lives at 511 N. Hickory.

September 14 found David Conn, 410 Lincoln Lane, celebrating his ninth birthday with Eastwood friends, John Walters, Ted and Dan Ziarkowski, Gary Glader, Jay Griffin and Scott Rasmussen. Because of rain, they enjoyed a hamburger supper served in the Conn garage.

THE WEATHER was happily better when David's parents, Claude and Dolores, were feted by neighbors in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary on the weekend. Their neighbors plotted secretly together for days and then carried a potluck supper to the Conns' patio, as well as a gift of silver goblets, immediately put into use as the couple was toasted with champagne. Eastwooders at the party were the Jim Drakes, Al Meyers, Jim Rogers, Jim Mays, Bob Gladers, Joe Sadlers, Wilk Wilkinsons, Tom Doners, Bud Lerches, Art Ziarkowskis and the Walter Malinkis.

Claude and Dolores, whose anniversary was really Sept. 21, were also feted by Dolores' bridge club. Members who succeeded in completely surprising the Conns with a dinner party served at the 1108 N. Dunton home of Leone Olsen and Vera Heinemann. The husbands were also present and the eight couples played pinochle after dinner.

ROLLING GREEN Country Club was the scene of Tom Coward's second annual golf event Thursday. Tom, 410 Beverly Lane, gave the event as a way of saying thank you to invited customers and fellow workers of his Oak Park car agency. The guests first were served a lunch in the club house, then the 27 foursomes played golf with a shot-gun tee-off. Among the pros were Charles Pederson, 215 Beverly Lane, Duke Rowlands of Plum Grove Estates and Bob Olson from Detroit who wore hats that said "Tom Coward's Continental Invitational."

In the evening, the players and their wives joined Tom and his wife, Roberta, for cocktails and dinner at the clubhouse. Tom, a past president of the club, is now in charge of its sports and pastime activities.

TV TARGET GAME

by ED LANDWEHR

We often thought about shooting at things we saw on television but never had the foresight to figure out how it could be done. But someone else did, and now there is a TV dart game coming out. A transparent target fastens over the face of the TV screen and a supply of suction cupped darts are used as missiles. You shoot at the moving figures on the screen, and what fun the kids will have with their westerns! They can get in the chase after the bad guys. I'll bet that Dad will enjoy it, too.

And to keep your shooting accurate you must have clear and sharp pictures. So, keep the TV service number CLearbrook 5-0700 handy. LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights will ride out pronto.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS By C. D. Smith

"Old-Fashioned" Parents Won't Let Her Date

THE WEEK'S LETTER: I am about a month and a half away from being sixteen years old. My parents are old-fashioned. They think that teenagers and the things they do are bad. I've tried to show them different but they won't even listen. This boy and I are very much in love. My dad says I am too young. My brothers were allowed to go out but not me. My father says the decent girls don't go out. But they do. The kids at school don't want anything to do with me for this reason. I love this boy and no one (not even my father) is going to stop me.

OUR REPLY: You are still under your parents' roof and responsible to their authority. Your parents have an obligation to give you proper guidance and you should have the good sense to accept it.

We cannot pattern our own lives according to others and what others do. A thing is not necessarily right because someone we know does it.

You say your parents are "old fashioned." Would you consider them "modern" if they told you to do anything you wished, without even asking them? If they should do this, you may be assured that they have no interest in you. The opposite, of course, is true. They supervise your activities because they want you to get the best possible start in life. Be patient. They will let you date when they feel you are old enough.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

GOP Workers Told Future Of Party Hinges on Youth

Republicans were told Sunday their party needs to become responsive to the needs, hopes, and aspirations of the American people.

"Politics are people, and until the Republican Party understands this, we will continue to lose elections," declared Dr. John S. Saloma III, president of the Ripon Society, a GOP research and policy group.

He was one of four speakers who addressed 850 party workers at the 13th District Republican Leadership Conference held in Niles Township High School West, Skokie. It was sponsored by Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, R-13th, and 11 township and ward committeemen in the district.

"A new, young society is causing a silent revolution in politics," said Dr. Saloma, 30, assistant professor of political science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "The median age of Americans will drop to 26 in the next decade, and we will soon be the youngest democracy in the West. To these people who will be the bulk of voters, the Depression and World War II are only items of political history. This is an open, inquiring generation which offers great opportunity for the Republican Party—if we can grasp it for the future."

THE PARTY'S foremost expert in political organization advised workers "the way to convert people to Republicanism is by involving them in what we are doing."

Raymond V. Humphreys, director of education and training for the Republican National Committee, said "personal persuasions are more important than political ideology in influencing political decisions."

He said the ingredients for winning elections were a good candidate, an issue, and organization.

"To organize the people," said Humphreys, "get them together, state the problem, and then give each person a piece of the job. Go into the precincts and tug at the sleeve of a voter on election day!"

IN RESPONSE to a question from the audience, Rep. Thomas B. Curtis of Missouri declared that the philosophy of the John Birch Society "is not real conservatism."

"I am more concerned, however, about the apathy of the general public than I am about either the John Birch Society or the Americans for Democratic Action," he said. "To Birchers, I say remember that all who disagree with you are not lacking in patriotism, and to the ADA I say remember that all who do not share your views are not lacking in humanitarianism. All I ask is that we debate, freely and publicly, the issues apart from personalities."

A leader of southern GOP congressmen told conference participants the party's future in the Deep South is to avoid the racist structure of the Democratic Party.

"Conservatism and segregation are incompatible philosophies," said Rep. William E. Brock, 34, who became in 1962 the first Republican elected from Tennessee's 3rd District in 42 years. "You cannot believe in the worth and dignity of every individual while at the same time through restriction, either legal or otherwise, you deny to any individual or group of individuals the opportunity to earn his self-respect, to meet his responsibilities."

He said the GOP in the South is trying "to build a political party founded on service and dedicated to the principle that the individual is the source of all strength."

Stating that Republican segregationists are a small minority in the South, Brock added: "The GOP must provide a home for those Southern moderates who care about providing equal opportunity for all and concern for all individuals, regardless of color. The answer is to deal with problems common to both Negro and white."

THE SPEAKERS were questioned by a panel of suburban newsmen, including Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights; David A. Roe, editor of Hollister Publications, Wilmette; and Roland R. Moore Jr., editor of the News, Skokie.

Participating in the conference program were committeemen Carl R. Hansen, Elk Grove Township; Thomas J. Houser, Wheeling Township; Jesse E. Lehman Jr., Schaumburg Township; and Eugene T. Devitt, Hanover Township.

The first leadership conference was held in 1963 at Prospect High School, Mount Prospect. Purpose of the biennial program is to provide a forum of political discussion and debate for key Republicans in north and northwest suburbs.

3 Canoeists Trace Path of Voyageurs

by DEL MARKS
Staff Writer

With today's transportation and tourist facilities, a vacation trip of 244 miles may not seem like much of an undertaking, but one group of suburban adventurers who covered just that much distance took four weeks of constant travel to do it.

Their travel route was over the rivers and lakes and through the forests along the Canada-Minnesota border, their means of transportation an 18-foot canoe, and their food and shelter consisted only of what they could provide for themselves.

The travelers were Dr. F. Patience Noecker, a Palatine physician; David Igarto, age 12, Wauconda; and Christopher Parker, 13, Arlington Heights. Their purpose was to retrace the border lake canoe portage route first used 250 years ago by French-Canadian voyageurs who came into the area seeking a northwest passage to the Pacific and stayed as fur traders.

Their journey began Aug. 12 at Grand Portage, Minn., a small community on Lake Superior, and ended on Labor Day at the Ash River not far from International Falls. Besides the 73-pound canoe, they carried with them a 13-pound pup tent, air mattresses, and five knapsacks full of camping equipment and food for 27 days.

THE TRIP BEGAN with the nine-mile-long Grand Portage, the longest trip the travelers made overland. The portage from Lake Superior to the Pigeon River bypasses several miles of rapids and rough water as the river empties into the lake.

Dr. Noecker said the Grand Portage caused the adventurers the most discomfort. "We weren't hardened up yet, and we didn't have our methods as down pat as later in the trip," she said.

U.S. Highway 61 cuts across the middle of the Grand Portage, so the three travelers took their equipment there by auto, and made the first half of the portage from the lake unburdened.

One of Dr. Noecker's patients who was vacationing in northern Minnesota picked up her car and delivered it to the Ash River where it was waiting for the canoeists four weeks later.

"The last half of the Grand Portage was pure misery," Dr. Noecker said. "We used a whole can of "Off" on the mosquitoes, and it was the only time they bothered us on the whole trip." The trio made three trips in order to carry all their gear, although on later portages they reduced the number to two.

IT TOOK THE group two days to move their equipment to the Pigeon River, but from there on the canoe moved more smoothly.

The first third of the trip up to Gunflint Lake was through very primitive areas and the canoe party saw few other people. The area marks the boundary between Quetico Provincial Park in Ontario and Superior National Forest in Minnesota. Canoeists are allowed to use the international route of the voyageurs without restriction under the Webster-Ashburn Treaty of 1783.

At the Height of Land between Rat Lake and South Lake the group achieved the status of Nor'westers. All waters north of this point flow to Hudson Bay and all waters south flow to the Great Lakes. Ancient fur traders initiated "pork eaters" when they crossed the point for the first time, elevating them to Nor'westers.

At Saganaga Lake David decided to return home and joined some canoeists headed in to a nearby lodge. Dr. Noecker and Chris headed on to waters with such picturesque names as Knife Lake, Basswood Lake, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday Bays of Crooked Lake, Lac La Croix, and Namakan Lake.

BETWEEN LAKES and streams the adventurers made 38 portages with all of their equipment, ranging in distance from the nine-mile Grand Portage to one of four rods. Three portages were made on "marine railroads," tracks with small cars for carrying boats and canoes.

Several times, rather than portaging around rapids, Dr. Noecker and Chris "decharged." This fur-trader term describes leaving the canoe in the water and walking with it through rough water. During one decharging Dr. Noecker got a surprise when she stepped into water over her head.

The canoeists carried a compass and watches, but usually relied on the sun. Time made little difference as they "went to bed and got up with the sun," Dr. Noecker said. They used the compass to check their directions only three times.

They passed near Magnetic Lake which is supposed to contain rocks that affect compasses, but Dr. Noecker said their compass never wavered.

ONLY ONE TIME did they find it necessary to backtrack, and Dr. Noecker said "We knew where we were, but didn't know we couldn't get through." They had missed a portage and ended up following a dry river which set them back about three hours.

The complete freedom from the outside world, and the opportunity to get closer to nature at its scenic best appealed to the canoeists. For the first two-thirds of the trip most of their contacts were with other canoesists, but from Basswood Lake to the end of the trip "it was like Grand Central Station by comparison," they said. The invasion of the wilderness by commercial lodges is bringing an unwanted change to the area, Dr. Noecker said.

The trip was the fourth and longest in canoe country for Dr. Noecker. She has invited young people from the families of friends to accompany her and several have taken her up on it and become old hands at canoe travel.

DR. NOECKER HAS preparations down to a science, and although this trip was planned last January, getting ready to go didn't start until late July. She packed food for 27 days in individual packets for each day and each meal.

Good use of instant foods and dehydrated foods gave the group a varied menu, and they also enjoyed such delicacies as pizza, gingerbread, pound cake and biscuits prepared over an open fire in a reflector oven.

Walleyes and northerns caught by trailing a line with a fly behind the canoe supplemented the diet "although we got sick of fish," they said. All water for drinking and cooking came from the lakes and streams.

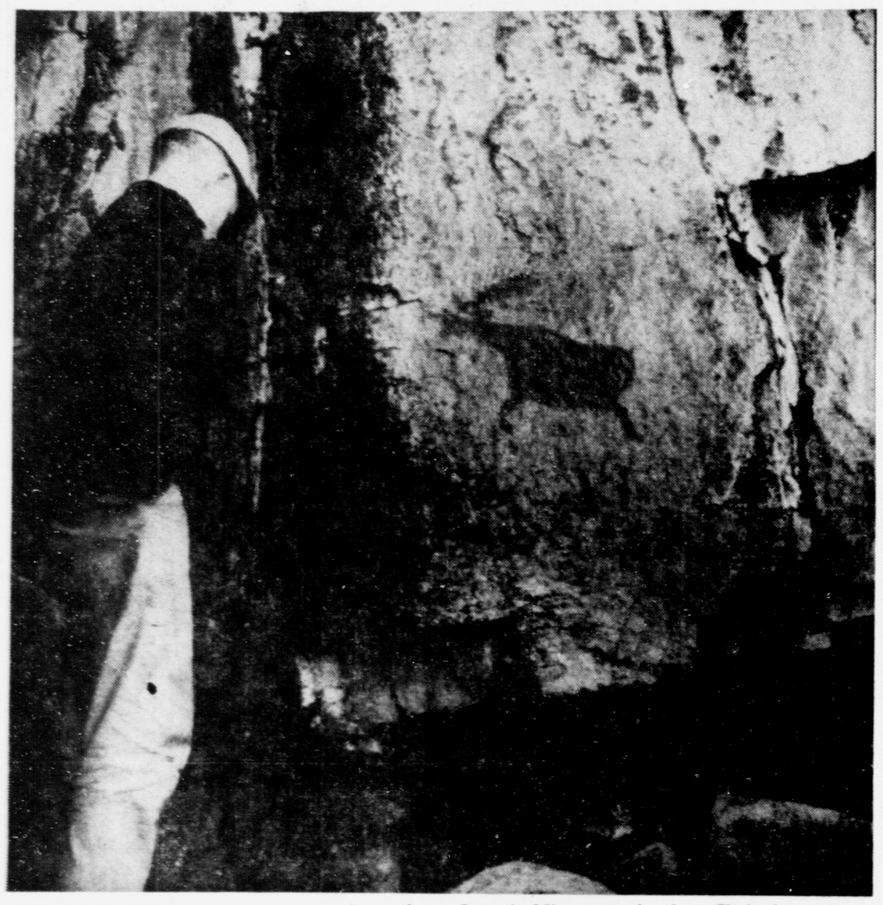
Clothing consisted of two changes for each person, rain wear, swim suits, boots for hiking, and tennis shoes for walking along lake and stream bottoms.

Dr. Noecker's status as an experienced canoeist and camper is only one of several interests. She is a 1951 graduate of Loma Linda College, Loma Linda, Calif., and has practiced medicine in Palatine eight and a half years.

SHE HAS AN interest in animals and owns a German Shepherd, a cat and two turtles. Dr. Noecker puts her outdoors interest to good use, serving as counselor to the Pathfinders, a group at the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Palatine similar to Boy Scouts.

Her latest interests include flying lessons and organ lessons. She also plays the piano and the french horn.

Canoeing remains tops on her list of recommended vacations, and this summer has whetted her appetite for further adventures. (A15



THE OUTLINE OF a moose on granite rock overhanging Crooked Lake is one of several Indian drawings Dr. Patience Noecker of Palatine and Chris Parker of Arlington Heights saw on their canoe trip along the Ontario-Minnesota border. Chris inspects a drawing first cited over 200 years ago by French-Canadian Voyageurs who came into the area seeking firs. (A15 MARINE RAILROADS helped the northwest suburban canoeists get their gear over a few of the 38 portages they crossed on their 244-mile trip in canoe country. Dr. Noecker gives the canoe a boost while Chris Parker makes sure the rails are clear. (A15

Librarians Drafting Plan for Area Service

by DON HEINE
Staff Writer

Library users in the northwest suburbs may expect a big improvement in services within the next few months.

This prediction comes from professional librarians who are working to establish an area library system for some 24 northern Cook County communities.

Area library systems throughout Illinois were authorized by the 1965 General Assembly, which appropriated $4.7-million for the purpose.

Arthur Curley, Palatine librarian, foresees a strong chance of the north Cook County library system being in operation by Jan. 1.

Curley is a member of an executive committee, headed by Glenview Librarian Peter Bury, which is trying to devise a plan acceptable to all libraries concerned.

THE NEW SYSTEM will attempt to pool the resources of local libraries, without depriving them of their autonomy.

It also will make available books and services which either haven't been available in the past or have been slow to get.

A small library like Palatine may now have 20,000 to 30,000 volumes. This same library could increase its volumes to over 1,000,000 through the area library.

"All of northern Cook County would have the same library service as any large city," says Curley.

SUPPOSE YOU wanted an article from the Journal of Biomedical Sciences, a publication too expensive for a small library.

You could telephone the library in Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village and state your needs. Within a day the journal or a photo-copy of the article could be brought to the local library, through a system of daily delivery by motor car.

Or you might want a book on folk tales of Iceland or Greek cooking.

Curley said that libraries here probably will be offering new types of materials — art prints, film strips, microfilm of back issues of the New York Times.

SPECIALIZED employes could become available through an area library. For example, making a good library display requires a talent few small libraries can afford. But an area library could.

At the start, the area library probably will be quartered in an existing local library. Those in Evanston or Skokie would have the space. Later a separate building might be built with federal aid.

Each local library probably will have its own teletype. This will connect not only with the area library, but with the Illinois State Library, university libraries and the Library of Congress. Deliveries will be expedited.

An area library will help cut costs for local libraries. Many hours of labor can be eliminated by cooperative purchasing and cooperative cataloguing.

CURLEY SAID that the executive committee is meeting this week for further work on its plan. The committee is headed by Peter Bury, Glenview librarian. One of the seven members is Mrs. Colleen Amundson, Schaumburg Township librarian.

First the committee must agree on a plan. This will be submitted to each of the local librarians — it may be 24 although it may be more or fewer than that.

Next the librarians will seek approval of their boards of trustees. Then, if they agree, the plan will go to the state.

The Illinois state librarian is Secretary of State Paul Powell. The work actually is being done by Deputy State Librarian de-Lafayette Reid.

STATE APPROVAL will make this area eligible for state funds. Curley said this could be $300,000, or it could be less. Illinois has been divided into 21 library systems.

Their geographical limits are loosely defined and no local library must join against its will. A library like the one in Roselle has a choice of joining with the DuPage County libraries, or those in Cook County.

Most librarians in this area seems to agree that they now offer much more limited services than they would like, or than the public demands.

Local libraries are faced not only with a population explosion, but a trend for more persons to use their library.

THE AVERAGE person in Illinois will borrow four books a year from a library. In Mount Prospect, he'll borrow nine or ten, according to Mrs. R.E. Schlemmer, librarian. The same average is typical in the suburbs.

Mrs. Schlemmer foresees a further new demand on all libraries once the northwest junior college opens. More books, some of them little-used scholarly works, will be requested. One library may get 10 requests at one time for the same book. Through an area library these 10 volumes will be quickly at hand.

The area library system is only part of the new Illinois Public Library Development plan. Other phases will include a state financed program of equalization aid, establishment of four reference centers, and creation of cataloguing lists.

Illinois has been criticized in the past for lagging behind other states in state library assistance. Today 1,000,000 more persons in the state are without a local library than were 15 years ago. One family in five is without library service. Many of them live in the northwest suburbs.

Two ways of obtaining library service now is open to these families. Their whole area can form a library district and contract with an existing library. Since this step means an added local tax it hasn't been popular.

A SECOND APPROACH is for families wanting to use a library to get a nonresident card. They usually are available for about $15 a year.

The new state library plan is intended to bring library service to areas now lacking it. At the same time it is intended to reimburse local libraries for performing this service.

One measure of a good library is its ability to answer questions. Normally no distinction is made between residents and nonresidents. Yet the reference service is a costly part of a library's operation.

When the new area library system goes into effect one librarian predicts: "We'll be able to answer almost 100 per cent of the questions." He admits they can't do it now.

CURLEY SAYS that the area library plan in northern Cook County probably will be patterned most closely after Nassau County, N.Y. It is considered a pioneer in the field and has a population similar to suburban Chicago.

Librarians admit that some doubts have been expressed over the fact that newer communities in this western end of Cook County are being included with Evanston, Skokie and others near the lake. Curley said this will raise a question of centralized facilities, one of the problems to be solved by the future area library board. (A-15

YOUNG READERS explore the literary offering of the Palatine Village Library, one of approximately 20 involved in a plan for an area library system for northern Cook County. The plan is expected to start about January 1. Palatine Librarian Arthur Curley predicts that the variety of books for adults and children will be enlarged to as much as 1,000,000 volumes. 'Crying Room' Is A Courtroom First

The only courtroom in the nation with a "crying room" opened at 9:30 a.m. Monday on the 17th floor of the Civic Center, Chicago.

It was the grand opening in its new quarters of the Adoption Court of the Circuit Court of Cook County, which was formerly located in the County Building.

As part of its setup, the Adoption Court, which processes the adoption of 45 youngsters a day ranging in age from a week old to the teens, has a kitchen-nursery, complete with fresh diapers, bottle-warmers and everything else necessary for the comfort of youngsters awaiting their moment in court.

CHIEF JUDGE John S. Boyle of the Circuit Court said "the crying room" was built in as part of the courtroom on the suggestion of a former woman bailiff who worked for years in the Adoption Court.

"Architecturally, the Adoption Court's 'crying room' makes courtroom history," said Chief Judge Boyle. (B10

Teachers' Jury Duty Approved

Arlington Heights elementary teachers will be expected to take jury duty, under general policy guidelines laid down by the District 25 Board of Education last week.

Supt. R. E. Clabaugh told the board the traditional teacher exemption from jury duty had been lifted in the last session of the Legislature. On opening day, a music teacher was called for jury duty, he reported.

CLABAUGH asked the board for direction—whether in the future the district should seek postponement of jury duty for any or all of its teachers. In the case of the music teacher, he explained, it would be difficult to find a substitute to conduct the class properly.

The board agreed with Pres. Harold Sortor that the district should not ask postponement of duty until after the school year ends except under "unusual circumstances, that determination to be made by the administration." (A

Tax Rate Adopted For High Schools

A total tax levy rate for next year of $2.0495, for Palatine-Schaumburg High School District 211 has been approved by the school board.

The rate is up from $1.897 per $100 valuation on taxes payable this year. The new levy will be adjusted by the county clerk's office.

It will be applied against an estimated total assessed valuation in the district of $167 million. According to James A. Lawrence, district business manager, this is an increase of about $14 million over last year.

RATE FOR THE education fund, largest in the budget, is $1.28, up 11 cents from the past year. This increase is in line with the board's promise to voters, who approved a new maximum rate of $1.38 in a referendum last spring. Total levy for the fund is $2,100,000, compared to $1,910,000 for the past year.

The building fund tax rate is 25 cents for a total of $435,000, up from $407,500.

New legislation this year permits an increase from five to eight cents without referendum for the transportation fund. The total for transportation is $140,000 compared to $81,500 last year. Voters last spring rejected a boost from five to 10 cents.

Rate for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund is 2.85 cents per $100 valuation, the same as last year. Total fund levy is $50,000.

RATE FOR THE bond and interest fund is down slightly: 36.1 cents compared to 36.9 cents. It would have dropped to 31 cents, except more bonds will be sold by the district this month to start the building program approved last spring, Lawrence said. Total to be collected is $610,100; for the past year it was $564,000.

The new building program to be started soon with the bonds sold this month covers enlargement of Conant High School, Hoffman Estates, and Palatine High School, Palatine.

A new administration center and enlargement of Fremd High School, Palatine, were also approved by voters, but actual construction will not start this fall.

Under provisions of the State Life Safety Code, a five-cent rate per $100 valuation will be applied to finance repairs to bring Palatine High School up to required standards. The rate will produce about $85,000 of the total $240,000 necessary. The special life-safety levy may be applied for an additional two years as required. (P

Ex-Resident Charged in Extortion

FBI agents in Denver, Colo., arrested a former Palatine resident Sept. 16 on charges of attempted extortion of a Palatine girl he once dated.

Arrested was Charles L. Hoover, 22, an itinerant worker.

The FBI agents arrested him after he completed a telephone call to the 17-year-old girl whom he tried to get to send him money.

Hoover had called the girl earlier, and she had informed Palatine police who turned the case over to the FBI.

An FBI agent and Palatine officers were at the girl's home when she talked to Hoover Thursday night. Shortly after Hoover completed the call, Denver FBI agents closed in. (P

Mr. Roger Ahlgrim
Ahlgrim & Son Funeral Home
Palatine, Illinois

Dear Mr. Ahlgrim:

Your package containing hundreds of pairs of eyeglasses donated by warm hearted and generous people in Palatine and the surrounding areas arrived at our office this morning, and the task of sorting and testing has already begun.

It is difficult to put into words the thanks and gratitude of a little boy or girl or an elderly man or woman who, upon being fitted with a much-needed pair of glasses that he or she could not afford, sees clearly the little everyday things that we with good vision take for granted. At such a time, it is understandable that the recipient is usually speechless.

On behalf of all those needy persons who will now be able to enjoy better vision, we take this means to thank you and your kind hearted fellow citizens for your generosity and compassion, and to ask for each of you all of God's blessings.

So far, nearly half a million people have been helped to better vision by people like you and your friends in Palatine, and the need for discarded glasses continues. We will be grateful for anything you may be able to do for us in the future.

Yours very sincerely,

s/Mrs. Fred R. Emerson

Parishes Await Visit from New Archbishop

Cody Expected at Hospital Opening

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

If Archbishop John P. Cody visited one parish every day in the Chicago Roman Catholic Archdiocese, he could not see every one in a year.

Cody, before leaving Chicago for the Ecumentical Conference in Rome, said he would try to visit as many parishes as he could "as soon as possible."

Traditionally every new cardinal or archibshop likes to visit all parts of his archdiacese. In Chicago there are 447 parishes and 13 missions. The largest archdiocese in the United States, Chicago has a total of 2,317,700 Catholics.

Most northwest suburban Catholic churches had a visit from the late Cardinal Albert Meyer. The head of the archdiocese has appeared for most dedications of churches.

A spokesman in the chancellory office said the archbishop probably would attend a dedication of the Alexian Brothers Hospital in Elk Grove Village. This represents a great deal of growth in this area, noteworthy to the bishop, he explained.

A LOCAL PRIEST added that the archbishop probably would be particularly interested in the northwest suburbs where a tremendous Catholic population is settling. "This is the bread and butter of the archdiocese," he added.

The Rev. Leo Coggins of St. Raymond's Catholic Church in Mount Prospect recalls the late Cardinal Meyer appeared for the dedication of his church and one wing of the school building. The people of the church were able to see the cardinal as he walked in a formal procession to bless the church and school.

The late Cardinal Meyer was noted for his affability in posing for pictures taken by parishioners.

The Rev. Raymond Sullivan of St. Theresa's Catholic Church in Palatine plans to invite the new archbishop to confirmation at the church. Because of the size of the archidiocese, often one of the three auxiliary bishops will preside at the ceremony.

SMETIMES his appearance at a confirmation allows the archbishop to have a meal with the parish priest.

Time did not allow the late Cardinal Meyer to pause for much informal conversation, the Rev. Francis Waldron said, when recalling dedication of his St. Thomas of Villanova church and school. The cardinal appeared half an hour early to allow informal visiting with the priests.

He greeted people, blessing and talking to them as the procession made its way to the church. All were allowed to take pictures.

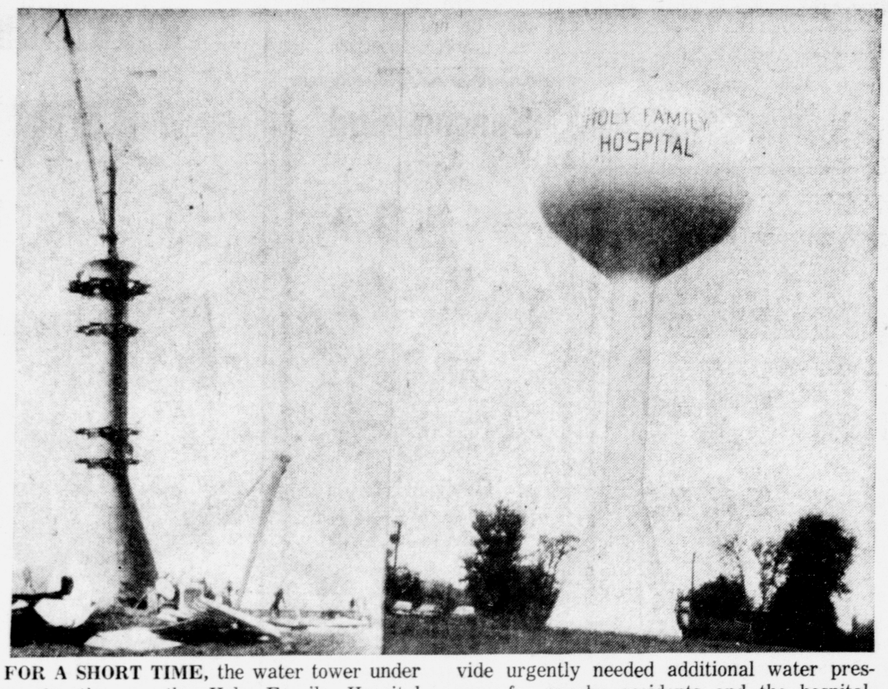
Parish priests usually have their opportunity to see the archbishop when they have their quarterly meetings in the archdiocese.

The archbishop does not need to make an inspection visit to know how a parish is progressing. Each pastor must send the chancellory a detailed annual report. This reports all income and where it has been spent. Any debt is shown. A special section in the report shows where any improvements have come.

ANY BUILDING program in the archdiocese must be approved by the archbishop, who makes his decision on the advice of a board of consultors, usually older priests of monsignor rank. Inspection of the building program or consultation would be done through the auxiliary bishops.

The number of priests in the archdiocese, according to the official annual Catholic directory is 2,882; teaching or hospital brothers, 630; and 9,469 nuns.

The schedule for the archbishop's visitations to local parishes will not be determined until he returns from Rome, probably in January. (B-10



FOR A SHORT TIME, the water tower under construction on the Holy Family Hospital grounds appeared at first glance to be a small missile launcher. Recently completed and painted, the new 500,000 gallon tank will provide urgently needed additional water pressure for nearby residents and the hospital. Chief Fred Arndt of the Des Plaines Fire Department, hailed the new tank as a "vital link in the city's fire fighting program."

Women to Discuss Water Problems

Area water problems ranging from local water shortages to Lake Michigan pollution will be discussed at a League of Women Voters meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Pioneer Park Fieldhouse, Arlington Heights.

"Clean Water Is Everybody's Business" will be the topic of the meeting, planned by a committee headed by Mrs. Louis Nye of Arlington Heights.

The program in part will summarize the league's activities in support of wise use of water resources. There will also be brief descriptions of national as well as regional water problems.

ASSISTING MRS. Nye with the program will be Mrs. Russell Gardner, Mrs. John Shubeck, Mrs. Hal Cress and Mrs. R. J. Schlott, all of Arlington Heights.

The League of Women Voters is open to all women interested in encouraging better-informed citizen participation in government. Women who would like to learn more about the LWV are welcome at the meeting and may make arrangements to attend by calling Mrs. Paul Richardson at CL 9-2658.

While Tuesday's meeting will be the first general meeting of the year for the LWV, it is not the first fall activity of the organization.

Leaguers sponsored last week the observance of Women Voters Week, inviting other women to join with them in learning more about local government problems by taking a bus tour of Arlington Heights annexation areas and visiting governmental meetings.

THE SEPT. 13 meeting of High School District 214 board, the Monday evening meeting of the Arlington Heights village board and the Tuesday evening meeting of Mount Prospect village trustees were included. They also assisted Monday with a District 214 forum on federal aid to education and are distributing copies of a free Local Government Guide listing local officials of the area.

In addition, last Friday marked start of the annual finance drive for the leagues of women voters of Palatine and Arlington Heights, in which members of both leagues are soliciting contributions to support LWV voter service projects.

Zoners Slate Fence Hearing

Arlington Heights Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct a hearing at 8:30 p.m. Oct. 11, on a homeowner's petition for a variation for a fence erected at a pool at 2105 E. Grove St. The building department has ruled that the fence does not meet village standards requiring fences to be 50 per cent open. (A

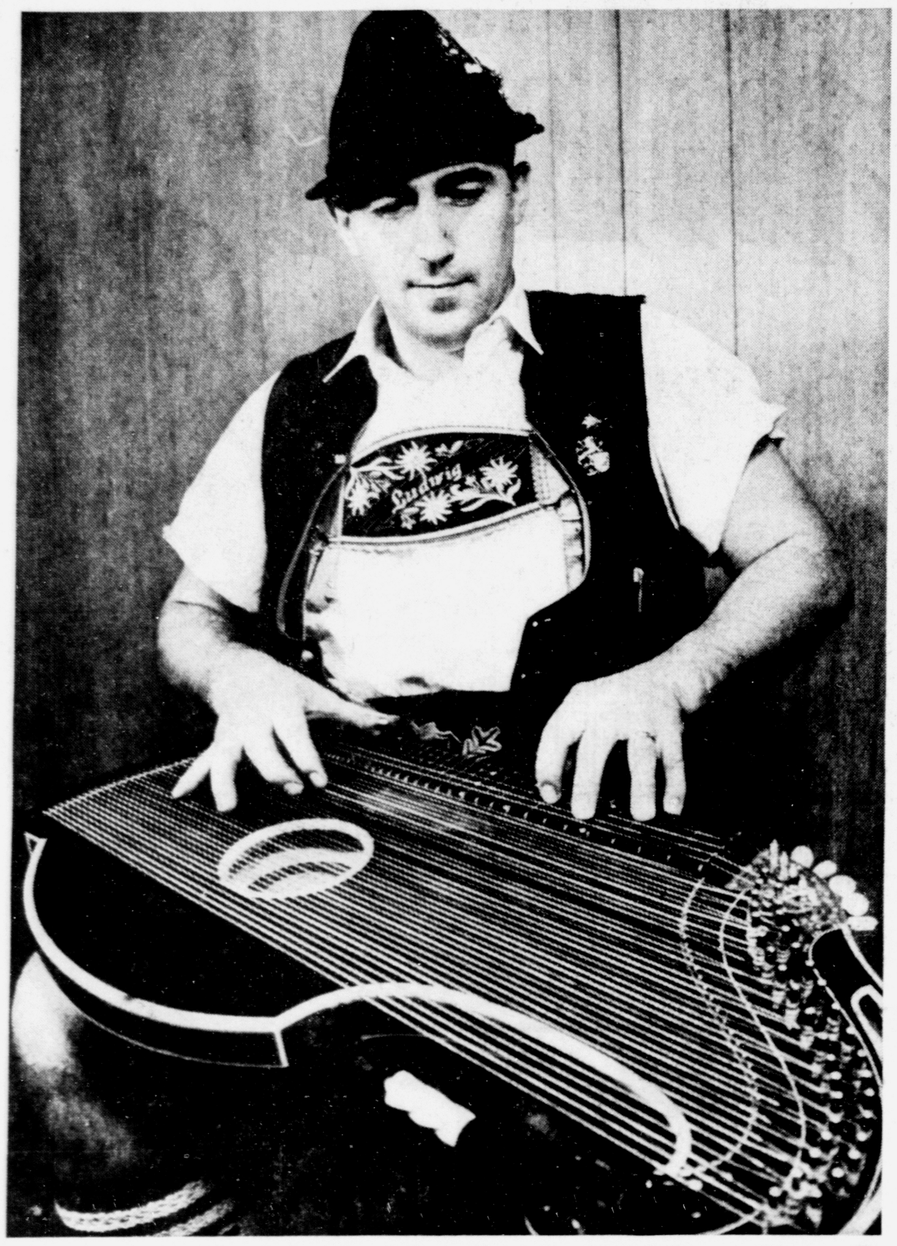
Zither Music, Yodeling Will Recapture Mood of Bavaria

There's a haunting quality about zither music that sets it apart from other folk instruments.

It calls forth visions of Old World castles surrounded by snow-capped mountains, villagers dressed in peasant costumes celebrating native festivals, the gaiety of a German biergarten.

These moods will be recaptured at Ace Hardware during Septemberfest, where Ludwig Kalbrunner will play his zither and sing and yodel in authentic Bavarian style, just as he did during last year's festival.



THE BRIGHT SOUND of Bavarian folk music will be heard at Ace Hardware during Septemberfest, where Ludwig Kalbrunner will play his zither. Since his premier appearance at last year's fall festival in Rolling Meadows shopping center, Ludwig has cut a long play record, under the Staff label, which is heard frequently over Chicago radio stations and has been featured by Wally Phillips and Rudi Orisek. Sometimes, he admits, the music he plays makes him long for his native mountain village, Ruhpolding, not too far from Munich.

(Staff Photo)

LUDWIG claims the zither is to the Bavarian what the guitar is to America's teenagers. It is the native folk instrument, and youngsters in the Bavarian Alps start taking zither lessons at a tender age.

Ludwig was nine when he took his first lesson. He also received instruction on the harp, bow zither and guitar, since all string instruments are popular in his native land.

Since the introduction of "The Third Man Theme," zither playing has increased in popularity in the United States, but Ludwig, who has eight students ranging in age from 9 to 50 and including his wife, finds that many beginners drop their training because it is so much more diffucult than the guitar.

The zither is a somewhat complicated instrument, with its 42 strings which allow four octaves for the melody and a range of three octaves on bass. It is one of the few instruments that needs no accompaniment, and Ludwig claims "it is almost as versatile as the piano."

Pointing to the calluses on his fingers, he said there is a great deal of tension on the strings.

AS HE BEGAN to master the artistry of the zither, he played in the local wein stube, which he describes as "a cozy little tavern, no bar," in his native village of Ruhpolding, Bavaria, between Munich and Salzburg.

When he came to America 10 years ago, he brought along his Bavarian national garb, which he wears during his public appearances. Frequently invited to play at German celebrations, he also plays in the twice yearly concerts of the Zither Club of Chicago, and is currently booked for a long run at Poppe's Alpine House restaurant on Route 12 in Lake Zurich, where he plays evenings Monday through Saturday.

Claiming that even classical music can be played on the zither, he admits he has little call for this type of playing.

Ludwig is a collector of European folk music, and entertains with Hungarian, Austrian, Norwegian and other national music as well as typically German and Bavarian songs. Besides the color and charm of the Continental tunes, he is adept at playing American favorites, and one side of his record is devoted to these numbers, while on the other side he plays, sings and yodels Alpine folk music.

SOMETIMES as Ludwig plays one of the songs he learned as a boy he longs for the little village nestled among the mountains. "It snowed on the high slopes in July this year," he says his mother wrote him. It's only two years since he last went back for a visit, but he is planning to return again next year.

He expects to be playing at Ace between 3 and 6:30 p.m. all three days of Septemberfest, entertaining with the old German songs, Viennese waltzes, American popular tunes and request numbers.

Crawford Features Latest Fashions for Ski Season

It snows early in the Bavarian Alps, and avid skiers can go right from Oktoberfest, the fall festival which has been held in Munich since 1810, to the mountains to indulge in their favorite sport.

All set to outfit local winter sports fans in the latest fashions is Crawford Department Store in Rolling Meadows shopping center where the local version of Munich's festival is currently in full swing.

High school girls who are members of the Poise 'n' Ivy Shop fashion board will model the high style sportswear during the three-day gala, according to Florence Fellman, department manager. Runway for the models will be the entire length of the canopied sidewalk in front of the stores in the shopping center.

A STAFF photographer was treated to a preview of the fashion parade — and beamed his approval of what he saw.

There was Cindy Wood, wearing a cuddly white man-made fur pea coat, over Jack Winter's new tapered cuff pant that is so flattering and a black helanca shell with turtle neck. The pant has a Western look with front slash pockets and a rider waistband.

Cindy topped her ensemble with a John hat of black velvet, and donned black mittens to complete the total look.

The "look" is great as Ann Stayner appeared in tapered pants of herringbone. The fall colors are delicious, and Ann's outfit is in cranberry, both the pants and the wool pop-over with leather lacing that is worn over a white helanca shell.

READY FOR A skiing weekend in the Bavarian Alps (or at nearby Wilmot) are Cindy Wood, left, and Ann Stayner, members of Crawford Department Store high school fashion board, who will model apparel from the store's winter sports shop in Rolling Meadows shopping center during the current Septemberfest. The outdoor parade is Crawford's contribution to the sidewalk sell-abration.

Convenience, Service Basis Of Shopping Center Growth

THERE'S NOTHING like music to set a gala mood, so Al Woodrich, president of Lynell Furniture Company in Rolling Meadows shopping center has arranged for in-store organ music from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. the three days of Septemberfest. Woodrich is shown here pointing to space in a living room setting where an organ could well fit in. He has arranged with Gus Cordogen of Villa Park Music Company to supply the relays of organists, both students and professionals, to play the Conn instrument being loaned by Cordogen for the festivities. One of the featured players will be Gladys Sharp, manager of Cordogen's Hoffman Estates Organ and Piano Company. Home organs are "one of the biggest things in music because the sound is years ahead of the beginner's technique," says Cordogen. (Staff Photo

A commercial facility that would offer convenient shopping for residents of the city was included in Kimball Hill's original plans for Rolling Meadows.

The first need was for a supermarket, and so construction of the center on the north side of Kirchoff Road, west of Meadow Drive, in the heart of the city, commenced at the east end and the Jewel Food Store opened for business while construction of the balance of the stores continued.

They opened one by one as their space was completed, Suburban Drugs, F. W. Woolworth, a children's shop, Ace Hardware, a men's store, Crawford Department Store, Armanetti's.

IN BETWEEN were smaller shops and service facilities, a restaurant, a currency exchange, a ladies' specialty shop, a bakery, a cleaners, a delicatessen.

A few have disappeared, as shopping trends became apparent; others have changed hands; but most dramatic has been the total success of the center which has been greatly expanded to meet customer demands and which enjoys a clientele coming from miles around as well as from the city.

Merchants credit the success to high standards of merchandising, but customers cite the warm friendliness found in the center as a major factor contributing to the willingness to drive miles to shop in Rolling Meadows.

The expansion program began almost before the original construction was completed. The Jewel needed more space so the east wall was literally pushed out.

Then came the addition for the Bank of Rolling Meadows.

MEANWHILE, Crawford's was enjoying great popularity and was ready to utilize space which had been leased to a real estate office, a barber shop, a professional suite and the local post office.

Plans were drawn for a large new wing west of the arcade for the barbers, a new beauty shop, a shoe repair, laundromat, and Behlke's Appliance Service. Another newcomer was Brown's Fried Chicken store.

But back down the arcade in the original section there were some changes taking place. The Frank Bugiels took over the bakery; the restaurant was enlarged and Larry Senear now operates it; a Bresler's 33 Flavors ice cream shop replaces the specialty shop; and the name of the men's store was changed to Murray's, with Hal Behrendt and his son Keith in charge.

And at the far west end a Standard service station was built, and nearby the Home and Garden Shop to cater to the landscaping needs of the area.

The most recent change — and a major step to provide the diversity that customers like — was this summer's opening of Lynell Furniture in the large space originally a children's shop.

Al Woodrich, president of the furniture company, is getting his first taste with Septemberfest of special events which the merchants association stage periodically.

THE ANNUAL fall festivities also include a spook sale near Halloween, and the center becomes one huge sparkling ornament during the pre-Christmas season, with Santa Claus holding court in his gingerbread house for good measure.

Dollar days in January and late summer bring such crowds to the center that employees of the stores are required to park their cars elsewhere to make room in the parking lot for customers.

An Easter bunny makes her appearance prior to Easter, and Mother's Day is appropriately noted.

In a spirit of fun, the stores offered "genuine imitation Blarney stones" to customers on St. Patrick's Day.

And as Woodrich and other newcomers to the merchants' group will learn, almost any suggestion in the way of a special event will get serious consideration — especially if it reflects the warmth and hospitality for which the center has become well known. (KSS

Bratwurst Is Spicy Delicacy

Bratwurst may be scorned by gourmets, but fans of the spicy German sausage will argue that it is a great delicacy.

Certain it is that bratwurst has grown in popularity during the years it has been served at Septemberfest in Rolling Meadows. The bratwurst stand had to close down early Saturday evening last year, when the entire northwest area was stripped of its supply of the sausage to feed the crowd of fans.

Larry Senear of the Plaza Lane Restaurant in the shopping center is manning the bratwurst concession this year, and is arranging with his supplier to provide plenty of the succulent links.

GENERAL CHAIRMAN of the biergarten, where food and beverages can be had, is Mike Sica of Armanetti's. He has arranged for Garten Brau, a Bavarian style beer to be served from the beer wagon.

Vying with bratwurst in popularity at Septemberfest is the fried chicken pieces provided by Brown's. The all-American favorite will be served outdoors from "Brown's Chicken Chalet," which will be located in the biergarten, along with soft drinks.

Pop, as well as hot dogs and ice cream, will be dispensed at another wagon in the biergarten, this one under the direction of Max Savolick, manager of the local F. W. Woolworth store.

Septemberfest visitors can dine in the Plaza Lane Restaurant, purchase full chicken dinners at Brown's store in the west wing, or snack on food from A. & W. delicatessen and ice cream from Bressler's 33 Flavors in addition to the menu in the biergarten. (KSS

Barber to Offer Bucks as Bonus

Men and boys who get haircuts at the old-fashioned barber chair in the Septemberfest biergarten will get 50 extra auction bucks as a bonus.

(Hey, Mr. Loesch, how about girls and women? If they'll let your barber give them a "bob" can they collect the extra auction bucks so they'll have more to spend at the grand auction saleurday night?)

Ted Loesch of Rolling Meadows Barber Shop, located in the west wing of the shopping center, arranged the novel attraction to add to the Septemberfest gaiety. (KSS

BROWN'S CHICKEN CHALET carries out the Bavarian theme of Septemberfest in Rolling Meadows shopping center. The Chalet is one of several food and beverage stands in the biergarten where merry-makers at the festival can enjoy a snack or a full meal. The biergarten will remain open Saturday evening during the dance which winds up the festivities.

Offer Wine Tasting for Revelers

Just try to get a glass of water in a European resuaurant.

Water is something to wash with, but drink it? Nyet. Not when the local breweries are turning out superb beers and the vineyards are producing grapes for fine wines.

With a wine steward accompanying the waiter who takes the food order, it's easy to slip into the European custom of drinking one of these beverages with meals.

TO INTRODUCE Septemberfest visitors to some of the wines carried by Armanetti's in Rolling Meadows shopping center, Manager Mike Sica has arranged for wine tasting inside the store, where his salespeople will be wearing either the lederhosen and hosentrager which mark the German peasant, or gay clown suits which are in keeping with the spirit of the celebration.

Sica will be one of the busiest people in the center during the three days. Not only is he chairman of the biergarten committee, but he is supplying the bartenders for the beer wagon where Garten Brau, a Bavarian style beer, will be drawn. (KSS

Authentic Gypsy To Tell Fortunes

The Septemberfesthaus with its gay peasant trim will be headquarters for Madame Renee from Romany, the reputedly genuine gypsy who read palms at the Cuchess Beauty Salon during last year's festival.

Madame Renee commented that the distractions in the shop tended to mist her occult power to foretell the future.

The gift of seeing into the future is rare, even among gypsies, the nomad people whose origins are lost in antiquity but who may still be found in remote corners of Europe, still carrying on their traditional customs and culture.

MADAME RENEE is a friend of Blanche Ninneman who operates both the Duchess and Aloha salons in Rolling Meadows. Mrs. Ninneman says there will be an art exhibit in the Septemberfesthaus, too.

In the shop, she intends to serve customers imported cheese and crackers along with the usual coffee or Coke during the three-day festival, when the beauticians will enter into the festive mood by wearing peasant headdresses. (KSS

8 Is Magic Number at Schiff Shoe

The magic number at Schiff Shoes in Rolling Meadows shopping center this weekend is eight.

Manager Joseph Stybl o sharpened his pencil to mark special prices on his lines of men's, women's and children's shoes and accessories, and then found that the new low prices ended with eight, whether it was a can of shoe polish at 8 cents or a pair of shoes at $3.88.

The shoe store is this week announcing new hours that will be in effect until further notice. Monday through Friday the store will be open from 9:45 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and on Sunday the store will be open from 11 a.m. to 5 (KSS

A woman loves to take a cab because she can then expect to get the back seat driving she's paying for.

Nothing would stop some motorists from driving around in circles like a handy spot to park their cars.

Municipal Band Is Festival Highlight

Rolling Meadows boasts a cultural organization not common in towns of this size.

It is the Rolling Meadows Municipal Band, which was organized several years ago and has rapidly grown until its members number about 50.

The band will play its annual Septemberfest concert in Rolling Meadows shopping center at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow (Friday). Weather permitting, the bandstand will be in the biergarten area, but in case of inclement weather it will be in the arcade between Ace Hardware and Crawford Department Store.

IT WAS A warm summer Sunday afternoon that city officials were invited to hear a Chicago neighborhood band play a concert at the Hubert Splichal home on Wilke Road in Rolling Meadows.

Splichal maintained that a similar group could be formed in the city, and with the moral support of civic leaders he started to solicit players, both young people who played in school bands and adults who had long since tucked their school-day instruments away on a closet shelf.

Players who lived outside the city limits asked if they could join, and the ranks were opened to any instrumentalist in the area.

George Yingst, instrumental music teacher in Rolling Meadows-Palatine School District 15, offered to direct the band, and recently a Band Boosters Club of interested adults has been formed.

THE BAND does not yet have organized financial support, but many of its concerts are played without fee. But a music library is being built up from the occasional fees and donations, and local school facilities are used for the weekly rehearsals.

The band makes frequent appearances at civic functions, and plays a series of outdoor concerts each summer under sponsorship of the Rolling Meadows Park District. (KSS

Seven Share Birthday Bonus Prize

Seven persons shared the Birthday Bonus prize this week, according to Pam Magnuson, Birthday Bonus girl at Paddock Publications office.

"All seven persons who had previously registered March 8 as date of their birth reported 'in'," stated Pam Wednesday morning as she started to process winning checks. "This is the first time every person eligible to win appeared in our office to prove accuracy of the date."

Publishers tossed an extra $10 in the prize money, so each of the seven winners would receive nothing smaller than $5.00 apiece. Over 4,000 persons have registered to date.

THIS WEEK'S Birthday Bonus date will be announced in this Sunday's Suburbanite.

Last week's winners included:

Mrs. Rose Grabovitz, Roselle;

LaVerne Foxworthy, Mount Prospect;

John Mark McNabb, Mount Prospect;

Raymond Salazar, Arlington Heights;

Rolling Meadows Celebration Opens

CHARLES REX will bring his Thirsty Four to play for the public dancing in the "biergarten discoteque" in the Rolling Meadows shopping center parking lot Saturday night from 9 p.m. on. The German band which has played "at all the better bierstubes" in the Chicago area will vary the fare of oom-pah and polka with a go-go and sweeet music to please all the fun seekers. (SS

Set Bavarian Septemberfest

"Sie sind herzlich willkommen" is the greeting extended by Rolling Meadows merchants in the shopping center on the north side of Kirchoff Road in the heart of the city.

The invitation is to attend the third annual Septemberfest celebration which opens today, Thursday, for a three-day run, ending with public dancing to the music of a German band Saturday night.

The modern shopping center takes on the air of an Old World market place, with sales booths set up outdoors, an open air biergarten roofed by fluttering pennants (and stars, the storekeepers hope), and people wearing the colorful peasant costumes of Bavaria.

THE FROLIC is patterned after the famed Munich Oktoberfest, which is now in progress, which Munchens claim to be the "laughingest, eatingest, drinkingest, dancingest, singingest folk festival in the world!"

All the ingredients will be at hand in Rolling Meadows, with music, food and beverages, singing and dancing, and entertainment.

"Gemuetlich" floods the center each year during the festival with the friendly warmth noted at the Bavarian capital. Oktoberfest began in 1810 in thanksgiving for a bountiful harvest. Septemberfest began in Rolling Meadows two years ago by merchants who wanted to express their appreciation to loyal customers.

Star billing in entertainment goes to the Great Arturos, famous aerialists and masters of the high wire, who are making their third annual appearance here.

The Rolling Meadows Band will play a concert Friday evening, and there will be organ music at Lynell Furniture all three days.

AT ACE HARDWARE Ludwig Kalbrunner returns each afternoon and early evening, to play his zither and sing and yodel, accomplishments he learned during his boyhood in a Bavarian village.

A marionette show is the Crawford Department Store contribution to the entertainment. Performances by The Bakers will be in the downstairs children's department.

A carnival means rides, and so arrangements were made for a carousel, ferris wheel and other attractions, including some especially for the very young, west of the Bank of Rolling Meadows.

Focal point of activities will be the biergarten, where bratwurst sandwiches will be featured, along with beer. Also available will be hot dogs, fried chicken, cold drinks and ice cream. There will be a popcorn wagon and cotton candy machine.

ADDING ZEST to the activities Saturday will be a series of contests, such as egg throwing, longest pigtail, most freckles and knobby knees. In the evening judges will select the best costumed visitors, and there will be a polka dancing competition.

Concessions in the biergarten will remain open for Saturday night's finale to Septemberfest, but outdoor sales booths will be dismantled earlier so the businessmen and salespeople may enjoy the closing festivities.

Big attraction Saturday night at 7:30 will be the grand auction of merchandise prizes, which customers will pay for with auction bucks collected during the weeks prior to Septemberfest.

Bill Stade is the professional auctioneer who will put the articles up for sale. More than $½ million in auction bucks is outstanding so spirited bidding is expected for the valuable gifts provided by the merchants.

CHARLES REX and his Thirsty Four will follow Stade on the bandstand, to play for the street dance which winds up Septemberfest.

Wearing their German costumes, the musicians will play a wide variety of tunes for all types of dancing.

The popular combo has played "at all the better bierstubes in Chicagoland," according to Rex' booking agent, including Schaumburg, which Rex points out means "foam city."

Costumed couples are expected to lend color to the dance but for others casual attire is appropriate. (KSS

Bavaria Inspires Suburb Festival

In far off Munich today, revelers are enjoying Okoberfest, the Bavarian capital's folk festival being celebrated this year for the 132nd time.

In the proclamation declaring Sept. 23 through 25 Septemberfest days in Rolling Meadows, Mayor John J. Woods noted that the Bavarian festival after which the local celebration is patterned was originated in 1810.

It was started to give thanks for a bountiful harvest and many of the old traditions are retained in the current beer festival, which is opened officially each year with a procession of gaily decked beer wagons arriving at the Theresienwiese fairgrounds with the "festwirte," or hosts of the fair.

There the first barrel of "wies'nbier" is tapped in a traditional ceremony. Simultaneously, guns placed at the Bavaria statue sound a crashing salute.

THESE CEREMONIES took place Saturday, and the 1965 Oktoberfest will wind up Oct. 3, after a 16-day run during which the city expects to entertain more than four million visitors.

The air rings with the old Bavarian folk tunes, sung by the throngs of merry-makers and played by mechanical organs, brass bands and gramophones. There are such carnival attractions as merry-go-rounds and ferris wheels, booths and games.

Color is added by the pageantry of national costumes and sports. There are exhibitions of hunting, forestry and timber, and the Bavarian Central Agricultural Show is held during Oktoberfest. This year there is a large international medical convention scheduled for the closing days.

MUNICH, a city of more than a million population, is famed as the heart of artistic Germany and an intellectual center, as well as being an industrial city. Its palaces and churches delight tourists. Among its numerous museums is the Deutsches Museum, the largest museum of technology in Europe. The city boasts both botanical and zoological gardens.

Perhaps the most famous sight in Munich is the famed glockenspiel in the tower of the town hall. At 11 a.m. each day mechanical figures perform with folk dances and a medieval joust.

Lessons in English

Use LIKELY when referring to a contingent event regarded as probably; as, "It is likely to rain tonight." Use LIABLE when referring to a possible event regarded as disastrous; as, "You are liable to fall if you are not careful."

Do not say, "I am anxious to see that." "I am EAGER to see that movie" is preferable.

Avoid the expression, "I am very partial to chocolate cake." It is better to say, "I am very FOND of chocolate cake." Do not write, "This is our's," No apostrophe is required in writing the possessive pronouns,

Do not say, "He should be called down for his impudence." "Call down" is a colloquialism. It is better so say, "He should be REPROVED for his impudence."

And Hard Work . . .

Festival's Growth Result of Planning

Septemberfest didn't "just grow."

The three-day festival now in progress in Rolling Meadows shopping center is the result of careful planning and hard work by businessmen and women who have worked for many months to retain the best features of the two previous Septemberfests and develop new ideas to make this 1965 edition even more enjoyable.

As president of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center Association, Hubert Watson, president of the Bank of Rolling Meadows, has been general chairman.

The promotion committee, charged with publicizing Septemberfest, includes Harold Behrendt of Murray's Store for Men, Harold J. Carlson of Baird and Warner, Alan J. Garber of Crawford Department Store, Richard Kofsky of Ace Hardware, Jack Shapiro of Suburban Drugs, Ted Small of Paddock Publications and Edward Weeks of Jewel Tea Company.

HILDON HANEY of Crawford's was named chairman of the committee to decorate the center in a festive mood, encourage stores to decorate windows appropriately and help salespeople find appropriate costumes.

Working with him have been Mrs. Behrendt, Dorothy Lamberti of the Quick Wash Laundramart, Ted Loesch of the Rolling Meadows Barber Shop, Blanche Ninneman who operates the Duchess Beauty Salon, Barbara Olson of A & W Food Shop, and Alvin Woodrich of Lynell Furniture.

Heart of the festivities is the beer garden, and the man primarily responsible for its success is Mike Sica of Armanetti's, chairman of the committee to provide food, beverages, candy, ice cream, popcorn, games and rides.

That's a big order, and Sica was aided by W. T. Clements of Brown's Fried Chicken, Mike Petrunic of A. & W. Food Shop, Robert Rautenkranz of Bressler's 33 Flavors shop, Max Savolick of F. W. Woolworth and Larry Senear who operates the Plaza Lane Restaurant.

WILLIAM BEHLKE headed the committee on entertainment which has lined up music, special events and contests. His assistants have been Keith Behrendt of Murray's, Mrs. Clements, Walton Kling of Baird and Warner, Carl Lamberti, Eleanor Rejba of the Home and Garden Center and Marilyn Senear.

The festivities will conclude Saturday night with a grand auction, when customers will spend the auction bucks they have accumulated during the past five or six weeks on valuable merchandise, followed by a big dance in the parking lot, to the music of Charles Rex and his Thirsty Four.

James Paroubek of Ace Hardware was in charge of making these arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Behlke, Tony Grande of Armanetti's, George Kobler of the Bank of Rolling Meadows, Mrs. Rautenkranz, Edward Rejba, Joseph Styblo of Schiff Shoes and Robert Wiley of Crawford's. (KSS

Marionette Show at Crawford

THE BAKERS with their marionettes will be on stage at Crawford Department Store today (Thursday), Friday and Saturday to entertain Septemberfest fun-seekers. Danny and Margie Baker are shown here with some of their hand-carved "actors" who will perform during the three daily performances on the lower level of the store.

Standing room only crowds are anticipated for the three daily performances of The Bakers Marionettes in the Crawford Department Store downstairs "little theater."

"Truly terrific" is the appraisal of the show by Hildon Haney, advertising manager of the department store chain, who engaged the Baker show for this 1965 Septemberfest in Rolling Meadows shopping center on the north side of Kirchoff Road.

Haney, who is noted among the businessmen for his audience-pleasing selection of entertainment, reports Danny and Margie Baker have an outstanding collection of hand carved, beautifully dressed marionettes which perform on an elevated stage with special scenery and lighting effects.

THE MARIONETTES are from 32 to 36 inches tall, large enough to be viewed by large crowds.

The Baker couple offer a variety show of eight acts, ranging from a can-can dance in the "Streets of Paris" routine to a "Salute to Hawaii" to an "Arabian Nights Fantasy," from charming and petite "Miss Peggy" who does unusual feats of acroatics to an exquisitely plumed do-do bird that becomes a bewildered ballerina. A "Roaring Twenties" act reminiscent of vaudeville and a charming young lady on a flying trapeze in "Circus Time" are people-pleasers. For "The Bewitching Hour," "Mr. and Mrs. Bones" disarrange themselves in an illuminated and entertaining manner.

Performances will be at 2, 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. today (Thursday) and tomorrow (Friday). Saturday's shows will be at 11 a.m. and 2 and 4 p.m. (SS

PRIZES THAT CAN BE "BOUGHT" with auction bucks are pointed out by Ace manager Dick Kofsky to Gay Claridge, 2328 Westwood Lane, a customer in Rolling Meadows shopping center. The grand auction, where customers can spend the pseudo money they have been collecting during the past weeks as they made purchases in the center, will be held in the biergarten Saturday night, one of the final events of Septemberfest, which features music (of particular interest to Claridge, a well known orchestra leader), entertainment and bargains in the outdoor marketplace. Shows Growth of Tax Bite in Past Decade

The typical U. S. citizen who earns $10,000 a year pays 29 per cent of that income in taxes to federal, state and local governments, according to Maurice W. Scott, executive secretary of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois.

Quoting figures from Tax Foundation Inc., Scott noted that in dollars and cents for a family of four, that would be taxes of $2,897 on a $10,000 yearly income.

The total tax bill would break down this way: federal, $1,527; state, $381; local, $989.

SCOTT POINTED out that a $10,000 annual income is $2,000 more than the average U. S. family of four receives.

Ten years ago, the $10,000 man was earning $6,800 and paid a total tax of $1,655, just 24.3 per cent of his income. In one decade, his share of the cost of government takes nearly five per cent more of his income than it did in 1955.

The increase is not surprising in view of general government tax increases over the period, said Scott. In 1955 all government was collecting about $88 billion, or about $537 per American. This year, 1965, taxes of all government are estimated at $169 billion, or approximately $872 per person.

Federal tax collections have increased from $63 billion in 1955 to an estimated $116 billion for 1965, while federal spending has risen from $73 billion level in 1955 to an estimated $134 billion for 1965.

ACCORDING TO THE tax foundation's figures, in 1955, federal, state and local governments spent about $111 billion. In 1965 it is estimated that they will spend almost double that amount, $209 billion.

Social Security (a part of the total picture) has felt such increases. In 1955 the $6,800 income man was paying $84 for social security taxes at a rate of 2 per cent on the first $4,200 of his wages. This year, 1965, it is calculated that the $10,000 man will be paying $174 at a rate of 3 5/8 per cent on the first $4.800 of his wages. (A15

Modern Etiquette

Q. When serving wine at a dinner party, should the glasses be filled in the kitchen and then brought in to the table?

A. No. The wine should be poured into the classes where they rest on the table, at the right of each person.

ARROGANT; unduly proud; overbearing; haughty. "Praise can make some men very modest, but other men very arrogant."

Q. When introducing a person to a group, are you supposed to introduce him first to all the women, then to the men?

A. There are no rules of precedence in this case. Perform your introductions in the easiest way—by introducing the person around the group in order.

Distinguish between DETERMINATELY (precisely; in a definite manner) and DETERMINEDLY (decidedly) resolutely). Thus: "His speech was determinately formed," and, "No one fought more determinedly

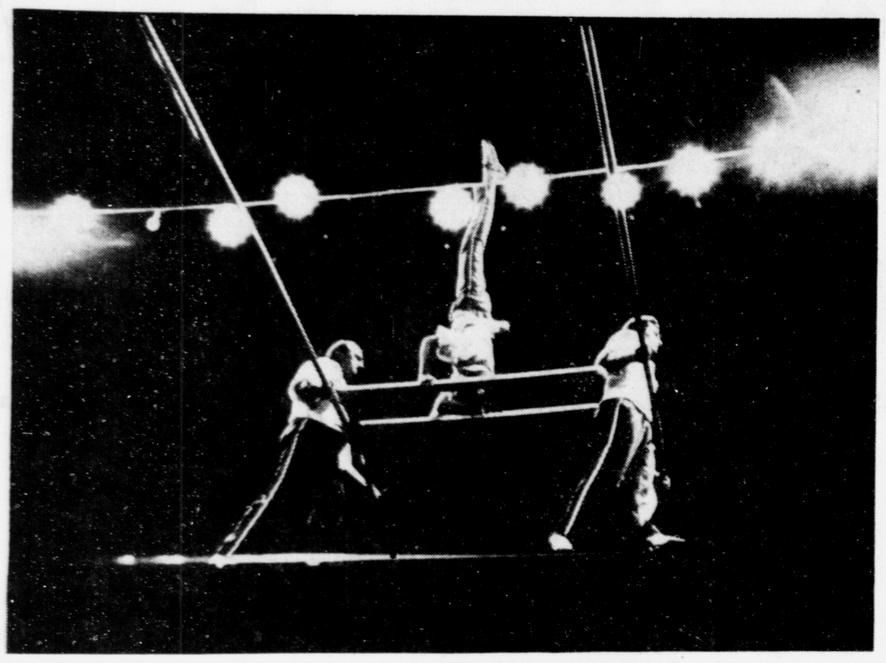
Great Arturos Provide High-Wire Suspense



"COOKIE" TROSTL regards his aerial world with professional calm, as he executes a headstand on a platform carried to mid-wire by his father and older brother. The youthful member of the family troupe is the envy of boys everywhere who wish they, too, could perform such feats. The troupe is in such demand that they are booked a year in advance. They are making their third annual appearance in Rolling Meadows this week at Septemberfest. (SS

Troupe To Give 7 Shows

The Great Arturos are the headline entertainment attraction at Septemberfest in Rolling Meadows shopping center from today (Thursday) through Saturday.

The troupe of high-wire performers who have thrilled thousands of visitors to the two previous Septemberfests will give afternoon and evening shows Thursday and Friday, and three shows on Saturday.

Heading the troupe is the great Arturo Trostl, whose feats include walking across the wire blindfolded or shrouded in a bag awing spell-bound and earth-bound spectators far below.

JUST AS HE learned his skill from the three generations of the Trostl family preceding him who were circus performers, so Arturo is passing along to his children the art of walking the wire and swinging on the flying trapeze.

Arturo Jr., better known as Cookie, and his twin sister, Hedy, were the hits of the show at the 1963 Septemberfest. But boys will be boys, and 12-year-old Cookie last fall was working on a model car in the few hours between the time the troupe arrived in Rolling Meadows and their first performance, when the sharp blade of the knife slipped and Cookie had to be rushed to the hospital to have the cut sewed up.

Barring another unfortunate accident, the youth is expected to again display his unique talents which two years ago rated him a write-up in "Look" magazine, in which he was called the "wonder boy" of the trapeze.

At an early age Cookie was adept on the trapeze, and perfected such feats as a neck hang, toe hang, and a one foot catch of the bar in full swing.

His most daring act has been a headstand on a platform carried to mid-wire by his father and an older brother, Nick.

NICK ASPIRES to ride across Niagara Falls on a motorcycle. Another older brother is Pepe, and both have been with the troupe except when army service kept them away.

The Trostls are a tight-knit family, and after the season ends up north they retire to their Florida home in late fall, where the youngsters study long hours to catch up with their school classes.

Arturo Sr. has great aspirations for Cookie. After high school years are finished, the father intends to give his son "his own kit, his own blocks and cables, and over he goes." By "over" he means to Europe where circus is still king and Cookie can continue his training under the tutelage of the greatest aerialists of today.

Visitors to Septemberfest can see the suspenseful performances by the Great Arturos at 4 and 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and at 1, 3 and 7 p.m. Saturday.

IN THE BAG! The Great Arturo, virtuoso of the high wire, has proved in previous years to the throngs at the annual Septemberfest in Rolling Meadows shopping center that he can cross the wire completely shrouded. The Trostl family troupe plays a return engagement during the three-day festivities on the north side of Kirchoff Road, with three performances daily.

THE DARLING of the crowds who view the Great Arturo high wire and aerialist acts is Cookie. The teen and his twin sister, Hedy, star in the show which is this week playing its third engagement in the parking lot of the shopping center on the north side of Kirchoff Road. Cookie is slated to train in Europe under the world's best aerialists after he finishes high school. He played a stand-by role when the Trostl family appeared here because of an injured hand, but is expected to exhibit his unique skills this trip, such as the neck hang shown here on a trapeze in full swing.

To Repeat Special Bratwurst Recipe

Imagine cooking 110,000 bratwurst sausages!

That was the chore for the Sheboygan, Wis., Jaycees when they held their annual bratwurst day this summer.

Visitors who flocked to the city for the August event consumed 10 tons of bratwurst.

A German specialty, it has long been a feature of Munich's Oktoberfest, where unnumbered tons are consumed during the annual 16-day Bavarian folk festival.

DOWNSTATE Columbia, near St. Louis, also features bratwurst during its annual festival, and LaCrosse, Wis., is another town that each fall stages its version of Oktoberfest.

The special Sheboygan recipe for preparing bratwurst was followed at Septemberfest in Rolling Meadows last year, and the customers came back for more so often that the stand had to close down early when the supply ran out.

Sheboyganers grill the sausage over charcoal, then treat it to a dip in hot beer flavored with sliced onion. The hot meal is served on Sheboygan buns. The sturdy folks up there don't seem to mind standing out in the cold on a winter day to tend the charcoal grill, and all year long the fragrant smell of broiling bratwurst is wafted on the breezes, whether mild or bitter cold. (KSS

German Music Is Featured

Devotees of German music are passing the word along.

The public address system in Rolling Meadows shopping center on the north side of Kirchoff Road is piping polkas and waltzes and German band music along the arcade.

A collection of records that would set the pace for this week's Septemberfest celebration was gathered by local merchants, and the oom-pah of tubas, the haunting strains of zithers and the stir of full brass bands ring throughout the center.

MARCHES PLAYED by the Berlin Guard Band and German beer drinking songs are included in the repertoire. There is "Happy Music" and "Music of the Alps," as well as "The Golden Barrel Organ" and "The Ol' Calliope Man Visits a German Hofbrau," and a recording by Ernst Moser and his Bohemian Band.

Polka fans may find their feet tingling as their favorite tune is played on one of the numerous records.

Beer garden music of Germany, of Hungary, of Austria is faithfully recorded on different platters.

When Septemberfest ends Saturday night, the record collection will be stored away until the 1966 event rolls around.

Folk Players and Singers To Perform in Hootenanny

Folk players and singers will gather on the Septemberfest stage in the Rolling Meadows shopping center parking lot at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon for a hootenanny, which Mrs. Jay Horvath promises will include "plenty of rock and roll."

Bernie Horvath, leader of the troupe of performers who will stage the hour-long show, will appear with the Meadow Folk Singers, four married women whose hobby is playing the guitar. Ute Maley, Dolores Beebe and Peggy Walden are the other members of the quartet.

A solo player will be 10-year-old Michael Horvath, son of Jay and Bernie, who specializes in country picking as well as folk music. The fifth grader has played publicly at Cub Scout, Jaycee and Jaycee-ette functions as well as the youth week hootenanny, and he helps his mother with group guitar lessons.

A ROCK AND roll combo billed as "The Misfits" includes Michael Higgins, Gary Ferguson and Terry Garcia, all high school boys who learned their first guitar chords from Mrs. Horvath.

Becky Stone and Shirley Halliman will play and sing folk songs, and Mrs. Horvath promises the "Four Daisies" will be "an unusual surprise" to the audience.

From the gleam in her eye, the foursome is expected to be a comedy act.

The Horvaths have been residents of Rolling Meadows for 10 years, and several years ago Bernie commenced teaching folk music, country picking and strumming of guitar to friends and neighbors.

For two years she has assisted with the annual youth week hootenanny, and has played for clubs and conventions.

Although she has a number of adults, particularly women, in her classes, she confides that she "enjoys working with teens and teaching them to make their own arrangements of songs."

THE EVER-POPULAR hootenanny will be a highlight of the Septemberfest entertainment Saturday afternoon from 2 to 3 p.m. in Rolling Meadows shopping center. The only pre-teen scheduled to appear with the troupe will be Michael Horvath, 10, shown here with three members of the Meadows Folk Singers, Peggy Walden, Dolores Beebe and Mike's mother, Bernie Horvath, who is directing the program.

Tests Slated Dec. 4 For Foreign Service

The U. S. Department of State will hold examinations for junior foreign officers on Dec. 4 in Chicago, it was announced this week.

According to Congressman Donald Rumsfeld (R-13th), the Foreign Service is interested in applicants trained in budget and fiscal work, management, labor relations, law, banking and finance, foreign trade, and other aspects of economics and administration.

Applications should be sent to the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service, Department of State, Washington, D. C. 20520.

COMPLETED application forms for the Dec. 4 examination must be postmarked not later than Oct. 18.

Rumsfeld, who was asked by the Department of State to inform north and northwest suburban residents of career opportunities in the Foreign Service, noted that applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 31 on Dec. 4.

He said the annual series of examinations has four stages: written exam; oral exam; medical and background exams; and training and probationary service.

Announcement of the examination and a booklet of sample questions are available from Rumsfeld's office, 241 Cannon Building, Washington, D. C.

Hardware to Show Workshop Tools

Shopsmith and Sawsmith tools will be demonstrated at Ace Hardware in Rolling Meadows shopping center during the three-day Septemberfest.

Although the demonstrations are expected to be of particular interest to the men who visit the center during the festival, "we'll be glad to show the ladies how versatile these tools are, too," said Dick Kofsky, store manager.

"It won't be long until Christmas, and either of these home workshops would make dandy gifts for the head of the house."

ACE IS offering three big attractions this weekend.

Ludwig Kalbrunner, the popular zither player who entertained crowds during the 1964 edition of Septemberfest, will appear starting at 3 p.m. each day, to play, sing and yodel in the Bavarian manner.

Everyone who is young at heart will want to take part in the Honda give-away sweepstakes now in progress at the store. All that is needed is to deposit inthe box in the store the coupon clipped from the Ace mailer circular or from the store's advertisement in Paddock Publications papers. The winner will be named Oct. 30.

"WHO'LL GIVE ME —" and Auctioneer Bill Stade called for the first bid on a camera, one of the items offered during the first children's auction prior to Septemberfest. A girl in foreground holds a toy truck she purchased. In all, some 300 kids spent in excess of $4,000 in auction bucks for about 50 items, ranging from records to a bicycle. A second auction was held last Friday, and the finale will be Saturday night.

PARENTS LOOK ON as kids raise their hands high to bid on auction buck merchandise during one of the children's auctions which preceded Septemberfest. The grand auction will commence at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, when customers of Rolling Meadows shopping center are expected to use the $½ million in play money distributed during the past weeks for the valuable merchandise that will go under Auctioneer Bill Stade's hammer.

Special Unit Cited In Sheriff's Report

Cook County Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie today in his monthly activities report showed the sheriff's office recorded a total of 352 arrests for offenses other than traffic during the month of August.

The monthly total included 39 arrests for major crime as well as 247 for traffic made by the new tactical unit in its third month of operation. The tactical unit — made up of five men — operates as support for regular division operations and works particularly in high crime rate areas of the county. Since operation began in June, more than 680 arrests have been made by members of that unit.

During the month, Ogilvie stated, the tactical unit was especially valuable in breaking up drag strip and hot-rod disturbances in West Leyden Township. Unit arrests for traffic in that area alone accounted for more than 98 traffic citations during the month of August.

ACTUAL MONTHLY arrest breakdown included 173 arrests for felonies and misdemeanors and 179 for juvenile offenses. Traffic citations issued during the month totaled 1,923.

District police arrest statistics showed two people arrested for manslaughter; six for rape; four for robbery; nine for burglary; 12 for larceny and theft; and 31 for aggravated and other assaults.

Division officers also apprehended 14 persons for vandalism; four for carrying weapons; one for prostitution; four for sex offenses; one for possession of marijuana; two for gambling; 19 for driving under the influence of alcohol; nine for violation of the liquor laws; one for drunkenness; and 18 for disorderly conduct.

Six persons were charged with auto theft, and more than $69,000 worth of stolen cars were recovered. Other stolen property recovered by the department totaled $34,000 in value.

The August traffic accident rate in Cook County decreased another 4.06 per cent over the previous month — bringing the total decrease from June to 8.26 per cent. As a result, sheriff's police investigated 260 accidents — 11 less than July.

OF THE AUGUST accident total, 15 were hit-and-run; 82 involved personal injury and 177 were property damage accidents. During the month there was one fatality on the unincorporated highways in Cook County.

Juvenile officers handled 179 cases involving 170 boys and 9 girls under the age of 18. Apart from negligent and traffic cases, 41 were referred to Family Court; three were held for other police agencies; one was referred to a welfare agency; and 97 were handled within the department and released to the custody of their parents.

The civil division of the sheriff's office served a total of 10,234 writs during the month and the county jail processed a total of 1,718 prisoners in August. (B-10

New Accident Policy Announced by Paddock

JAMES H. JARRELL

Paddock Publications has announced a new accident insurance protection program for its subscribers.

In announcing the new policy the publishing firm is making available to its subscribers, Robert Y. Paddock, vice president, stated, "Paddock Publications has offered an accident insurance program for several years, but conditions have changed, and we have developed a new approach that will be more meaningful and helpful to our subscribers."

The new and improved insurance, known as World-Wide Coverage, is an emergency protection accident insurance policy. Ita covers the most simple to the most serious accidents and provides protection 24 hours a day, 365 days a year anywhere in the world.

THE INSURANCE will be available to regular subscribers, and members of their families living in the same household, whatever the age. It contains benefits for loss of life, limb or sight: total disability and first aid. It costs just $10 per year per person.

One of the biggest advantages of this modernized insurance policy, Paddock said, is that it covers accidents in the home, where most accidents occur. This would include falls on stairs, floors and rugs, or from chairs or ladders; cuts, bruises, and burns and injuries received in fires or storms.

The policy also covers accidents while traveling, at work, on the farm, at school and at play, he said. Unlike so many policies where the benefits are graduated, depending upon the type of accident, the new Paddock policy has a single schedule of benefits for all accidents.

First aid benefits for the very simple injury are increased under this new policy to $7.50 with a followup visit within 7 days, when necessary, allowing an additional $5.00 payment.

There is no red tape in making claims either, Paddock explained. Claims are settled by mail under one of the most modern set-ups in the country. There is no private investigation.

THIS POLICY pays benefits in addition to any other insurance carried, and Workmen's Compensation.

There is no physical examination required to obtain hte policy, and if a subscriber is not satisfied within 10 days of applying, he may get his money back.

The Paddock Subscriber World-Wide Coverage policy is underwritten by Old Republic Life Insurance Company, 307 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago a stock company licensed in practically every state, and in Puerto Rico and Canada.

The full page announcement of the plan printed elsewhere in today's (Sept. 23) edition includes a coupon which may be filled in and mailed to Paddock Publications, Subscriber Insurance Department, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, 60006. Interested subscribers will then receive a brochure describing details of the new insurance program along with application blanks.

SUBSCRIBERS can fill in a few easy answers on the application forms, and return them, together with check covering the cost at $10 per person, to the Paddock office.

Commenting on his company's association with Paddock Publications, James H. Jarrell, president of Old Republic, said: "We have enjoyed working with Paddock Publications in its subscriber insurance program for several years. We're confident this all-new, expanded coverage policy will prove of greater benefit to subscribers, and receive great acceptance." (A15

New Life Master Surprised at Party

Area bridge enthusiasts last week honored Jack Martin, 1337 N. Chicago, Arlington Heights, for his recent attainment of Life Master ranking.

A surprise party at Martin's weekly duplicate bridge game at Randhurst Shopping Center was marked by the presentation of a trophy-clock and cake.

Martin became a Life Master during the national tournament in Chicago in August. The LM rating is the highest given in the American Contract Bridge League.

IT REPRESENTS the winning of at least 300 master points, 50 of which must be won at Regional or National tournaments.

Martin, who is assistant to the superintendent of High School District 214, has been playing tournament bridge for about five years.

He presently directs games at Randhurst Wednesday evenings at 8 p.m. and Sunday evenings at 7. (B-10

Old-Time Player Piano Making a Comeback

TWO YOUNG friends of the Ray Halaus family, Kathy Brasky, 5, and her sister Carol, 4, "read" the notes on a player piano roll. The old-time piano at the Halaus residence has proved a big attraction for friends. (Staff photo) (A-15

Now a Fixture in Recreation Rooms

by DEL MARKS
Staff Writer

Warm receptions for many of the world's best piano players have become the order of the day in many northwest suburban homes. Concerts by these artists on the family piano brighten formal living room and party decorated recreation rooms.

Some of the pianists are no longer living and most of them have probably not set foot in any community in the area, but their music is very much alive, played with their own techniques on family pianos that may or may not be in concert condition.

The performances are made possible by the player piano, a musical instrument at the height of its popularity between the world wars which has been making a strong comeback in the last few years.

Most player pianos in the northwest suburbs are revitalized models from the earlier era of their popularity, although the demand has brought the marketing of a modern player piano which sells for under $1,000.

ONE OF THE earlier models which has been kept in prime concert condition is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Halaus of 655 W. Center St., Palatine. The Halauses have had the piano about six months. They inherited it from Mrs. Halaus' aunt and it has been in the family for about 30 years.

Mrs. Halaus' cousin, Art Ziemke, 735 W. Center St., Palatine, first brought the piano into the family when he purchased it in Chicago for his disabled mother. The family had owned a player piano before, but the new one had metallic tubing rather than the usual rubber and was a better quality instrument.

Mrs. Halaus says the piano has been a continual source of enjoyment and entertainment since they received it. "The only problem is that people don't know when to go home."

The piano gets most of the attention at the Halaus parties and friends drop in other times just to play it. The Halauses enjoy the company, but find the piano has changed some of their routines.

THEY INHERITED about 500 player piano rolls with the instrument, dating back to 1920 and including such favorites as Irving Berlin's "Tuck Me To Sleep" and "Twenty-One Dollars a Day."

The piano is like a conventional instrument with the addition of the mechanism that plays the paper rolls. The rolls are punched with holes and the piano operated through an air pressure mechanism with an opening corresponding to each key. As the holes in the paper roll pass over the machine's openings, the keys are depressed, making music on the piano in the conventional way.

The roll is turned and the air pressure maintained by pumping the piano with foot pedals. Mrs. Halaus says an evening of piano playing can be good exercise for the legs.

Rolls can capture the original artist's technique and phrasing, burning a conventional song into an outstanding performance. With the revival of interest in player pianos, many new rolls of currently popular music are being put on the market, and most music stores either stock or can order nearly any song.

SOME OF THE rolls the Halauses have are of quite complicated pieces, and Mrs. Halaus says one duet "looks like it's using every key on the piano at once."

One of the player piano's big selling points when it was first marketed in the 1890's was its ability to reproduce the techniques of piano masters and thus provide guidance for student musicians.

Mrs. Halaus says some of her musically inclined friends find they can learn from the player piano too. One member of her family years ago taught herself to play without using the roll by practicing for many hours with the roll at slow speed.

Another musically inclined friend of the Halauses can look at the keys being used as a roll is being played and tell what key the piece is being played in. Some other player piano musicians are able to follow the keys well enough that a person sitting across the room can't be certain whether the roll or the person is making the music.

THE HALAUSES find the piano is a stimulus for their friends who can play without the benefit of a roll. "We start the evening with rolls, and they end up by playing for us," Mrs. Halaus says. The addition of other instruments and frequent sessions of group singing also make the player piano a popular party attraction.

"We'd never given piano music much thought until we got this one," Mrs. Halaus says, "but it's surprising now the number of friends we've heard of who are also interested in getting a player." (A15

Theft Conviction Means Loss Of Driver Permit

The secretary of state must revoke the driver's license of a licensee convicted of automobile theft when notified of the conviction by Family Court, Atty. Gen. William G. Clark ruled Friday.

The statutes, Clark's opinion advised, provide a "comprehensive definition of automobile theft." Under the new Judicial Article, Clark's opinion said, the Family Court is a part of the Circuit Court and any judge to whom such a case is assigned would have jurisdiction to act. (A-15

Forest View Pupil Enrollment at Peak

Forest View High School's student enrollment is at the highest point of the school's four year existence. About 2875 students attend Forest View this year. Over 900 of them are freshmen. This number greatly exceeds the school's 2,500 students enrolled last year.

L. S. Jenness, principal, thinks that most of the problems the school has will be straightened out soon. The biggest problem at the moment is the crowded halls. Students are complaining of difficulty in getting to class on time, but the teachers are being lenient with the tardiness.

The Student Council helped to alleviate the hall congestion problem by instituting a one-way stairs system on a trial basis. If successful the system will be used throughout the year.

ANOTHER problem, which will be dealt with later on in the year, is how Career Day will be conducted. Jenness said there will be no need to worry because a schedule will be worked to accommodate the excess of students.

Assemblies will be shortened this year because it will take longer for students to be seated in the gym and get out again. Pep sessions pose the biggest problem since the gym floor will now be used for seating.

Bus transportation problems have also grown with the number of new students this year. As a result nine more buses have been hired by the school, increasing the total from 45 to 54 buses; with 15 more drivers still needed.

With the completion of Elk Grove High School next year, Forest View's enrollment will drop to 2,200 students in 1966. (ACM-E

Announce Merit Scholarship Semifinalists

SMILES APLENTY are more evident than ever since Paddock Publications added a switchboard in an effort to better serve the public. That's Peggy Lynch of Weathersfield, and Verla York of Mount Prospect, taking calls on the double switchboard that now handles 22 trunk lines, plus 79 extensions within the building. It's another step in expansion plans of Paddock Publications. (A-15

Names of local semifinalists in the 1965-66 competition for Merit Scholarships were announced this week by the National Merit Scholarship Corp.

The semifinalists are the highest-scoring students in each state on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test, administered last March in over 17,600 schools.

To become finalists, the students must substantiate their qualifying test performance on a second examination, submit recommendations by their schools and fulfill routine requirements. All Merit Scholars for 1966 will then be selected from the finalist group.

"Much of our future leadership will come from these young people," said John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corp. (NMSC). "Semifinalists are representative of our country's most intellectually able young people.

AT LEAST 97 per cent of past semifinalists have become finalists. Each finalist receives a Certificate of Merit in recognition of his outstanding performance in the program. Finalists are eligible for the scholarships sponsored by NMSC and over 280 corporations, foundations, colleges, unions, trusts, professional associations, other organizations and individuals.

Names of the Merit Scholars chosen from among the finalists will be announced about April 27, 1966. The exact number will depend on the extent of sponsor support. In 1965, over 2,000 Merit Scholarships were awarded.

High school grades, creative accomplishments, leadership qualities, extracurricular activities and school citizenship of the students are evaluated, along with test scores, in selecting Merit Scholars. Winners of sponsored awards also meet sponsor criteria.

EACH MERIT Scholarship is a four-year award covering the undergraduate college years. The winner's stipend is tailored to his need, up to a maximum of $6,000 for the four years in most cases. For the student already financially able to attend the college of his choice, the award is $400 for the four years. Winners choose their own colleges and courses of study.

In many cases, the colleges attended by Merit Scholars also receive supplementary grants accompanying the scholarships.

More than 11,000 students won Merit Scholarships in the first decade of the program, which was founded in 1955 with grants from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. About $42 million in financial assistance to Merit Scholars and their colleges has been expended or committed through the program thus far.

FOLLOWING are the names of the local semifinalists by schools:

Arlington High, Arlington Heights — Karl G. Buttstadt, Sara G. Cummins, Gary L. Fichter, Donald A. Grote, Thomas M. Hemnes, Bruce A. Hubbard, Stanley C. Martens, Kenneth R. Proch, William J. Schell, Susan C. Schlaufman.

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

PALATINE SQUARES

A special "c'mon, look us over" invitation to non-dancing friends is extended this week by the Palatine club, squaring up at 8:30 Saturday night in Pleasant Hill School in Palatine. A beginners' class, co-sponsored by the Palatine club and high school district, starts next Monday and the club hopes to recruit some members during Saturday night's gay goings on.

Jim Stewart calling the squares and the Jerry-Dot Daniels duo leading the rounds practically guarantee that anyone who doesn't dance at 8:30 Saturday night is going to want to by 11. Club members are noted for their conviviality, guests always report a happy-hectic night with the Palatiners and even routine sessions often turn into something more than ordinary. Claims of having two left feet will not discourage this bunch from wanting to teach you to dance. Try 'em.

Full information about the club or its upcoming learners' class is available via club presidents, Hal and Til Crittenden, FL 9-1735.

BENSENVILLE

A brand-new bunch will be meeting tomorrow night in the warming house of Central Park in Bensenville, with B'ville's Stanley Milkottis squarin' 'em up at 8 o'clock. Everybody's invited, even those who don't know an allemande left from apple pie—Stan's hoping to find eough would-be dancers to warrant the formation of a learners' class.

Tomorrow night's turnout will also determine the frequency of future dances in Bensenville, and anyone who does dance is urged to come out and help guarantee a regularly scheduled club in the area. Be there!

Mikottis, phone 766-0602, will be happy to provide further information.

BUCKS AND SQUAWS

Roselle's Harry Glass, caller for the Hiawatha Bucks and Squaws of Chicago, says "amen" to his club's promise to provide a warm welcome, fine-fun dancing and even refreshments for everyone turning up at a Hiawatha pow-wow.

Bucks and Squaws dance the first, second, third and fifth-nights at 8 o'clock in Hiawatha Park Fieldhouse, 8016 W. Cornelia, Chicago. We regret this information came too late for last week's deadline and September has only four Mondays, but Oct. 4 is sooner than you think. Reserve the date now.

Glass also teaches square dance basics the second and fourth Friday nights at 8 o'clock in the Hiawatha Park Fieldhouse. Complete information may be had by calling him at 529-5541. If a lady answers, don't hang up—that'll be Mrs. Glass and she has all the facts, too.

CIRCLE 8

Du Page County dancers in search of a close-to-home club to join will be interested in news from the Circle 8 Square Dance Club in Wheaton. There are a limited number of openings for married couples, beginners or experienced, who would be interested in joining this club, now starting its 15th year of organized dancing.

Walt Mulqueen, veteran caller, will square up the 8's Saturday night for the first dance of the season, and potential joiners are invited to attend. The club dances monthly from September to May, in Hawthorne School on Wakeman Avenue in Wheaton. Square-'em-up time is 8 o'clock and dancing continues until 11:30.

Gordon and Bernice McFarland, phone 231-0635, and the Arnold Schnabels, 668-2024, will be happy to provide complete information about joining the club.

MEADOWSQUARES

Club caller "Tib" Tibbetts begins teaching a new crop of learners Monday night, Oct. 5, classes being co-sponsored by Meadowsquares and Arlington Squares in cooperation with the Arlington Heights Park District. There'll be 20 weekly classes conducted in Recreation Park, Arlington Heights, and there's still time to register. Judging from the number of calls received recently by this reporter from non-dancers as well as from newcomer dance enthusiasts, this is going to be the year of the square dance — might as well join 'em. You can't beat 'em.

Meadowsquares dance the first and third Saturday nights of every month in Salk School, Rolling Meadows. Tibbetts and his ole side-kick, Don Finfrock are at the mike, and the Art Youwers led the rounds. Everybody's welcome, and darnear everybody in the territory turned up for the gang's first dance, last Saturday. Try 'em next time around, Oct. 2, and see what everybody's getting excited about. Square-'em-up time is 8:30.

BUCKS AND DOES

Although every club is off to a rip-roaring start this season, the B's & D's of Elk Grove can legitimately claim (as far as we've been informed) a "first" for the 1965-66 year of the dance. They've already had their banner stolen!

Among the more than 100 dancers appearing for the club's Sept. 11 dance were some light-fingered friends of guest caller, Joe Gipson, who heads a thieving group called the A-C Square Wheels. The Square Wheels squared off and wheeled away with the B&D banner, but the host club hardly cares at all—now they can take off on a pennant-retrieving mission and enjoy some more of Gipson's calls to boot.

Co-guesting with caller-filcher Gipson was B&D club member, Bill Davis, who also calls for the Square 27 Club of Northlake. Bucks and Does regular caller, Bob Lewis, was also sharing the mike for the club's season-opener.

Lewis and Davis will be but two of seven (count 'em—seven) callers on tap for Bucks and Does' "fifth Saturday" dance next month. B&Ds dance the second and fourth Saturday nights of every month and they take the fifth when there is one. There is, in October, and this means a special wing-ding with seven callers to keep things swingin'. Besides Lewis and Davis the caller roster will include Danny Hagen, Lee Simpson, Harry Glass, Wally Paulson and Walt Byington, all B&D club members. Plan on it. Guests are always welcome.

Nobody has to wait until the fifth Saturday in October to enjoy good dancing with Lewis and the Bucks and Does—this coming Saturday is a regularly scheduled dance date for the club and everyone's invited to come to Dempster Junior High School, Dempster and Elmhurst Roads. Lewis will square 'em up at 8 o'clock.

Lewis & Co. reminds non-dancers who wish they weren't that there's still time to register for B&D-sponsored beginners' classes to be held weekly on Tuesday nights. Call the Al Wendts, CL 5-3518 for complete information. (A-15

North Chicago's sophomore football team rallied in the second half to overtake Dick Mudge's Prospect eleven and earn a 25-13 preliminary game victory last Saturday afternoon at North Chicago.

Prospect led twice in the first half 7-0 and 13-7 by virtue of TD passes by Joe Martin to Ken Nehmzow and Jim Gumz. However, North Chicago came on strong in the second half and scored one touchdown in the third period and two more in the final quarter for the 25-13 win.

James Loy, Jim Humphrey, Phil Parker, and Jim McClinton each counted a TD for North Chicago.

Prospect will play Hinsdale South Saturday morning on the Knight field.

Neither team launched any serious threats in the first half.

Arlington will journey to Glenbard West next Monday afternoon for a contest at 4:15.

There was no winner in the opening gridiron action for Forest View's junior varsity.

In its first football effort of '65, FV ended in a 6-6 tie with Glenbard East. GE went ahead 6-0 in the first quarter and the Falcons evened the count in the third quarter to set the final tally.

The lone score for coach Paul Jordan's JV squad was made by Jeffery Jacoby. Jacoby took off on an end sweep and ran for 69 yards and the third period touchdown.

Next game for Forest View's junior varsity is this Saturday at 12 noon when they host Glenbrook South.

Wheeling Wins

Wheeling High School scored touchdowns in the first and fourth periods Monday and posted a 14-0 frosh football victory over Elk Grove. Additional details were unavailable.

Truck Farmer Goes to Market — at 1 a.m.!

UNDER THIS load of vegetables is a truck. Al Schwind, a truck farmer from near Wheeling, unloads the products of a year of investment and labor at the Chicago farm market on 14th Street. In the foreground is dill, and crates of sweet corn, peppers and tomatoes are behind him. (A15

Paddock Reporter Shares Cab Seat

Staff Writer

Once Chicago's multitudes depended upon the farms at the city's perimeters for many of their vegetables, and truck farming was one of the economic mainstays of the city.

But where there were farms there are now suburbs, and beyond the suburbs they are country estates. More responsible for the decline of truck farming, though, than the postwar growth of suburbia and the rising taxes of urbanization, was the postwar growth of frozen food marketing, highway transportation and chain stores.

No longer did Chicago have to depend upon a close-in agricultural area for fresh vegetables. And the chain stores often by-pass the local market, contracting directly with farmers far distant from the city.

But there are still truck farms dotted between the subdivisions in the northwest suburbs, the last outposts of another era.

AL SCHWIND is one such farmer who still grows everything from eggplant to rhubarb, and makes weekly or semi-weekly trips into the Chicago farm market during the harvest season.

He has owned 60 acres at Hintz and Schoenbeck Roads since 1928, when he bought it for $560 an acre. (That is a high price for farm land even today, reflecting both the richness of the black soil and the proximity to the Chicago market.)

Schwind grew up on a farm in what is now Wilmette, where his father settled after coming here from "Luxemburg, Germany," probably via the Erie canal in the decade after the Blackhawk Indian War of 1870.

Therefore his roots here span Chicago's growth from virgin prairie and swamp to a sea of buildings. In fact, Schwind's father was one of 57 farmers, "all Luxemburg Germans," who formed a corporation and founded the original Chicago farm market on South Water Street.

ALTHOUGH IT was moved to 14th Street and Racine Avenue long ago, Schwind still refers to it as the South Water Street market. It was a farmer owned market until 1959 when the old corporation was dissolved. "The only stockholders left were the old grayheads," Schwind said, "and the young farmers weren't interested in buying stock in it.")

Schwind in his grey, practical overalls is now somewhat of an anomaly in the new local environment of white shirts and ties. He still wears a hat for its original purposes, to keep the sun off his head and to ward off the cold, and he is particularly fond of an old, battered felt one.

His farm is like an island in that sea of buildings that is gradually engulfing him. On one side of his meticulously groomed fields is a new subdivision; on another side is Wheeling High School, which ignores agriculture as a subject of study or vocation despite its proximity.

Schwind seems to accept the changes around him with unconcern and a twinkle of his eye, and with the same twinkle he pursues his own life in the fields.

HIS LIFE is integrated with the soil and weather, and he takes great pride in the produce he grows. He is a man that enjoys his work, and is happy that his two sons, although not dependent upon agriculture for a living, have also chosen to live on farms not far away.

He frankly doesn't think much of many modern farming methods. "Only the old (agricultural) professors know anything, and they're all dead," he once commented.

Farming is a "big gamble," he says. He remembers when he lost an entire crop of spinach from an adverse combination of rain and sun which burned the leaves.

But if he had his young life to do over again, he would still choose farming. "Except that I would go into grain. Truck farming is too much work and worry."

"TRUCK" is a literal description, for truck farmers have historically trucked their own vegetables directly to the city market. Schwind has been doing that all of his life, first for his father with a team of horses.

The produce is picked and loaded on the truck during the day. But Schwind sets off for the market about midnight, since it opens about 1:30 a.m. in order to get the produce to the stores during the early morning hours.

Once Polish immigrants provided the field labor, riding out to the end of the street car line on Milwaukee Avenue where the farmers would pick them up. Now Mexicans, who usually reside in buildings provided by the farmer, provide the labor.

Truck farming has other ordeals, too. Only "No. 1" produce is accepted at the market, and defective or unsightly vegetables along the huge concreter

Also, everything has to be carefully crated, and the crates cost up to 25 cents apiece.

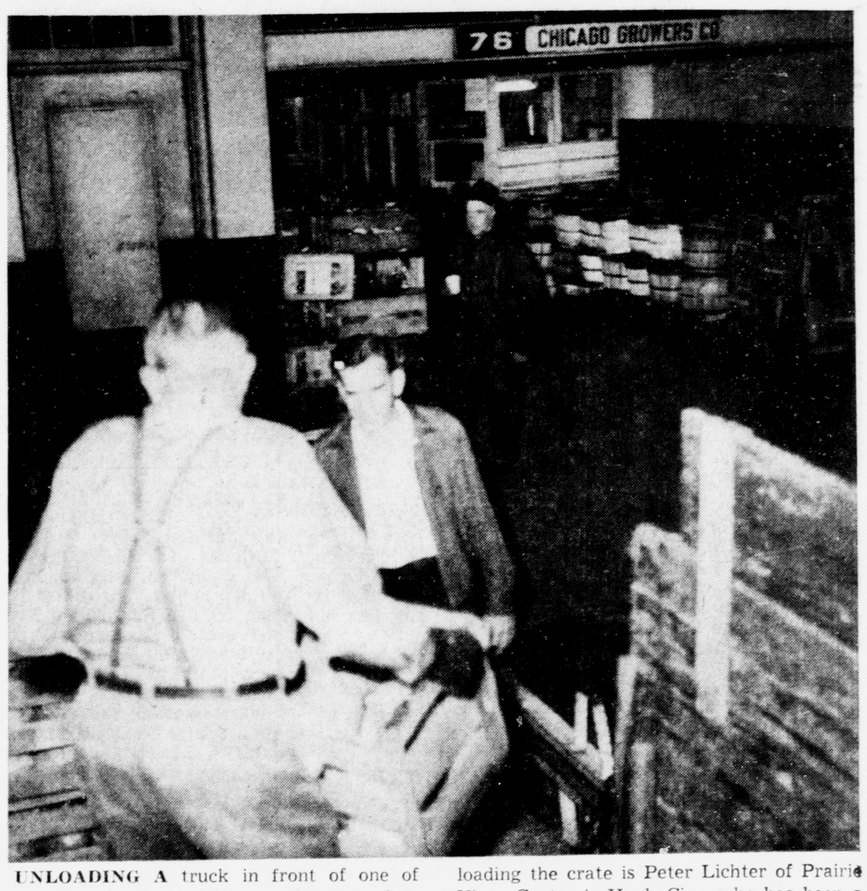
THEN THE "commission merchant," or middleman at the 14th Street farm market, gets 12½ cents for every dollar of produce he sells for the farmer, plus another 10 cents for each crate of produce handled. And the farmer has to depend upon the truthfulness of the commission merchant as to how much he was able to sell the farmer's produce for.

By the time the farmer absorbs the cost of the planting, picking, packaging and hauling plus the middleman's commissions, "there isn't much left," Schwind tells.

Like many local truck farmers, Schwind now sells much of his produce at a roadside stand right on his farm, enabling him to eliminate some of these costs.

Yet, "I made more money when I drove to market with a team of horses than I do today," he commented. Farming is highly mechanized today, he explained, and even truck farming has been put on a mass production basis.

"It used to be that if you had a plow, a disc and a team of horses you were in business. Everything was by hand."



UNLOADING A truck in front of one of the "stalls" in the Chicago farm market. The produce is arranged inside the building for wholesalers and retailers to examine later. Just as in retail stores, the emphasis at the farm market is on "eye appeal." Unloading the crate is Peter Lichter of Prairie View. Center is Hank Cira, who has been a commission merchant for 35 years, following his father into the business. In the background is Al Schwind of Wheeling. (A15

THE 14TH STREET market, operated by the Chicago Growers Co., is a fascina

The commission merchants, who own "stalls" there, are the epitome of the traditional middleman. Most have been in the business since boyhood, beginning as "hustlers," or handymen, loading and unloading trucks.

For a set percentage, these merchants receive the produce from the farmers and sell it to wholesalers and retailers that come into the market from 3 a.m. until late afternoon.

For the neophyte walking through the market it would perhaps seem that there is little difference between the various stalls along the huge concrete loading docks. But each merchant develops his own specialities.

Some deal only in locally grown produce, some in southern grown, and some only in Michigan or Wisconsin fruits. Where one may handle large sweet peppers and regular heads of cabbage and lettuce, another may handle tiny hot peppers, Chinese celery cabbage, endive and garlic bulbs.

SOME OFFBEAT items, such as celery root and baby zucchini squash, go to fastidious restaurants or speciality or ethnic food stores.

Commission merchants set their prices by ear, a mental process they have learned through long experience and which has become so much a part of them that they are almost at a loss to explain it.

But theirs is a hard life, also. They frequently work 15 to 16 hours a day, meeting the farmers long before dawn.

Hank and Joe Cira, brothers who followed their father into the business, note that each year the activity in the market place decreases a little more.

FROZEN FOOD packages are the big thing today rather than fresh vegetables, they relate. Chain stores are also buying directly from the farmers, hauling the produce into their own terminals via semi-trucks, or buying right off the railroad cars.

But Schwind feels the real blow that was delivered to the fresh vegetable trade was th banning of vegetable vendor from Chicago's streets. The were stores on wheels, and thei stock in trade was seasona items fresh from the fields.

Schwind, too, is planning re tirement in a few years, keep ing only about five acres an a roadside stand. ("I feel be ter when I work than when lay around.")

If you are sititing in the we bleachers at Wheeling High football game, turn around an you may see Schwind workin in his fields. His is a life rich experience and fulfillmen and worth witnessing.

'Total' Look Featured In New Fall Fashions

By BEVERLY TUTTLE

Is it as quiet at your hourse as it is at ours? There is a definite change in the amount of activity going on during the day, the degree of noise throughout the house has lessened, no longer is food consumed in large quantities at odd hours of the day by our "little friends"; the water bill will once again be "normal" as the swimming pool in the back yard is no longer in use; even the family car will get a rest. It was a nice summer and we all enjoyed it.

If you think things are quiet at your house, you should stop over at Randhurst. The mad back-to-school rush is over, brothers and sisters are outfitted and it's no fun "just looking" when there is no one to buy for.

No one to buy for? What am I saying? What about us?

Yes, Mothers, I think it's about time we had something for ourselves. You can bend the budget just a little bit! I must say, though, fashions have really changed over the past year.

IF ONLY you and I were young again, "dearie." I wonder how we would look in the "all-in-one" or "total" look — wearing the jersey tops and coordinated matching stretch stockings. What about bell bottom trousers or the printed hose? Call it the London Look, the Picadilly, by any name it is the style on the new teen-front. You just name it, it's here — crocheted trims, round and plunging necklines, circling sleeves, short skirts, high waist lines!

Fabrics have taken an even greater change — the new Heather look, basic colors fogged with lighter colors, madras squares, prints, plains, plaids, novelties, classics, solids in anything and everything from breathing, washable, dry cleanable, permanent, water repellent, cool, drapable, practical, comfortable, et cetera.

Besides all these new and exciting fabrics and fashions, we have a variety of colors for Fall — delicate peach, lemon, strawberry, dill, ginger, peppermint pink, celery and violet on lime, rose red, chocolate, ice gray, silver dollar gray, hot pink pistachio, apricot, and many other "delicious" and "appetizing" colors. Have fun on your shopping spree — I think you are about to have an eventful experience!

HOW WOULD your youngster like to seek a real-live puppet show? I know many of them probably would like to see a "real one." But there isn't always a puppet show in town or maybe it just arrived, but the showtimes are inconvenient for mother.

Well, mother, here is the children's opportunity to see a wonderful puppet show on Thursday and Friday, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1. The puppet show will feature the well-known fairy tale of "Snow White." The puppet show will take place on the Puppet Wagon that will set the scene in an image of excellence for the children. Shows will be given periodically throughout these days. See next week's "Inside Randhurst" for details!

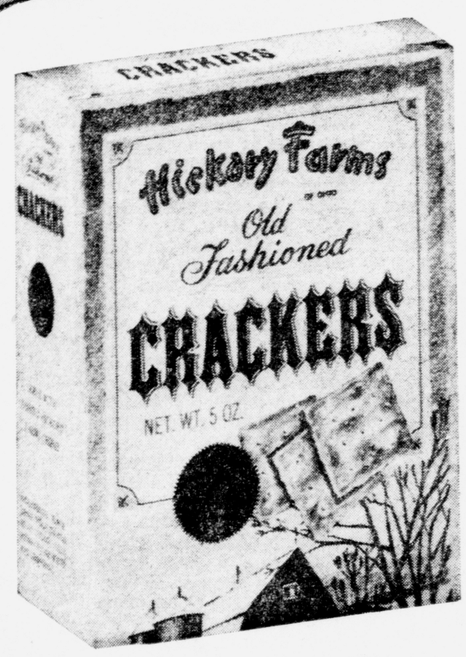
AL SCHWIND, who has spent a lifetime in truck farming as his father did before him, now sells much of his produce at a roadside stand at his home on Hintz and Schoenbeck Roads outside Wheeling. Here he unloads vegetables he has just brought in from the fields. (A15



How could a simple cracker cause so much commotion?

Consider the shape. Nothing fancy there. Consider the taste. Today's most advertised crackers taste like ham or cheese or chicken or pizza. But, by gosh, here's a cracker that's satisfied to taste like a cracker. Lightly salted. Crispy-delicious. Just a simple cracker . . . simple as can be . . . and indescribably good!

Personnel Policies Studied

Mount Prospect School Board has asked more time to study policies for custodial and secretarial employes.

Dr. Eric Sahlberg said the policy statement now is in its third draft and covers 25 pages. It excludes salary scales but deals with such matters as vacations, fringe benefits, sick leave, promotions, transfers and terminations.

Board member Robert Russell urged that more discussion be given to individual items. "I doubt that each of us has a clear understanding what the words (in the policy statement) mean," said Russell. (M

Public Schools Slate Bike Safety Program

Pupils in the Mount Prospect elementary schools will be instructed in bicycle safety next week.

Instructions will be given Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 28, 29 and 30, by a team of specialists from the Cook County Traffic Safety Commission. The youngsters first will be lectured on traffic laws, courtesies of the road and the bicycle riding rules.

They then will be required to ride through a safety lane test set up with traffic signs and other simulated traffic conditions. Those passing will be given cards certifying their proficiency and making them members of the bicycle safety club. A pledge to ride safely is included on the card.

THE PROGRAM has been introduced in most public and parochial schools within the county, outside Chicago. It is directed by John J. McCloverty, traffic safety director of the commission.

Children in all grades will hear the lectures, but only those in second grade and up will be tested.

McCloverty said about 85 per cent of the pupils tested are able to pass. Of the remainder, some 13 per cent are classified as "border line" cases and are restricted to riding in their home areas only. About two per cent fail outright, often because their bicycles are lacking fenders, light or reflector. Those failing or restricted will have another chance to pass when the safety commission returns to the school the following year, he said.

ASSISTING in presenting the program in Mount Prospect will be Dr. Eric Sahlberg, superintendent, building principals and PTA volunteers.

Here is the schedule of the bicycle safety program for Mount Prospect public schools:

Busse, Tuesday, Sept. 28 — 9 a.m.

Fairview, Tuesday, Sept. 28 — 9 a.m.

Central, Tuesday, Sept. 28 — 1 p.m.

Grgory, Tuesday, Sept. 28 — 1 p.m.

Lions Park, Wednesday, Sept. 29 — 9 a.m.

Westbrook, Wednesday, Sept. 29 — 9 a.m.

Sunset Park, Wednesday, Sept. 29 — 1 p.m.

Lincoln, Thursday, Sept. 30 — 9 a.m.

The Mount Prospect police will conduct their license program at the same time. (M

School Boundary Changes Refused

Pleas of parents for changes in Mount Prospect school boundaries were denied Monday night.

The District 57 board of education decided against allowing any compromise in the attendance map of Sutp. Eric Sahlberg.

Some members said they agree that boundaries as outlined in the parent's handbook may cause inconveniences, but if one exception were allowed many other fmilies would have requests for changes in schools.

TWO GROUPS of parents spoke to the board Monday night on possible changes.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher said they formerly lived on the north side of the village but this summer built a house on the south side because they had a promise from former Supt. L. R. Murphy that two of their daughters, in the seventh and eighth grades, would be allowed to continue at Central Junior High School.

The request was based on the fact that French is taught at Central and Spanish on the south side of the village. The Fishers said their decision to build a new house hinged on the promise from the superintendent.

Board members expressed sympathy with the Fishers, but declined to make an exception. Dr. Sahlberg said he will try to solve the foreign language problem administratively.

FIVE OTHER parents repeated questions raised two weeks previously over the placement of first graders at Lions Park School. The parents, from I-Oka Avenue, said they preferred the Lincoln School as being much closer.

Mrs. Charles Molloy, of 108 S. I-Oka, said a nine-block area is involved. She asked if enough first graders could be shifted to create an additional first grade class at Lincoln.

Gregory Tumbrello, of 110 S. I-Oka, also spoke of inconveniences to first graders.

Board member William Krampert said he feels that any school boundary plan will cause some inconveniences and it is essential to accept the plan worked out by the administration. But he urged that in future years the boundaries be announced earlier.

Dr. Sahlberg said that he wants to get a house-to-house count of all children from newborns up to the seventh grade. This information, he said, will help in making a five-year projection of future enrollment to use in boundary lines. (M

New students and those in grades 6 through 8 also are welcome.

Mountaineering Books Are Added to Library Shelves

by JANET BONE

Anyone who's ever read a book on mountaineering has probably come across Mallory's famous reply to the question, "Why climb Everest?" Mallory, who disappeared from view on the summit, answered simply, "Because it's there."

Television viewers who watched the recent color films presented by the National Geographic Society showing "Americans on Everest" may have been tempted to ask the same question. The mountain had been conquered; it was climbed in 1953 by Sir Edmund Hillary and Tenzing backed by a British supply team led by Hunt. Why again?

MOUNT PROSPECT readers can find out why by checking out the official version of the ascent by James Ramsey Ullman and other members of the expedition. "Americans on Everest" is the same story that was presented on television; many of the photographs are identical, and much more of the motivation that led each man to volunteer is presented.

Actually, if your heart yearns for the high places, the library has a surprisingly large number of books on mountaineering and exploration. You'll enjoy "The Conquest of Everest" by Hunt, leader of the British expedition. He theorizes, "Because of its vertical scale, climatic conditions, and climbing difficulties, Everest presented a problem which had long resisted the skill and persistence of many. To solve this was an irresistible magnet in every sphere of human activity."

Hillary continues the story of mountaineering in the Nepal highlands with his book about the building of schools for the Sherpas. When he asked his native helpers what they most desired, the answer was schools. An old Sherpa remarked, "Our children have eyes, but they are still blind." In 1961, the first school was built in Khumjung, 13,000 feet up the sacred Mount Khumbila in Nepal.

LOCAL RESIDENTS may remember the school-building project. Several years ago, Sir Edmund Hillary, Lady Louise, and their three children lived for over a year in Park Ridge. World Book Encyclopedia and Field Enterprises Educational Corp. was giving financial backing to Hillary and the school project; in fact, it was one of the projects dear to the heart of the late Marshall Field. Hillary became, briefly, a Chicago-commuter as he visited Field's Merchandise Mart office to plan the expedition.

In fact, Lady Louise presented the story of the schoolhouse building and of her walk through Nepal to join the expedition in a lecture she gave at Arlington Heights' Pioneer Park fieldhouse. The slides she used then are, for the most part, included in "Schoolhouse in the Clouds."

Hillary turns up again as the author of two more excellent books on mountain-climbing. "East of Everest," which he wrote with George Lowe, is the story of the New Zealand Alpine Club expedition to the Barun valley. The rescue of expedition members at daybreak from the crevasse in which they had hung all night, the cornice that broke . . . these and other exciting adventures are included. "High in the Thin, Cold Air" is another story of additional expeditions.

YOU'LL FIND these, and other books on mountaineering at the Mount Prospect Public Library, 14 E. Busse. There are a number you'll enjoy reading. "Nanga Parbat," "Annapurna" (the French expedition) and "The Ascent of K-2" are just a few.

We can't leave the high mountain country without recommending most heartily a book by Jean and Francis Shor called "After You, Marco Polo." The Shor's (he's senior editor for the National Geographic) are not experienced mountain climbers, nor did they travel as part of an elaborate expedition.

However, the story of how this young couple retraced Marco Polo's route from Venice to the Chinese-Pakistan border is one you're not going to put down. Jail in Turkey, tea with the Shah-in-Shah of Persia, crossing a glacier on yak-back, honeymooning in the Gobi desert — these adventures are climaxed as they stumbled onto the fabled Hunza valley, with a Mir who ordered flowers delivered and kept a grand piano in his palace, but his wife in purdah.

There'll be three other National Geographic Society special TV shows this season. Before the next, we'll let you know the appropriate books, and also include a bit about the Society itself. (Did you know that Alexander Graham Bell, of telephone fame, was, for many years, its president?) Meanwhile, explore the Library. Located at 14 E. Busse, we open at 10 a.m., closing at 9 p.m. throughout the week and at 5 p.m. on Saturdays. (M

Speech Therapist Resigns

Elk Grove School Board accepted the resignation of a speech therapist contingent on finding a qualified replacement.

Lori Frank, speech correctionist with District 59 for five years, asked for termination of his contract to allow him to enter private practice.

The school board acted on the recommendation of Supt. Roger Bardwell. Bardwell said the resignation is inopportune but the district does not like to thwart chances for advancement.

Frank will complete the first semester unless a replacement is found before this time.

Frank is based at High Ridge Knolls School in Des Plaines and serves Forest View and Robert Frost Schools in Mount Prospect, Dempster Junior High School, and Brentwood. (E

Pay Scale Adopted For School Nurses

The Mount Prospect School Board is opening the door to the employment of registered nurses without college degrees.

Board members Monday night voted 6-1 to adopt a salary scale for registered nurses in the school system. Their annual pay is to vary from $3,600 up to $5,000 after eight steps (usually eight years).

DR. ERIC SAHLBERG, district superintendent, said it has been the practice of school districts to employ certificated nurses, that is, those with a bachelor's degree.

But, he added, they are hard to find and two out of the three nursing positions in the Mount Prospect system have been vacant. He said it still will be required that the director of nursing services in the school system be a college graduate.

Board members asked whether the bachelor's degree enables a nurse to contribute more to the school system.

Sahlberg said it does in some instances because testing and other work done by nurses relates to the academic program of schools.

THE VOTE against adoption of the new nurses pay scale was cast by board member Robert Russell. He said he wishes to conform to what has been a matter of policy.

Both nursing vacancies were filled later by the board. It agreed to the employment of Dorothy Hickey, who is both a registered nurse and a bachelor degree holder from St. Xavier College, and Joyce Houlihan, a registered nurse graduate from St. Rita's School of Nursing. (M

A PREVIEW OF FASHION

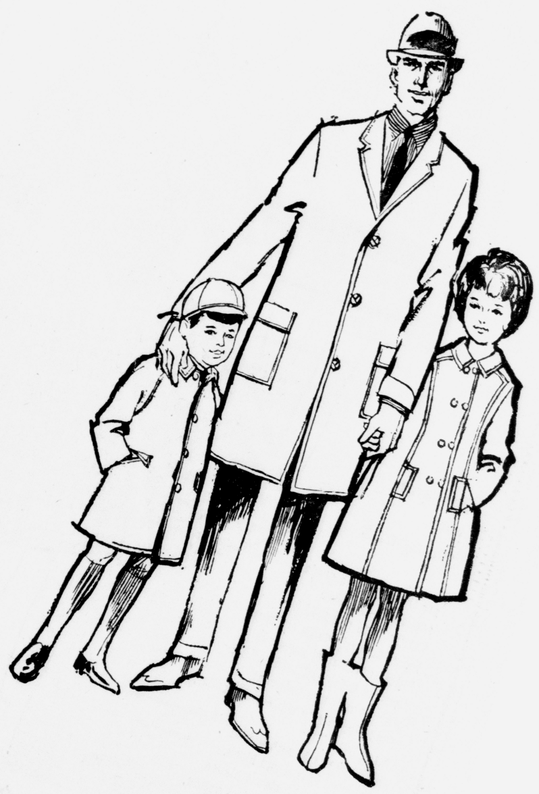
FOR FAMILY AND HOME
Section 5

viewing the news in Fall Fashions

Suddenly you're seeing signs of fall everywhere you look. There's a zestful note in the air, a crisp, brisk feeling that hints of excitement ahead. It's time . . . to start leading the livelier life of fall. To help you and your family get ready, hometown stores are brimming with new ideas and fashions for your wardrobe and your home. Begin now . . . see the news and views of fall, previewed in the pages of this newspaper.



Juniors Choose from All Autumn's Look

Juniors are busy doing some simple arithmetic for fall, and it all adds up to the Total Look. Fashion's newest and latest Total Look for juniors interprets the complete costume in the light of patterned and textured stockings matched with a variety of tops. To suits and dresses are added matching and color coordinating tights, jackets or perhaps a poncho wrap-up, hat, bag, shoes — as many as the imagination allows.

For a more casual Total Look, cut-out jumpers and swingy skirts take sweaters, knitted tops, coats and jackets that match with stockings or socks. Fall's sweaters are made for endless matching, some closely shaped and ribbed for tucking in, others in shetlands, cables, argyles and the crocheted looks. Knitted pullovers follow the long, lean line.

Separates, as such, are found in exciting new heather tones and weaves as well as corduroys, plaids and madras. Suede, leather and leather looks are new and becoming for juniors when made into mixing and matching separates.

Components Add Up For Fall

The big, industrial zipper has junior sportswear all zipped up in plaids and denims. But Sherlock Holmes has managed to capture some of the sportswear spotlight with sleuth-styled plaid suits.

Most fashions in the junior wardrobe for fall come in twos or threes. The coat has a dress beneath, usually following the coat line for line, or it may be a suit or a skirt with ribbed sweater. The costume suit is now a junior staple.

Some coats for fall are slim with varied shoulder interest, high or low waistlines. Fabrics for these range widely, sometimes with two color combinations.

The easy, biased, shaped coat of the 30's makes a comeback this fall as does the wrap coat. The strict signature of Courreges is ever present in leather and suede coats with welt seaming, yoke detailing. The popular convoy and double - breasted camelhair coats are back, too.

Wildly furry coats are wildly popular and now range over the entire animal kingdom. These wild furs show up also in suits, capes and even dresses.

Skirt Sets Tone

Storm coats in corduroy, suede and vinyl stand out with their pile linings, leather, knit and plastic trimmings. The raincoat is new as a rain suit and especially attractive with a cape and skirt in plaid.

The "foreign intrigue" look continues to be highly successful in capturing popularity for the all-weather coat fashions.

The skirt sets the tone of the junior suit for fall. The dirndl skirt has a very short jacket; pleated skirts have long jackets; A-line skirts take finger tip jackets.

The newest suit is cut from the Victorian mold and has cutaway jacket, ruffling, lots of little buttons and unusual banding of plaid and argyle.

Dresses move in closer to the body and end in a long, low flare that swings short, sometimes above the knee. Strict shapes are softened by the use of such fabrics as crepe.

Boys Get New Shoe Wardrobe

Brogues, moccasins, oxfords, slip-ons, boots and demi-boots make their way into boys' shoe wardrobes this fall, as Junior, like Dad, acquires shoes right for every occasion — school, dress-up, play, leisure.

Developed to withstand plenty of walking, running and jumping are rugged new grained, smooth, brushed, waxy and glove leathers for footwear.

New looks for the classroom this fall include scotch-grained leather mocks in the latest organgey-brown, saddle oxfords in dark-on-dark tones and casual slip-ons in waxy, brushed and grained leathers.

Authentic brogues — complete with pinking, perforations and long wing-tips "just like Dad's" — are available for boys. And broguey detailing highlights many leather oxfords and slip-ons.

For parties, it's the elegant polished leather slip-on or dress brogue.

Boots and demi-boots, with leather or shearling linings, appeal to a boy's sense of adventure and sense of style. Many have Western details.

THE LORRAINE ANNE SHOP, 19 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights now carries a new line, Joyce Sportswear, which includes cotton shifts, knit suits and dresses and everything in sportswear. They're Colorful Bathrooms are blossoming out all over, thanks to new shades of color now available in the applications and materials most often used in designing a bathroom.

Ceramic tile, for instance, now comes in more than 250 shades, to mix or match with colors in paint, wallpaper, shower curtains, fixtures and mats, reports the Tile Council of America.

One suggested bathroom design starts with hyacinth blue wall tiles. To this, add wallpaper in bright pink and blue on charcoal. The vanity top can carry out the theme in charcoal grey tile. Fixtures wih a silvery finish blend well.

Artistry Decorates Many a Leg

The world of fashion is mad — mad about the new gadabout stockings. Textured stockings in many different styles are "in" from morning to night. Flowers, on sheer stockings, are the elegant idea for evening wear. They come in bouquets that pattern the leg completely or in corsages for an interesting ankle

During the day stocking looks roam from wool or nylon knit in diamond, ribbed, stripped, flowered, checked and tweedy textures to stockings with crocheted trims or boucle patterns.

On the leg, the season's total look can be achieved in many ways — with textured stockings matched to sweaters, leotards with a contrasting skirt or stockings with matching scarfs, hats and gloves.

TEXTURED stockings equal evening enchantment, in styles like this. Velvety applique adorns sheer nylon. "Black Magic" seamless stockings here are by Hanes.

READY FOR CHOOSING

Skirt lengths trend toward the shorter look. Proportion is most important; actual length is a matter of taste.

Little Girls Belong To Neat Generation

STEPPING RIGHT OUT of a copy of "Alice in Wonderland," the look of fall dresses for little girls highlights such beguiling ideas as puffed sleeves, hand smocking, full skirts. Styles shown are in machine-washable, vat-dyed all-cotton fabrics. Photo from Textile Dye Institute.

Every generation has something to distinguish it from all the others. Today's little girls belong to the "neat generation." And this fall's fashions show the neat generation how to look even neater, prettier and smarter.

The fashions are made with an eye to what growing-up little girls need. Slim, "strict"-looking shapes — and there are plenty of them, as young ladies join their elders in approving the Courreges influence — are artfully cut to provide ease and freedom of movement for active youngsters.

Smocks and Suspenders Get Attention

Since the neat generation knows exactly what it wants and won't settle for less, variety sugars and spices the array of styles ready for little girls' wardrobes. The favored A-line continues strong, as does the look of fitted top plus natural waist and full or pleated skirt. New contenders for over-all popularity are suspender dresses and separates, smocks for the "older" girls as well as the toddlers, and the "young London look" with its fresh, pretty details and 'way high up or low, low waistlines.

The neat generation gets its share of the "Op art" look, in fashions that combine dots and wiggly stripes. Generally, colors and patterns are bolder and bright — witness the new larger plaids.

What to wear over new dresses and separates is a problem solved easily with new coats designed especially for the active life little girls lead. Military looks, double or single breasted classics, A lines, slim and shapely or slim and strictly-shaped styles serve as special occasion and anytime coats.

Neatness Built-In

Fakey furs, used as trims or entire coats, and grown-up fabrics such as shetlands, tweeds, worsteds, mohairs help to give a little girl that "special" feeling—neat and well-dressed, pretty and smart.

Ready to keep the neat generation looking that way — with less help from Mom — are fabrics with built-in neatness. Garments with "permanent press," for example, always "remember" their creases and pleats, so that no touch-up with an iron is required.

Washable woolens are present in greater abundance, and a wider use of stretch fabrics brings more ease to active young lives. Knits, too, are seen in more and more styles for girls — happily combining a lastingly-neat look with fashion importance.

SPRIGHTLY PAISLEY print teams with demure gray flannel in this little girl's dress. The flannel is an easy-care blend of Celanese Arnel tri-acetate and rayon. By Mini Mods.

Novel Fur Style Ideas

Coats and suits for fall wear fur in unusual ways. Notable is the advance of the fur-lined coat and, to some extent, the fur-lined suit.

Linings "spill over" to form fur collars, or the entire coat may be reversible from fabric to fur. And the once bulky look of the fur-lined coat has vanished. The linings are deftly shaped to maintain a line nearly as slim as that of an unlined coat.

Fur borders and bands in sable, mink, nutria form the new look of fur trims — for example, a tunic suit the hemline bordered in nutria. Black or gray Persian, fox, beaver are other fur-trim favorites among fall fashions.

Dresses Keep Step With New Trends

Dresses take their ease this fall in bloused and biased shapes. They're reed-slim — or dirndl-skirted. They're smock-shaped, with high yokes accented by braid or smocking, with high-tied belts counterbalanced by low-placed pockets, with soft bows or self scarves to enhance necklines.

They're costume components — shifty and sleeveless to accompany a coat, or full and flowing of sleeve and active of skirt to pair with a little bolero, perhaps in a furry-like fabric. They're costumes in themselves — two-piece styles, showing off the biased, bloused, smocked and pleated trends, or coat dresses, newest with side closings.

"London Look" Comes To Fashion Forefront

They're English dandies, with the London look of crisp white bibs or ruffled fill-ins. They're made for movement — daytime or discotheque, in simple, supple styles that make the most of crochet-look suits, "naked" wools, fluid crepes and jerseys.

Dresses, in short, partake of all the ladylike elegance and young verve that characterize the fall '65 fashion season.

For daytime, the soft, easy silhouette leads. Basic simplicity may rely on color, fabric and fluidity of line for fashion interest, or the softening influence of ruffles, laces, bows, scarves may appear.

Sleeves Are News

When sleeves are present, they are important indeed. The long, full sleeve with buttoned cuff and the flared, kimono-like sleeve take their place in the fall dress picture.

Along with softness and ease, dresses also express the strict and spare "Courreges" look. Almost always, however, the soft touch is apparent.

Slim, sculptured coat dresses, for instance, move toward easy A-shaping, as do dresses with paneled fronts. Welt seaming, a Courreges - look signature, shows up in combination with fluid, feminine skirts.

Some designers like the strict look for late day in opulent, "all girl" fabrics — richly colored velveteens.

Whatever the dress look, there is a fabric to complement it — soft or strict.

THE SHORTER JACKET, the dirndl skirt augment the fall fashion season. Here, a suit in loosely woven English tweed develops the look, with shapely jacket, softly draped skirt that barely crosses the kneecap. Stole may also be worn as scarf. By Ilie Wacs for Originala.

Gloves Are Simply Neat

Detailing is neat and not gaudy in new glove styles. To salute the softer look of many fashions, most gloves are untrimmed or daintily decorated with a simple scallop, pearl buttons or raised stitching.

For festive occasions, a touch of jeweling or fur is in order.

Supple kid, suede, doeskin and pigskin make up the leather glove collections. A new leather, used for the complete glove or as trim, is embossed cabretta, in striking printed patterns and a variety of markings.

Although shortie and fourbutton gloves are seen, there is an increasing rise in six and eight button lengths.

Glove colors for fall and winter range from bone, gold and winter pastels through black, cranberry and the important brown family — hues to accent every costume.

For extra warmth, leather gloves are lined in fur or shearling (wool-on-leather).

'Choose Your Fabric' Is '65 Shirt Story

Fabrics for shirts include oxfords, herringbone twills, fine shepherd checks, miniature tattersall checks and an extremely wide selection of stripes on both white and colored grounds.

There are also some fancy broadcloths in checks and stripes in new deep tones.

Wash-wear fabrics and blends such as polyester-cotton, polyester tricot are popular choices for shirts.

Personality Shines Forth In New Suit Silhouettes

It's "suit season" this fall, with suits showing new personality in an appealing variety of looks. The prevailing mood is soft, shapely, flattering. While definitive seaming of the Courreges influence are clearly present, even the "strictest" suits reveal the softening effect of youthful verve and fabric elegance. And soft indeed are the many suits with dirndl skirts, demi-fitted or smock-like jackets.

Since completeness is the essence of fall fashion, costume suits gain new importance. Every shape, jacket or coat length and every combination sums up this completeness. The suit with its own blouse is just the beginning. There's the suit with "baby topcoat" over skim skirt and jersey weskit, for example, or the fitted princess coat over a slim skirt or dress.

Thus, "new fall suits will please American women because they're comfortable for activity — soft, flattering and elegant as never before," predicts Wilbur Daniels, executive secretary of the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry.

Focusing on Skirts

Skirts are the focal point of interest in many suits. They swing with dirndl softness — lightly gathered all around or gathered only in the front, where a pair of slit pockets adds the fashion punch.

They're pleated, for a look that is now a classic. Pleats are placed at each side with wide panels front and back, or they go all around the skirt for a young, "in action" look.

For an air of individuality, slim skirts have a border to match the suit jacket.

Jackets of every length feature many types of closings. The asymmetric closing may have buttons following through on the side of a dirndl skirt.

The single breasted, longer jacket, often belted, tops a slim or dirndl skirt with equal charm. A double-breasted, squared-off jacket looks very "Courreges" and correct over a pleated skirt.

Shaping New Jackets

The short-shaped jacket, the cutaway jacket, the longer, fly-front jacket — almost a tunic — may be seen with slim or action skirts, all very new and graceful.

Although the texture of suit fabrics tends to be more restrained and flatter of surface, the skillful use of interesting weave - on - weave or novelty yarns adds new direction and dimension.

Colors and color combinations range wider than ever. Pastels mate with bright tones.

SUMMING UP the autumn news, suits like this one make fashion points of a squared-off jacket with "wrapped" neckline, eased and pocketed skirt. All-wool diagonal weave is fabric news, too. A selection of National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry.

Suits, Topcoats Get into 'Shape'

The recently introduced "shaped look" in suits has had excellent fashion acceptance and it is now part of the new appeal of fall topcoats. It is the first "blanket" style to hit the market in quite a while. Shape can be applied to the Contemporary and Traditional concepts of style with equal effectiveness.

Both the natural shoulder Traditional models and the forward fashion Contemporary styles are cutting into the numbers of conservative classic suits, sportcoats and topcoats.

It seems, too, as if there will be any number of variations of the indented waist. Some believe that the use of front darts is essential to achieving the desired effect, while others feel they can get the look without the extra seams.

Shirts enter the fall scene with both new permanent press features and new stripes and colors. They also have a wide selection of both standard collars and updated classics.

Sportswear and outerwear for the cold months feature a new shade, "Whiskey," and include "pro look" garments, shearlings and corduroys.

Stretch knits, Op art designs and classic patterns mark the many new sweaters. Also new are "thick and thin" knits.

Sport Shirts Go Rugged

Striking dramatic new fashion notes, sports shirts make the fall scene in rugged country types emphasizing the new giant plaids, iridescent silklike cloths and fancy detailings. Regular models with tails are available, as well as shirtjacs and pullovers. Collar styles include button-downs, regular points — and Continentals.

The knit shirts include colorful velours in many styles as well as knits combined with woven fabrics. Look for the new sweater detailing, too.

Among fashion items are the paisleys, newly returned to favor in a group of University-styled, fall-toned cottons; and the corduroys — wide wale, richly toned, and offered in a variety of styles.

New this season are all-cotton velours, a velvety, supple fabric, most effective in a zip-turtle pullover style.

Madras continues a favorite, not only traditional, but in American versions as well. The new madras will bleed into the same sort of muted color blends formerly available only in hand-woven, imported fabrics.

The suiting look, recently introduced on the west coast, is being shown in a collection of shirts in restrained glen plaids and shadowy checks.

The strongest color story is the autumnal range of lively tan to mellow gold — a handsome and masculine shade for smart casual wear.

PRESENTING THE shape of fall '65 are natural shoulder suits and sport coats like these. The suit, of British hopsacking, features slimmer lapels, slight narrowing of jacket at waist. Sport coat in English shetland is shaped at waist for easy elegance. By Southwick and H. Freeman.

NEAT, TRIM smartness is the story behind this fall's new topcoats and suits. The four-button topcoat above is of British wool shetland and features natural shoulder, hook vent, slim knee-length styling. Natural shoulder suit appears in a classic array of new fall tones.

Fresh Look Here for Topcoats

Revived by handsome styling, new fabrics and new treatments of classic fabrics, the topcoat has gained its place as the garment to wear on the bright cold days of fall and winter.

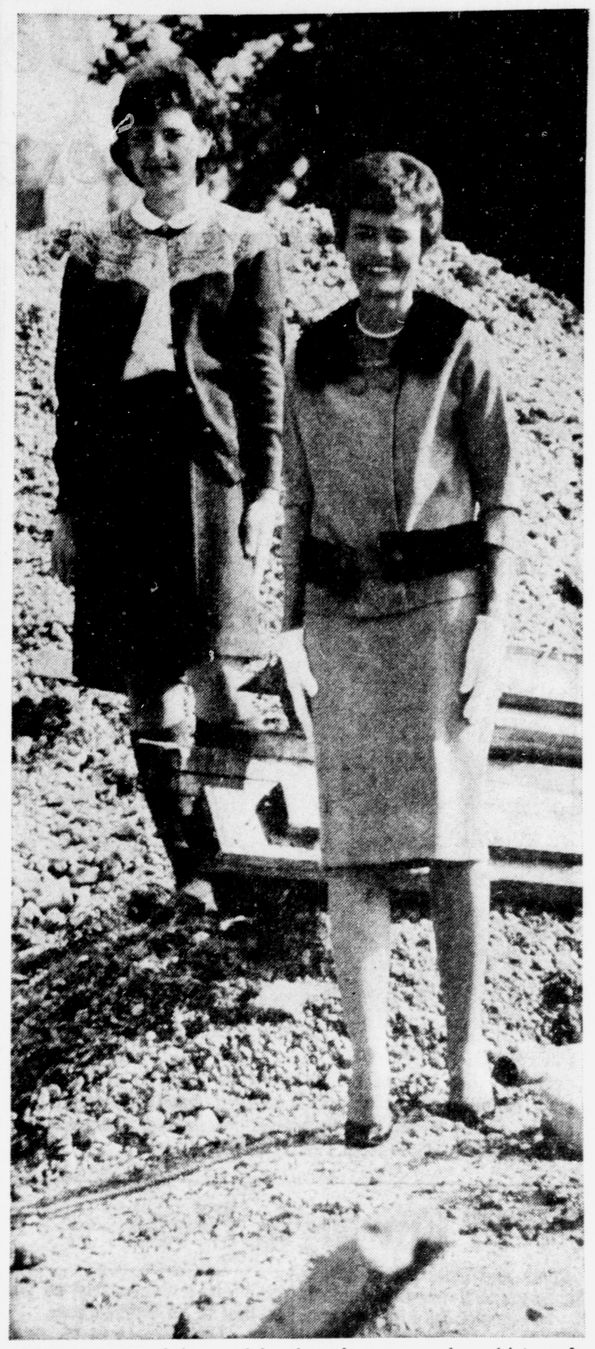
The most obviously new topcoats are those styled on Contemporary lines, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

These have the "tailored" shoulder lines, the L-shape, cloverleaf and triple-stitched lapels and angled pockets that mark the very popular suits of the type.

Natural shoulder Traditional models in updated versions, double-breasted coats in both topcoat and overcoat weights are on the up-swing, as well as a new interest in moderately shaped coats.

Within all of these style groups, a brand new concept in topcoats has arisen. That is the so-called "travel" or "flight" coat. Made of lightweight worsteds or worsted-cottons, they are rain-proof, come with zip-out liners for extra warmth. Versatile and comfortable, they make perfect traveling companions.

SPORTING A warm pile lining and alpaca shawl collar, is this British stroller coat of saxony wool in herringbone twill. From Woolrich Mills.



PAM MICEK, left, models the always popular skirt and sweater. Her skirt is a 10-gore blue heather wool, the sweater a classic cardigan of matching blue heather with a Norwegian design across the shoulders. Completing the ensemble are matching blue heather knee socks. Marcy Micek wears a three-piece blue imported wool knit suit. The suit has a V-neck, sleeveless shell. The jacket, with three-quarter length Dolman sleeves, is trimmed with a collar and button-on fur belt of Alaska seal. Both outfits are from Marge's Apparel of Arlington Heights. (Staff Photo)

They're Dashing

Cotton suede and leather give sports jackets for little boys a dashing appearance.

Fluid Movement In Dance Dresses

Evening sees both the short and the long, the soft and the tailored dress making an elegant entrance for fall.

The sari - influenced one-shoulder dress appears in short and long versions, in every type of elegant fabric from chiffon and lace to brocade, satin and cloque.

In the same mood are strapless or little-strapped great-evening gowns with asymmetrically draped bodices.

Dirndls vie with the classic belled skirt for long and feminine evening looks, and the slim, shaped and draped long dress in a floaty fabric such as chiffon has a competitor in the crisply tailored above-ankle gown of whisperweight flannel accented by velvet or satin.

The discotheque dress dances on its way into autumn with fewer frills but more fluidity than ever. The bows, ruffles and fringe that once characterized this type of dress are giving way to the pure shape of dresses meant to move, in supple fabrics, glowing colors, bias cuts.

Instead of frills, today's dance dresses have such accents as cutouts on long, slim sleeves, or contrasting bands of color extending along the sleeves and down the sides.

All Eyes Look Down To Flattering Shoes

With all eyes on legs this season, leather shoe fashions are styled to flatter the foot and the leg.

Toes are rounding out to a comfortable new width in fall shoes of soft, lightweight leathers.

From the shallowest shell to the tallest boot, there are leathers of every texture — gleaming polished leathers and velvety suede, interesting grains and embossings, plushy brushed leathers and slick patent leather. These are artfully used alone or in combination.

Slings, Sandals, Walk Into Fall

Elegantly engineered slings and sandals walk into fall and winter. Sling-backs of every width, shape and leather texture complement well-bred winter costumes. With pretty coats and suits, graceful slim-heeled slings in clear-toned or neutral leather shades step forth. For tailored tastes, there are more severe sling-back styles — including the shoe with Chanel tip — in dark or natural shades of leather and on lower, broader heels.

Fall sandals include shoes of delicate smooth leather strippings, or simply a wide swath of suede. Straps "T" off, or span the instep or vamp.

For at-home occasions (from dinner for two to a Saturday night bash), tasteful sandals and mules come in all leathers and colors. Bows, flowers and other fancies add an extra feminine fillip to many styles.

Leather pumps have been subtly refined in appearance, through a lowering in the shoe upper silhouette at sides and back, but often fronted with fashion detailing — tongues, bows, heavy buckles. On some pumps, opened-up sides or vamp are discreetly provocative.

Dressing Up Pumps

Ties, chin trim and multileather combination are used on casual or dress pumps in a variety of ways.

In a few short seasons, leather boots and boot-shoes have become an active part of fall fashion for everything from skiing to teaing.

The below-calf white leather boot popularized by Courreges is still with us, joined by similar styles in colored smooth and suede leathers. Other boots from knee to ankle levels feature lacing, gored insets, cuffs and chains.

They're Light On Their Feet

Little girls and their new shoes have this in common: they're both light on their feet.

Those graceful little girls who are so feathery afoot still manage to be very hard on their shoes — but today's shoes are ready for them. Thanks to tanning research, the fall collection of girls' leather footwear is rugged and hard-wearing, yet amazingly lightweight.

For feminine members of the grade school set, there's texture interest afoot — running the gamut from smooth, patent, grained and glove leathers to brushed, waxed, embossed and antiqued leathers.

Restless or in repose, dainty little feet are stylishly shod in slip-ons, oxfords and bootlets. The comfortable moccasin is a classroom classic. Smart shells, either unadorned or sporting a little bow or a strap, come in a full palette of attractive shades.

Ghillies, white and colored saddle shoes with contrasting textured saddles and tassel-tied oxfords are available in a small world-ful of shades and textures.

Very big with little girls are boots and bootlets in smooth, brushed and grained leathers, often decorated with buckles, buttons or braid.

Dress occasions see a sea of slings, shells, pumps in pretty leathers. Scalloping, peaked vamps, delicate bows and teardrop cut-outs give a grown-up, feminine feeling.

Girls can choose from lots of color in new shoes this season —crystal-clear blues and reds, soft greens and grays, a complete range of browns; news-making winter whites.

STRIPES ARE very much a part of sweater picture this fall. Brushed-effect cardigan feels as soft as it looks. In Creslan acrylic fiber.

Sleek Looks Cut Trim Figure

On and off the slopes, the ski look of fall means sleek stretch pants in brilliant colors. Tweedy outer fabric means warm, leaner parkas, while nylon shows paisley print, embroidered or pleated trim. Headgear is also sleek and close fitting in helmets, caps.

ROPE EDGING highlights the three-piece wool knit costume here. Muted plaid jacket and skirt take a coordinated wool-knit overblouse. By Feder-Tricosa of Paris.

Plants Evoke Spring-Like Atmosphere

Increasingly used as an important part of decorating plans, living plants evoke a spring-like atmosphere, throughout the year.

Massive wall units can benefit from clay-potted trailing plants which soften the lines of shelving. Plants can provide the decorative answer to difficult corner areas, or function as room dividers.

Grouped in front of a mirror wall on a tray lined with pebbles, clay-potted foliage plants, in their saucers, will reflect to create a seemingly endless garden vista.

THERE'S FASHION fun to be had in bowling, too. At left, a shetland cardigan sweater teams up with wool panel pleated, shorty skirt, print shirt. The classic blazer adds winning points to an A-line drum skirt, both of wool. From the Bernard Altman Collection approved for bowling by AMF. Bowling accessories by AMF.

Leisurely Dressing for Little Girls

Little girls love to lounge in kooky and feminine loungewear that pops right into bed when it's time.

What little girl could resist wanting to get ready for bed when she can wear tunics with contrasting tights and leotards or jumpsuits in many different shapes and colors.

Nightgowns, the always feminine favorite of girls of any age, now come in many different patterns. Many have their own matching scarfs, robes, overskirts and booties.

All in all, fall sees pleasant dreams for all little girls.

Shoes Swing into Handsome 'Brogue'

Leather brogue is fast becoming number one in the men's shoe world. Their lightness, performance and general good looks are the reasons why.

Always in brogue are handsome smooth, grained and cordovan leathers, newly reduced in weight. Added to the line-up are deep scotch-grained leathers, and suede leather for a rustic kind of brogue.

Other shoes in the news are leather oxfords, boots, chukkas, moccasins and slip-ons. These styles run the gamut of leathers, including waxed, brushed and embossed textures.

The doughty leather brogue comes garnished with pinking and long wing-tip, studded with perforations and streaked with stitching.

Shifting into a second shoe, a leather oxford or slip-on is a smart choice for both business and casual wear. Here, too, detail is bulky and masculine in appearance, while the leathers themselves are lighter and softer. Many slipons have high-rising toplines for "boot-look" fanciers.

The boot barrels along the foot path of popularity. This season, handome leather boots in a hundred variations are found everywhere.

Dress boots in high-polished smooth leather have a leaner cut and sport goring, or possibly a zipper, to allow closer fit. Many casual boots have a Western flavor under the continued LBJ influence.

The easy life calls for the leather moccasin. The classic casual is the authentic hand-sewn glove leather moc, adapted from the deerskin slipper worn by the American Indian centuries ago.

However, there are many more variations in several leathers — smooth, grained, waxed, brushed, even suede. Heavy scotch grains are especially popular.

In new dress slip-ons, emphasis is on the elegance of leather and line. Raised tongue, contrasting binding or simple medalion tip furnish a touch of ornamentation.

Most important leather colors in the fall shoe scene are the brown family — especially the olive and yellowish tones, cordovan, camel, and, of course — black.

Colors Create Fall Interest

Fashion for fall revolves around color, with virtually every shade in the spectrum coming in for attention. Pale or bright, deep or bold hues are on view, plus new-looking neutrals such as the Oxfords and other charcoals.

Shades mix madly — pales with brights or muted tones with dashing, dramatic hues, in the same costume. Two-tone ideas appear — gray paired with taupe, white with coffee.

Greens, bright and sparkling, pale and delicate, or deep and rich forest tones, gain special interest. Blues range from light to dark, and merge into violet, grape, magenta. Heather hues are prominent.

Spice tones — gingers, cinnamons — add variety.

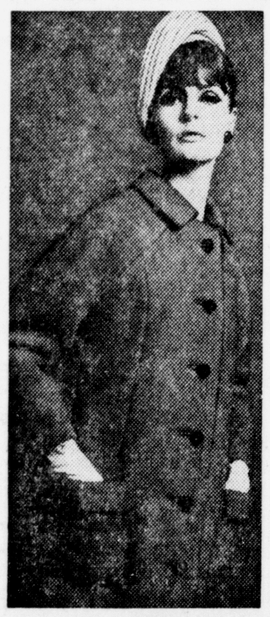
Reds from rosy to radiant color fall striking. Reds mix with reds, in shades tinged with pink or brown. True reds and oranges are part of a brilliant fashion season.

Vintage wines lend their colors to a bevy of bluish reds.

Golds, coppers take on polish.

To every fashion, fall colors add an extra dimension of interest and importance.

Color and pattern blends create special excitement for the array of new fall styles.



THAT PRECISELY- seamed, raglan-sleeved coat wings into fall. Here, tiny collar, large patch pockets are newsworthy. Selected by National Board, Coat and Suit Industry.

Soft or Strict Lines Sum Up Fall

Young, snappy and very contemporary, sportswear captures the fanciful heart for fall. New proportions extend the line of fashion from neck to toe, giving feminine creativity free rein to perfect a most complete sportswear look.

The predominating looks follow the strict shaping and welt seaming of Courreges, the softer but still young London look and the truly soft, feminine look. Really rocking the waves is the latest conception of a total look: matching stockings.

To show off all the patterned and textured legs, skirts are shorter still, some rising all the way to kilt level, usually bouncing out in pleats or softened with front panels, slim shirring, A-line shaping.

For a difference, hemlines are cuffed, waistbands are trimmed in leathers. There's a Western look to hipster skirts of leather with lace-tie backs, lots of welt seaming.

There's Art in Surface Interest Textures

Suspender skirts, topless jumpers help broadcast all the news in fall sweaters. Most especially, the sweater is skinny, less bulky, all female and closer to the body. Variations on this theme extend the sweater to tunic length and belt it.

Heather, cables, argyles are back; so are stripes. There's textured art in the surface interest of embroidery, fringe and crochet.

Knit tops and pullovers take the same direction as sweaters but have unusual turnoffs, such as doublets.

Blouses are softened with smock shapes, bows, ascots, in softest fabrics. Shirts take on new partners in cashmere cardigans, lined to match.

Liveliness counts in dresses for fall '65 and the casual litle knit dress has all of that: soft and swingy, strictly seamed, up and down waistline, the total look of matching stockings, scarf, hat.

Jeans Dress Up

Pants and pantsuits are for now, for everyone. Take them straight and narrow, tailored to the hipbone, with crisp little battle and pea jackets, prefer them wide with longer jackets, add a bibbed front or smock jacket, cut them off above the knee for the flared leg of a pantalone.

The rugged blue jean is dressed up in wool, leather and its look alikes. Really dressed, it becomes a jumpsuit with rhinestone buttons, dots and denim ruffles.

Fabrics Mix Fashionably

Jackets and little cuts are cutaway, tailored, semi-fitted and tied to integrate a chosen look. And vests are coming back as little coordinators in the fabric mix.

The fabric choices are the important details of sportswear for fall. There's the mixing of heather, plaid, herringbone, tweed, leather, paisley; the young liveliness of melton, tattersall, flannel, argyle, textured and lean knits; the white, the pale colors.

New furs such as zebra, giraffe, mock seal and gray rabbit are exotic worked into hip-riding skirts, jumpers, jeans and cardigan jackets.

More of the exotica is found in felt hats brimming with holes, fabric matching spats.

MATCHING A turtleneck pullover to stockings for the new Total Look brings on a bold burst of polka dots north and south of an above-the-knee skirt with four pleats. Knit pullover and stockings stretch up, down and across for maximum comfort. Thalknit stretch by Alamac.

ADDING A DASH of Italian flavoring to the season are these checkerboard fashions-to-knit created in Italy. Eased, narrowed in houndstooth check, the suit travels with its own kerchief. Simply silhouetted, the great coat is daring in a pattern-within-pattern design. In Bernat yarn.

Textures Tamed for Flattering Fabrics

COURREGES look leads in sportswear — for example, this three-piece suit of "thick and thin" wale corduory with paisley blouse, matching lining. In Cone Mills' corduroy. the light-hearted young feeling

Flat. At first glance it may not seem very appealing, but that's the trend for fall's fashion fabrics. And a second look reveals that a more apt term might be "flattery."

Textures have tamed down, as loopy, curly effects give way to boucle books — woven closer to the surface and, yes, flatter. Pebbly tweeds now take a restrained and refined view of surface interest.

Even bigger news is the fashion diversity of smooth and rich or crisp and lightly-textured fabrics.

Men's wear worsteds, twills, random ribs, diagonals, nappy shetlands, discreet fleeces, melons, coverts, ottomans, sharkskins present a texture so tasteful, it's almost an illusion — and therefore very appropriate to this fall when the Op art influence has brought on a deluge of fool-the-eye patterns of every sort.

In many fabrics, suppleness is the key to fall's soft look. Crepes and chiffons shape up in fashionably feminine style. "Naked" wools, light as a whisper, soft as a sigh, loom up as fabric favorites. Pliable jerseys and knits of all kinds sketch pretty silhouettes.

Open, airy textures express the light-hearted young feeling of the season — for instance, crochet-like weaves with the hand-knit look. Knits generally continue along the path to greater and greater fashion importance.

Stripes, plaids, checks often have a shadowy air. However bright the colors, textures are generally smoothed down in a smartly-classic way.

For evening, too, classicism prevails, in satins, brocades, floaty silks. Surface interest appears in cloque and other fabrics with light, puffy textures.

"Durable press" fabrics have impact, particularly in sportswear, men's wear, children's wear. These are the fabrics that, due to new processes. are said to retain pleats and creases after washing, with no ironing or touch-up required.

Performance, Style High In Dress Shirts

Shirts for fall '65 enter the fashion scene with both style and performance factors making news.

A new feature — permanent press — has been added to the other wash-wear finishes and blends. Permanent press is "baked in" and will keep that freshly laundered look for the life of the garment, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

From the fashion point of view, there are new collar styles, new colors, new stripes and patterns and a revival of some classics — all geared for wear with the new "shaped" suits as well as with the straight models.

Shirts keyed to Traditional natural shoulder suits (both shaped and standard) include the classic button-down collars, modified spread collars, rounded-pin-tabs, button - tabs, and modified spreads that can be worn either pinned or plain.

Styled to meet the tastes of the men who prefer Contemporary type suits are collars with higher bands.

Among the colors being worn are orange-tan, deep yellow and navy (deep) blue grounds, rich oxbloods, many strippings.

Starr's (size 10) coat is tailored by Gastwirth of wool and camel hair. It has a natural raccoon collar and is priced at 39.95. Color—camel.

Robes Take Soft Shapes

Softness is the mood for fall, and many and lovely are the ways to spell softness in robes for fall. Gone are the days of the big, fat dusters!

Now, displaying all the splendors of the Orient at-home, the robe becomes a long, slim column, high fitting and narrow, or a short Indian rajah coat.

Coat shapes, with a small-waisted look, are especially popular for at-home wear. These look great and feminine — in quilted gingham with lots and lots of ruffles.

As a matter of fashion fact, ruffles and cotton quilt form the winning combination for at-home ease, in styles either short and shifty—sometimes with matching booties—or long and flowing in the empire mood.

When meant as a cover-up for fall's sleepwear, the robe can be a peignoir with a cape effect over a soft, shifty gown. A classic robe covers the strict shape of the jumpsuit nicely.

Many new fabrics and textures appear in the robes for fall: crepes, filmy chiffons, satins, bonded jersey, polyester-filled cotton quilt, and also those favorites, warm brushed flannel and fleece.

New and offbeat color tones are another surprise this season: camel and white combinations, gray, beige, prints, plaids, and the pastels.

ACCENTING NEW DRESSES

In fashion jewelry, arm bands that spiral up the upper arm add a new look.

Knits Coordinated

Fall's sweater collection has versatility of style and variety of textures. Two and three different types of knits are coordinated to make one sweater.

Skiwear Goes Slim

Skiwear, on or off the slopes, looks trim and slender.

Sleeves Are Keynote Of Bridal Fashions

The smaller, slimmer look is the big news in fall bridal fashions. The entire silhouette indicates the return to the simple line with an accent on the sleeves.

The Goya sleeve, reminiscent of costumes in paintings by Francisco Goya, is still a favorite among fall brides. The length of the sleeve continues to vary between just above the elbow or to the wrist, depending upon the personal taste of the bride.

A marked preference is being shown for lace sleeves. The lace contrasts with and enhances the straight cut of the gown, giving an overall picture of "elegance.'

Extremely popular this season is the detachable train, which the bride can remove at the wedding reception for ease in dancing and going from table to table to greet guests.

Accenting Simplicity

The train is snapped on the gown in the back at the waistline; a longer version is hooked in the back at the top of the gown.

Simplicity of shape may be complemented by fabrics with a "tailored" feeling—silk ottoman or silk and worsted, for example — or enhanced by touches of softness. A bridal gown in a coatdress shape might take a sheer cage in the form of a floor-length veil, or a slim shaft of a gown may be softened by a "headdress" that becomes a cascading cape of lace. Back fullness and pretty bows add other soft notes.

The simplicity of the gown offers an excellent background for the bride's jewelry. A diamond pin or a pair of diamond clips set high on the neckline or at the the waistband complement the straight silhouette of the gown.

It's Traditional

Diamond earrings are an excellent choice if the bride's hair is worn away from the face.

The traditional diamond engagement ring is the only other jewelry worn by the bride on her wedding day. The engagement ring will be switched from the bride's left hand to her right hand before the ceremony, leaving the left hand free to receive the wedding band.

After the ceremony, the diamond engagement ring is placed back on the left hand in front of the wedding band. This is a custom handed down from Colonial days when the engagement ring was called the "keeper ring" — guardian of marriage.

Slips Take On Bold New Ideas

The slip is now a fashionable in its own right. Keyed to the outer shape of fashion, slips are softer, barer, lighter and much more feminine.

Fleshtones are vying with the traditional white and black for color supremacy. Unusual prints, like the "French ribbon" florals, skintone and Op prints, and the female detailing of ribbon, bow, lace and embroidery make for some of the prettiest slips seen for fall.

Keeping slips functional as well as lovely are the bra slips with their long line or natural bra tops and skirts of nylon or crepe tricot.

Strictly for the modern woman is the chemise — a mere sliver of a slip, thigh-high, feminine and flowery for fall — and the new, lacy thigh-high half-slip with attached panties.

Up-to-this-minute fashionwise is the one shoulder slip that bares the other shoulder simply by turning it inside out, of transparent tricot.

For Old World enthusiasts, the camisole is back, in nude tones with matching above-the-knee pettipants or slightly flared skirt and trimmed in ribbons and beading.

Jackets Come Back

Single jackets are staging a comeback this season with the now-classic pea jacket, the London hip belted jacket and the "baby coat," a self belted three-quarter jacket.

Pillows Plentiful

The tendency youthful Americans have for floor lounging has resulted in an abundance of throw pillows.

POPLIN all-weather coat with convertible hood is snugly lined in deep pile. Pile kerchief, textured stockings add warmth. It's Borg pile.

Hats, Accessories Bring Total Beauty to 2 Views

Whether the look is soft or strict, fall hats and accessories are prepared to make it complete.

Fall fashion does move in two ways — toward the softer, curvier silhouette and toward the "strict" architectural shaping that stems from the Courreges influence. But the unifying theme for both silhouettes is the total look, and that's where hats and accessories come in.

NEW IDEA in fashion jewelry is the three-strand cultured pearl necklace edged with pendant of beryls, each tipped with a cultured pearl. Earrings are designed to match. From Imperial Pearl Syndicate.

For the costume complete, new millinery, handbags, shoes, stockings, gloves, scarves and fashion jewelry are at hand to carry out the soft or strict look.

Hats Are Soft, Strict

Hats take the soft way in draped turbans and bloused berets. Brims, wide or narrow, cast a pretty, soft shadow. The scarf hat—in the form of a scarf that can be tied any way the wearer prefers, or as a hat that gives the soft effect of a casually-tied scarf—continues strongly into fall.

For the strict silhouette, hats are tailored — jaunty fedoras, for instance. Hats that perch on the back of the head, with squared-off brims to frame the face, are another way to complete this look. Or, the strict silhouette might be softened a bit by a beret shape with a little cap brim.

Taking the total look down to the toes, shoes move softly toward fall with rounded toes, supple leathers, texture interest and feminine adornments such as buckles and bows. The open and airy effect appears in slingbacks and, for evening, sandals of all sorts, including the elegantly bared stripping style.

Boots Set Off Fashion

Boots, very much a part of the strict look, set off everything from short skirts to long pants. Polished smooth leather, dressy suede, nappy brushed leather, rugged grained, patent and glove leathers are some of the textures seen.

The below-calf boot is a basic, and the complete range of boot heights extends from ankle to knee.

Handbags play it soft in draped, pleated, gathered and shirred pouches, envelopes and satchels. The tailored bag is natural for the strict look, and may take shape as a tote, envelope, box or shoulder-strapper. Luggage-like detailing is a factor here.

Size for either look in handbags may be small and neat or extra-large, but even the smallest styles are engineered for increased capacity.

Contrast piping, printed linings, beading and embroidery strike the pretty note in gloves. Longer styles are appropriate for feminine-mood fashions; the shortie comes into its own as a complement for tailored clothes. Texture interest — pigskin, ostrich, lizard, crocodile, either the real thing or fabulous fakes — helps to total up a strict look.

Texture Trend Grows

Hosiery, in all sorts of patterns and textures for all sorts of fashions and occasions, moves into fall as big news getting bigger. It's a "total look" in itself, as patterned stockings or tights matched to tops are spotlighted in fashion.

"Real looking" jewelry, often with a heirloom effect, adds glowing color to the soft look. Chains and collars bring necklines into strict fashion focus, this season.

Courreges Effect in Rainwear

The welt seaming, saddle shoulders and double-breasted closings of the Courreges influence mark many of the slimly shaped raincoats for fall.

Coats, however, are not the only way to keep dry this season. The man-tailored, longish norfolk or pea jacket and other stormy-weather jacket styles stand ready to provide fashionable weather protection. Poncho toppings enjoy favor, too.

Jacket, coat or poncho may often be part of a rain suit, companioned by weather-proofed pants or skirt.

Shiny vinyls, quilted poplins and nylons, corduroys, blanket plaids, tailored wools compose rainwear news.

Color range extends from neutral basics to lively colors, patterns of all sorts.

How Sweaters Look

Added to the classic range of knit patterns are the crocheted look, the fringed look, the silken look in sweaters.

Fashioned for Waiting

For the lady-in-waiting, this fall is exciting and fashionable. All the season's favorite silhouettes adapt easily to maternity wear. The high-up fit, soft draping, the shift, and the new smock shape help to make waiting a pleasure.

New Shades Add Zing to Sportswear

Some call it "Whiskey" and others call it "wheat" or gold but, regardless of its name, that tawny tone is one of the hit colors in men's sportswear.

Other hot shades for the cold season are rich burgundies, deep warm greens, medium to dark blues and both clear and mixey grays. Bright yellows are often used as accents to those colors, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear.

Outerwear Varied

An unusually big assortment of leisure time outerwear includes hooded "benchwarmer" coats, 28-to-34-inches long, ski parkas in authentic "pro" models in the new flat quilts, "Western" coats and jackets in both snap-front and button-front styles, corduroy wool, shearling and leather-like stadium coats and coats that incorporate the military dash of trench models.

The double-breasted look is strong in outerwear this fall. It appears in dressy suburban models, in shearling and shearling-type cold weather coats, in stylized "reefers" adapted from the familiar Navy peacoats, and in car coats that borrow some of the look of the British short warms.

Corduroy on Rise

Corduroy is on the increase in outerwear as well as in slacks. It now comes in a generous assortment of widths and some of the slacks are cut from "wales" running diagonally as well as straight.

Shaped sport coats with deep side vents bid for favor with men seeking the newest this fall. These come in smart plaids as well as in subdued patterns and plain subtle mixtures. Shape in sport coats is not extreme. varying from just a trace of waist definition to moderately suppressed lines.

Blazers in Demand

Blazers continue to be the casual coats of the times. Running the color gamut from navy blue and black to medium tones and fairly light camel shades, the metal-buttoned blazers are basics for most sports wardrobes.

Also coming strong in sport coats are the updated Contemporary models. These use the same tailored shoulder construction of the suits of the same style and also adapt the L-shape, cloverleaf and triple-stitched lapels.

Most of the Contemporaries are in two-and-one-button models. The fabrics range from rugged to slick.

News in slacks centers around "permanent press," hopsacks, corduroys and twisty whipcords, twills and worsted flannels, Bedford cords, iridescents, herringbones.

JEWELRY collars make neckline new for fall. This black and white oval design comes in double and triple lengths, too. By Richelieu.

Stripes Spark Suit Scene

Stripes and richly colored medium-to-deep tones add further sophistication to the increasingly popular "shaped" look in suits. Stripes of all types and all sizes from modest pin stripes to bold chalk stripes have moved into the fashion picture fast and strong.

The new colors include many blues. These range from deep black-blues through navy blues to medium mixtures of gray-blues and green-blues. Warm golden autumn browns are on the upswing, too. Many of the new browns derive their novelty from multi-color mixes that give them depth of tone.

The natural shoulder Traditional suits make the most of colorful sharkskins as well as the new stripes. They offer an updated town and country look when tailored of hopsacks, cheviots, whipcords and tweeds. The latter cloths appear in classic herringbones, crowfoot and barleycorn weaves.

Some of the Traditional suits show matching vests, others are vestless; it is a matter of personal choice. However, one of the interesting aspects of natural shoulder suits for fall 1965 is that some of the shaped versions are made in two-button as well as three-button models.

The "tailored shoulder" Contemporary models have made great and rapid strides. Iridescent fabrics including worsteds, blends of silk and worsted and blends of worsted, silk and mohair as well as predominantly mohair cloths are favored in the Contemporaries.

Here, many of the stripes are tone-on-tone, such as burgundy-on-black or blue-on-navy. The silk look is carried over into fall, too. There is also a decided trend toward the showing of more linen in the Contemporaries.

A final development on the color scene highlights the new burgundy blacks and deep greens that have, in many instances, succeeded the olives and olive blends of past years.

Leather In Favor

This fall, more and more men are wearing jackets and outerwear of leather.

Part of this appeal is due to the fact that today's leathers boast lighter weights, truer colors, softer suedes, handsomer grains and tougher finishes.

Full-length coats, pull-over vests, cardigan and pullover sweaters are all popular. There's even a new suede shirt, styled along the lines of a sport shirt.

Leather with a frontier flavor is seen in split steer and rawhide jackets with cowboy yokes and front leather buttons.

Belted in Fashion

Small or large, buckled or tie, belts are everywhere for fall. Large belts accent hip line skirts on long-waisted dresses. Small tie belts help give the new London look to high-bosomed dresses, suits, coats and many separates.

Ranging in Fashion

The American cowboy, in true hero fashion, gives his shirt to the ladies! It becomes a sleek shirtdress in silk or lace. For evening, the cowboy shirt is transformed into a gold brocade jacket, or a theatre suit with a slip dress.

THE ELEGANCE OF AUTUMN is reflected in the fashion picture at the House of Jarvis, 524 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. Rich tones of fall leaves and bittersweet harmonize with the handsome new leather handbags in lovely shades and textures. Mrs. Dorothy Jarvis emphasizes the varied choice of sizes and shapes of bags from the most diminutive to the large stunning creations for either dress or casual wear. Gold jewelry displays its rivalry in beauty and importance in many interesting new versions, plain or combined with pearls, crystals or colored stones.

Leather Is Here For Every Occasion

Whatever the fashion — coat, dress, jacket, suit or type of separate — it's in leather for fall. Supple and lightweight, leather fashions range in texture from smooth and grained to suede, lustre and embossed.

Colors cover many moods, in pretty winter pastels, clear dramatic tones, no-color neutrals and deep, bold shades.

For the suede or smooth leather coat, silhouettes offer variety. They are full for free-wheeling fluidity. Or they are slim but cut with striding room, as in fitted double-breasted models and coats with gently A-lined skirts.

Back again for coats are quilted suede leathers.

Leather suits in formal, informal and just-fun styles can see action around the autumnal clock. Theatre suits are softly touched with fur, jeweling or passementerie.

For casual occasions, leather pullover or blouson suits take matching skirts or pants. Smartly tailored suits mate jackets of waist, hip or tunic length with slim or gored leather skirts.

Leather textures used in this group of suits include smooth, suede, imprinted and pigskin.

Lean or loose, new knee-clearing leather dresses show such fashion touches as seam welting, novel neckline treatments and fresh color combinations—gray with brown' green with pink. Many are two-piece, either dress with jacket or top with skirt.

The multi-purpose leather jacket, classically tailored or showing softly feminine detailing, may be paired with skirts, dresses, pants. Lined in shearling or fur, coats and jackets of leather provide warmth when temperatures tumble.

Leather separates offer variety and excitement. There's a wide assortment of leather pants, blouses, stoles, jumpers, tunics and skirts, both long and short.

Pleated, paneled or wrapped, the leather skirt is well-paired with heavy sweaters, tailored shirts and lively blouses. Leather pants, meticulously tailored, team with tops.

Fashion Abloom For Fall

Fashion wears a feminine freshness this fall, as many styles take shape in an all girl mood. Appropriately, femininity also blossoms with fresh, fragrant flowers for day and evening fashions.

The new season's corsages are simple, to complement rich colors and fabrics, and to blend effectively with the merry new mixtures of color and pattern.

Flowers can enhance fashions, any time.

For daytime suits and dresses, FTD floral experts suggest a bold puff of petals — a single, large chrysanthemum centered in a ring of autumn leaves, or a round bubble of carnations.

For evening, the florist might fashion a delicate necklace of miniature roses for a jewel neckline, or a garland of blossoms to frame an off-the-face hairdo.

Suitings Appear with Eye Appeal

Restrained, refined fall fabrics make some of their most interesting appearances in suits. Novelty yarns and weave-on-weave provide eye appeal for the flatter-surfaced suitings.

Double-faced fabrics give texture and body without weight.

Suits appear in tattersall, houndstooth or diamond checks, often broken by weave or color, often misted. Foulards, paisleys and calico types are done in soft light wools or other "suitable" fabrics.

Contemporary art fabrics — influenced by Op and Pop art — appear in suits, too.

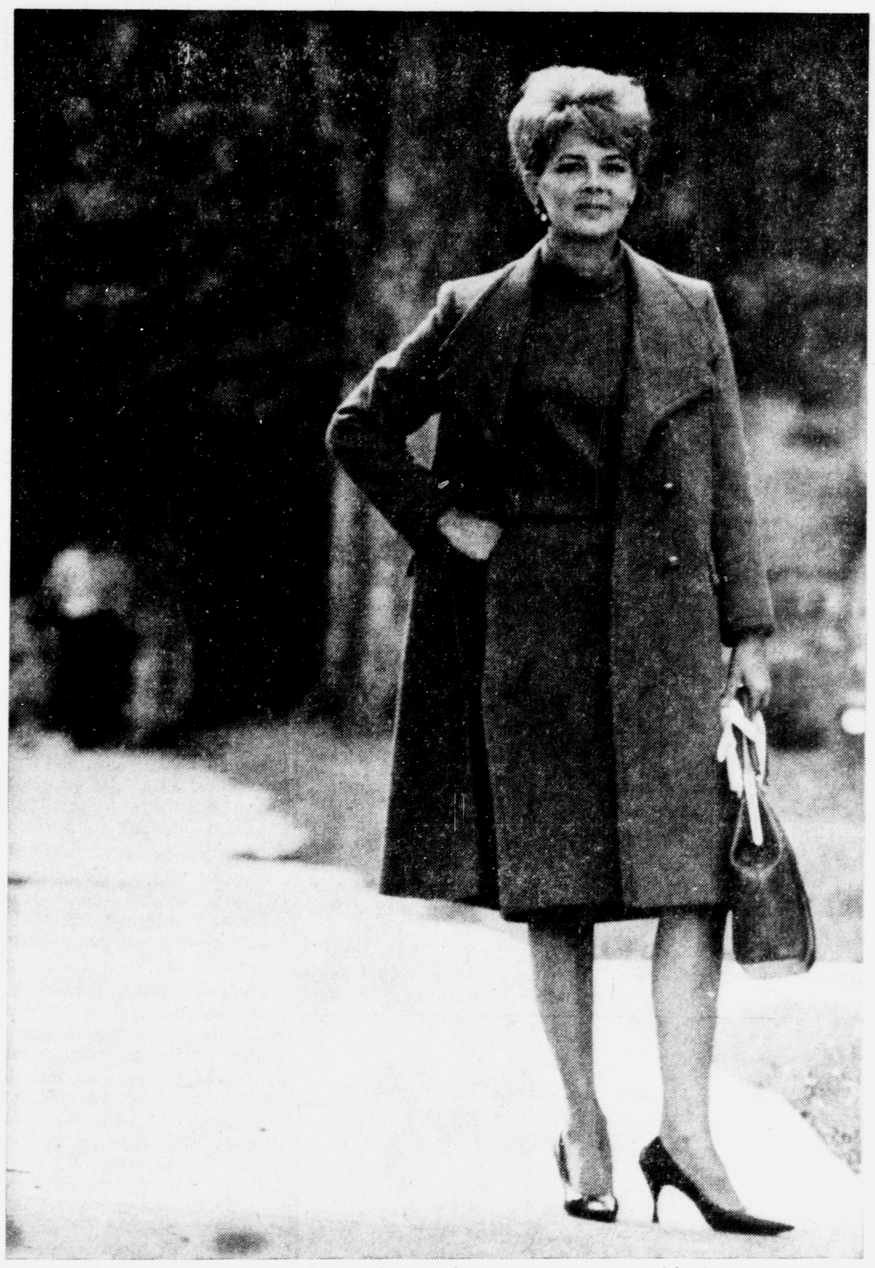
Plants Give Garden Look

With fall comes the transition to indoor living — but summer's "garden look" can linger on in the home, all through the autumn and winter months. One way to accomplish this is with container plants.

One of the newest pot plant treatments is achieved with hanging planters and curtain rods. These ready-made hanging baskets consist of brass chains, clay pots and their matching saucers, treated to keep water from seeping through.

Holes have been drilled in the saucers to insert chains, caught at the top by a hook attached to the curtain rod. The clay pots fit neatly into their saucers and, when filled with fresh foliage or year-round flowering plants, create a "living curtain" effect.

The hanging planters may also be suspended from brackets fastened to the wall.



FOR CASUAL, sport and travel occasions, Mrs. Arnold Murken chooses this three-piece double knit costume by Junior Accent. The major blue skirt is topped with a red turtle neck blouson shell. The fully lined coat in major blue is piped in red and its double breasted cut is accented by brass buttons, giving this ensemble the classic straight line which is always fashionable. An outfit that will go many places during three seasons of the year, it is from The Hope Chest, 113 South State Road, Arlington Heights.

Men's Fall Hats Accent Casual Styles

Men's hats for fall include both dressy and casual styles with an increasing emphasis on the sportsters. Among the smart felts keyed to business and dress-up wear are simple center creases, pinch-front centerdents, and some with built-in semi-telescope crowns.

Natural shoulder fans go for the English type "delta brim" felts that have a pre-blocked narrow snap with the brim curling away at the side and back.

Dress hats for fall range from medium to dark in color with added interest in browns to complement the new brown suits and topcoats as well as the increasing camel color coats.

Casual headwear for the cold months really outdoes itself this year. Starting with the classic Tyroleans in rich velours, colorful mixtures and rough pebbly felts, the wide assortment of shapes, colors, patterns, fabrics, furs and leathers is the greatest ever seen.

Leather and leather combined with fabric are news.

Tweeds, both plain and fancy, are here in the familiar "Rex" model as well as the telescope crowns and — with corduroy — in a brand new soft round crown that is a tweedy expression of the smart summer "Campobello" hats worn for boating, tennis, etc.

Fur hats make the scene as soon as winter moves in. These come in pre-shaped and shape-it-yourself styles, too, and include every type of skin from fabulously expensive sables and minks to popular-priced shearlings.

Coats Share Fall Fashion Distinction

This fall, fashion begins with the coat, and a stimulating selection is ready to make it a great beginning.

Colors appear in tone combinations or monotones. Fabrics are subtle but exciting. Shapes go from narrow to full, and lengths range from the "little overcoat" to the evening-elegant floor lengths, reports the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry.

Skirts Are Sweeping Into Motion

Big news in coats is skirt motion. The fitted coat makes a comeback in a new guise — the dirndl. The coat skirt is gently gathered, or really full. Princess silhouettes are reigning favorites, and as in suit skirts, clusters of side pleats provide motion.

The narrow coat gets a great fashion vote, too. In fact, the narrow trench coat, once entirely in the domain of sports coat fanciers, now blossoms forth in pretty tones of elegant wools.

For the complete look, coats are married to sheaths, shirtdresses, or skirt and weskit combinations. Generally coats for these costumes are skinny, or the new shorter-than-long length.

Coat closings are varied. The side closing is fastened with buttons and, sometimes, fur-edged. Fly fronts with concealed closings are on the fashion front, as are wrap coats.

Tunnel belts, back belts or no belts are "in," as coats proclaim that it's the season for individuality.

Reversibles in Fashion

Two-tone coats are a new triumph. A gray coat may be banded with taupe, a white coat in coffee. Often, a pastel combines with a bright tone, a neutral with another hue of the same colors.

Reversibles ride into fashion on the two-tone wave.

Fabrics have flattened surfaces with new dimensions, through the use of novelty yarns or weave-on-weave.

Tattersall, houndstooth and harlequin checks are broken up by the use of color or weave. Broadcloths, fleeces, meltons are smooth, luxurious and fresh. Heather tweeds take the look of shetland, Harris, argyle.

Twills look fresh in gabardines, tricotines, serges, stretch fabrics. Crepes in many weights and textures are opulent.

After-dark occasions call for silver blends with pastels, satins, cloques and brocades.

Colors for coats go wild or neutral — and they are unrestrained when they combine in one coat for drama.

MADRAS IS THE big news in sport shirts. Here, more crisp and colorful than ever in traditional button-down University model. By Arrow.

Juniors Take Over Big Sister Fashions

Looking fresh, feminine and very young, junior debs are very much "with it" this fall—with their big sisters' junior fashion wave length, that is.

Mixing and matching for fall's "Total Look," young juniors make separates the mainstay of their wardrobe. Short, swingy skirts, jumpers are seen in new heather-tone plaids, lively madras, textured knits, newest corduroys and topped by coordinating sweaters, blouses, shirts or jerkins.

Patterned and textured stockings or socks continue the two, three and more-part costume look younger sisters have so fashionably adapted to their busy lives.

The Mod look from London is still a favorite among junior debs. Its boy influence can be seen in the leather edged suit with cutaway jacket, shirt and tie.

But short skirts, the slim, high-up fitting dress, ruffles and fluting telegraph the girl message in young fabrics.

Back in Op Art, U.S.A., young juniors are seasoned collectors this fall of those little skimmers with illusion collars, hip belts and beading on dizzying dots, plaids, prints or striking combinations of these.

Keeping up with the fall fashion mix, young juniors can pick their coats from a diversified grouping of classic tweeds, boy coats and fun and furry piles.

Stadium coats take to new lengths with warm, striking linings and those big-ring industrial zippers.

Leather Turns Up Exciting New Ideas

From replacing dad's favorite chair to re-doing the living room from wall to wall, there are decorating ideas galore in the world of leather furniture and furnishings.

Whatever the color scheme, leather comes in shades to suit—more than 500 hues, advises Leather Inudstries of America.

To grace a living room or study, leather sofas come in strictly - for - two to 10 - foot lengths, in comfortably contemporary, formal but not fussy, or elegantly "old world" styles.

For the males in the family are classic leather-upholstered armchairs for study or reading in corners.

Up-to-the-minute dining chairs are covered in an elegant tortoise shell patent leather.

Rich leather paneling in a deep color makes a conversation piece for the foyer. If the front door opens directly into the living room, a screen of pierced leather creates the illusion of a foyer. It does equally well as a room divider between living and dining space.

Other uses are leather covered headboards and cabinet fronts, throw pillows (try suede for a different effect), tooled leather desk accessories, cocktail and end tables with inlaid leather tops and leather-covered lamps of all shapes and sizes.

Costume Look Spells Fall Fashion News

SLIM, TAILORED lines shape a classic coat that's one part of a three-part costume in burnt orange plaid tweed. Skirt in the same brilliant tweed, sheer wool overblouse are the other components. By Abe Schrader.

"BUS BOY" jacket, swingy skirt characterize a costume of British tweed. Crochet-like pattern of the flecked tweed enriches the styling. Silk blouse matches lining. Designed by Geoffrey Beene.

Shapely and Swinging, Sculptured And Seamed Styles Take The Lead

Soft. Strict. Shapely. Seamed. Swinging. Slim. Smocked. Sculptured. Subtle. Structural. For autumn, words like these sum up fashion significance — and "summed up" is the key to it all. In every look, whether soft, strict or a subtle blending of both, totality spells fashion this fall.

A great deal of the wardrobe planning for the all-important total look has been done in advance, with designers offering an ever-greater variety of coordinated costumes — dresses with coats or jackets; suits with, at the very least, an accompanying blouse and, often, coat, too; separates in a seemingly endless array of ready-mix parts.

Complete Look Has Air of Individuality

Hats and accessories, in the soft or strict moods of fashion, provide both the correct accents to complete any costume and an air of individuality, too.

Fashion's two directions, soft and strict, are the result of several seasons during which styles have trended, on the one hand, to a shapely, more feminine look and, on the other hand, to a smart, tailored, refined-classic look.

The soft silhouettes, with their smock-like looks, swinging fit and flare and dirndl-smock gathered skirts, owe some of their inspiration to Paris and London. In Paris, St. Laurent and, in London, the Chelsea and Mod designers have given recent impetus to smock lines, high-waisted soft detailing and the in-motion skirt.

The strict silhouettes, with their emphasis on seaming, structural shaping, set-in sleeves, slotted belts, away-from-the-neck collars and double-breasted closings, stem from the "Courreges look" now influencing designers everywhere.

NARROWED, WITH THE low, looped belt interest of the season is a coat of ropey space-dye tweed. Set-in sleeves, flap patch pockets add more fashion flavor. By Country Tweeds.

Two Looks Combine

American designers, however, have put their own stamp on both looks. Softness, seen most often in suits, coats and dressier dresses, blends frequently with a bit of the strict — smartly-seamed yokes, for example, high-placed on coats or suits that then take to gently swinging lines.

The strict look comes on strong in sportswear and casual dresses and coats, but even the straightest, slimmest lines show some soft-look effects.

For the total look in either mood, costume coordination most often means mixing, not matching. Fabrics, colors, patterns blend and contrast merrily, producing a new and refreshing fashion personality.

Soft or strict, the totality of the effect is youthful; pointing up what is really the greatest of all influences on fall styles.

The growing numbers of the "under 25" age group have designers thinking young. Many of the strict fashions, for example, are strictly for this group.

And throughout fashion, everything from ruffles and bows to shorter skirts emphasizes an era of style intended "for the young from 18 to 80."

PALE CREPE for after-dark appears in this slim dress with high-up shaping, belled cuffs and skimmy skirt. In Avisco rayon and acetate.

Foundations Echo Free 'n' Easy Look

The influence of ready-to-wear on the styling of foundation garments has seldom been more obvious than it is for the fall.

The free-and-easy look of so many of the new outer fashions is echoed in sheer, next-to-nothing foundations — transparent brassieres, mesh-paneled girdles, one-piece "briefers" that are a mere stretch of elasticized tricot or powernet shaped to the body by seaming and darting.

Shorter skirts have their counterparts in shorter girdles, from sports briefs to what used to be considered "regular" length. The "regulars" now appear short in contrast to the really long-legged pantie styles first popularized by stretch pants but today universal in their appeal.

The bias shaping of outer apparel has prompted bias-shaped brassieres and girdles, plus such specifics of smoother fit as hemless hemlines: rather than having a separate underbinding, very often a girdle's waistline, a brassiere's midriff band or a pantie girdle's legline will simply be turned back on itself.

BASIC KNITTED costumes take on exciting new textures for fall. This silky knit two-piece emphasizes the point with check-like surface interest. Of Creslan acrylic.

Reflecting Courreges

Still another aspect of inner-outer coordination for fall is the Courreges influence upon foundation styling. There are a number of "fun things" for youthful figures that reflect the Courreges approach to design. And even Op art appears in underfashions!

Mostly, however, the fall look is feminine. Along with seductive animal and reptile patterns, there are delicately printed laces and fresh florals. And the newest "basic color" is the whole skintone range from cream to coppery tones.

Fit Is Personalized

As important as the look of the new foundations, of course, is their fit — which a number of features are tending to personalize.

Stretch straps not only stretch but also have buckles to permit their adjustment.

Pantie girdles frequently are proportioned according to stride. A brassiere's fiberfill padding is sometimes both movable and removable. A bra's contours and cut are often identical to those of a slip.

The coordination of under apparel continues to be a growing trend. Besides matching brassieres and girdles that are matched in turn to slips and petticoats, there now are pantie girdles and stockings in the same textured patterns.

Patterns, Colors Make Carpet News

Fall carpet fashions offer many improvements recently developed through research.

There are more synthetic fibers used in carpets this year, as acrylic fibers gain in popularity and as new fibers enter the field. In addition, improved varieties of older fibers such as nylon and rayon continue to appear.

Another improvement is increased soil resistance, achieved partly through use of synthetic fibers, and partly by use of various dirt resistant finishes.

Pattern Is Important

In colors, decorator tones are gaining on the popular neutral tints such as gold, avocado, and beige. This means that colors such as burnt orange, bright red and royal blue will be seen more often.

Pattern is extremely important. Manufacturers can now work even floral designs into tufted carpets. Formerly patterns were available only in more expensive woven carpets.

While patterned wall-to-wall is still new, it is definitely becoming more and more a part of the home decorating picture.

Patterns are actually only one of the latest technological improvements in rug making that manufacturers have developed.

Textures Show Know-How

Surface textures also reflect increased know-how, and rug companies now routinely employ such devices as shearing, carving, varied pile heights, and swirly extra-shaggy piles to create exciting effects.

Fringes, trims, and other decorative embellishments are popular this fall, too, especially in accent rugs.

These accent rugs are often quite expensive in terms of the area they cover, and retailers now suggest that a carpet pad be used as a protection from undue wear on the rug. An underlay of latex foam rubber grips the floor, reducing the danger of skids.

The rise in the use of synthetics has greatly increased the importance of carpet-padding, because the synthetic fibers as a group are not as resilient as wool, and latex foam rubber carpet pads can help them feel soft and luxurious underfoot.

New Sofas Now Double as Seats

New sofas for fall lead the casual life in an elegant way. Arms and backs are padded plumply with latex foam rubber, and designed to provide "seating space" on the arms and back as well as the cushions of the sofa!

These sofas are completely finished all around, so they can stand away from a wall to provide easy access to the back, for those who would like a "back seat."

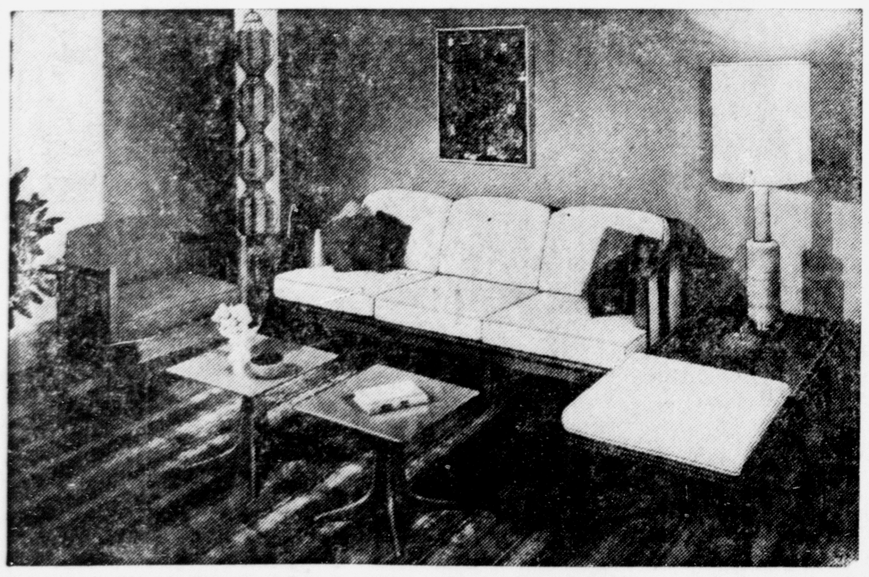
Knickers on Upbeat

The corduroy knicker is coming back strongly this year, especially on the golf course.

Rainbow of Wood

Color is often seen in wood finishes for fall furniture — earthy red tones, rich olive and bronzy greens, sable and antique blues.

Heavily grained wood, varying in tone from very dark to almost white, appears often.



STREAMLINED UNDERSTATEMENT of design distinguishes contemporary American furniture of solid cherry with light honey tones of Doeskin finish. Softly angled lines show off to best advantage the durable latex foam rubber cushions, plump yet trim and comfortable. The lamp-bench table with its own latex cushion is a welcome innovation for providing that extra seat. From Heywood - Wakefield's "Cliff House" collection

Teens Want Shoes With Originality

Teen-age tastemakers are keeping an eye out for bright, fresh footwear this fall.

The fashion-minded teenager likes discovering her own shoe loves, not slavishly imitating her elders, comments Leather Industries of America.

The "leggy look" was quickly picked up by the teen miss and adopted as her particular pet. A creature of comfort, she has now latched onto the incoming rounded toe.

The informal look afoot is either a low-cut, low-heeled sling or pump, or the boot. For bared beauty in young footwear, pumps are shelled out, cut away, foreshortened at the vamp. The open-backed sling is bigger than ever for campus and casual wear.

TEENS TAKE to the ghillie this fall, in styles like this mid-heeled tassel-tie version with the new, rounded look, in reverse calf. By I. Miller.

Boots Abound

Leathers lighting up these shoes include high voltage smooth leathers, nappy suedes, brushed leathers, and grains.

Teen gadabouts embrace the boot — perfect footwear to balance rising hemlines. At heights from mid-calf to ankle, boots and bootees have such styling details as side goring, fringe, ghillie ties and tassel trim.

Also abundant in the fall boot crop is the long, lean variety. To spotlight the leathers — smooth, grained, brushed, waxy, embossed — styling is kept simple. Both boots and bootees are lined in lightweight porous leather, or in snug shearling.

Moccasins in the News

In class and out, colorful tie-shoes are a quick click in brushed, smooth, grained and embossed leathers. These trim teen ties may be one or two eyelet, ghillie or kiltie type.

Shanks are sometimes opened for an airier effect. The strap-flatties come with a tie atop a T, or collared with pinking or scallops.

The moccasin hits fashion headlines with a dozen delightful variations this fall. Purists will still find the classic hand-sewn moc in glove or waxy leathers.

Date Shoes Go Feminine

However, teens looking fnr the news in shoes may choose a rust buckle-strap moc in polished leather with antiqued finish, a brushed leather moccasin, instep-strapped and square-toed; or a moc in scotch grained (a heavily pebbled texture) leather. Most moccasins generally present a broader, rounder view.

When dressing up teen feet, new ultra-feminine shoes make dating a double delight. Slingbacks and low-cut pumps in smooth, lustre, suede and patent leathers are set on slim low and mid-heels.

Pumps are cut down or away, many showing off rhinestone or cut-steel buckles. Stripping sandals are an airy network of lacing.

Teen shoe hues cover a wide palette this fall. Color combinations include green and pink, red and beige, blue and brown. Continuing in popularity are the browns and greens. Winter pastels and neutrals also are available.

New Handbags Have Delicacy of Design

There's a new delicacy of line and styling in fall handbags. A comprehensive color span and striking lightweight leathers result in a softly feminine feeling for the new purses, notes Leather Industries of America.

The all-important daytime bag for everyday use comes in a variety of shapes. Available in many leathers are the pouch, satchel, tote, envelope and shoulder-strapper.

Bag proportions are trim but sizeable, with wide bottoms and expandable sides. Used as fashion detailing are novel handle treatment, color and leather combinations and gold hardware.

In a more formal mood are daytime bags in a range of leathers, from highly polished smooth leather and fine-napped suede to unusual embossed leather textures.

Unique unto themselves are two special favorites, the "Chanel" handbag and the shoulder strap bag. The Chanel look bag is a quilted leather pouchy envelope with outside pocket and chain handle. The handy shoulder-strapper swings jauntily from the shoulder or converts to hand-carrying style, quickly.

BEAVER LINING SPILLS over the seamed, shaped jacket of this diagonal wool three-part costume, with newly-gathered skirt, asymmetric top. By Harry Frechtel in Anglo fabric.

Lined in Op Art

Op art prints on lavish silk are being used to line the newest furs, in the newest way. Colors spark, fade, undulate, vibrate in a geometric game to trick the eye with interesting visual compositions.

Hidden Beauty

Hiding behind a collar or stole is quite the thing to do. Necklines of coats, suits move up for a muffled look.

BRIDES SEE THE return of the smaller, slimmer look for fall. The easy bell silhouette on this bisque crepe gown takes a simple white rose centered on a wide sash. Brilliant-cut diamond engagement ring is set with tapered baguette diamonds at the sides, worn with diamond clips. Gown designed by "Annie Rose of Paris" for Murray Hamburger, New York.

Comfort Is Keynote In Furniture Styling

The fall fashion forecast for furniture calls for warm colors, varying styles, and cloud-like seat cushions.

Upholstered sofas and chairs, opulently cushioned in a soft and "pouffy" way, offer a look of plumpness that contributes to a generally more romantic feeling for furniture design. Along with this goes comfort, emphasized in all styles. This means that seat cushions are bigger, softer and plumper, like the down cushions of yesteryear.

Often, this is achieved by wrapping a layer of synthetic fibers around a core of latex foam rubber.

DESIGNED IN THE Spanish mood, this white and gold dining room furniture offers practicality along with Mediterranean charm. The oval table top is plastic laminated; the brocade upholstery has been treated with stain repeller. It's "Scotchgard" stain repeller.

Among the variety of styles available, the Mediterranean look, once a trend, stands as an established leader, with its Spanish and Moorish influences, its mood of elegance.

Geography Makes A Difference

Modern and contemporary designs take to softer ways, are enhanced by carving and shadow-box effects. Early American and Colonial furniture, touched by Continental influences, looks more sophisticated. On the other hand, elegant 18th and 19th century European furniture designs now are accompanied by a family of country cousins—for the "English Manor" and "French Country House" looks. Rustic in character, this furniture is large in scale, and features dark, grainy surfaces.

The Oriental mood in furniture continues strong, with emphasis on simple designs enriched by accents of bamboo, teak and shoji panel effects.

Different styles dominate in different geographic areas. On the West Coast, the fashion is large, overstuffed sofas and chairs. Generally, people on the West Coast are furnishing their homes with fewer pieces of furniture, but the individual pieces are larger, and often serve more than one function. For instance, half of a coffee table might have a foam rubber cushion on it, so the table doubles as a seat.

In the South and Southwest, Italian Provincial and French Provincial furniture styles are most popular, while in the Midwest and East, Colonial and Early American are the dominant fashions.

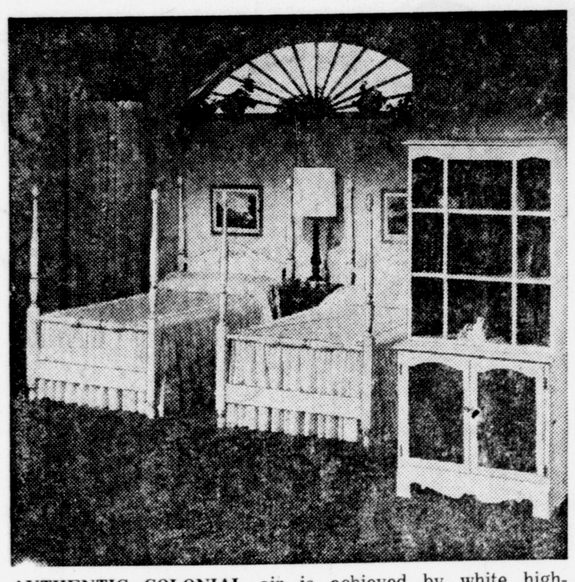
Colors Are Bright

Colors everywhere are apt to be bright and gay. There are many pretty floral upholstery fabrics on the market, and in solid colors red, yellow and orange are very common. The "Op art" influence is seen in geometric patterns.

One of the most noticeable trends in furniture is the steady improvement in style and general appearance of lower-and middle-priced furniture, and the increase in the number of styles and designs available at moderate prices.

Looking Rich

Upholstery fabrics, geared to the "loungy" look in sofas and chairs, are high-pile, very "happy" and dimensional in appearance. Many velvets are used, as well as suede cloth, corduroy, jumbo slub weaves and textured wovens.



AUTHENTIC COLONIAL air is achieved by white high-poster beds, and storage space is provided by the cupboard and bookcase featuring avocado green panels, the Salem maple tone night table. Arcadian furniture by Sandhill; room planned by L. Owen Meserve Jr., N.S.I.D.

Sleepwear Looks Wide Awake

Sleepwear for fall has the wide-awake look of favorite daytime fashions.

There's the high-up fit in sleep smocks that mix calico with pin dots and ruffles for the Mod look. Short, smocks take wildly striped tights. Long, they lead a semi-private life for lounging. For the total look, sleep smocks match booties and kerchief.

Going soft and feminine in a favorite fashion mood, gowns are shifty and sleep shirts show long, quilted wrap skirts.

Pajamas become jumpsuits with a sailor look, a shirty look, belt low on the hip or take an eyelet ruffle trim, Shortened, pajamas become cute little knickers or brief panties with an oversized sweatshirt top.

Fabrics and prints tell the new fall bedtime story: tie silks, tattersall, knits, madras plaids, Op prints, "French ribbon" florals, and the warm, brushed flannels.

Wallpaper Sparks Decorative Rooms

A well-publicized line — "It takes wallpaper to bring a room to life" — is more often true than not. Colorful wallpaper patterns give rooms an uplift and a decorative touch.

Since walls are the first area of a room that meets the eye upon entering, they are naturally a good starting point in any fall redecorating plan. Some very basic rule-of-thumb decorating principles can give the home decorator the help she needs when selecting wallpapers.

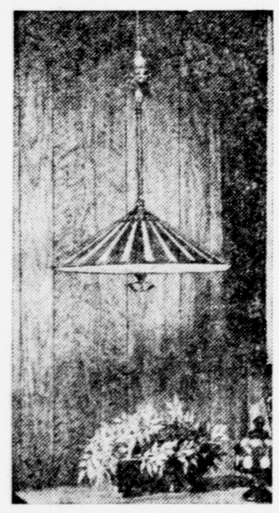
To freshen wall areas, add color and easy maintenance, consider some of the choices in narrow or wide stripes, in either two colors, multi-colors or tone-on-tone. These can be found in flocks, in plastic-coated papers for washability, in factory trimmed and pasted papers, as well as untrimmed and untreated papers.

If the room already has considerable pattern and color, take a look at grass cloths, tweeds and shiki silks; however, don't rule out a colorful wallpaper to add vista and spaciousness.

In the same category as murals are individual panels featuring archways, lavabos, topiary trees and trompe l'oeil patterns that can be an excellent solution to a room with broken wall areas.

Almost all of these papers come with a coordinated background paper in either a texture or a marbelized pattern for the balance of the room.

For starting an entirely new color scheme in a room, there are many lovely patterns to go with both modern and traditional furnishings. Many are available with matching fabrics for slipcovers and draperies.



PULLDOWN LIGHTING fixtures eliminate need for a table, give up and down lighting, are decorative, too. Fixture shown has walnut strips laminated to the shade, brass trim. By Progress.

Tax-Free Furs Making News

With the removal of the Federal Excise Tax this past summer, the big fashion news in furs for fall becomes savings. The 10 per cent tax made a hefty difference in the retail cost of a fur, and its removal means that women — or husbands! — who may have hesitated about buying new furs now will find luxurious fur fashions well within their economic reach.

It couldn't have happened at a better time. Furs never looked lovelier than they do in the fall collections and, happily, now they cost less.

New fur coats are younger in styling, shorter in length, slimmer in the main. They are precision tailored with infinite detailing of lap seams, inverted pleats, tiers or flounces, and many are shaped with easy fit and flaring.

Buttons are everywhere, creating single, double or triple buttoned closings. Belts are movable to define a high rise, normal or low waistline. They slip through side slits to belt just in front, or completely encircle for the fitted look.

Minks, in their full range of color, and spotted furs continue their fashion importance. This fall, the fluffy furs move into greater prominence.

With the tax barrier out of the way, ultra-luxurious, "limited edition" furs are likely to be more highly prized than ever. For instance, fur fashions of Fouke-processed Alaska fur seal, limited by nature and government control, are available this fall to just 3,500 women in the entire world.

Costume Jewelry Fakes It To Give an Authentic Look

The increasing emphasis on femininity in fall clothes has given costume jewelry greater importance than ever, reports the Jewelry Industry Council. Brightly and elegantly, costume jewelry accents the new soft and feminine fashions.

The "real look" in costume jewelry continues to dominate with richer and bulkier effects. Shades of gold are featured in the new creations, many with exciting and interesting finishes. Topaz, sapphire and jade colored stones give added glamour.

Tailored gold colored jewelry imparts the "casual look." Many of these creations have a light brushing of pretty colored stones to blenl or contrast with a favorite ensemble. Gaining in popularity is silver jewelry.

Heirloom reproductions are still enjoying tremendous vogue and many new and unusual effects are available. A notable trend is a fascinating Indian or Oriental influence with exotic and flashing colored stones in huge chunky bracelets and necklaces.

Beautiful pins, both small and large, continue front and center in style interest. A new idea is to wear a grouping of small coordinated pins or a very large one. Either choice is dashing and adds a dramatic effect.

Bracelets have taken on new importance with the chunky look of multi-colored charms. Some charms are actually gold-colored stones. Bangle bracelets are more varied and bigger than ever.

Earrings are longer and more dramatic with more color and unusual shapes. The pierced earring continues to soar in popularity as more and more women know and enjoy the security and comfort of these pinned-on beauties.

For those women who are still hesitant about piercing their ears, and who want the pierced earring look, a new type of earring making its appearance is called the clipless earring.

Pendants are still very much in evidence and have taken on mood themes. Some have a gay, light air, others a dazzling glamour, and still others an aura of exotic mystery.

Costume rings are bigger, more dramatic and more colorful.

Necklaces are more important looking and come in various sizes from the close choker to multi-stranded necklaces for the "fill-in" look in the high rise fashions of fall.

Knights Seek Gridiron Learning From Indians

by MICHAEL HESS

Niles West will give football lessons this Saturday with Prospect providing the pupils.

Lack of gridiron knowledge hampered the Knights in their opening session. They failed the test 20-7 at North Chicago.

Now the pigskin scholars of headmaster Don Williams hope to gain added education against NW. Niles' report card shows an initial 14-6 victory over Maine East.

"We made mistakes due to inexperience," says Williams of the NC defeat. "However, I think we learned more in that game than we have in every practice. If we gained from that game then we won't be in bad shape against Niles."

WHAT LESSONS were learned in the first Knights contest were learned [illegible]. "Defensively," comments Prospect's headman, "we played well. Some individuals were excellent on defense."

One of the best was Dan Agard, a 6-2 200 pound guard. He made 19 tackles by himself plus assisting on 11 others. His total of 30 meant Agard was in on almost half the tackles made by the entire Knights team.

Others who were standout defenders were Fred Wesley and Bob Grady. Wesley was at defensive end while deep defensive halfback territory was roamed by Grady. "Both played very good ball games," Williams said.

FORCED LANDING of Maine South fullback Joe Cram is insured by Wheeling's defensive guard Tony Stoik (77). Cram picked up 32 yards in 15 attempts as Maine shut out the Wildcats 13-0 in the football opener for both elevens last Saturday. Stoik was in on many other tackles bringing down seven MS runners alone and assisting in nine other stoppers. Running up to aid Stoik are teammates Steve Zasadny (54) and Ted Armstrong (73). Arlington to Face Glenbard

Host Hilltoppers Boast Rugged Varsity Eleven

by BOB FRISK

The question is simple. Is Arlington High School a genuine title contender in West Suburban Conference football?

It's the answer to that question that poses a problem, but some help should be provided Saturday afternoon when the varsity Cardinals visit Glenbard West in the league opener.

It's no secret that Arlington would enjoy making its final season of West Suburban football activity a memorable one, and conference buffs aren't dismissing Al Allen's outfit in any title talk.

For that matter, Glenbard West also has been drawing support in some corners as a possible varsity champion.

IF THERE IS one game in the West Suburban this weekend that could be labeled "key" for both clubs it's Arlington's meeting with the Hilltoppers in Glen Ellyn.

The Cardinals kicked off their season with a 27-20 victory over Barrington and their performance was termed "respectable but certainly needing improvement" by head man Allen.

Glenbard West dropped a 7-6 decision to Wheaton in a driving rain, and Hilltopper coach Bill Duchon called his squad's effort "exceptional at the start but miserable at the finish."

ALLEN POINTED to the blocking as "our biggest weakness in the opener" and praised the passing and punting games.

"Overall, there were some encouraging signs," Allen said, "but we certainly didn't look the way we'd like to look."

Allen praised the overall work of Mark Frase, a 5-11, 220-pound senior, in the forward wall. "He was our steadiest performer in the line," the head coach said.

The passing game was extremely effective with junior Steve Allen hitting on 15 tosses in 30 attempts for 207 yards and two touchdowns. Tom LeStarge chipped in with two completions in two tries to give Arlington 17-for-32 and 241 aerial yards in the opener.

ALLEN, A 6-3, 165-pounder, put his name into the record book in three departments. His 30 attempts topped by one the former single game mark held by Ross Retterer (vs. York, 1960). The 15 completions and 207 yards also set school marks. George Bork had the previous marks of 13 for 195 yards.

Allen's favorite target was 6-6, 196-pound Bruce Hubbard. They worked together nine times for 167 yards and the final pitch covered 44 yards with 57 seconds left to give Arlington the victory.

Dave Lockwood, another pass receiving threat, was bothered by a foot injury and only pulled in one toss for six yards, but it's hoped he'll be ready for more extensive duty Saturday.

ARLINGTON came out of the bout without any serious injuries, but it went into the game with a key performer on the sidelines. Brad Somers, a tough 162-pound junior who was set for defensive duty and occasional work on offense, has a back injury which will probably keep him out of action for the entire campaign.

"Brad was a key boy and he'll be missed," Allen said. "He was one of our top defensive players and a back-up man at all the backfield positions."

Over in the Glenbard West camp Duchon feels he got "only one good quarter" out of his players in the season opener.

"THE KIDS looked exceptional in that first quarter," Duchon said. "They only ran off three offensive plays against us. But we just stopped hitting then and Wheaton took over."

Duchon took Glenbard West to a 4-2-1 record in league play last fall for a third place finish and several observers felt the Bards were the top club in the conference by the end of the season.

Graduation took several key performers from the Glen Ellyn school, but Duchon still has put

by MICHAEL HESS

How much truth is told by a massacre? An answer comes Saturday!

Last week Forest View applied gridiron slaughter to Downers Grove South 52-0. As a gauge of FV talent that result is questionable.

This week the Falcons host Glenbrook South. That contest's final tally should reveal much more about the true strength of Bob Scott's crew.

Against DGS Forest View gained 556 yards, 23 first downs and eight TD's. BUT, Downers Grove was playing 10 juniors plus a soph quarterback and was in its initial varsity football game.

AGAINST GS the Falcons will face an eleven which was Mid-Suburban League co-titlist in '64 and which won its opening '65 game 12-6 over St. Viator. Glenbrook is certainly no first-year pushover.

No matter what your opinion is however, a 52-0 trouncing over anyone is impressive. Equally as impressive as the outcome was the performance by FV individuals.

Halfback Pat Dunnigan was the top standout. All-state candidate Dunnigan rolled up 242 yards on 17 carries and scored three times. He also had a 65 yard scoring gallop called back.

TIME: Junior varsity preliminary at 12 noon; Varsity at 2 p.m.
PLACE: Forest View High School.
COACHES: Glenbrook South—Dick Walker, Forest View—Bob Scott.

At the other halfback post was Spencer Dreischarf. Dreischarf also tallied three times and gained 53 yards in nine carries. Chuck Boesenberg was the signal caller and passer who came up with the right play at the right time.

THOSE THREE, Dunnigan, Dreischarf, and Boesenberg, are the only sure starters against Glenbrook South. A glance at Forest View's tentative starting line-up shows eight of 11 positions still in doubt.

The numerous choices at each post may indicate tremendous depth of talent, simple indecision by coach Scott, or an overworked psychological ploy. Probably a bit of all three have caused the many "or's."

In any case, center is up for grabs between Jerry Adams and Ron Wayda while Jim Kubik, John Janett, Steve Kaspari and John Norberg will battle for the guard positions. Bob Chudik and Mike Severns are up for left tackle and Jim Baumgardt, Jim Rennhack, Howie Brasch and Bob Erlander seek end duties.

Only backfield spot undecided is being sought by Steve Mueller and Mike Lebben. Either could be the starting fullback. Lebben scored against Downers Grove while Mueller gained over 90 yards facing DGS.

THE REMAINING position is right tackle. Twins Brian and Bruce Lampert, both 185 pounds, and Al Gildemeister, 215 pounds, are those in the running there.

A literal mountain of talent from Glenbrook South will challenge the Forest View aggregation. The starting offensive line for the GS Titans averages an astounding 204 pounds.

In that forward wall are Chuck Aldrin, 205 pounds, Dave Schaeffer, 205, Dan Homan, 170, Gary Engberg, 190, Tim Mathews, 212, Bruce Erb, 223, and Scott Packard, 220.

Erb was an all conference selection last year. The 6-2 senior was called "the best player on the field" by observers at the Glenbrook-St. Viator contest. Erb goes both ways, also play-

YOUNG BASEBALL PLAYERS with the highest batting averages are those most often exposed to injuries, according to a survey reported recently by the Aetna Life Insurance Company.

Aetna Life, which writes accident insurance for the Babe Ruth Baseball League for 13-15 year-old boys, said that one of every three injuries reported last season involved base running. Players were hurt four times more often after they reached base than when they were at bat.

The survey revealed that baseball is a relatively safe sport, however. The insurance company said that only two per cent of the boys covered in the 160,000-player international teenage baseball organization reported injuries last year.

Other findings in the survey included:

Overall, injuries occur about as often to the teams in the field as to the team at bat. Player collisions, which accounted for a fourth of all injuries, ranked second to base running as a leading cause. Pitched balls were third, with 16 per cent of total injuries.

Injuries to the hands and wrists were the most frequent, amounting to about a fourth of all claims submitted. Head injuries and injuries involving the feet and ankles each accounted for 20 per cent of those reported. Leg injuries made up 16 per cent of the total.

Even coaches and officials were not immune. They accounted for one per cent of the claims.

Aetna Life, whose policies also cover players enroute to and from games, said one of the worst injuries didn't occur on the diamond at all. It involved a boy riding his bicycle with his baseball shoes hanging from the handlebars. The shoes became entangled in the spokes, tumbling the young player to the pavement.

FRED (FRITZ) PETERSON, the Arlington High School graduate who is in the New York Yankees minor league system, made the jump from Class A to Class AA without any difficulty.

The 23-year-old lefthander, who was elevated from the Carolina League to Columbus in the Southern League in a massive shakeup in the Yankee organization, won five of his first nine starts with an earned run average around 2.0. He lost 1-0 and 2-1 decisions.

Peterson, an all-conference mound selection as a senior at Arlington, was labeled the "most consistent pitcher" at Columbus. He was 11-1 in Class A action with a 1.25 earned run average and five shutouts.

MOST AREA BUFFS labeled Forest View's Pat Dunnigan and Fenton's Corky Kero as the top running backs at schools covered by Paddock Publications, and the talented halfbacks didn't disappoint in their debuts Saturday.

Dunnigan shattered the Downers Grove South defenses for 242 yards and three touchdowns in 17 carries, and Kero reeled off 157 yards and one score against West Leyden.

Dunnigan is a 6-3, 180-pounder while Kero stands only 5-7 and weighs 135 pounds.

FARRAGUT HIGH SCHOOL of Chicago, a visitor to the Arlington High field Friday evening to play St. Viator, is equipped with the fastest set of halfbacks in Illinois schoolboy ranks. Havard Blanks, a 5-7, 160-pounder, has been clocked at :09.8 for the 100 yard dash and Mack Herron, a 5-5, 160 pounder, did :09.5 over the summer and :09.6 in the Chicago Public League finals. Blanks was the city wrestling champ at 154 pounds.

Lions Must Contain Two Swift Halfbacks

by BOB FRISK

Containing two jack-rabbits, the fastest set of halfbacks on any high school football team in Illinois, will be the main defensive objective for St. Viator's varsity Lions Friday evening in their home opener on the Arlington High field.

Just how successful coach Joe Gliwa's outfit will be in its first appearance before the home folks in 1965 will rest on its ability to handle Farragut's lightning-fast running backs, Mack Herron and Havard Blanks.

Herron has covered 100 yards in a sizzling :09.5. He won the Chicago Public League 100-yard dash championship last spring in :09.6.

Blanks, an All-City back last year who was city wrestling champ at 154 pounds, has been clocked at :09.8 for the century.

The pair accounted for over 700 yards on the ground in 1964 in leading Farragut's Admirals to a 6-1-1 standard, the school's most successful season in history. Farragut shared White Division honors with Lake View and suffered its lone setback to Schurz in the Public League playoffs, 7-6.

THE ADMIRALS kicked off their campaign last Friday evening in Champaign and dropped a 14-0 decision to the Maroons. "We just weren't ready for a game that soon," Farragut coach Guido Marchetti said. "We didn't start practice until Sept. 7. You can't get a team ready in that short period of time."

Marchetti, who is in his first year as head man of the Admirals, has six regulars back from the 1964 team and saw some bright spots in the opener with Champaign. Farragut outgained the hosts 211-165 and an intercepted pass and stolen ball resulted in the only touchdowns.

Farragut has good size to go with its swift backs. Joe Anthony, a 6-2, 250-pounder, operates at one tackle on offense with Ron Gladney (5-11, 206) on the other side. Darryl Ellis (6-2, 215) is the center.

MARCHETTI comes in with Ernest Brooks, a 6-3, 280-pound junior, at tackle on the defensive unit.

Maine West Captures Own Harrier Meeting

Balance was the key to Maine West's win in its own cross country center meet held last Saturday.

Competing against 20 other schools, the Warriors took first with 256 points. MW didn't finish ahead in any single event but ended high enough in each to capture the over-all top spot.

Maine's harrier meet was divided into five divisions, with a race in each. Schools winning each race were: New Trier, varsity; Hinsdale, varsity B; Hinsdale, junior varsity; LaGrange, sophomore; and Prospect, freshmen.

At the varsity level, limited to the seven best runners from each school, New Trier totaled 72 points for first. Highest Paddock area entry was Forest View with 102 points in fourth. Others were Conant, 7th; Arlington, 8th; Prospect, 10th; and Wheeling, 12th.

INDIVIDUAL winner among varsity entries was Mike Collins from New Trier. He covered the course in 10 minutes and 42 seconds.

Craig Brown in fourth (11:05) and representing FV was the boy nearest the top from any Paddock school. Only other in the top 10 was Dick Ledford (11:17) from Conant who was tenth, although Arlington's Dave Schimpf (11:21) was 11th.

Others among the top five Falcons' varsity runners were Dick Appleton, 15th; Ken GaNung, 20th; Buckey Jones, 24th; and Cliff Kuhnlohe, 39th. Dave Croy, 23rd; Larry Robertson, 28th; Tom Borthwick, 51st; and Bill Fisher, 53rd, were Conant's other best.

Rounding out the first five for Arlington were Tom Thornton, 41st; Larry Malcolmson, 46th; Mark Saylor, 49th; and Bryan Anderson, 50th.

JEFF POLLARD (11:49) was the best from Prospect. He ended 25th. Other Knights were John Jacobsen, 37th; Dick Braunschweig, 36th; John Jacobsen, 37th; and Leroy Rateike, 62nd.

From Wheeling the top performer on the varsity level was Doug Steinman (11:46) who finished 22nd. Bill Lytle, 31st, was another up high among the Wildcats' finishers.

At the varsity B level, limited to seniors not among the top seven, Forest View was the only area school to make the top ten. FV was fourth with 109 points and Jeff Jenkins, who was tenth, was the first Falcon finisher.

Arlington's Greg Busch was the lone Paddock school performer to crack the leading finishers at the junior varsity level. He was second though the Cardinals as a team were outside the top ten.

Harriers from Arlington were also the lone area entries to place high among sophomores. Cards Rory Cassidy, 4th, and Dave Dieterts, 5th, paced their team to 151 points and third place in soph ranks.

PROSPECT, WITH 162 points, and Wheeling, with 179 points, were also among the soph leaders. Prospect finished fourth and the Wildcats fifth.

At the freshman level Prospect was the winner with 122 points though pressed hard by Forest View with 123 points. Arlington was seventh with 248 points and Conant eighth at 258.

Pacing Prospect's winning efforts were Doug Back in 5th and Jeff Brachle in 6th. Top boys from FV were Al Brandt, 19th, and Scott Jones, 21st. Bob Lesher of Conant was fourth.

Over-all scoring in the meet was done on a weighted basis. First at the freshman level counted 22 points, second 21 points, third 20 points, etc. First at the sophomore level was worth 44 points while first among JV entries counted 66 points, varsity B 88 points and varsity 110 points.

Over 550 runners took part in the Maine West hosted meet.

Offensively it was an entirely different story.

"Our major problem was offense," began the Knights' mentor. "Our inexperience really hurt us there. We only held the ball for 30 plays and it's hard to tell exactly what we need. We do need plenty of work though."

GETTING THAT "work" on offense in preparation for Niles West will be the same backfield that started against North Chicago: quarterback Gary Guerin, halfbacks Nick Rutigliano and Grady and fullback Wesley.

Williams indicated that Guerin might get the chance to pass a bit more against Niles. He has an excellent end in J. D. Thorne and it was Williams feeling that against North Chicago, "We should have thrown earlier."

Only two changes will be made among the Knights' starting eleven against Niles. Rick Bertoglio, 6-0 and 185 pounds, will move in at right guard and Craig Peterson may replace Tom Beard at right end.

Additional help could come soon from two formerly among the injured. Guard Jim Herod is ready now and back Marty Destafanis should be mended within a week.

All the Prospect help possible will be needed against Niles West. The NW Indians will present a starting unit which includes eight lettermen and averages 190 pounds across the line.

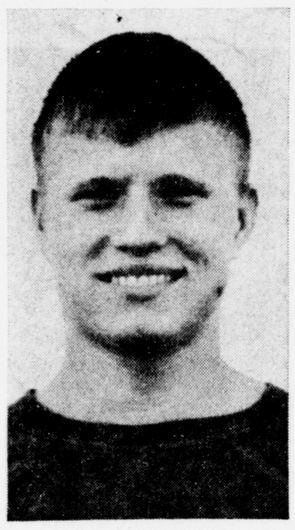
The other Indians co-captain is halfback Norm Anderson, 6-0, 175. Only other junior among the starters is fullback Jim Morten, 5-8 and 155. Rounding out the starting backfield are Dan Hirschtick and Lyle Killey at left half and quarterback.



DAN AGARD
30 Tackles

NW reserve strength in the backfield is centered on a quartet of part-timers.

In that foursome are Randel Erickson, a 155 pound, 5-11 junior; Mike Pepper, a 190 pound, 6-1 junior; Mike Rooney, a 155 pound, 5-8 senior; and Gary Prim. Prim, a 145 pound, 5-8 senior, scored one of the Indians' TD's against opening opponent Maine East.

"THERE IS no one backfield boy who dominates our offense," says NW coach Mike Basrak. "We have a balanced attack and everyone had some good runs against Maine."

That's the outfit which will be teaching Prospect this Saturday. What the Knights learned, what they have learned, will dictate the outcome.

Seeking Offensive Punch . . .

Wildcats Will Host Spartans Saturday

by MICHAEL HESS

Shutout time at Wheeling has become as common as round-up time in Texas. But, that may change!

As the 'Cats prepare for Saturday's hosting of Glenbrook North, their major goal is to avoid another whitewash. That means work on offense.

Since entering varsity competition, coach Bill Daletski's eleven has been blanked in four of ten outings. Their most recent goose-egg came in a 13-0 loss to Maine South.

"The defense played a good game against Maine," commented Daletski. "Now we'll have to concentrate on offense."

OF COURSE the Wildcats defensive showing was cause for celebration. Daletski's defensemen held MS to less than two yards per ground attempt and the 13 points allowed was the third lowest total in school history.

One of Wheeling's chief defenders was Tony Stoik, a 6-5, 235 pound defensive guard. Stoik was responsible for seven solo tackles and assisted on nine or ten others.

Stoik, however was not alone in that defense. Linebackers John Hitman and Mike Guiney, blocking back and defensive captain Tom Neukrantz and backfield defensemen Bill Surmin, Jerry Kerr and Ken Traversone were also praised by Daletski for their efforts.

Offense was an entirely different story, as Daletski relates: "Our timing was off and that put our backfield in consistent trouble. We had the plays to run but our blocking wasn't very sharp. Our passing wasn't as good as it will be once Haddock gets more varsity experience."

HADDOCK IS Rich Haddock the junior signal caller who was starting his initial varsity contest. He was throwing off-balance and had trouble picking out receivers through the many rushers always pounding toward him.

The 'Cats quarterback connected on just three of 12 passing attempts for 27 yards. Others having trouble on offense were halfback Tom Manderscheid, who ran for -6 yards, and fullback Traversone, who didn't gain a yard.

Only Wheeling performer to have moderate success on offense was Jim Bowker. On two carries, both reverses, he gained 12 yards. Bowker was the only rusher to show plus yardage for Daletski's crew.

All offensive and defensive work will be directed this Saturday toward a Glenbrook North aggregation which won its opening game last week. GN topped Highland Park, defending Suburban League champ in its first engagement by a 20-13 count.

Biggest news in the Spartans' camp this week concerns an injury. Glenbrook coach Harold Samorian is presently trying to replace fullback Ray Larsen.

LARSEN was the burly runner who plowed for over 75 yards and one touchdown against Highland Park. Late in that game, however, he had his right leg bent backward, his ankle dislocated and two bones broken. He's gone for the season.

Though one standout is gone, the Spartans have plenty of top personnel remaining.

Glenbrook's quarterback is Bill Zarit, a 145 pound senior. He hit on nine of 20 air attempts and three TD's against Highland Park. Catching two of those scoring throws was senior halfback Bob Rennix.

Filling out the GN backfield against Wheeling will be Ken Kozil, a senior at halfback, and either junior Craig Campo or senior Don Piggot. Campo or Piggot will assume Larsen's duties at fullback.

Fronting the Glenbrook North attack will be a forward wall which averages 172 pounds. Standouts along that line are 200 pound center Bill Werhane, who also does the PAT kicking, and right guard Scott Decker, who weighs in at 155 pounds.

HOW WILL coach Samorian prepare his charges? "We'll work a lot on pass defense," answered the headman. "We expect a tough ball game and we have to hope for no more injuries."

Tough was the word for last season's Spartans—Wildcats encounter. In that battle GN ended ahead but the final was a close 7-6 tally. Wheeling's score came on a fumble jarred loose by Stoik and picked up by Traversone for the six points.

What is Daletski doing to ready his team? He's working on offense, naturally, but not forgetting his defenders. "They have a good quarterback who can pass," Daletski offered, "and we'll have to stop them in the air."

Fred Beilfus, a 6-1, 235-pound senior tackle, is the big boy up front for the Hilltoppers. A promising newcomer is Kurt Bellock, a 6-0, 197-pound sophomore guard.

Colts, Cards Open With Football Wins

by PHILIP LEONE

The Colts and Cardinals launched play last weekend in the Mount Prospect Midget Football program and picked up impressive victories.

A blocked punt set up the only touchdown as the Colts tripped the Bears, 7-0. Gilbert rolled out around left end for the six-pointer.

Playing key roles in the victory were Klingberg and White on the power plays and in blocking. Rodgers contained the play inside while Drake was a bulwark in the center of the line. Peterson also was impressive.

Mark Ennes and Greg Swanson provided the Bears with some spark on offense. Tagney, Bunt, and Long also were credited with playing solid games.

The Cardinals walloped the Packers 24-0 with Anderson turning in spectacular runs of 70, 46, and 20 yards in leading the win. Dooley added another on a two yard run.

MIKE GAFFNEY and Barry O'Donnell showed some strong running. Consentino, French and Wilkins were stickouts on defense.

The Redskins routed the Steelers 33-6 in the Junior Division as Denny O'Keefe went off guard and around end for two touchdowns. Barry McNeeley scored on a quarterback sneak and caught a pass for another. Bob Carrol went off guard for the initial score. Strong line play from Tom Gattis, Bruce Jensen and Alan Reid made the scores possible. Hard charging by Stanton, Kassarelli and Chupeck kept the Steelers' score down.

TOM HUGHES scored for the Steelers on a swing pass and 25 yard run. The Broeren and Augustine pass combination set up the Steelers' only score.

Don Divito and Scott Cowan made touchdowns for the Eagles while Cowan and Ulman added the extra points in defeating the 49ers 14-13. Divito took off on a 60 yard run on the first play of the game. Cowan scored on a 30 yard run. Johannsen, Matter and Tueber gave the 49ers' offensive unit trouble all day. Glasglow passed to Robinson and Kidd for two touchdowns. Mike Brady went through the middle of the line numerous times. Balloti and Cherwin made many tackles for the 49ers.

THE CWBYS lost the services of Rick Robertshaw in their win over the Vikings 25-13. Robertshaw intercepted a pass which led to the first score for the Cowboys. He fractured his right arm in a diving tackle in the last quarter. He also scored a touchdown on a roll out before his injury. Scott Szala scored three touchdowns. Skuban's running and blocking was superb. Hard tackling by Robertshaw, Brower and Skuban jarred the Vikings. Trandel twice passed for 50 yards to Brian Reedy and Randy Jasperson for Viking scores. Grady, Smith, Vanderwood, and Reedy were outstanding on offense and defense for the Vikings.

The Browns shut out the Rams 14-0. Craig Bewartowski ran for the two touchdowns. Brian Baak recovered two fumbles, intercepted a pass and made ten tackles. John Layer also intercepted a pass and returned it for 35 yards. Bob McAskill, Ken Peterson, and Scott Grear were defensive standouts for the Rams and Jim Packard, George Busse, and Mark Teichert sparkled on offense.

THE PANTHERS topped the Lions 12-6 in the Bantam loop behind Glenn Westman. He scored twice in the last quarter on end zone passes from Fisher. Teichert, playing right halfback, made some nice runs. Glen Czekay and Peter Pulubicki made several tackles.

The Badgers outlasted the Spartans in a 14-6 battle. Kidd and Stephens scored for the Badgers on 15 and two yard runs. Randy Cherwin scored the all-important points on quarterback sneaks. Stephens, Peterson and Dooley provided the spark for the Badger offense. Balloti, Adams and Foss were impressive on defense. The Spartans' John Stavropoulos scored his team's only tally on an end run. Stavropoulos, Gary Helfenbein, and Jim Miller made most of the tackles. Phil Leone and Mark Hempel were receivers of the passes from Stavropoulos.

Ken Holan, Norm Smith and Jay Creekmore scored for the Hawkeyes in their 20-0 win over the Buckeyes. Smith, Bernard and Bloomquist moved the Hawkeyes' offense. Luciani, Kiolbussa and Luke were outstanding on defense. Norm Smith's 71 yard run off tackle was the longest run of the day. Jim Robb, Mark Wegerer and Bob Lee ran hard for the losers. Bob Italia and Ron Chuipek made some sharp tackles.

Wildcats romped over the Wolverines 26-0. Trandel scored two touchdowns via a pass interception and 65 yard end run. Paul Blaski returned a blocked punt for a touchdown. Hamann added the other score. Kevin White added two extra points. Tim Halas and Terry Cherwin made aggressive tackles. For the losers Peter Donahue and Chip Seeber moved the ball. Bob Welch, Jon Rehusch, Dick Lessner and Bob Richardson were also outstanding.

on practically every tackle."

Farragut runs from what Marchetti calls a "garbage T formation — garbage because we use a lot of junk — slots, flanks, belly series and dives."

ST. VIATOR'S Gliwa plans some changes in his alignment for the home opener and hopes to platoon his units. Joe was disappointed but not too discouraged by the opening 12-6 loss to Glenbrook South.

"We needed that game to give us some experience," he said. "Because of the poor weather (a heavy rain) it's difficult to evaluate their performance but the boys didn't do a bad job."

The Lions lost a promising sophomore tackle in the opener. Rich Loner, a 200-pounder who "had played well in the game," suffered torn ligaments in his knee and will be lost for the season.

GLIWA PRAISED the work of defensive end Mike Laird and the running of halfback Larry Snyder under adverse conditions. Mike Campana also turned in a strong effort at defensive guard.

Bob Stevens, a junior, will quarterback the Lions again Friday with Snyder set at one halfback slot. Either Denny Wilkinson or Bob Roser will open at left half and Bob Rogowski or Tim Beck at fullback.

Although the Lions don't have any backs with speed in the Herron or Blanks category, they are equipped with some fine runners.

Both coaches will be hoping for a dry track Friday evening.

Cardinal Harriers Triumph

Arlington didn't gain individual honors but balance paid off Tuesday afternoon at Pioneer Park in varsity cross country competition with Forest View.

The varsity Cardinals placed five boys in the top eight and fashioned a 24-35 victory over the visiting Falcons.

The win was the second straight for Bruce Samoore's Arlington outfit. Forest View, under the direction of Bob Rees, now stands 1-1.

Forest View's Craig Brown covered the Pioneer Park course in 10:28 for individual honors on a varsity level.

Arlington's Bob Yeazel was second, Greg Busch third, and Dave Schimpf fourth. Also scoring for the Cards were Tom Thornton in seventh and Brian Anderson in eighth.

Following Brown for the Falcons were Dick Appleton in fifth, Ken GaNung in sixth, Bucky Jones in 11th, and Cliff Kuhnlohe in 12th.

Forest View's Ted Lambert, who qualified for the state harrier run last fall, didn't compete Tuesday. He was on the sidelines with a sprained ankle.

Arlington also won the frosh-soph meet, 26-29. Details were unavailable.

ing linebacker on defense.

In the opening backfield will be Jay Gregg, a junior quarterback, and seniors Tom Thoresen, Steve Gray and Pete Bohnsack. Gregg connected on four of seven passes in heavy rain against St. Viator.

HOW WILL the Titans try to stop FV? Answered GS coach Dick Walker: "We have to stop Dunnigan. He can pass; he can run; he can receive. He's outstanding and we'll definitely have to stop him."

Last year Glenbrook did stop Dunnigan and the entire Forest View line-up. In that '64 contest the Titans stomped the Falcons 39-6. Mueller made the lone FV tally on a one yard plunge.

"We beat them last year," explained headman Walker, "because we got some early breaks, things went our way and their kids were down. The team that scores first this time will have a tremendous advantage."

Summed up the Falcons' Scott: "The boys began to jell this week but we're still rough in spots. We need a lot of polishing, especially in the line. Glenbrook is very big and this will be a tough one.'

Cardinal Sophs Tie Barrington

Arlington and Barrington battled to a 19-19 deadlock Saturday afternoon in frosh-soph football action on the Bronco field.

The hosts put across the tieing touchdown in the final three minutes on a 21-yard pass play.

Coach Tom Pitchford's Cardinals scored first in the opening stanza on a 60-yard scamper by quarterback Bob Graham.

Barrington knotted the count on a 32-yard aerial maneuver, but Arlington went ahead again on Paul Douglas' three-yard dash around right end. Terry Pitts contributed a 20-yard run in the Cards' second scoring march.

Barrington gained another tie on the final play of the first period when a 75-yard pass play clicked for six points.

The Cards went on top 19-13 in the third period when a Barrington player touched a Bronco punt and Arlington's Jack Nebel recovered on the 30 yard line.

Graham and John Theroux teamed up for the scoring pass.

Arlington penetrated to the Barrington 20 early in the fourth quarter but a fumble halted the advance.

JUST DOGS

By Dave Terrill

National Dog Week . . .

We are in the middle of a week in which we honor a watchdog, nursemaid, faithful companion, all these roles and more that are filled by the family dog. While one-third of all United States families today live in suburban areas, dogs are even luckier. Some 40 per cent of all licensed dogs live in Suburbia, with room for needed exercise and the expert care offered by suburban small animal hospitals.

Most of today's 26 million dogs are smarter, healthier and will have longer lives than the dogs of just 20 years ago. Credit for this goes to several sources, including the breeders who have improved the strains. Much credit is due to the 18 schools and colleges of veterinary medicine in the United States which, each year, add nearly 1,000 qualified veterinarians to the professional ranks of those who care for our animal population.

Of that 1,000 some 60 to 65 per cent go into private practice with small animal clinics for which, following the population trend, suburban areas . . . with their space and relative lack of congestion . . . are ideal locations.

Many veterinarians are engaged in research. Few realize the significant contribution veterinary medicine has made, and is making, not only to the well-being of animals but to progress in solving many of the mysteries of human disease. A major breakthrough, for which veterinary medicine can be thanked, was the isolation of the cause of dread botulism, opening the way for the development of the entire modern canned food industry.

It is indeed a week in which we can pay tribute to dogs and also to those who have something to do with them. Keep in mind, however, that as far as your dog is concerned, there are still 51 more weeks in the year during which time care is needed.

Miniature Schnauzer Club . . .

Activities of the Chicago Miniature Schnauzer Club began this month and continue through next spring. For the Schnauzer pet owner or breeder, the club offers a five-week course in grooming techniques. This course is under the direction of Max Kwelose of Cicero, long time breeder, handler and professional groomer of the breed.

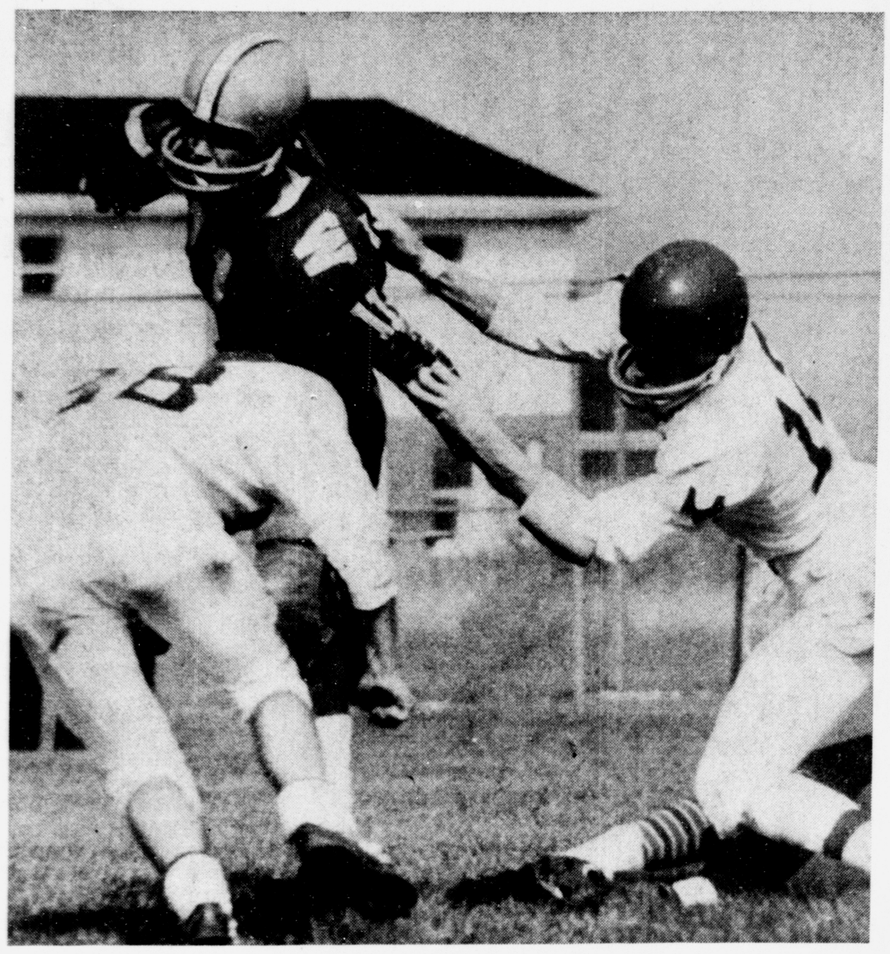
For area residents interested in obedience training, the club holds a 13-week course four times a year. The first new class began Sept. 16, with J. A. Bryan of Prospect Heights and D. Poulsen of Franklin Park handling the instruction.

All club activities are held in the Lombard Community House, St. Charles Road and Grace Street, Lombard. For information, call J. A. Bryan, CL 3-4078, or Mrs. E. H. Gisburne, TE 4-6622.

Award for Outstanding Service . . .

Saturday evening, at the annual dinner of the Northwest Obedience Club, your editor was presented with the Award for Outstanding Service To Dogs. This award, made possible through Dog World Magazine, was presented by the members of the club and it was most sincerely appreciated.

Reflecting back over the many years that have been involved with writing, breeding, training and judging this friend of man, you think of the many friends you have made with the human race and hope that in some small way you have contributed to a better knowledge about dogs . . . thank you.



ABOUT TO FUMBLE is Wheeling's quarterback Rick Haddock as he is plagued by charging Maine South linemen Dick Hood (88) and Jim Raymond (12). When Haddock released the pigskin a second later it was recovered by Hood. Action came in last Saturday's Wheeling-Maine South grid game which MS took 13-0. When Hood landed on the ball he was resting on the Wildcats 12 yard line. (Staff Photo)

Aerial Game Leads Cards to 27-20 Win Over Broncho Eleven

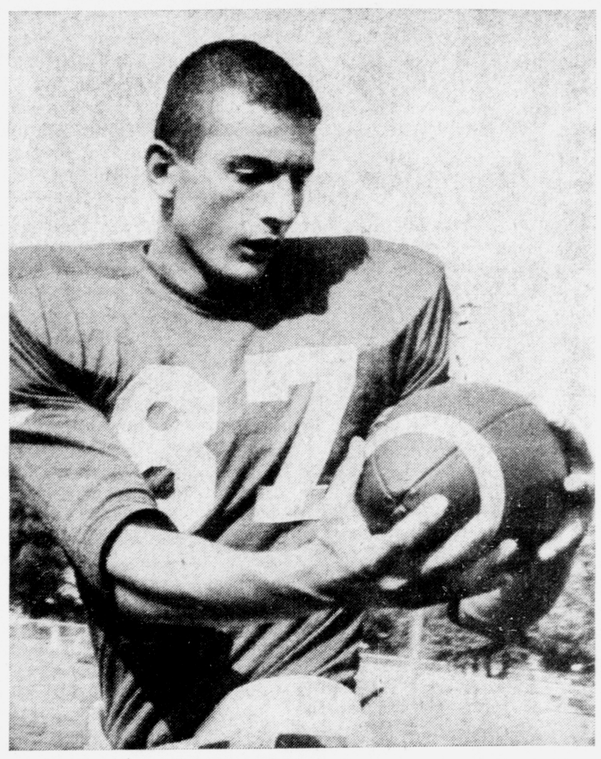
BY BOB FRISK

Not since the days when George Bork was throwing to Gene Dahlquist has an Arlington High School passing combination been as successful as the one displayed Saturday afternoon on a sun-baked Barrington High field.

Junior Steve Allen, the quarterback, and senior Bruce Hubbard, the end, collaborated nine times in the season opener and that ninth completion covered 44 yards in the final 57 seconds to give the varsity Cardinals a 27-20 victory over the host Bronchos.

It wasn't quite as dramatic as the 1964 opener when Barrington pulled off a 52-yard triple reverse pass with 23 seconds left to gain a 26-20 win, but it still was a sweet measure of revenge for Al Allen's Cardinals.

The non-conference feature was a treat for fans who enjoy passing shows because Arlington and Barrington combined for 49 passes in four quarters. The aerial antics covered 387 total yards.



BRUCE HUBBARD, who caught only one pass as a junior at Arlington High School, pulled in nine Saturday afternoon in the season opener at Barrington. The passes covered 167 yards. The 6-6, 196-pounder scored the winning touchdown in the closing seconds on a 44-yard pass from Steve Allen.

ARLINGTON'S Allen, a 6-3, 165-pounder, was the leader in this department with 15 completions clicking for 207 yards and two touchdowns. Allen, who had thrown only 50 passes in the entire 1964 campaign, attempted 30 Saturday.

Cardinal halfback Tom Le Sarge tried two passes and connected both times for 34 yards to give Arlington 17 completions in 32 attempts for 241 yards, new school records in each department.

BARRINGTON'S Greg Brown, a 175-pound junior with lots of promise, hit on 11 of 17 passes for 146 yards but didn't throw for any scores unless you want to include the one he fired to Arlington's Steve Conley on the Broncho nine in a strange bit of strategy to kick off the fourth quarter.

The contributions by Hubbard, a 6-6, 195-pounder, to the Arlington passing game were impressive. Bruce caught only one pass for 15 yards as a junior but pulled in nine for 167 yards against Barrington.

The single season record at Arlington for pass receptions is 28 for 389 yards by Dahlquist in the 1959 campaign. Bork has the passing marks with 70 completions in 125 attempts for 1002 yards in that '59 season.

THE DECISIVE touchdown Saturday at Barrington came on a picture pass from Allen to Hubbard. The play unfolded with 1:04 remaining in the game and Hubbard reached the end zone on the 44-yard maneuver with 57 seconds left.

Arlington had taken possession with 2:02 remaining after checking Barrington at the Cardinal 35 yard line. On a fourth and four play the Bronchos' Tom Wood was stacked up by Don Lindmark and Thad Woodard three yards short of a first down.

Steve Ewart bolted eight yards to the Arlington 43 and Allen and Hubbard clicked to the Barrington 44 for a first down. An Allen pass fell incomplete but the junior signal-caller then hit Hubbard with the scoring strike.

Barrington got off five plays in the closing seconds but an aroused Arlington defense sparked by Lindmark halted the advance at the Broncho 36.

ARLINGTON struck first in this non-league game thanks to a 56-yard march that featured a 17-yard scamper by fullback Conley and Allen passes to Le Starge and Hubbard of 17 and 15 yards.

Allen and LeStarge teamed up to the Barrington 22 and after Allen carried to the 19 he found Hubbard at the four on the final play of the first quarter. Steve smashed off his right side for the touchdown.

BARRINGTON went ahead with 8:14 left in the first half on a 73-yard drive. Brown hit on four passes in the march and Tom Wood bulled into the end zone from seven yards out. The conversion gave Barrington a 7-6 advantage.

The Cards went 80 yards for their second score with Hubbard pulling in five passes on the attack. Allen hit LeStarge on a six-yarder for the six points with 25 seconds remaining in the half, and the Cardinal quarterback then kicked the first of three successful extra points.

The hosts refused to throw in the towel and moved into a 13-13 tie at the 6:11 mark of the third period on another seven-yard smash by Wood. A fumble gave Barrington the ball on the Cardinal 39 and they struck for the score in eight plays.

THE THIRD Arlington touchdown was a gift from Barrington's Brown, who elected to pass while deep in his own territory on the first play of the final period.

Arlington's Chip Douglas had just launched a 61-yard punt that was downed on the Barrington 10 as the third quarter concluded.

Brown went back to pass on first down and whipped a perfect strike to Arlington's Conley at the nine yard line. Steve was all alone as he headed for the end zone, but he fumbled and the ball was recovered by teammate Hal Christensen, a 5-9, 174-pound guard, for the touchdown.

Barrington fought back into another tie at the 8:15 mark of the fourth quarter when Brown rambled 33 yards for a touchdown. Several Cards had shots at the Broncho quarterback, but he got loose at the 27 and raced in for the score.

Forest View Rocks Downers Grove South In '65 Opener, 52-0

by RANDY THOMAS

Sophomore Spencer Dreischarf scored all three first half touchdowns, while Pat Dunnigan led a second half surge, in which he also scored three TD's, as the Forest View Falcons routed Downers Grove South 52-0 in the season opener for both teams at Forest View last Saturday.

The Falcons scored the first and last time they had the ball. The first touchdown didn't count, as they clearly dominated play over a much weaker and inexperienced opponent, making its first start in competitive action, since the Downers Grove school opened this fall.

Everybody who witnessed this first one liked what he saw. They were impressed with the condition, speed and the overall efficiency which head coach Bob Scott has instilled in the Falcons.

"WE PLANNED to platoon our first two units, ("The Aces" and "The Bombers")" said Scott.

And platoon they did. First one squad and then the other. It didn't seem to matter which one was in as both operated effectively.

"The plan was set long before game time," said Scott.

The weather condition had nothing to do with the platoon plan, but Scott and assistant Dick Ohl both agreed it didn't hurt considering the 87 degree heat and high humidity. The conditioning was the key.

THE FALCONS' running attack was impressive as the combination of the D-Boys, Dreischarf and Dunnigan, piled up 36 of the 52 points.

Their running as well as the efforts of everybody else was sharp and crisp. The middle of the offensive line, Gerald Adams, Dave Kaspari, Mike Severns, Jim Kubik and Al Gildemeister, opened holes as big as caves on occasion and hit with authority.

Much yardage was gained on end sweeps, where senior Jim Baumgardt and junior Howard Brasch continually cleared the way.

Muggy day or not, it was a hot day for the Falcons as young Dreischarf gave evidence of things to come the second time Forest View had the ball.

After a 10 yard gain that carried the ball to the DG 2, Dreischarf took a handoff from Chuck Boesenberg to score FV's first TD of the year, after only three minutes had elapsed in the game.

EARLIER, Dunnigan, an all-state candidate, had brought immediate excitement to the crowd when he showed a 65 yard dash that was called back when the referee noticed the big halfback had stepped out of bounds at midfield. Dunnigan had sidestepped his way down the sidelines and then outrun his closest tacklers for what everybody thought was a score.

With 4:27 remaining in the first quarter, Boesenberg called on his sophomore back again with the ball on the Downers Grove 10. Dreischarf swept his left end and picked his holes carefully for his second touchdown in less than eight minutes.

PAT DUNNIGAN
Running Wild

Robert Glaser, holding for Boesenberg on the conversion, couldn't find the handle and this resulted in Forest View settling for a 13-0 first period lead.

THE MUSTANGS, aggressive but inept, put together their best period of football between the Falcons' second and third touchdowns. They held FV's ground game to a noticeable lack of advancement, while forcing them to fumble twice. Unlike the rest of the game, they were even able to sneak in 12 plays of their own during this 14 minute rest period for the home team. Fortunately, the Falcons' were shaken from this temporary laxity when Howard Brasch recovered an Eric Tweedy fumble on the DG 27.

The key recovery by Brasch began the day's best series of downs as it took the Falcons only seven plays to strike and run the count to 19-0 at half.

The host team accomplished this feat with the clock and downs both against them. With two minutes remaining, alternate quarterback, Glaser, called on Dreischarf and then senior Bill King to move the ball to the Mustang 18. Two passes to Jim Rennhack, one of which was called back due to a clipping penalty, put the ball at the 22. This brought about a 4th and six situation with only 32 seconds left on the clock.

RUNNING plays almost without a huddle, Glaser hit Dreischarf for the big pass play that sustained the march and supplied the first down to the five. King lugged it to the one and then gave way to his alternate running mate in this series of downs, who plunged the final yard with 18 seconds left for his third and final tally of the day.

Forest View stepped up the scoring in the third quarter, adding 26 points before slowing down to a touchdown and a conversion in the final round.

The other half of the D-Boys combination took over in the third quarter, as Mr. Dunnigan exploded for 58 yards on the first play from scrimmage. Four minutes later Baumgardt made a diving catch of a perfectly-led Boesenberg aerial and the Falcons had winged their way to a 32-0 lead.

DUNNIGAN HAD to settle for a five yard gainer in notching his second score just a few minutes later, and then made a spectacular display by coming off tackle, that saw the line at its best, and racing 48 yards for his third touchdown. His speed, which was evident all day, allowed him to outsprint his nearest pursuers.

Mike Lebben carried three straight times late in the fourth quarter for a total of 35 yards to score Forest View's final TD. Boesenberg added his fourth PAT to complete the lopsided affair.

Field generals Boesenberg and Glaser called on The D-Boys and fullback Steve Mueller 33 of 51 running plays, not including passes for a staggering total of 383 yards.

Dunnigan got 242, more than twice the amount of Dreischarf and Mueller combined. When any of these two backs were out, Scott would counter with fullback Lebben and halfback King, who performed capably while collecting 71 yards in 12 carries between them.

Cardinal 'As' Top LaGrange

Arlington's frosh 'A' football team dominated a host LaGrange eleven Saturday morning and posted a 9-0 victory in the season opener.

Coach Ted Wissen's Cardinals scored their first touchdown of the 1965 campaign in the first period on a 25-yard dash up the middle by Dennis Meacham. Bob Kelly scored the extra point.

Arlington scored the safety in the fourth quarter.

The Cards had two other scoring threats but couldn't push another six-pointer across.

"Overall, our defense was good," Wissen said. "LaGrange never could get going on offense."

LaGrange did manage to gain a 14-7 frosh 'B' victory, collecting two touchdowns and a safety.

Arlington scored in the fourth period on a run by quarterback Chris Buttenob. Halfback Gary Drake set up the touchdown by making some fine catches for gains of 30 yards.

Wheeling Posts Soph Grid Win

Wheeling scored two touchdowns in the first half and made that stand up in a 13-12 sophomore football victory over Elk Grove Monday afternoon.

The Wildcats scored on a 64-yard end sweep and 45-yard reverse and ran for the decisive extra point.

Elk Grove scored in the third period on a 52-yard pass from Larry Pahl to Roy McClellan, and the same combo clicked for 47 yards in the final stanza.

Shade Glenbrook

A seven yard pass play from Dennis Palubicki to Ken Sophie with 40 seconds left on the clock gave the St. Viator sophomores a 6-0 victory over Glenbrook South in the opening game of their season last Friday night at Glenbrook.

The game was a hard fought defensive battle that looked like it would end in a 0-0 tie until the young Lions launched their only extensive drive of the night in the waning minutes of play to score the game's only points.

However, on the ensuing kickoff Glenbrook returned the ball all the way back to midfield and threatened some last minute heroics of their own. But the St. Viator defense tightened and provided coach Tom Hansen with a successful season debut.

St. Viator Falls, 12-6, In First Test

by FRED BOEDEKER

St. Viator's varsity football team opened its 1965-66 campaign with a 12-6 loss at the hands of Glenbrook South last Friday night in a game played under the most adverse weather conditions.

The contest was just two minutes old when a severe driving rain and electrical storm hit. The downpour was so intense that within minutes the large crowd was relegated to watching the game from the safety of cars and busses in the parking lot.

The storm continued without let-up throughout the first half, and with the exception of two short lived drives by both teams, confined the play between the forty yard lines.

THE FIRST half ended in a 0-0 tie and the majority of the waterlogged crowd, expecting much of the same in the second half, headed for the exits.

However, the Lions were able to get their offense moving in the third quarter with a 62 yard drive that was climaxed by quarterback Bob Steven's two yard sneak that gave the visitors a 6-0 lead. Halfback Larry Snyder turned in several fine runs during this stretch to keep the Lions moving.

Glenbrook South tied the count on Buzz Avery's four-yard smash and added the winning touchdown on a six-yard run by Dan Maloney.

IN A GAME highlighted by defensive play St. Viator's end Mike Laird and Glenbrook's 225 pound senior linebacker Bruce Erb turned in fine performances. Laird, who missed all of last season with a leg injury, continually thwarted the home team's attempts at end sweeps with his diving tackles and crushing blocks to mow down the interference.

Erb, who has been mentioned on virtually every all-state team forecasted and already is keeping college coaches awake nights, turned in a dazzling performance at middle linebacker. He possesses good speed for his size and several times brought down Lion ball carriers as they were ready to break into the clear.

St. Viator's head coach Joe Gliwa received bad news after the game when he found out his 200-pound sophomore tackle Rich Loner will be out for the rest of the season with a torn cartilage. Although Loner did not start Friday's game he turned in a creditable performance while he played and is one of the few good-sized boys in the Viator front line.

St. Viator will resume season play Friday night at the Arlington high school field where they will play host to Farragut of Chicago.

'Cat JV Gridders Suffer 6-0 Loss

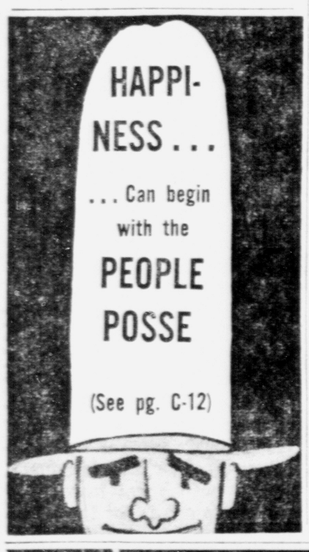
Wheeling's junior varsity football squad held off the opposition for three quarters last Saturday but finally lost to Maine South 6-0.

Entering the final period the game was deadlocked in a scoreless tie. Then Maine made its move from the Wildcats' 30 yard line.

A THREE YARD run, 15 yard penalty, and 11 yard run put MS on Wheeling's one yard line. Two plays later Maine had the only score of the game.

Standouts for the losing Wildcats were Robin Melzer and Dan DeVito. Melzer, a sophomore, saw plenty of action at quarterback and DeVito carried many times from the halfback slot. Both performed well.

Next game for coach Frank Miller's JV unit is this Saturday. Glenbrook North will be the opponent at 12 Noon on the Wildcats' field.



HIGH AND LOW attack is applied to Maine South halfback Ray Matthies by Wheeling defensemen Jerry Kerr (25) and Tom Neukrantz (15). Action came in last Saturday's battle won by MS 13-0. Kerr and Neukrantz, the Wildcats defensive captain, helped hold opposition runners to less than two yards per carry in best defensive effort in Wheeling's short grid history. (Staff Photo)

North Chicago Stops Prospect in Opener

by MARV PRELLBERG, JR.

The Prospect Knights' varsity football team fell victim to a highly regarded North Chicago High eleven 20-7 last Saturday afternoon at North Chicago in the season opener for both squads.

This was the initial test at varsity football for this Prospect grid aggregation, which last year laid claim to a JV football title but, to the man, had not yet experienced varsity competition. However, inexperience did not appear to be a real factor in this loss, but rather the inability to contain a big fullback and a speedy halfback.

These two culprits were in the person of Tony Gesky and Charles Parker, both of whom had established fine grid reputations in their North Suburban Conference circles last season.

PARKER, a 155-pound senior halfback, got a good start towards possible all-state honors for this season by rushing for 103 yards and a 4.1 yards per carry average in this encounter. His 16 yard TD spring late in the fourth quarter on a crucial fourth down play put the game on ice for his mates.

When Parker wasn't skirting the ends for the Warhawks, powerful Tony Gesky was slamming his 5-foot-11, 205 pound frame into the Knight defenses. The big senior, who battled his way to the '65 state heavyweight wrestling title, netted 63 yards from scrimmage on his thrusts into the line and, also, literally stole a pass from a couple of Prospect defensive backs for North Chicago's first touchdown of the day.

When he wasn't doing his damage on offense, Gesky was bolstering the Warhawks' defensive line at a guard spot, and also handled the punting chores in fine fashion. All of these demanding tasks were handled by the big North Chicago athlete in spite of the hot and humid weather condition that hung over the Warhawk gridiron.

NEITHER TEAM posed a serious scoring threat in the first half until midway in the second quarter, when North Chicago took possession of the ball after Prospect was forced to punt on fourth down from its own 21 yard line.

Parker returned Dave Kingman's punt to Prospect's 49 yard stripe, and three running plays later the Warhawks had a first down on the 33. Parker was nailed for a four yard loss on first down, but on the next play quarterback Ed Kanerva aimed an aerial towards fullback Gesky, who reached into the midst of a couple of Prospect pass defenders, snatched the ball out of their grasp and rambled into the endzone for a six pointer. An extra-point plate kick by brother Dave North Chicago a 7-0 lead.

THE WARHAWKS' second tally came early in the third period to end a drive of 47 yards. Parker and Gesky provided all the yardage as North Chicago moved for a first-and-ten on Prospect's nine yard line. On the first down play Parker burst off tackle, was tackled and fumbled the ball. The ball bounced forward and was finally pounced on by the host's Ron Kell just over the goal line. Dave Gesky's placekick made the count 14-0.

Coach Don Williams' Knights fought back for a score early in the final quarter. A 31 yard run by Fred Wesley in the final play of the third quarter placed Prospect down on North Chicago's 24 yard stripe. Quarterback Gary Guerin kept the drive going by taking to the airways. He completed a 14 yarder to J. D. Thorne and two plays later tossed to Kingman from nine yards out for a TD. Bill Dax kicked the extra point.

The next time that Prospect had possession of the ball, the Knights moved down to North Chicago's 20 yard line, but three Guerin passes fell incomplete and the drive ended.

From that point North Chicago regained the momentum and drove in a series of running plays by Parker and Gesky down to the Knights' 16 yard line. Parker, on the fourth down play, simply outran the tiring Prospect defenders on a sweep around his own left end for the final score and a 20-7 North Chicago victory.

FV Sophs Score 14-0 Grid Win

Victory number one was captured by Forest View sophomore football team last Saturday. The FV sophs shut out Downers Grove South 14-0.

All scoring in the game came on lone TD's by the Falcons in the first and last quarters. Frank Wasilewski crossed the goal line on a two yard plunge in the opening quarter and a two yard sweep carried John Wester across in the final period.

BOTH WASILEWSKI and Wester added their own extra points on runs.

Longest run of the day was made by Forest View's John Terrell. He galloped 55 yards around end in the final quarter.

Strong defensive performances in the shutout were turned in by Mike Messer and Bob Savage. Both play defensive end posts and both pleased soph coach Keith North with their showing.

Good Defense Not Enough

Gridiron 'Cats Lose To Maine South 13-0

by MICHAEL HESS

Found: one defense. Missing: one offense. Lost: one football game.

That was the situation last Saturday as Wheeling dropped its grid opener to Maine South 13-0.

Defeat is nothing new for the Wildcats. They've never won a varsity contest and the MS setback was their ninth straight.

A lack of 'Cats offense is also nothing novel. Coach Bill Daletski's eleven was shut out three times in '64 and Maine's whitewash job added another to the total.

WHAT WAS different was Wheeling's defense. In eight games last season opponents rolled up 256 points. Enemy squads advanced for over 2,000 yards. But that was changed against Maine.

Maine was allowed just 13 points, six on a 35-yard punt return and six on a one-yard plunge. Maine was permitted just 147 yards, 87 on the ground and 60 through the air.

"We're very satisfied with our defensive play," commented headman Daletski when it was over. "The big trouble was with our offense." Wheeling's good-defense, no-offense pattern was evident from the start.

Maine South returned the opening kick-off to its own 29. The Hawks picked up one of just two first-half first downs before punting. Wheeling took over on its 27.

THREE PLAYS LATER the Wildcats were back on their 21. After Ken Traversone booted the 'Cats had possession for only three more offensive plays in the initial period. They didn't advance beyond their own 50 yard line.

Meanwhile Wheeling's defense tried mightily to hold off the foes. Linebackers John Hitman and Jim Whittington with linemen Mike Guiney and Tony Stoik were particularly effective in slowing the MS march.

Moving MS slowly toward paydirt were halfback Ray Marrhies and fullback Joe Cram. Both carried five times in the first 12 minutes and gained a total of 31 yards. Without an offense to help out, the 'Cats defense didn't have much chance.

Finally, two minutes into the second quarter, the Hawks' quarterback, Tom Dewar, stood on Wheeling's 21 and flipped to end Dick Hood. Hood pulled in the ball but fumbled and several Wheeling defenders recovered on the 15.

THREE PLAYS later Wheeling was still on the 15 and again Traversone dropped back to punt. Booted high and short, the ball sailed down on the 35. Hood again pulled in the pigskin but this time he didn't fumble.

Instead, Hood outgalloped the pursuing Wildcats horde and danced, untouched, to the end zone. Though an extra point kick by George Williams went wide, the Hawks let 6-0.

Wheeling quarterback Rich Haddock and halfback Tom Manderscheid tried to put Wheeling on the scoreboard. They had little success. Haddock showed -2 yards rushing and Manderscheid -7 yards for second period efforts.

In the second half the story didn't change much except the 'Cats offense was a bit more inept, their defense a might stouter.

Maine's final score came near the close of period three. Matheis fumbled for MS and Stoik recovered on Wheeling's 22. The Wildcats lost 11 yards and then punted. Maine took over on the 26 as Traversone's final attempt traveled only 15 yards.

FIELD GENERAL Dewar then completed his sixth pass in ten attempts to Hood on the four and Wheeling defenders were put to their toughest test. They held for three downs before Cram plunged over from the one.

When Williams, second PAT attempt was good and the score 13-0, Wheeling took to the air. Rather, they tried to take to the air.

Haddock passed nine times in the second half. Three of his tosses were intercepted; two were completed. The 'Cats, furthest advance, to Maine's 43 yard line, was halted by an interception at the 27.

A major accomplishment during the final two quarters was the gathering of two first downs by Wheeling. One, the lone first and ten on the ground, came on a four yard romp by Haddock. The other, the only one through the air, came on a 13-yard pass from Haddock to Al Gibbon.

OTHER WHEELING first downs came as a result of penalties. Official assessments against Maine totaled 85 yards. Wheeling was penalized 34 yards and there were four other double and offsetting functions.

The contest ended with Maine at the Wheeling 20 yard line and the 'Cats defense receiving another severe test.

Knight JV Wins 26-0

A successful start to the 1965 football season was gained last Saturday by Prospect's junior varsity.

The Knights JV eleven used early touchdowns and a solid defense to shut out Elgin-Larkin 26-0. Winning coach Chuck Aldrich saw his team score four times from far out.

FIRST TALLY for Prospect came on a 35 yard run by Bud Robinson. Then Steve Niebuhr cut loose for a gallop of 60 yards. Adding the third score was Mike Rutkowski on a 35 yard pass from quarterback Tom Lundstedt.

Niebuhr added an extra point after Rutkowski's six-pointer and the score was 19-0 heading into the second period. Last touchdown for Prospect came on a 12 yard run by Joe Koza and to that Niebuhr added his second extra point.

Next grid battle for the Knights' junior varsity will be this Saturday against Niles West. Game time will be 12 noon at the Prospect field.

Arlington's Boys Football League Opens

The Arlington Heights Boys Football program opened its 1965 season Saturday with a full slate of six games.

The program this year has been completely revamped, expanding to three leagues and adding two new teams for a total of 12.

A variation of the "Pop Warner" system of rating boys as to weight, height, age, and experience has been installed in Arlington.

The Senior and Varsity leagues alternate Saturday play between Recreation and Pioneer parks while the Junior League boys, though originally scheduled to play at the Greens Park, will play at Miner Junior High.

Games begin at 9:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. each Saturday for six weeks.

In opening competition in the Senior League the 49ers blanked the Rams 12-0 with Denny Foreman scoring the two touchdowns. Foreman, Peter Harth, Bill Yandle, and Chuck Kenny sparkled on offense with Jeff Selleck, Rick Ring, Shanley, and Mike Reider defensive standouts.

THE REDSKINS rolled to a 19-0 Senior League win over the Lions as Kyle Wiederhold raced to three touchdowns on runs of 25, 15, and 45 yards. Bruce Frase powered over from the two yard line for the extra point.

Bill Bergstrom, Gary Voigt, Gary Swanson, Scott Kenton, Tim Trummer, and John Tollefson were standouts on defense for the winners.

Ken Malcolmson and Mike Turner were the top ground-gainers for the Lions. Steve Osterman and Gary Bratko were the defensive leaders.

IN VARSITY action the Eagles ripped the Giants 19-0, scoring three touchdowns in the first half. Mike Pettenuzzo went 35 and 50 yards for two scores and Gene Elsberg powered over on an end sweep behind the blocking of guards Turner and Kulla.

Gregg Conley turned in an impressive game at quarterback, and Dan Carty, Kulla, and Turner were strong on defense. Pettenuzzo picked off three Giant passes.

Terry Ormsbee paced the Vikings to a 19-0 Varsity victory over the Steelers. The son of the Wheeling High School Athletic Director and former Arlington High coach scored twice on quarterback sneaks and pitched a 25-yard scoring pass to Denny Foreman.

Defensively, Roy Genevich and Tom Epperly were outstanding.

In Junior League play the Packers blanked the Colts 14-0 with Rick Croakin and Rick Clemens scoring. Clemens covered 60 yards on a kickoff return with Brian Casey throwing the key block. Capt. Gary Lockwood and John Lynch also played strong games.

The Bears and Cardinals played to a 7-7 tie. Details were unavailable.

Tuesday Champ Cops Mt. Prospect Crown

With no apparent loss of the momentum built up during the finish of the regular season, Mount Prospect Electric Construction Co., first place winners of the Tuesday division, last week rolled over Winkelmann's Shell Service, Monday division winners, in a post season playoff match, taking eight points of a possible twelve.

The victory, their tenth in a row, officially gave the Construction Co. team the grand championship of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League for the league's Silver Anniversary Season.

Leading the assault on the Monday night champs was Dick Elliott, "point-gettingest" player in the league who contributed three points to his team's eight-point total. Elliott turned in a sparkling 83 gross 69 net which completely outclassed his opponent, John Tate, who struggled home with a 104 gross 84 net. The effort gave Elliott a point each for match and medal plus a bonus point for lowest individual net score of the ten contestants.

WALT PETERSON, was another winner for Mount Prospect Electric. Pete finished fast after a slow start and took two points from Earl Boesenberg, Winkelmann "A" player.

Point getters for Winkelmann's were John Paredes, who defeated Capt. Howard Ross, and Harry Patton, who squeezed out two points from Jim Dick.

MOUNT PROSPECT Electric was awarded its final point as a bonus for winning low team aggregate net with a total of 374 strokes versus 397 strokes for Winkelmann's.

The inter-division playoff was part of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League's annual Final Day of Golf held last week at Mount Prospect Country Club Park. In addition to the league championship, playoff 82 members and alternates competed in an 18 hole round for fun and prizes. Competition was by flights and handicaps were based on league-play final handicap.

Winner of class "A" flight was Pat Danna, with an 80 gross, 64 net. "B" class winner was Bill Swanson with an 86 gross, 66 net. An 84 gross, 68 net by Bill Collins won the "C" flight prize, while an 84 gross, 62 net by Bob Kramer took first place among the "D" players.

Fred Ritzer was winner in class "E" with an amazing 102 gross, 54 net, and winner for the alternates was Cliff Osgood with an 88 gross, 66 net.

THE ACTIVITY of the Final Day of Golf was capped that evening by the league's Silver Anniversary banquet at Old Orchard Country Club. Rollie Becker, the league's senior president, presided at the awarding of trophies and prizes, and the election of new junior officers.

New junior officers voted into service of the league for 1966-and 1967 were Gus Knaack, president; Art Hammerstrom, vice-president; Dick Elliott, secretary; Ed Hendricks, treasurer; Bob Kline, membership chairman; Rollie Becker, publicity chairman; Joe Gruenes, rules chairman.

Senior officers responsible for the administration of the 1966 season will be Ranny Bateman, president; Jack Quint, vice-president; Ray Projahn, secretary; Alex McCornack, treasurer; Dick Fox, membership chairman; Walt Peterson, rules chairman; Jack Flick, publicity chairman; and Dave Shean, weather judge.

Special recognition was given to several of the old timers present, who have been in the league since its organization in 1941. The "weather beaten" veterans include Charles (Red) Barrow, Bill Mott, Walt Peterson, and Art Skelton.

TROPHIES WERE awarded to sponsors and team members of the top three teams of each division. Monday night trophy winners were Winkelmann's Shell Service, first place; Illinois Range, second; and Busse Motor Sales, third.

Tuesday night winners were Mount Prospect Electric Construction Co., first place and league champions; Carter Music Shop, second place; and Keefer's Pharmacy, third.

Special trophies were awarded to the most valuable players of each division. Monday night's most valuable was George Koehler with 20¼ points. Tuesday's most valuable was Dick Elliott, winner of 22½ points.

The final trophy was awarded to the alternate with the most points for the season. Carl Benrud easily topped all alternates with a grand total of 36 points.

Morton Moves

Steve's Leads PWCTL Play

So who's on top of the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League?

Steve's Restaurant.

So what else is new?

Steve's, the power-packed reigning champion of the PWCTL, continued to offer itself as a target for the rest of the league, giving the 4-0 whitewash treatment to Rolling Meadows Bowl in Saturday's action.

Lattof Motor Sales grabbed an undisputed second, putting down the new Striking Lanes outfit 3-1. Morton Pontiac, back in form, did the same to River Rand Bowl to move into third.

BONNIE KUHN

Steve's bowled without Winnie Lohse in its match, and Rolling Meadows Bowl was minus Kay Clark. The victors took it easy with big bulges in all three games and a final pin count of 2633 to 2325. The losers had one of those exceptionally cool nights, with Marlene Smith's 507 being the best series.

BONNIE KUHN was just the opposite for Steve's, clipping 226 in the first game and coming up with a 593 series. That was high for the evening in the PWCTL, and gave Bonnie the early individual average lead.

The evening's best single game was rolled by Judy Anderson of Striking Lanes, but it was enough only to help salvage a second game victory as Striking went down 3-1 to Lattof Motors. Judy had a 584 series, tops for her team.

Also at 584 was Donna Reinhardt, pacing the Lattof victory. She had games of 207, 181 and 196. Rose Kraft had 542 for the winners, as Lattof made it six points in two nights of league play, one point back of Steve's.

THE BEST team performance of the night was offered up by Morton Pontiac, though it bowled without Judy Reed. Morton crashed a total of 2656 pins in taking three points from River Rand Bowl, losing only the second game, and that by 21 pins. Jo Lindahl had 204-179-189—572 for Morton, but not far back were Ruth Baurhyte with 565 and Nancy Dietz with 558. For River Rand, the best was Gloria Lucchesi's 535.

The league's first big showdown will come early this year, with Steve's and Lattof meeting this Saturday night at Beverly Lanes. Also at Beverly, Morton will seek to continue its resurgence by colliding with Rolling Meadows Bowl, while River Rand Bowl and Striking Lanes will tackle each other in an effort to move up.

Pharmacy In 7-0 Win

Pioneer, Jeffery In Key PCTL Wins

Something had to give on the second Saturday of the new Paddock Classic Traveling League season.

With four teams tied for the top and four for the bottom, and the top four battling it out among each other, there had to be dramatic changes.

There were.

Brim's Pioneer Lanes, with a 5-2 victory over Morton Pontiac, and Jeffery Lanes, with the same over Bill Cook Buick, cut the number clustered for the lead to two. They each have 10 points now.

The week's biggest move was made by the new third place team, Karlsen Pharmacy. New to the league but not to bowling, the Karlsen men etched the season's first whitewash, applying the 7-0 treatment to City Welding Sales and Service, the league's other new entry.

Concourse Sports Chalet started its way up in the standings with a 5-2 triumph over the Brass Rail, landing in a three-way knot for fourth.

POWERFUL Pioneer — the team to beat until someone does it—claimed the night's best team pinfall, 2981, in taking care of Morton. The defending PCTL champs were led by George Schmidt (199-242-179—620) and Mike Dinschel (202-209-206—616), with Schmidt's series putting him in a familiar spot: the top of the league's individual average standings.

The Pioneer triumph was marked by consistency, with Pat Peterson getting 585, Bob Krisch 590 and Larry Thon 570.

Les Zikes Jr., second to Schmidt in average in the young season, started with a smashing 259 for Morton. He tapered off to a 190 and a 176, but still finished up with 625. Glenn Westman had 589, including a 211 that helped Morton get its two points with a first game 999 total.

JEFFERY TOOK the first two games from Bill Cook Buick, and lost by 24 pins in the third. No one cracked 600 in the match, rolled on Jeffery's lanes. High man was Jeffery's Don Christensen with 581, though team mate Bill Harris was but a pin back.

Paul Borvig, who started out with a 221 game for Bill Cook, slid off to 176 and 166 for a 563 series, tops for the losers. Norb Leja had 551.

The Karlsen Pharmacy rout of City Welding was led—appropriately—by Warren Karlsen. He put together games of 199, 233 and 215 for a 647 total, best of the evening in the league. His 233 in game two contributed to a 1011 team game total, also a best for the night. The druggists also got big shooting from Herm Simonis (235-207-189—631) and Jim Runkle (199-198-212—609), as they fattened up on their home Striking Lanes.

CITY WELDING'S scoring was a case of extremes, ranging from Bob Hurwitz' 487 to Dick Wirtz' 615 series. Lobby Lobinsky had 601.

Another match without a 600 series saw Sports Chalet and Brass Rail thrashing it out at Gunnell's Lanes. The confrontation produced the lowest scoring of the evening, with Sports Chalet taking games one and three and the point for pins, 2761-2614.

High man for the match, with games of 200, 187 and 193, was Sport's Bob Gill with 580. Tom Kouros had 556 and Ray Neumann 555. For the Railers, Warren Walter had 547 and Ted Zimmerman 545.

With the season still so young, a lot more should be changing in this Saturday's action. Brim's Pioneer will host always-tough Bill Cook Buick; Jeffery will seek to swell its total against Brass Rail at River Rand Bowl; Karlsen Pharmacy will draw some rough opposition as it hosts Sports Chalet at Striking Lanes; and City Welding will be seeking to rebound as it takes on Morton Pontiac at Thunderbird Bowl.

In Cross Country

St. Viator Stops Glenbrook, Carmel

St. Viator's varsity cross country team evened its record at 2-2 Monday afternoon and the frosh-sophs remained unbeaten.

Coach Bob Runtz' varsity harriers put five runners in the top nine to pull out a 26-29 victory over Carmel of Mundelein.

Under adverse weather conditions the Lions yielded the varsity first to Carmel but gained the second and third slots thanks to Mike Cunningham and Bob Nemec.

Also scoring for St. Viator were Greg Peterhans in fifth, Rich in seventh, and Louis Peterhans in ninth.

The young Lions finished 1-2-3-4-6 in scoring a 16-45 victory over Carmel for their third straight triumph of the 1965 season.

Tom Mulcahy was first across and he was followed by teammates Tom Dwyer, Balaz, and Botterman. Woods placed sixth.

Last Friday afternoon St. Viator scored two wins over Glenbrook South of the Central Suburban League.

The varsity Lions triumphed, 24-31, for their first win of the season. Mike Cunningham was first across the line on a varsity level with a 10:37 clocking over the 1.9 miles course.

Also scoring for the Lions were Fred Booth in third, Greg Peterhans in fifth, Mike Tremblay in seventh, and Louis Peterhans in eighth.

Mulcahy was the individual winner in frosh-soph ranks with an 11:06 effort. Dwyer (3), Balaz (4), Spellan (5), and Botterman (6) also scored for the Lions.

Wildcat Harriers Split First Meets

Wheeling opened its cross country season with a close defeat but then came back strong to capture a one-sided victory.

The Wildcats were topped by Maine South 24-32 last Friday in their first meet of the year. They didn't take any chances on losing Tuesday however and whipped Highland Park 16-40.

AGAINST MAINE the Wheeling finishers were Doug Steinman, 3rd; Bill Lytle, 4th; Lenny Eaton, 5th; Andy Black, 9th; and Paul Fiegen, 11th. Eaton and Black are sophomores.

Fiegen came back against Highland Park and so did the whole Wheeling team. Paul finished first against HP in a time of 11 minutes and four seconds.

Second through sixth places were taken by Steinman, Lytle, Eaton and Black. Carl Meisenheimer was the sixth runner for the Wildcats. He came in 10th.

Wheeling's frosh-soph runners also split in their first two meets. They sank before Maine South 21-35 but topped Highland Park 24-31.

PHIL SMITH was the front runner for the Wildcats frosh-sophs in both meets. He was fourth against MS and first against HP.

Other Wheeling lower level runners against Maine were Steve Mykytiuk, 5th; Scott Poklen, 6th; Al Eilts, 9th; and Terry Kuipeg 11th. Poklen was 3rd, Bill Martin 4th, Mykytiuk 7th and Eilts 9th against Highland Park.

Next cross country meet for Wheeling is this Saturday. The Wildcats, under varsity coach Ken Carter and F-S coach Gary Tjarks, will host Glenbrook North at 12:30 p.m.

"GOD ...not chance"

The more deeply you understand the power and love of God, the less you believe in chance. There's a law of Spirit much greater than the law of averages, and those who discover it, and live by it, will help to light the world's way out of chaos. Hear this public lecture titled "God — Not Chance" by NORMAN B. HOLMES, C.S.B., member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

MOUNT EMBLEM
"Illinois' Most Beautiful Cemetery"
Site of the
OLD DUTCH MILL
Built in 1850
The DuPage County Historical Society presented an AWARD OF HONOR to Mount Emblem in 1956 for preserving the Old Dutch Mill as an educational and historic exhibit.
Visitors to the Old Dutch Mill are always welcome.
Autumn brings a glorious burst of color to the superb landscape of Mount Emblem. This is one of Nature's most impressive moments which we invite you to enjoy.
You will see acre upon acre of multi-colored effects from our great variety of trees and shrubs each lending its particular hue to the scene.
For such extensive landscaping you could reasonably expect to pay more. Yet our prices are moderate. It costs no more to own the best.

FOR THE FAMILY MANAGER

ITEM: Chose the proper wax for your floor. Solvent-type waxes give a soft lustre to a wood floor but, because of the naptha in them, cause asphalt and rubber tile to become gummy. Use a self polishing wax on asphalt and vinyl floors. Do not use a liquid polishing wax on asphalt or rubber, do not wax marble or ceramic tile.

ITEM: Fingerprints leave smudges — and germs — on doorknobs, doorframes and telephones. Sponge smudgy places with a pine oil cleaner solution. Not only will the "evidence", but most of the germs will disappear too.

ITEM: If summer slacks and trousers are stored on crossbar hangers, change their positions now and then to avoid cross-creases.

Dancer Ends Stint At Theatre Camp

SHARON KASSEL

Sharon Kassel, 2406 Willow Lane, Rolling Meadows, recently returned from nine weeks of teaching dancing at the Harand Camp of the Theatre Arts in Elkhart Lake, Wis.

In addition to her teaching, Sharon also did choreography for the two camp theatres which staged such productions as "The King and I," "The Wizard of Oz," "Plain and Fancy," "South Pacific," "Guys and Dolls" and "Carousel."

This summer's job represented a change in pace for the Rolling Meadows dancer and teacher. Usually she goes on a dance tour during the summer months. In the past she has performed both in the United States and Canada. She also uses the summer to brush up on her own dancing techniques by taking courses at the N.A.D.A Conservatory in Chicago.

The Harand camp at which Sharon taught is open to children from 6 to 18 who are interested in the theatre. They are trained in acting, singing and dancing and present several shows during the nine-week session. The camp also has a teenage stock company which performs for the public as the only repertory company in the United States dedicated to music theatre for young people.

Sharon now is in her fourth year of teaching for the Delores Eiler School of Dance. She is a member of the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artist and Dance Caravan. (Bill

'Pleasure' Was a Pleasure

By JIM PHILLIPS
Paddock Drama Critic

It was a pleasure to be in their company during "The Pleasure of His Company."

Call that a critical summation of my Saturday evening with Des Plaines Theatre Guild, a troupe of players about to strut the stage for a 20th season of dramatic service to a growing community. A major reason for DPTG's successful production of the Samuel Taylor-Cornelia Otis Skinner comedy was smooth direction by Allen Hall, a man who successfully steered clear of double-trouble as director and actor (he weaved a tight carpet of characterization as Pogo Poole, the "worldly-wandering father who comes back to give his daughter away in marriage.").

JOINING HALL and working with him, not against him, were Maureen Wadas (Jessica Poole), Edith Wilson (Katherine Daugherty), Keith Honn (Jim Daugherty), Howard Huntley (the grandfather), Robert Fennell (Roger) and Sue Anne Anderson (the Chinese servant, Toy).

For the most part, these talented ladies and gentlemen delivered their lines well and delivered their characters accurately. Hall, although at times teetering on the crest of "ham" while pitching Pogo to his audience, nevertheless disciplined himself, finally, from hypnotizing the paying crowd into believing he was a suburban facsimile of Cyril Ritchard. He moved well, had the facility to pick up a few vocal fumbles and carry on smoothly, and certainly brought his role through that strange no man's land of "What a scoundrel, but what a nice scoundrel."

Miss Wilson is a messenger of the mature female. She gave the audience an obvious Cornelia Otis Skinner idea of what a Kate Daugherty should be like. Maureen Wadas had class, youth and a sprightliness which enabled her to define Jessica correctly.

HONN PRESENTED a good lawyer-type, and Huntley was expert at putting across the grandfatherian wit and charm, not to mention the accompanying philosophical lines. Robert Fennell came on strong as the young man about not-to-be-married. Mr. Fennell has a good voice and a flare for facial expression which helped his delivered lines.

Miss Anderson's Toy suffered from a lack of projection. And I question whether it was necessary to go overboard on the make-up (or call it the general appearance of the Chinese servant): the skin-tight head covering and velly-velly Chinese pancake make-up shade.

The Taylor-Skinner ode to being - free - before - you - succumb - to - the - prison - of - marriage is largely a play, the success of which is dependent upon the ability of the players to converse, not merely deliver lines. On this conversational hook, Director Allen Hall hung his hat and the hats of his on-stage colleagues. The hatrack was still full when the final moments of Act 3 were on countdown.

"THE PLEASURE of His Company" was amusing, formidable with its message and entertaining—and this is all a community theater audience asks in return for its ticket money.

Future Des Plaines Guild shows for this season—"A Far Country," "Arms and the Man" "Streetcar Named Desire" are far more challenging than "Pleasure"—the question is, will they be as easy to take? (Bill

Masque and Staff Patron Sales 450; Expect More

A combined patron and membership drive recently completed by the Masque and Staff community theater group was a resounding success, according to those in charge.

Results of the drive were reported to the group at a new member induction party Sept. 13 at the Maitre d' Restaurant in Elk Grove Village.

Liz Romero, co-chairman of the patron drive, reported a total of 450 patron, or season passes sold in the one-month drive. With outstanding requests still being filled, Mrs. Romero predicted that this season's goal of 500 passes would probably be reached.

WINNERS of the team and individual competitions staged during the drive also were announced by Mrs. Romero. Bonnie Casey's team took top honors in that contest with 165 sales. Guy Marsh won the individual championship with personal sales totaling 92. Prizes were awarded the winners.

Mrs. Casey, co-chairman of the membership drive, announced that 21 new members have been tentatively signed up. The individual recruiting prize was awarded to Guy Marsh in a close finish that required a flip of a coin to decide the winner. Marsh tied with Diane Calkins, who was presented with the second place award.

Those attending the party were told of plans for a biweekly drama workshop class, to be conducted by a professional director, and a series of films on the theater to be shown monthly, free of charge, to all interested member and patrons.

MAJOR emphasis in the workshop will be placed on acting skills, with attention also given to technical aspects of show production and to play direction. Classes are open to any member, regardless of experience. The first workshop was held last night (Wednesday) at Ridge School.

One of the films in the theater series also was previewed. Titles of the 13 films include "The Drama: One of the Humanities," "Hamlet: The Age of Elizabeth" and "Thornton Wilder: Our Town and Our Universe." Showings are tentatively scheduled for the third Monday of each month in one of the schools in Elk Grove Village.

Patron passes for the current Masque and Staff season are still available and may be purchased at $4 each by calling Bonnie Casey at HE 7-0617. Membership is open to any adult resident of Elk Grove Township.

Plays in the 1965-66 season include "Sunday in New York," "Puss in Boots" (a play for children) and "Mary, Mary." The latter will be presented in the popular dinner - and - play format, according to Mrs Casey.

Theatre Guild Will Sponsor Actor Workshop

Experienced and novice actors alike are invited to tarticipate in an acting workshop sponsored by the Des Plaines Theatre Guild and conducted by Don Baylor.

The first of five planned sessions will start at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines. Persons desiring further information or seeking to enroll should call workshop secretary Mrs. Francis Alessandro at 439-2986.

Baylor, who directed last season's productions of "The Gioconda Smile" and "The Glass Menagerie" for the Guild, indicates that he plans to "concentrate on ridding the individual of the fears, tensions, inhibitions and shyness which may rob the beginning and advanced actor of up to 75 per cent of his ability to use whatever talent he may possess."

500 Dolls! They're Collector's Pride and Joy

Many Come from Foreign Countries

by PAT ADAM
Staff Writer

When Mrs. Charles Mueller, 520 N. Elm St., Mount Prospect, was about 15 months old, a friend gave Mrs. Mueller's mother an Indian doll with a china head.

That was the start of a doll collection now numbering close to 500, although Liz Mueller, as she's known to family and friends, admits it seems more like a thousand when she's cleaning up the dolls.

Liz was about eight when her mother began buying dolls for her daughter regularly each month from a mail order import house in Missouri that specialized in dolls from foreign lands.

"Unfortunately that place went out of business shortly after World War II. It was involved in some kind of scandal, giving away state secrets or something," Liz explained.

She's never found another source quite like that one.

PRACTICALLY all of Mrs. Mueller's dolls come either from a foreign country or a special section of the United States. Many she received from her father, who traveled extensively while she was growing up and nearly always brought back a doll when he returned from a business trip. As a girl, she also used to get dolls as gifts on birthdays, Christmas or other special occasions.

Liz pointed to the array of Snow White and the seven dwarfs on one shelf of the nearly ceiling high glass-fronted cupboards that stretch two-thirds across one side of the Mueller's attic.

"I remember the Christmas I got the Snow White set," she recalled with a chuckle. "We came down Christmas morning and were met by this peculiar odor. We finally discovered it came from the doll set. They're rubber."

Several of her dolls are created of wood, fibers or other products native to the area from which the doll came. Among the most fascinating is a Siwash Indian couple whose hands and heads are made of chemically treated apple. Liz acquired these dolls when she inherited part of the doll collection belonging to her late mother-in-law.

"My mother-in-law bought these dolls back in the 1940's when she was in the state of Washington. Their heads and hands keep wrinkling more each year," she explained.

The black wizened countenances truly resemble those of aging human beings.

ANOTHER of her unusual dolls is made from silk cocoons. The doll typifies a well-do-do Korean who has sinned and joined a group of beggar monks as penance. Liz's husband, who was recalled to military duty during the Korean War, had told her of seeing these monks, and when Liz spied the cocoon figure at a Chicago museum, she bought it.

Two other dolls that have particular meaning for both the Muellers are a German boy and girl from Spreewald, the section of Germany from which the Mueller family migrated. These dolls also came into Liz's hands by way of her mother-in-law's collection.

ONE OF Liz's favorites is a parachuting airman, 'arry the 'awk, made in England and sold during World War II to benefit the Royal Air Force Comforts Fund. Since Liz's mother is a native of Canada, this doll carries special significance for the Mount Prospect homemaker.

Until the Muellers moved to Mount Prospect 13 years ago, Liz limited her collection to smaller dolls. At home she had a curved front cabinet plus shelves above her desk where she displayed her dolls. Along with the dolls from her mother-in-law's collection, Liz also inherited the glass-fronted cupboards in which she now keeps many of her dolls. However, some are still packed away in boxes, and she hopes some day they can finish off the attic and make more space for her to show the dolls.

While the cabinets help to keep the dolls clean and moth-free, Liz occasionally has to dust them and spray the figures with moth spray. There is also a bit of mending to do now and then, maybe gluing back a foot or putting a new head on a body, and she sometimes has to sew a costume, though most of the dolls were dressed when she got them.

ONE FOR WHICH she sewed an outfit is also the one she thinks she'd probably grab first if she were ever forced to rescue just one doll from a fire. Originally in her mother-in-law's collection, this doll is a bug-eyed little boy with bisque head, garbed in short pants and long-sleeved white shirt, complete with jabot, typical, Liz said, of what little boys wore about 1920.

Besides dolls, Liz also collects stamps. She's active in the Wheeling Township Republican Women's organization, belongs to the VFW auxiliary in Mount Prospect, bowls in the women's league of St. Mark Lutheran Church and looks after Duncan, the Mueller's 80-pound Boxer.

MANY FOREIGN LANDS and most sections of the United States are represented in the nearly 500 dolls collected by Mrs. Charles Mueller of Mount Prospect since she was a youngster. Some are of such unusual materials as shells, fibers, wax, leather and llama wool, even apples and silk cocoons. But Mrs. Mueller's favorite is the little boy doll she holds in her hand; she made the suit he wears. (Staff Photo)

Help for Teens Is Soap, Water

Do you ever look back at your teen years with nostalgia for freedom from the responsibilities of adulthood? While you're at it, don't forget the worries of junior and senior high school boys and girls. At that age of change, ambitions, desires, confusions, and conflicts abound.

In the teenager's continuous striving for popularity, personal appearance becomes extremely important. As a result, any kind of skin blemish appears magnified, and complexion care is of major concern.

One of the most effective aids in complexion care is frequent washings with soap.

Leaving the soap on the face for a minute or two before rinsing will have more of a drying effect than a fast wash and rinse. If enlarged pores are a problem, a cold water rinse will help shrink them.

Of course, external care is not the sole solution to problem skin; it must be combined with adequate rest and balanced diet for effective results.

Career Clinic Set for Tuesday

Experts from five fields, communications, education, social service, real estate and merchandising will be speakers.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. R. J. Schlott of Arlington Heights at 392-7952.

The check was the final payment on a $100,000 pledge, and proceeds from the luncheon show will be applied to the Auxiliary's new pledge of $150,000.

Parents Must Grow Up When Daughter Goes Off to College

By DR. JEAN LIEDMAN
Dean of Women, Monmouth College

Yes, Dad, your darling daughter is off to college. Have you seen the stage or screen version of "Take Her, She's Mine?" Oh, there's a froth and sophistication to hold the audience, but much truth in the closing lines: "I can see now, it was just a question of growing up," the father sighs. To which his wife adds, "You know there were times when I never thought you would."

Truly, Dad, you and mother will get practice in growing up as daughter cuts the family ties, strikes out on her own, and leaves the nest. You've been running interference long enough. College is the testing ground for the rapidly changing world she'll need to face.

Even though you've been told many times that college is no longer four years in a country club atmosphere, you may be skeptical. If your daughter's going to Monmouth, though, you may have been "reading along" with daughter as she dug into those books for summer reading: Fromm, "Man For Himself"; Read, "Philosophy of Modern Art"; Gamow, "One, Two, Three, Infinity"; Golding, "Lord of the Flies"; Heilbroner, "The Making of Economic Society"; Conant, "Modern Science and Modern Man." There is a change of emphasis, a new seriousness of purpose in higher education today, as you'll soon find out.

BE ASSURED that most high schools have been preparing your son or daughter for this and that young people, at least a majority of them, delight in the challenge. They have youth, resiliency and, given encouragement, drive. Note the enthusiastic response to the Peace Corps program.

So they're off to college to grapple with ideas, to grow emotionally and spiritually as well as intellectually. What part do you play? You pay the bills, become a good "listening post" and an anchor for stability. Let's consider a few ways the maturing process can be speeded up by you.

Your daughter won't need her entire wardrobe or an elaborate one. Most residence halls have limited closet space. Upperclass girls enviously meow, "You can always tell a freshman. She has the latest styles in dresses, suits, matched ensembles and cashmere and mohair sweaters, to say nothing of shoes."

BUT CLOTHING won't give her status. Neither will talk about her car, a ranch or summer home. Most schools do not permit freshmen to have cars. Students are usually keen in evaluating—status will be given on other grounds. Is she a good housekeeper? There's maid service, but clothes scattered around the room will be a clue for the maid to by-pass that room. If disorder reigns, the house council may take away a date night. Does she make her own bed, wash and iron her own clothes? If she isn't used to the routine, she's in for a rude awakening!

Did she keep hours during the week while going to high school? Most colleges and universities expect this of first-term freshmen, and Monmouth is no exception. Upperclass girls, those who have had experience, believe a routine study and work schedule is essential. They try to accent this early.

It is possible they don't want freshmen to take all the upperclass men. But it's more realistic to say that if there are no C grade-point averages or higher among the freshman women at the end of the term, there would be no prospects for the sororities to rush.

MONMOUTH COLLEGE is one of many colleges with "deferred rush" held during the second term in January. Here is where parents and adult friends need to "grow up." Every year, despite all panhellenic regulations, some parents still try to manipulate an individual sorority and make their daughters unhappy, frustrated and ill.

Times have changed—what you might have wanted in your day is not what daughter wants. Let her make her own decision—to join or not to join and which one. The refrain is, "My mother won't understand; she'll think I let her down."

Don't urge daughter to come home on weekends and cling to you and those high school chums who see her as a glamorous girl. Encourage her to try her charm or maybe her brainpower in new and wider horizons. Too many weekends at home, and she'll miss out on the study and social life which is so essential in her new environment.

Expect her to be so busy the first few weeks that letters may not reach you. Don't phone to rebuke or show alarm; just keep writing, and she'll respond when the need arises. But if you want your budget to be balanced, discourage telephone calls. Telephone companies may appreciate your business, but this won't improve daughter's theme writing.

HAVE YOU PUT her on an allowance? Most girls have monthly ones. Textbooks run high, but she can have you billed for these on some campuses, so that you'll not expect her to buy them from her allowance.

True, you hope she'll keep that trim figure. But don't expect the impossible. Group living is partially an enjoyment of food. The balanced diet she'll get at the college dining hall, plus evening snacks, results in added pounds. By November she'll decide to exercise and cut out desserts and by Christmas she'll be weighing about normal. (At least you can be optimistic!)

You want her to make good scholastically, but beware of undue pressure. If she writes that she is really studying—in fact all night for an exam—you might drop a hint that health comes first and that a little judicious planning will get better results. She pictures herself a martyr as she slaves all night. What she failed to consider were those wasted hours in the student center.

If she phones to say she is in the infirmary—don't panic! Find out whether she went in Friday night and gave up dates all weekend or whether she signed in Monday morning before that big math or science exam. You've heard of someone being "accident prone"? When the going gets rough, students get "infirmary prone."

TODAY HIGHER education is still a privilege. It demands concentration, and your daughter can develop the stamina and the sense of values she needs to cope with the world. It isn't easy to stay in Friday or Saturday night to bone for four hours on math that doesn't "just come naturally." Especially when it means accepting the fact that there are girls who have keen minds and attract knowledge like magnets. But as she makes a realistic assessment of her abilities and meets others who have staying power and determination, she'll gain in intellectual satisfaction.

One or two problems facing parents, faculty members and administrators are the urge to marry and the loss of career motivation. You read of it in the book, "The Feminine Mystique." The ever-present refrain, "Get your man immediately; marriage is the answer to all your problems," is a real "fairy tale."

Those girls who have observed early high school marriages with all their complications are becoming more objective. In the space age, trained minds are needed in greater numbers. Experts tell us there aren't enough men to fill the gap. Modern woman needs to become involved in a career before marriage and again when her children are on their own. America needs her brainpower, and your daughter needs a sense of achievement to be a creative individual.

Alexian Auxiliary Plans Annual Ball

A change of pace is in store for members of Alexian Brothers Hospital Auxiliary as they plan for their third annual ball, set for Oct. 9 in Itasca Country Club. The auxiliary is primarily a "working" group, so this is always a highlight of the year.

A Hawaiian theme will take the dinner dance guests to the far-off islands for an evening of gaiety. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m., leading up to dinner of prime ribs of beef and dancing to the music of Chuck Cavallo's band.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Robert Fleming, 437-0134.

ALTHOUGH ONLY a few years old, the 230-member auxiliary has had success in raising a good part of its $55,000 pledge to the hospital building fund.

Members run a farmhouse kitchen for construction workers on the hospital site in Elk Grove Village. The group is now setting up a volunteer service program and making items such as "Alex," a hand puppet to be used in the pediatrics department. All members are actively engaged in recruiting new members, which are needed when the hospital opens in early '66. (SSD

Modern China Is AAUW StudyTopic

A 2-year study of modern China, a land with its roots in the past, has been undertaken by an Arlington Heights AAUW group headed by Mrs. Charles Toot, past president of the branch. The study group had its first meeting last Wednesday in the Toot home at 901 N. Yale, Arlington Heights.

"Revolution in Modern China" is the title of their study, being started now by American Association of University Women branches across the country.

A quotation from Sun Yat-Sen, "Once one understands, action is easy," was cited by Mrs. Toot in outlining the study group's schedule. The first year's work, she said, will involve China's history, particularly as it pertains to that country's interactions with the West. Next year's look at Red China and its policies will be built upon that historical base.

The Art study group will also begin a new study at its meeting Tuesday, Sept. 28, at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. John Parsons, 508 S. George, Mount Prospect. Their program on "Art of the American Indian" will be the first in a series on art of America's minority groups.

Old Steam Engine Hauls City Folks to County Fair

by BETTY AINSLIE

What is an excursion? According to Webster it's a short trip taken with the intention of returning to the point of departure. Usually a round trip at reduced rates with limits set on the time of departure and return.

Excursions were taken with picnic basket in hand, never a grip, to some point of interest and return.

A number of these trips use Chicago as a focal point and depart and return there — all we need is a means of finding out about them.

FOR INSTANCE a Saturday or so ago we took a family excursion to Sandwich, Ill., to the county fair on a trail pulled by the old fashioned steam engine. There were about 20 cars, modern and old, hitched to a giant puffer engine and I was amazed at the number of people crowding the cars for the trip.

"I never miss one of these steam engine trips," declared a retired railroad man sitting in a seat near us. "You always meet people who are friendly and see something different and it's always fun. Yes, sir," he continued lighting his pipe. "It's a day I always look forward to."

It was just by chance that I saw a small write-up in a Chicago paper of this forthcoming trip. It sounded unusual so Pop purchased tickets and we joined the mobs who seem to make these trips whenever they are offered.

Many retired take a day from the monotony of daily living and enjoy this trip. There were families in abundance, older couples and a number of teenagers. There were church groups and young people's organizations, but the majority were families out for a day of fun.

THE ENGINE as a mighty steam one and where were a few oldtime cars scattered among the modern double-deck commuters. Lunch was included with the price of the ticket after you reached the fair grounds and all coupled with a beautiful day made the trip really different.

We were deposited about three blocks down a country road from the entrance to the fair, and met by the Sandwich High School band which briskly marched us in.

Two farmers leaning on a tractor's side declared as I walked by. "This fair wouldn't make a nickel if it weren't for these train loads of city folk coming today and tomorrow." And I guess maybe it wouldn't as there were over a thousand of all shapes and sizes from the excursion train that spilled in and around the fair grounds.

LUNCH AT ANY of the various food concession stands included sandwich and home made pie — no bakery stuff here, these were genuine good fruit pies. I watched one woman busily cutting pie after pie into generous wedges, she looked up and smiled.

"It's like the arrival of a bunch of hungry locusts when the train comes to the fair believe me, we don't have much left when you leave."

Other concession stands opened for business quickly, the rides started going and there wasn't a child in sight without a balloon or cotton candy.

The afternoon was climaxed by harness racing which we watched from a fair sized grandstand. To add a little spice and excitement you could select a horse you figured would win — write your name and choice on a "pick a winner" card. After each race a name was selected and if it was your name and you'd picked the winner you received five dollars.

THERE WERE all sorts of farm machinery exhibits along with a building containing the pride of the farmer's wife — pickles, bakery goods, jellies, candy, needlework and paintings.

The hundreds of city folk looked and bought. The catch penny concessions did a brisk business on the possibility of winning a stuffed toy. The rides were shortened and we all upset our digestions with a mixture of hot dogs on a stick, lemonade, popcorn, fudge, ice cream bars, soft drinks and taffy.

The train loaded up for the return trip about five. Tooted its whistle gayly all the way home and pulled into Chicago with a quick chance for the more adventuresome boys to climb aboard the steam engine as it puffed slowly in the station.

Tired and thirsty youngsters fretted or slept the trip home. But I agreed with a woman I met washing her hands in the Union station washroom before she boarded a bus for her home.

"THESE EXCURSIONS are sure fun — I always get home tired; but by golly the day makes a nice memory even though you get filthy dirty on these steam trips." She dried her hands pushing through a crowd of women and children.

"This is my fourth different trip with the old steam engine and I'll be watching the paper for other ones. You meet the nicest people and it's always a day you know you'll do something different." (S

A Hawaiian Luau was given in the home of Mrs. Frank Bellamia of Elk Grove Village Junior Woman's Club when she and co-hostesses, Mrs. Nick Boudas, Mrs. George Mullen, Mrs. William Sobaski and Mrs. Harold Thompson, introduced the American Home group to Hawaii.

Guests wore muumuus and hula skirts and were greeted at the door with a flower lei and the greeting "Aloha," which means love and affection.

The table included such island feasts as sweet sour pork, pineapple meat balls, rice, assorted fruit and nut breads, a watermelon bowl of fresh fruits sprinkled with coconut and rum pineapple punch.

The program featured Miss Linda Schwauber of Lyric School of Dance in Des Plaines, who performed several dances and then instructed the women in the hula and other Tahitian dances.

MRS. ARNOLD Shaw, chairman of the American Home group, announced that "This is the U.S.A." is the theme being used for meetings this year, with emphasis on climate, customs and foods of various areas. (S

Buffalo Grove Club Views Zany Models

A comic style show entitled "Fashions with a Funny Flair" was featured at the Buffalo Grove Women's Club's first fall meeting Sept. 15. Models from the club's membership displayed various zany styles described in tongue-in-cheek manner as appropriate for Buffalo Grove matrons.

Among outfits which particularly amused the audience were a trout-fishing ensemble to be worn with non-coordinated hair rollers and slipper socks to be donned for chasing garbage trucks which arrive before the wearer gets her garbage cans out.

Greatest applause for appropriateness was evoked by a maternity smock and shorts outfit described as the Buffalo Grove matron's "uniform."

During the business meeting, club president Mrs. Sandy Navin welcomed newcomers and guests and explained the two-fold civic and social purpose of the club. Officers and committee chairmen also explained their goals and gave reports.

In recent months the club has been responsible for a number of donations to Buffalo Grove. Members Mrs. Kenneth Monsen, Mrs. John Sheldon, Mrs. J. Hantula, Mrs. Vernon King, Mrs. Fred Borgardt, Mrs. Earl Schabel, Mrs. Dean Hanebuth and Mrs. Gerald Kates collaborated to re-make draperies for Buffalo Grove fieldhouse. These draperies were hung in time for Buffalo Grove Day, with fixtures purchased through the assistance of Walter Moore of the Ben Franklin store in Dunhurst.

The four fire extinguishers, large coffee pot and new wall clock at the fieldhouse, were other recent donations of the club. (S Scheduled for the October meeting is the installation of officers and a potluck dinner. The club is open to all interested men and women in the community and is held in Pioneer Park Field House the fourth Monday of each month at 8 p.m. (S

On OES Program

Tonight, Thursday, Sept. 23, Bethel 103, Job's Daughters, will present a special ritualistic ceremony for the members of Arlington Heights Eastern Star Chapter at the Arlington Heights Masonic Temple.

Bethel 103 has scheduled a car wash for Saturday, Oct. 2, with Miss Vicky Slater, 406 W. Fremont, Arlington Heights, as chairman. (S

Schaumburg Juniors Greet New Members

New members will be installed at the Oct. 4 meeting of Schaumburg Junior Woman's Club. The evening begins at 8 in the Great Hall of Schaumburg Community Center.

Anyone who missed the recent tea but is interested in joining the club at this time may call Mrs. John Brandenberg, 529-1385, or Mrs. Arthur Wagner, 894-9311.

THE CLUB is participating in the current Illinois Federation project, selling candy to benefit brain research. Schaumburg Juniors will be dressed in costume and ringing door bells to sell the candy in the area Saturday, Oct. 16. Proceeds go to the Brain Research Foundation of the University of Chicago.

At the club's Sept. 13 meeting, it was announced that a member, Mrs. John Adams, is on the slate as treasurer for the forthcoming Community Council election.

ALSO AT THE meeting, Mrs. Joseph Spero received a past president's charm bracelet from the board. Mrs. Spero, who resigned from her office due to ill health, was unable to attend the installation banquet in spring.

"One of the nicest duties of being president is to present your successor with her president's pin," said Mrs. Spero upon learning that Mrs. Arthur Wagner had not worn her pin since the installation. (S

Area Couple Married In Noon Nuptial Mass

White floral arrangements with touches of blue and lavender decorated St. Thomas of Villanova Church in Palatine Aug. 14 for the noon-time nuptial mass in which a Palatine girl, Barbara Anne Lietz, and an Arlington Heights man, Ervin Edward Gramit, repeated their marriage vows. Officiating at the double ring service was Rev. Francis C. Waldron.

The bride is the daughter of the Albert J. Lietzes, 124 Winston Drive, Palatine, and the groom is the son of the Ervin F. Gramits, 711 N. Wilke Road, Arlington Heights.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an organza gown fashioned with scalloped neckline, Dior sleeves and a bouffant skirt flowing into a chapel train accented with peau d'ange lace and beaded trim. Her triple-tiered veil of silk illusion was fingertip in length, and it was held in place by a 2-tiered crown of pearls and crystals.

HER "SOMETHING old" was a golden pendant with diamond center and drop pearl. The pendant had been handed down from the bride's grandmother to her mother. The bride's bouquet was of stephanotis with a white orchid center.

Miss Ann M. Murphy of Long Island, N.Y. was the bride's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Gramit of Arlington Heights and Miss Karen Madsen of Palatine. Their floor-length gowns were of blue organza fashioned with scooped necklines, elbow-length sleeves, empire bodices and A-line skirts detailed with embroidered daisies.

Four-year-old Beth Zender of Palatine was flower girl. Her gown was also floor-length but fashioned of blue organza with white overlay. She carried a basket of rose petals.

THE GROOM'S attendants, all in blue tuxedo jackets to match the bridesmaids' ensembles, were John Heintz Jr. of Arlington Heights as best man, and James Murphy and Gary Dhein of Chicago as ushers.

The bride's mother chose a floor-length gown of French blue chiffon with lavender orchid corsage, while the groom's mother chose a floor-length gown of mint green with white orchid corsage.

Following the reception, which was held for 150 guests in Arlington Heights Elks Club, the newlyweds left for a 10-day honeymoon in Miami Beach. Since Aug. 23 they have been at home at 304 N. Brockway, Palatine.

The bride was graduated from Palatine High School and completed two years at Northern Illinois University. She is now with Illinois Bell Telephone Company. The groom, a graduate of Arlington High School, is with Osco Drug Company. (S

SEN. GEORGE MURPHY

Sherry Past Sews Her Own Gown for August Wedding

A 1964 graduate of Palatine High School, Miss Sherry Louise Past, became Mrs. Charles F. Hoening Aug. 14 in a double ring service held in Palatine's Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church. The talented bride, daughter of the Earl R. Pasts, 260 S. Poteet Road, made her own wedding dress and carried a handkerchief that her mother used as a bride.

Miss Past and Mr. Hoening, son of the Frank G. Hoenings of Cary, were married by Pastor Robert C. Sauer in a four o'clock double ring service. White glads decorated the altar and the pews were marked with white bows.

The bride fashioned her gown along princess lines with sweetheart neckline. It was made of crystaline satin with puffed sleeves of lace. Her veil, which she also made, was four layers of tulle and was held in place by two roses. A cascade of phalaenopsis with a center of two white cattleya orchids with white and blue stephanotis made up her bouquet.

Mr. Past gave his daughter in marriage.

MISS SUE Sander of Palatine served as the bride's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Diane Morrison of Barrington, Mrs. Virginia Goodwin of Des Plaines and Mrs. Pamala Zuffante of Morton Grove. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Beth Campbell. All wore identical fashioned with A-line skirts of sky blue crepe with royal blue velvet trim. Their headpieces, styled and made by the bride, were small velvet flowers ranging from sky blue to royal, and centered with a white glamellia tipped with royal blue.

The groom's 7-year-old twin cousins, Tamara and Pamala Hoening of Chicago, were flower girls. Their gowns were the same as the bridesmaids' and they carried a basket of white carnations tipped with sky blue and white glamellias.

Six-year-old Jonathan Past brother of the bride, served as ring bearer, as did the groom's 5-year-old brother, Kieran Hoening.

THE SERVICE was followed by a buffet reception in Palatine Fireman's Hall where Mrs. Past received the 150 guests in a peacock blue crepe sheath with lace bodice and corsage of two white orchids. Mrs. Hoening chose a silk print empire dress with two white orchids.

The couple's brothers attended the groom, Bruce Hoening as best man and Brian Hoening and Richard and Robert Past as ushers. Junior usher was another brother of the groom, Kevin Hoening.

The newlyweds honeymooned at the Abbey Hotel at Lake Geneva and are now residing in a mobile home at 815 E. Oakton, Des Plaines. The bride is employed by Illinois Bell Telephone Company, and her groom, a 1961 graduate of Glenbard West High School, is with Clayton Mark and Company, Production Control. (S

JUNIOR COTILLION

Ballroom Dance Classes for 7th, 8th, Frosh and Sophomore Boys and Girls

Delores Eiler

The purpose behind our Jr. Cotillion is to teach boys and girls to dance properly at the age easiest for them to gain self-confidence and poise they will need for later social activities. It is a fact that boys developing a sense of rhythm and coordination through dancing, usually excel in athletics. Most of the performing senior boys in our group had their start as Cotillion members.

Ten 1½ hour lessons will be held every other Friday evening, starting in October, at our Arlington Heights and Palatine studios. Dances taught are the cha cha, foxtrot, swing, and waltz. Social etiquette is an integral part of the lessons.

There will be a limit of 25 girls and boys per group. Therefor, to avoid last minute confusion, we ask you to register before October 1 so that we know how many groups to prepare for. All students registering by mail will be notified of dates and class time.

Wheeling Juniors Greet New Members

Wheeling Junior Woman's Club welcomed new and prospective members at their opening meeting for this year Tuesday night at the Jack London Junior High School. The evening was devoted mainly to acquainting these ladies with the club and its activities. Each chairman had a few moments to discuss her particular area of work, giving new "workers" a chance to decide where their own interest lay.

For the social hour, social chairman, Mrs. Juliette Platte and her committee devised a birthday celebration theme to tie in with the club's tenth birthday this year. There were four birthday tables, one for each season of the year, and members and guests sat at the table representing the season in which their birthday fell. The decor was traditional for a birthday party, with candles and cakes for each season.

THE CLUB is now planning their first annual dinner dance to be held on Saturday night, Oct. 23 at the Glenview Air Station Officer's Club. The ways and means committee under Mrs. Marge Olson promise a gala night for all.

Highlight of the evening will be the auction of an original painting by Mrs. Dana Benjamin showing the club's dream vision of the old Wheeling Village Hall, as they see it restored and used for the advantage of the community. (S

Mary Ellen Taylor, Groom Now Reside in Michigan

A romance that began in Prospect High School culminated in marriage Aug. 21 for Miss Mary Ellen Taylor, daughter of the Thomas C. Taylors, 714 S. Louis, Mount Prospect, and John S. Howitt, son of the Jack Howitts of Birmingham, Mich., former Mount Prospect residents. Following high school, Miss Taylor was graduated from Moser Business School and Mr. Howitt studied at Dubuque University and Northern Illinois Universities.

The newlyweds are now residing in Royal Oak, Mich., where the groom is employed by the Singer Co. in Detroit and the bride is employed as a secretary for another Detroit company.

Their marriage took place at 2 p.m. in South Church Community Baptist Church with Pastor Edwin I. Stevens officiating. Glads, mums and daisies decorated the church for the double ring service during which Mr. Taylor gave his daughter in marriage.

A SNOW WHITE satin floor-length gown, fashioned empire style, was the choice of the bride for her wedding. The gown featured a scalloped neckline with long sleeves and full train. A beaded, lace pillbox held her fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses with an heirloom handkerchief, loaned by a long-time friend.

Miss Edna Ann Taylor served as her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Carol Thwreatt and Miss Bonnie Bookless of Mount Prospect, the groom's sister, Miss Gale Howitt of Birmingham, Miss Janice Schindler of Wheeling and Miss Sharron Cada of Prospect Heights. Their yellow chiffon gowns were fashioned with floor-length skirts and empire bodices with long sleeves. Their flowers were nosegays of white roses circled with daisies.

Best man to the groom was Larry French. Ushers were Robert Lange, David Pastoreus, Ronald Thompson, Ray Schindler and Stanley Grear, all of Birmingham.

The reception, attended by 175 guests, was held in the Hyatt Chalet in Elk Grove.

Mrs. Taylor received in a light blue brocade with corsage of white glamellias. Mrs. Howitt was in a mint green silk dress with beige glamellia corsage.

The newlyweds honeymooned for a week in the Smoky Mountains before taking up residence in the Royal Oak apartment. (S

Adorns Cake with Flowers for Party Dessert

FOR SPECIAL OCCASIONS Mrs. Robert W. Southard of Palatine uses fresh flowers to festoon an elegant angel food or chiffon cake. She fills and frosts the cake with a smooth and creamy custard which makes this a refreshing as well as festive dessert.

Cook Also Makes Tasty Fudge Sauce

By LOIS SEILER

For those special occasions when a festive dessert is in order, there is nothing prettier than a high and light chiffon or angel food cake festooned with fresh flowers.

An elegant filling and frosting recipe for such a cake has been shared with our readers by Mrs. Robert W. Southard of Palatine.

This is her favorite party dessert for birthdays or showers, and it can't be surpassed for excellence in taste and appearance.

Mild in flavor, the filling is a smooth and light cooked custard which has whipped cream folded in.

"The cake should be filled and frosted several hours before serving, or the night before," said Mrs. Southard. "This is a convenient feature for a busy hostess."

This dessert is light and refreshing and can be served successfully any time of the year.

ANOTHER of this good cook's favorite recipes is for savory Chicken Cacciatore. She combined the better part of two recipes to develop a Chicken Cacciatore that suited her taste.

Easy to prepare, this dish is made by browning chicken and onion in garlic and olive oil and then simmering it in an oregano-flavored tomato sauce.

"Dry white wine may be added," said Betty Southard, "and the Chicken Cacciatore should be served with spaghetti or noodles.

Another of her appealing recipes which makes a big hit with youngsters and adults is a rich and delicious hot fudge sauce.

Easily made in the top of a double boiler, this sauce is both smooth and creamy and tastes good hot or cold. It can be served over ice cream, used in parfaits or spooned over cream puffs.

COOKING is but one of Mrs. Southard's many interests and activities. She is a member of the League of Women Voters and is enrolled in an adult evening course from the University of Illinois. Both she and her husband are advisers for the high school youth group at the Palatine Presbyterian Church, and during the school year Mrs. Southard is employed as a secretary for District 15 at the Salk School in Rolling Meadows.

The Southards live at 271 N. Linden in Palatine. They have two daughters: Jane, 12, who is in seventh grade at Sanborn School, and Nancy, 20, a junior at North Kalamazoo College in Michigan and who will study at the University of Caen in France this fall.

Many Uses For Cottage Cheese

Cater to the food fancies of your family by serving cottage cheese with whatever you please. It couples so delightfully with fruits, vegetables, herbs, spices, condiments, meats and fish.

It pairs deliciously with parsley, celery, or pepper flakes; with oregano, mint leaves or minced clams. Many homemakers find that cottage cheese stars in a diversity of dishes, from dips, omelets, pies and cakes, to splendid souffles, casseroles and salads. Or alone it's just plain good eating.

APPARENTLY many Americans think so. In 1964 they consumed about 4½ pounds per person.

Cottage cheese is not only a delight with other foods, but has virtues all its own. It's instantly ready to eat—just off with the lid. Although low in cost and calories, it's high in protein, vitamins and minerals. Creamed cottage cheese, for instance, has a scant 239 calaries in an eight-ounce container.

Onion Nutrition

Dry onions provide a useful amount of many vitamins and minerals though not outstanding for any one. One cup of cooked onions, 210 grams, provides a fifth of the daily recommended allowance of vitamin C and a twelfth of the iron. (SH

Coffee, Doughnuts Always Good Snack

Coffee and doughnuts always seem to hit the spot whether it be a mid-morning snack or later in the day.

Here's a recipe for old-fashioned doughnuts that have a light touch of spice and are rich and crispy. When cutting them, use a sharp utensil. A glass dipped in flour is not sharp enough.

OLD-FASHIONED DOUGHNUTS

- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup milk
- 5 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 4 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg

Beat eggs. Add sugar, beating constantly. Stir in milk and oil. Resift flour with rest of dry ingredients. Stir flour mixture into egg mixture. Roll to ½ inch thickness on lightly floured board. Cut with sharp cookie cutter or doughnut cutter.

Fry in hot fat, one at a time.* Drain on absorbent toweling.

*Have pan of boiling water ready. Quickly immerse fried doughnut into water. (Make sure you wipe dipping utensil before picking up next doughnut.) Drain doughnuts on paper toweling, and bake at 325 degrees Farenheit until they are crisp on the outside. (SH

Too Much Food

Estimates of the incidence of 58 per cent of all adults, or roughly about 79 million people suffering from obesity to some degree, according to Dr. William H. Sebrell, Jr. of Columbia University's Institute of Nutrition Sciences.

The mass occurrence of obesity, he thinks, is probably a consequence of an overabundant food supply and not enough exercise. (The Malnutrition of Abundance, address by Dr. Sebrell at Salt Lake City recently.) (SH

Beatnik Party Planned By Arlington Juniors

"Yea, man," was the expression frequently heard at the first fall meeting of the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club held Sept. 8. The reason was readily discernible when the membership was informed of the first social event of the year, a Beatnik Party for members and their husbands on Friday, Oct. 8, in the VFW hall in Arlington Heights. Festivities will commence at 9 p.m. with a wine tasting party presented by Brown-Foreman. Admission will be an original work of art by each couple and appropriate costumes are the order of the evening. A box lunch social will climax the evening of dancing and games.

Prospective club members were introduced at the Sept. 8 meeting, which featured a talk by Mrs. Howard Schick, club parliamentarian, on parliamentary procedures. The membership was informed of the do's and don'ts of meeting procedure as well as the etiquette involved in handling club business.

It was announced by Mrs. George Behrens, club president, that the monthly meetings, beginning Oct. 12, will be held in the Pioneer Park Field House. At this next meeting, a reception will be held honoring all newly initiated members.

A get - acquainted coffee will be given by the Club Wednesday, Sept. 29, at 8:15 in the home of Mrs. Allan Brinn, 208 N. Yale, Arlington Heights. Any woman interested in joining the club will be given an invitation. This will be the final party in a series of three luncheons and two coffees given by the membership committee for prospective club members.

MRS. GEORGE Behrens, club president, feels that "this is an excellent opportunity for community women to become acquainted with the projects supported by the General Federation of Woman's Clubs as well as the local Junior Woman's Club." Informed members will present a short synopsis of the activities of the Juniorsl which include charity fund raising events and social events for members and their husbands.

Anyone interested in attending or wishing more information on the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club may call Mrs. Jon Floria, 894-6382, club membership chairman. (S

MARRIED SEPT. 4 in the bride's hometown of Birmingham, Ala., were Miss Audrey Lee Steele and William Lorne Box Sr., both of Arlington Heights. The couple's attendants were W. L. Box Jr. of Elk Grove and the bride's sister, Mrs. Anne Cren of Birmingham, for the ceremony performed in St. John Chapel of the First Methodist Church. The newlyweds are residing at 415 Prospect Ave., Mount Prospect.

Fred Lussows Make First Home on Indiana Campus

The Harold Lussow family of 402 S. Gibbons, Arlington Heights, traveled to Noblesville, Ind., for the Aug. 28 marriage of their son, Frederick Harold, to Connie Claudette Henderson. Her home church, the First Methodist of Noblesville, was the setting for the 2:30 p.m. double ring ceremony, and later the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh K. Henderson, hosted a garden reception for 350 guests.

The couple met while attending Indiana University at Bloomington, where the groom received his degree this past June. They will live in the college town at 812 Campus View, since the groom is now assistant football coach at Indiana. He was a member of Prospect High School's first graduating class.

HIGHLIGHT OF THE bride's attire was an heirloom cafeo lavalier which belongs to her maternal grandmother. Complementing the necklace was her silk organza empire-styled gown which ended in a chapel train. The bodice and a front panel extending the length of the A-line skirt were covered with clipped chantilly lace encrusted in seed pearls.

A cluster of organza rosebuds tipped with pearls and crystals held her bouffant veil in place. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids surrounded by sweetheart roses, stephanotis and strands of ivy.

The maid of honor was Mary Ann Heinzmann of Noblesville and the groom's brother, William Lussow of Arlington Heights, was best man.

BRIDESMAIDS were Kathey Shelton of Kokomo, Sandy Howell of Terre Haute and Mrs. John Altman of Indianapolis. All were gowned exactly as the maid of honor, in champagne pink silk organza styled similar to the bride's dress. With her floor-length dress, each wore a flat bow headpiece of the pale pink organza and carried a cascade of asters in shades of white, pink, rose, lavender and purple, with ivy background.

Ushering the relatives and friends to their seats were John Lussow of Arlington Heights, James Beasley of Evansville and Thomas Erickson of Milwaukee.

FOR THE DAY'S festivities Mrs. Henderson wore a 3-piece suit of pink silk linen with matching accessories and a pink sweetheart rose corsage. Mrs. Lussow chose a silver blue tucked crepe sheath, matching accessories and a white sweetheart rose corsage.

The newlyweds honeymooned for a week in Eagle River, Wis. before returning to the Indiana campus to live. (S

Green Pepper GoodIn Salads, Relish

The sweet pepper is one of those very handy vegetables which can be eaten either raw or cooked, served "straight" as a vegetable or as a flavorful addition to salads, sauces, relishes or sandwich fillings.

Not only are sweet peppers very flavorful, very crunchy, very green or at a later stage of ripeness, very red, they are also quite low in calories—about 95 per pound. This amounts to something like 16 calories per medium pepper.

Sweet peppers are quite rich in vitamin C, for one raw pepper provides the full amount of vitamin C needed each day. They also have a useful amount of vitamin A. They are low in sodium, which is good news for those who must avoid salt or plan low-sodium menus for someone else.

STUFFED PEPPERS are easily prepared. Remove the "lid" of the pepper pod by cutting away a thin slice at the stem end. Remove seeds and membrane. Parboil in boiling salted water to cover for about three minutes. Invert, drain and fill with some well-seasoned mixture of cooked meat and vegetables.

Sweet peppers are delicious, too, cut in strips and sauteed briefly in garlic-flavored olive oil. Especially good with beef or fish.

To discover the sweet pepper's virtues as a pepper-upper of relishes, try this recipe.

FRESH GREEN PEPPER-CAULIFLOWER RELISH

- 2 medium-size heads cauliflower (about 1½ lbs. each)
- 3 large green peppers
- 16 small white onions, peeled
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 1¼ cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground turmeric
- 2 teaspoons mustard seed
- 3 tablespoons mixed pickling spice
- 1½ cups white vinegar
- 1½ cups water

Remove leaves from cauliflower. Wash and separate into flowerets. Cut green peppers into thin strips; combine with cauliflower and onions. Sprinkle vegetables with salt; cover and let stand overnight. The next day drain and rinse in cold water. Combine sugar, turmeric, mustard seed and mixed pickling spice in a large pot. Stir in vinegar and water. Bring mixture to a boil and boil 5 minutes. Add vegetables and boil gently 10 minutes stirring occasionally. Pack in hot sterile jars. Seal at once. Yield: Approximately 4 pints. (SH

Pineapple Preserves Make the Difference

How delectable! That's what they say when they spoon into this refreshing, cloud-light rice dessert. The chief difference between this sophisticated treat and its simpler cousin — rice pudding — is that golden pineapple preserves have been added.

A chilled dessert, no baking is necessary. The fruit-rich, slightly tart pineapple preserves is a most satisfying accent to the bland flavors of rice, marshmallow and banana folded into a fluff of whipped cream. Easy to create, it suits parties large or small; its chilly richness is memorable as a coffee sweet or as the perfect finale to a feast. It is a favorite of all ages, too — pretty enough for adult parties, nutritious and pleasing to the young ones.

HEAVENLY RICE

- 2 cups cooked rice
- 1 cup pineapple preserves
- 1 cup miniature marshmallows
- 1 ripe banana, sliced
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped

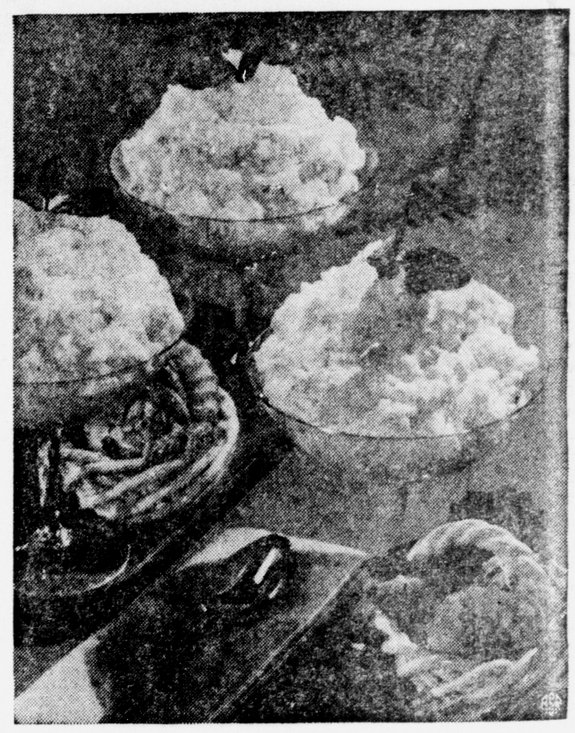
Prepare rice according to package directions. Combine rice, preserves and marshmallows, and mix well. Sprinkle banana slices with lemon juice and add to rice mixture; cool. Fold in whipped cream and chill. Makes six servings. (SH

Pork Research

You can roast today's modern pork loins to an internal temperature of 170 degrees F. rather than the previously recommended 185 degrees F. Roasts cooked to this lower internal temperature will be more juicy, have lower cooking loss and will require less cooking time.

These facts are reported after intensive research at Iowa State University. The recommended oven temperature for roasting pork remains the same as it has been for some time, 325 degrees F. to 350 degrees F.

It's easy to take the guesswork out of cooking pork loins if a roast meat thermometer is inserted in the thickest part of the meat, resting neither in fat nor on bone. The pork roast will be done when the meat thermometer registers 170 degrees F.



Decorative Skillets Have Teflon Lining

Pans lined with Teflon have come a long way since their introduction several years ago. Once publicized only for "diet cooking," this cookware is now used by homemakers who never even considered going on a diet.

The remarkable advantage to Teflon-lined utensils is that they can be cleaned so easily. Just a little soaking in warm, sudsy water will even remove burned-on foods.

The appearance, too, has been improved. There now are Teflon lined utensils available for decorative kitchen display. Enameled porcelain-on-steel cookware, made by the United States Stamping Co., has designs on the bottom so the attractive motif adds a festive note to any kitchen when the utensils are hung on the wall.

THESE TEFLON lined skillets have a modern enamedled-black finish decorated with stylized white flowers. The decoration will not wear off, even with years of use. Skillets come in 8 and 10-inch sizes.

Besides the attractive cookware shown, there are 8 and 10-inch skillets in "Decorator Tone" cookware with Teflon lining. These pert utensils come in brilliant shades of Tiger Lily (orange), Bluebell (bright blue) and Sunflower (sunny yellow).

Complete lines of porcelain enameled cookware, including items with a Teflon lining, are available at leading hardware and department stores. (SH

Breads Enriched

Sandwiches have come a long way since the fourth Earl of Sandwich, credited with creating America's most popular food item, called for a slice of meat between two slices of bread.

But sandwiches are still easy to make, easy to eat. Many are now gourmet treats, some even meals in themselves. And all modern sandwiches also boast a special nutritional bonus — enriched bread or rolls.

The B-vitamins, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin, and the mineral, iron, are added to bread during the enrichment process without adding cost or calories. (SH

Easily Digested

Potatoes are highly digestible. The carbohydrate is 92 to 99 per cent usable, the iron is 93 per cent usable and the potato vitamin B-1 is more usable than even a like dose of the purified vitamin.

Serve Quickly

Serve potatoes as quickly as possible after cooking. Not only do they taste better, but loss of vitamin C is avoided. This vitamin is rapidly destroyed when potatoes are kept hot for later use. (SH

Variety Needed

There is no such thing as a "health food," according to the American Medical Association. The best guarantee of good nutrition is not some special concoction or any one food, but a variety of foods such as meat, milk, cereals, fruits and vegetables. (SH

Operalogue Sept. 30

Northwest Chapter of Lyric Opera Guild will present the first of a series of operatic interludes Thursday, Sept. 30.

The opening program on Verdi's opera, "Simon Boccanegra," will be presented at 1:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Walter L. Ditfurth on Cuba Road east of Ela. Beth Carr, who has sung roles in previous operalogues produced by the local chapter, will be the producer.

Chapter members and their guests will hear three musicians who are Mrs. Carr's associates from the musical world. Baritone Leon Hicks, bass Ben Mathews, and pianist Richard Otto.

Hicks excelled in music in the Barrington public schools and in 1958 entered Northwestern University where he won scholarship honors. He was graduated in 1962 with a bachelor's degree in music and later obtained his master's degree in voice from Northwestern.

WHILE AT Northwestern, Hicks was selected to receive the Louis Sudler Award for Excellence in oratorio singing. He has performed most of the major solo baritone roles in many of the larger oratorio works and most of the well-known contatas for smaller church organizations. Locally he is co-music director of the St. Paul United Church of Christ with Kenneth Grom.

Mathews will sing Jacopo Fiesco's arias, "My Torn Soul" and "Vengeance." He has recently been engaged by the Apollo Opera Company to sing the role of Ramfis, the high priest, in Verdi's "Aida." He has been a guest on the Artist's Showcase and has given concerts extensively in the East and in New England. He is the bass soloist at the Church of the Redeemer in Chicago.

Richard Otto, who will be the pianist and the narrator for this operalogue, has his bachelor's and master's degree in music from the Chicago Musical College, where he studied under Rudolph Ganz and Mollie Margolies. He is a member of the faculty of Hull House Art and Music Camp and musical director of Encore Theater. Currently he is touring nationally with Concert Artists of Community Concerts of New York.

OTTO ALSO IS choral director for Continental National American Group, St. Paul Federal Savings and Loan, Rock Island Railroad and the Junior League of Evanston. He is the coach-accompanist for Eunice Steen Lamont at Fine Art Building, Chicago.

In addition to producing this program, Beth Carr, a soprano, will sing a solo and a duet with Hicks, when she plays the role of Amelia. She studied music at Lawrence University and later studied with Forrest Lamont of La Scala and Civic Operas and with Rosa Raica. Currently she is studying with Eunice Steen. She has appeared on concert stages, before women's clubs and church groups in this area and in eastern and central Canada.

Verdi's "Simon Boccanegra" is one of the operas on the repertoire of Lyric of Chicago this fall. (Bill

Slate Speed Reading as 'Y' Program

Latest developments in the new educational technique — speed reading — will be discussed in a free demonstration Friday, Oct. 1, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Mort Warshauer, director of the Dan/Ro System of Illinois and reading consultant for the local 'Y,' will use an exclusive study kit to improve the study habits of adults and students enrolling in the course which opens Tuesday, Oct. 12, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the YMCA. The course will last eight weeks, meeting twice weekly.

THIS MARKS the eighth year in which the Dan-Ro course has been teaching students and professional people to read better. Mercury Space Project personnel in Las Vegas were recently taught by the system, as were executives of IBM, North American Aviation and Packard Bell Electronics.

On the demonstration night each person will be shown how to read at least twice as fast and how to get more out of what he reads.

Countryside Mothers Plan Tour of Area Homes

Members of Barrington Countryside School Mothers' Club will form a taxi-brigade Wednesday, Oct. 13 to chauffeur guests along their "Rural Route" home tour of four unique homes in the area. The tour will begin at the Countryside School, W. County Line Road and tours will leave between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

First home on the tour will be the Owen Fairweather home. Mrs. Fairweather is part owner of the Fairweather-Hardin Gallery on N. Michigan Ave. and her home is reported to be a veritable art institute.

A Barrington landmark home on the tour is the Edward Twerdahl home which was originally a creamery for the Spencer Otis farm which once encompassed three and a half miles of Barrington country. The Charles Newhall home is described as a magnificent example of elegant Georgian colonial style. This home includes a motorized dumb waiter from the 3-car garage to the kitchen, a can and bottle chute and a milk and package receiver at the back door.

THE FOURTH home on the tour is the Julian Hansen's rambling traditional home with roof of hand-hewn shingles. Adjacent to the home is a guest house, which was originally a dog house. Now completely renovated, it is now called the "doll house" and is the home of Mrs. Hansen's mother.

A limited number of luncheons, by reservation only, will also be included in the tour. Luncheon tickets are available by phoning Mrs. Ralph Rose at 381-2625. No reservations are necessary for the tour alone, for which the group is also charging. (S

'Yesterday's Memories' Fashion Show, Oct. 4th

More than 500 area women will step into the past Monday, Oct. 4, when area hairdressers present their annual luncheon and fashion show. The "past" will include a parade of area women modeling not only ensembles of yesteryear, but also authentic hair styles of the same period. The parade will comprise fashions from the Fabulous Fifties, down through the post-war and war-time 40's, the Depression 30's, the Roaring 20's and even decades previous to the 20's.

The audience will be brought back to the present day with a showing of fashions from Marge's Sample Shop in Arlington Heights and Rifken's Furs in Elgin.

Appropriately named "Yesterday's Memories," the luncheon show will be held in the Brass Rail of the Sheraton-O'Hare and will benefit the Clearbrook School for Retarded Children in Rolling Meadows.

SPONSORED BY Affiliate 47 of the Illinois Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, members of the Affiliate's hair fashion committee will create the hair styles for the models of yesteryear. Other members of the group will use their talents to create the latest of the mid-60's hair fashions for the models of the Fall '65 ensembles.

Affiliate 47 includes hairdressers from the entire Paddock circulation area and tickets are available in most area beauty salons. Arnold Dunsmore of Arlington Heights is chairman of the luncheon show, which is an annual benefit sponsored by the beauticians.

"YESTERDAY'S MEMORIES" for these 6-year-olds, Amy Heisig and Linda Voelz of Palatine, may be their mothers' gowns of just a few years back, but for models in the Oct. 4 fashion show of the same name, the "memories" will date back many decades. Sponsored by area beauticians, the show will be held at the Sheraton-O'Hare, and will also feature present day fashions from Marge's Sample Shop.

Antique Show in Progress On DuPage Fairgrounds

Authentic antiques valued at more than $50,000 are featured at the sixth annual Wheaton Antique Show, one of the largest showings in northern Illinois, during the 3-day event at DuPage County Fairgrounds. Dates of the show and sale are Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 22, 23 and 24.

The antique show is sponsored by the 1,000-women membership of the Homemakers Extension Association of DuPage County, the local organization that works with the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

MORE THAN 38 registered dealers from five states will display domestic and imported furniture and accessories including art glass, brass, pewter, silver and Early American patterned glass. Of special delight to the Americana collector will be an extensive display of Early American prints and old books.

Of particular interest to men will be two dealers presenting a diversified collection of antique guns, old coins and hard-to-find American Indian relics. From England come charming accessories in brass, pewter and old English silver.

SURE TO delight the children as well as their parents and grandparents is a collection of dolls dating back to the 18th century, and the miniature furniture which furnished the elaborate doll houses of a bygone era.

One booth devotes itself to French Haviland china, represented by a registered Haviland dealer, Oriental rugs and antique silver.

COMPLETE LUNCHES or just a cup of coffee will be available at all times during the show. Any guest, man, woman or child, attending in authentic pre-1900 costume will be served a free lunch.

Show hours today, Thursday, are from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Friday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Garage Cabinet

Even if your garage seems little bigger than the family car, there's still potential storage space. Build cupboards of ponderosa pine and suspend them from the joists against the back wall, above the level of the car's hood.

Closed cupboards are neater than open shelves, and they'll keep stored items from falling on the car. (S

Youth Wins Walgreen Scholarship

Thomas C. Gajewicz, 6407 N. Oak Park Ave., Mount Prospect, recently qualified for a Walgreen employe pharmacy scholarship.

Gajewicz is in the fourth year of the five-year pharmacy course at the St. Louis College of Pharmacy. He works with Walgreens at Mount Prospect Plaza Shopping Center on summer vacations and during the school year as his studies permit.

The Walgreen employe scholarship program, now in its 28th year, has been growing annually. The company says that more than 100 pharmacy students will be working toward their pharmacy degrees under this program in various colleges throughout the country during the coming school year.

PRACTICAL TRAFFIC FLOW and extra storage space are features of the "Challenger" that make this tri-level Bluett-built home in the Mount Prospect area attractive to home buyers. The exterior combines brick and paneling in colonial styling.

Shoppers Like Bluett Home's Layout, Space

Visitors to Fairview Gardens' recently-unveiled "Challenger," an attractive tri-level home with 3 bedrooms and 2½ baths, are acclaiming the model's unusual layout and the space offered.

The home provides a total of 2,504 square feet, with a large basement and extra storage area in the two-car garage. Builder Bob Bluett said, "Actually, we were surprised at the enthusiastic acceptance of this design by the public. It's apparently something many families have been specially looking for, and we ascribe its reception largely to its practical traffic flow and room arrangement."

The new "Challenger" is one of the several Fairview Gardens models located on the west side of Wolf Road, two blocks north of Central, in the Mount Prospect area.

EXTERIOR OF THE new model features shuttered windows and gabled roofs and combines brick and paneling in attractive colonial styling.

The interior layout provides many closets, semi-open room arrangement and well-planned traffic patterns. A T-shaped distributing corridor adds privacy to the upper-level sleeping area. Flooring of the front entry is attractive tile, with the guest closet at one end. A short flight of steps leads up to the main living level.

The living room, over 22 by 13 feet in size, has a wide view window at the front, and beyond, the dining room opens wide in an inviting L-layout.

THE FAMILY room, a few steps up to the kitchen, has over 45 linear feet of wall space for decoration. The home's rear entrance is in one corner, while the inside garage entrance, basement entry and powder room are in another.

All three bedrooms have wide, sliding-door closets. The bathroom provides vanity and mirrored cabinet, a special linen alcove and a second entrance from the master bedroom. The latter also has its own private dressing room, with a second closet.

The "Challenger" and other models are open to the public daily from 10 a.m. till dusk. (10BB

Plastics Company To Locate in Area

Keolyn Plastics Inc., formerly Chicago's northwest side, will occupy its new plant, located on Algonquin and Elmhurst Roads, in Elk Grove Township, Sep. 27.

The new plant expects to employ about 100 workers on three shifts.

According to Jack E. Glatt, president, Keolyn will be primarily processors of plastic materials by injection molding. These materials include the new engineering types recently introduced by General Electric, DuPont and Union Carbide.

Business Building Improving

Large Porch Featured in Newest Sleepy Hollow Home

In Sleepy Hollow, park-like all-residential community located just southwest of Dundee, the first home in an attractive new model group is now open to public inspection.

Known as the "Fleur-de-Lis," the home is an eye-catching ranch plan with distinctive contemporary exterior styling. Designed for practical traffic flow to every area of the house, it has a large family room, utility room, basement and special storage space in the two-car garage. There are three bedrooms and two baths, one with connecting dressing area, off the master bedroom.

The special distinction of this home is apparent to the visitor immediately. Centered in the front elevation, the generous front porch, raised slightly above grade level, is fully protected by a broad beamed roof of modified cathedral concept, supported by four white columns. The front elevation of the home is further enhanced by two narrow, decorative windows which are widely-spaced in the brick wall of one wing.

THE ENTRYWAY in this model is floored in an early American brick pattern of vinyl tiling. It leads directly back to the T-shaped distributing corridor and the large kitchen, which is centered in the overall plan for convenience. Immediately to one side, upon entering the "Fleur-de-Lis," is the living room, separated from the front entry area by a divider of turned and polished natural wood.

The adjacent dining room, open to the living room, has separate entrances from the kitchen and the family room.

The latter, 20 by 12 feet in size, has floor-to-ceiling sliding window-doors open to the patio area. Extending almost across an end wall is a wood-burning fireplace, designed in colonial brick with mantel and raised hearth in rough-cut limestone. The utility-mud room, with inside garage door and rear entrance to the home, is at the far end of the family room.

THE KITCHEN is centrally located and designed to serve family and guests most practicably. It can be entered from the front entryway, the dining room, the family room and the main distributing corridor leading to the sleeping wing. A large ceiling exhaust fan, masked behind adjustable louvers, serves the whole house.

In the sleeping wing, extra privacy and quiet are achieved by the T-shaped distributing corridor. Each of the three bedrooms has a wide double-size closet. The master bedroom bath and dressing room features an unusual decorative window of frosted bottled glass and built-in vanity, while both bathrooms have double, built-in overhead heat lamps.

Sleepy Hollow and its several new models are open to inspection daily from 10 a.m. till dusk. Entrance to the community is on Higgins Road (Route 72) near Dundee, about a mile west of Route 31. (10BB

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by Richard H. DeLano, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

Everyone is familiar with the major Dutch bulbs such as tulips and daffodils. Few, however, have had the opportunity to become familiar with the small or minor bulbs.

A visit to many of the complete garden centers will find many of them on display with their unfamiliar and strange sounding names. These minor bulbs deserve more attention because they can extend the spring season of bloom. Some varieties bloom much earlier than the major bulbs and others later, even into June.

In general, the minor bulbs are small in size; therefore, you should make a rough chart of your beds indicating where you have planted each variety. This will help to prevent you from grubbing them up out of season.

FIRST OF THE minors to bloom, even before the crocus, is the yellow winter aconite or eranthis. During mild seasons, they may come up in early March. Since they are crocus-sized blooms on three to four-inch stems, they should be planted close to where the expected viewer will stand. For the same reason, they should be planted in masses.

While the winter aconite has been in gardens for over 300 years, the chionodoa or glory of the snow is a newcomer that has been cultivated but 80 years. They can be distinguished from the Siberian squills which they resemble because the flowers face up revealing a white center. Scillas face downward and are of a deeper blue.

Another small bulb that faces downward is the galanthus or snowdrop. Like the previously mentioned bulbs, the snowdrop blooms early in the season. Sometimes the green leaves will penetrate snow in late February or early March.

ORNAMENTAL onions or alliums are a group of small bulbs that extend the bulb blooming season into June .Over 250 varieties are in existence. However, the dozen or so that are available locally have the distinction of having almost unpronouncable names. Some examples are: Allium karataviensa, a short plant with a large white flower, ostrowskianum, rosenbachianum, aflatunense, and albo-pilosum, a giant onion with flowers twice the size of a soft ball. There's no doubt about it that easier to pronounce names would increase the flowering onions.

Authorities recommend planting depths of two to four inches for the small bulbs. The precise depth depends on the type of soil. Deeper planting is recommended in sandy soils and shallow planting for clay soils.

For best effect, all the small bulbs should be planted in masses. About 20 to the square foot is about right. This is quite close planting when you consider that a six to eight-inch spacing is suggested for tulips and about four inches for crocus. (15BB

LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORDS
BY LINDA NORRIS

BY LINDA NORRIS

In "Vicky Autier in Paris", Capitol offers a collection of well-known French songs by one of France's favorite pop pianist-singers . . . The album, recorded in Paris, is a collection of French love songs, including Symphonie, J'attendrai — Au Revoir, Le Chant de Mallory and eight others . . . It's pleasant, gay as a Parisian evening and soothing after some of the more modern music has wafted away . . . Those who seek the different, will really enjoy this package by the French chantreuse.

An unusual album that features the famed Marlene Dietrich singing a group of popular American folk songs in German is Marlene . . . And how this great star continues to stay on top, turning back each generation that threatens to replace her and seeming more glamourous with each year she adds onto her considerable age, is amazing in itself . . . The LP, her second for Capitol of the World, is comprised of such songs as Der Trommerlmann (Little Drummer Boy) Paff, der Zauberdrachen (Puff, the Magic Dragon), Die Antwort weiss allein der Wind (Blowing in the Wind) and Scht—kleines Baby (Hush Little Baby).

Another recommended Capitol of the World is Yugoslavia! featuring the Dalmacija Singers and various other artists . . . Recorded in Belgrade, this is the first Yugoslavian album ever to be released by this company . . . The Dalmacija Singers are a small group of male vocalists who specialize in the lively, traditional folk songs of the Yugoslavian coast . . . In addition, they are also heard singing two modern songs . . . Ca ko voli, ca ko zna (What Is Interesting to You) and Jemala sam dragoga (I Had a Lover).

Color TV Sales Rise

Consumers will spend more money for color TV sets during the next 12 months than for black-and-white sets. Color sets, TV Guide magazine reports, will be moving into homes at the rate of nearly 10,000 daily — about one color set for every two black-and-white sets.

The increase in color set buying, the magazine says in its annual TV Set Buyers' Guide, is coming while the sale of black-and-white portable sets will also be setting new records.

Set manufacturers will offer nearly 370 different models as compared with only 269 a year ago and 180 in the 1964 model year.

Viewers will also find the networks and stations catering to this new emphasis on color. At least 60 percent of "prime network time" (7:30 to 11 p.m.) will be in color this year and this figure is expected to increase as more color equipment becomes available. (15B B

SELF ANALYSIS QUIZ

Can You Give Constructive Criticisms?

By Jane Sherrod Singer

Because we live with others, each of us is constantly faced with the problems of telling others how to do things, how to do things better, how to do them differently. You can be angry, loud-mouthed and negatively critical—or you can win the other person over to your ideas and gain their cooperation. The latter approach, persuasion, is a real art. Our questions require honesty on your part. Don't bother taking this quiz unless you are willing to judge yourself—even if it is unpleasant.

	YES	NO
1. Do you tend to make your suggestions when you are tired or worried?	( )	( )
2. Do you let a tone of exasperation, boredom, or sarcasm creep into your voice when you are critical? (Ask someone else)	( )	( )
3. Do you try to sense the mental or physical condition of the other person before you begin your complaints?	( )	( )
4. Do you enjoy having the last word with such statements as "I told you so," "I thought so," "Now wasn't my way better?" etc.	( )	( )
5. Are you as quick to express appreciation as you are to find fault?	( )	( )
6. Do you have a secret feeling of either superiority or inferiority?	( )	( )
7. When you make errors, can you usually find an alibi for them?	( )	( )
8. Do you listen to the suggestions, complaints, criticisms from others AND evaluate them honestly?	( )	( )
9. Do you make a big fuss over small details?	( )	( )
10. Can you keep your mouth shut and LISTEN to others without having an immediate answer to everything?	( )	( )
11. Does your face often express anger, disgust or impatience? (Ask someone else)	( )	( )
12. When faced with errors, do you feel more anger than an interest in a remedy?	( )	( )

DESIRABLE ANSWERS: All answers should be NO—with exception of 3, 5, 8 and 10

SCORING:

12 correct: You are an artist, when giving suggestions.

8-10 correct: You give criticism so that they are welcomed as a help, not a hurt. "The legitimate aim of criticism is to direct the attention to the excellent." (Christian Bovee)

4-8 correct: Your approach is basically negative. You get your ideas across by coersion rather than creating cooperation. "It is a barren kind of criticism that tells you what a thing is not." (R. W. Griswold)

0-3 correct: You hand out criticism with a potion of acid. There are faster, easier, more lasting ways of correcting those things you do not like. "Criticism often takes from the tree the caterpillars and the blossoms together." (John Paul Richter)

The Way We See It

Anti-Dropout Plan Needs Business Aid

Northwest suburbs, in large part, have been uninformed and uninterested in the problem of high school dropouts. Community leadership has been slow to see the need for concern in a so-called area of affluence.

Forty out of every 100 youngsters in the U.S. today will either fail to attend high school or drop out before they have finished. Projected to 1970, the number of unschooled, unskilled, and unemployed youth of the nation will number 7,500,000. Nearly 200 students dropped out of District 214 schools last year.

Students are leaving school for work reasons at exactly that point at which they are least able to compete in the modern labor market. Lacking preparation and skills, they will never be able to gain better than marginal employment.

National attention has been riveted on the social and economic factors which have led to this situation, but there is also an unfulfilled void in the classroom which many schools are not satisfying for dropouts.

It is this void which has concerned board members and administrators in High School District 214. The school board recently approved a Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) proposal for the current school year and, at the same time, agreed to support a local work-study program.

The NYC project will help 100 young people (1) to earn needed income to enable them to continue their education, and (2) offer an individualized school program through a federally-subsidized program of testing, counseling, selected school experiences, and supervised part-time work experiences.

In a series of special public meetings, the board and administration convinced even the most skeptical that such a program was a sound and necessary contribution to maintaining the excellence of our schools.

The substitute proposal which the board has agreed to support calls for local business and industry to develop placement and counseling services to combat the dropout problem as well as to train and orient the student into the business community.

Under this program, the high school will work jointly with a business-industry committee to provide an "intelligently-programmed placement and counseling service." Additional students, not covered by the NYC, will be available when the local program is ready to start. As soon as it proves itself, students can be transferred out of the federal program to the local project. Meanwhile, the NYC is ready to go.

The youth corps, intended only for students who are economically deprived, is but one approach. The support and participation of business is indispensable to other anti-dropout efforts. Such cooperation is warranted not only because business has an interest in the supply of labor but also because it has a unique ability to do something important for the community.

Finding solutions to the school dropout dilemma will require the mobilization of all community resources, industrial as well as educational.

Chuck Percy Was Right

Charles H. Percy, speaking before the Illinois Press Association last spring, caused much comment and a bit of consternation when he reversed his stand on the need for open occupancy legislation.

During his campaign for governor, Percy had favored open occupancy but had opposed state legislation on the subject. "I urged action to eradicate discrimination in housing but I argued that laws were not the most effective means to combat discrimination," he told the editors.

Then he continued: "Since the election . . . it has become abundantly clear, and I have reluctantly concluded, that a majority of persons engaged in the sale or rental of housing are either unable or unwilling to adopt an effective fair housing code.

"Therefore, if the General Assembly does NOT pass some form of residence legislation, there will be no effective effort to eliminate the evil of discrimination in housing in our state. For these reasons, I now favor the enactment of a bill which will effectively strike at discrimination in real estate."

The accuracy of Percy's assessment of the situation has been strikingly confirmed by the experience of two Negro teachers in Elk Grove schools.

They were hired last spring by the administration and school board because of their outstanding qualifications. "We are fortunate they chose our district," Supt. Roger Bardwell said.

It seems reasonable to assume that teachers so highly regarded in their profession would be deemed desirable tenants. But they have been refused wherever they have gone, and are now waiting for a vacancy to open up next month in apartments built by Centex Corp., the developers of Elk Grove Village.

Advocates of voluntary progress against housing discrimination had a perfect opportunity here to take one small step forward. They failed to do it.

Chuck Percy was right.

Ethics in Springfield

Illinois voters have not forgotten the sensational reports of tape recorded conversations, purportedly between lobbyists discussing legislative bribery, which shook Springfield last spring.

Now a Senate committee has been named to investigate the apparent scandal revealed by the tapes. A counterpart committee has been named by the House. An additional Senate group is being formed to investigate and recommend safeguards against conflict of interest.

State legislatures in general, and the Illinois legislature in particular, have been near the bottom of the totem pole in public esteem among all legislative bodies.

Major responsibility for this lies with the legislatures themselves. Traditionally, they are the judge of their members' qualifications and set their own standards of conduct.

In Illinois, the two houses have failed to quiet reports of corruption which persist from one session to the next. Members of the legislature have openly served private interests doing business with the state.

State lawmakers have not been bashful in asserting the importance of state's rights and their own functions. If they want the public to take them seriously, they must leave no doubts as to their honesty and single-minded devotion to duty.

This is the challenge faced by the legislative study groups in Illinois.

Township Pay Cuts Urged

by DAN PRIBILSKI
Staff Writer

Elected township officials are the most overpaid and underworked officials in northwest suburbia. No doubt about it.

Compared with the small stipends village officials get or the payless jobs of elected school and park officials, the town officials stand out as the fat cats of suburbia.

Now it should also be understood that town government is the most do-nothing public body in the area.

However, in our money-oriented society, maybe town officials should not be taken to task too much. They just happen to be smart enough or lucky enough to grab the pot of gold from that little gremlin who is sometimes called Mr. Taxpayer.

As everyone knows, costs are going up—have been since 1775 in this country. So you can't blame the various town officials who seek pay increases. After all, a public servant has to have a few uplifting functions and seeking pay raises is certainly uplifting. Such was the case of Palatine officials last spring.

PRIBILSKI

The best jobs in town government are supervisor-general assistance administrator, clerk, assessor, collector and highway commissioner. Somehow the auditors have never done as well, but compared with school or park officials they are still doing too well.

Remember these jobs are part-time. If town officials do 40 hours of work a week (twice what any really do, I'm sure) they are still overpaid.

Do you know what the supervisor-general assistance administrator can make?

In Wheeling Township for fiscal year 1963-64, he got $3,000 as supervisor, $2,400 as G.A. administrator, and $1,197 as treasurer of the road and bridge fund. That comes to $6,597. In 1964-65 the pay was again over $6,500. In Palatine the pay for 1964-65 fiscal year was $5,050 and in Elk Grove it was $5,324.

Remember this: none of the supervisors or any other town officials do all the work themselves. Much of the work is done by office help.

Does anyone besides the officeholder himself or his bosom buddies think he should get that kind of money for doing less work than any given village president, trustee or school or park board member?

Clerks are getting $2,000 or more a year in such towns as Palatine, Wheeling and Elk Grove. That's for a few Saturdays' work and a few evenings. (Most of the voter registration is done by the office help.)

ASSESSORS' salaries are based on a town's population. In Wheeling the assessor now gets $6,400 but is seeking $7,500, the maximum allowed for that township. He describes his job as "tough." Poor boy. In Palatine and Elk Grove the assessors are getting their maximums, $7,500. Collectors in Cook County get $10,000 a year. Not bad for a few months of work each year.

Highway commissioners for the three townships get from $6,900 to $8,000 a year. Again, not bad for part-time duties. Of course a highway commissioner is on call for all sorts of emergencies. Poor fellow has to get up from a warm bed on snowy nights and call out his workers to plow the streets. Might happen 10 or 12 times a year. (In villages the public works directors work full time, have more duties and get very few more dollars for their efforts.)

IT'S TIME FOR the people to start going en masse to their general town meetings in April and see that salary appropriations for elected officials are cut. Residents of villages should especially want to do this since town government is of little worth to them.

If town officials argue that qualified candidates for this expensive government would not run for lower sums, tell them that this isn't the experience this area has had with villages, schools or parks.

As a general observation, I would say the officials of the other bodies are as competent and dedicated as any town official. And, to repeat myself, they are more hard working than town officials ever will be.

News Staff Speaks Up

Newlywed Nest Eggs

By DAN BAUMANN
Staff Writer

How much money should a young couple have before they get married?

This week's speak up question was answered by a motley array of newsroom staff not shy about putting their answer in terms of their own experience.

For the Baumann's reply, I checked the distaff side.

BAUMANN

"More than we had," was the firm reply. We had about $600, two cars (neither paid for completely) a full time job (hers) a part time graduate school teaching assistantship (mine) and—13 months later—a bouncing baby boy, one car (not paid for completely), a part time assistantship and no cash (a condition which has persisted).

A BACHELOR on the staff, news editor Dan Pribilski, suggested $3,000 as a good starting figure — "total for both the boy and girl."

"You can eat up $1,000 furnishing a house," he explained. "And you need a little cash for a house later."

Girls, he volunteered, "shouldn't be so unconcerned about the financial end. They should save, too, instead of spending all their money (before marriage) on clothes and fun."

Filibustering, the bachelor added, "There are extra expenses in marriage a single person may not expect."

Copy Editor Alice Terrill, 25-year veteran of matrimony, looked back, "We didn't have too much. I worked for the first year, as we had planned, and then we started a family."

But, she noted, "Things are a lot different now. The cost of living is higher, and people spend more. It depends on what people expect."

Bachelor girl Nancy Anderson also opined that "It depends on the style of living they're used to. If both people have been working at good jobs, it is a big switch if they have to depend on the husband's salary."

ADMITTING he had a "head start," sports editor Bob Frisk, 29, suggested a bank cache of $2,000 to $3,000.

"But there is no rule of thumb to apply. Some can start with nothing and through planned savings work out okay. Even with savings, you're faced with numerous expenses in the first years of marriage.

"If you start out behind, you could be in trouble."

Agreeing, news editor Howard Harmening, 27 and the father of one, suggested, $1,000—or more."

Joan Lorenson, eligible, suggested it is "not necessary to have a set amount . . . as long as you're sure one salary is sufficient.

"The idea of a dowry and a huge bank account is very nice but not necesary."

Reflecting, Miss Lorenson added that in the absence of family planning previous savings is necessary.

A directly opposite view was offered by sports writer Mike Hess, 25, whose first offspring is expected this week.

"They should have enough money so the woman can live the kind of life she was accustomed to before. The husband shouldn't ask the wife to make the adjustment in her level of living.

"It shouldn't matter much, as far as the husband is concerned."

NEWS EDITOR Tom Edwards, 35, married two years and the father of one, said a young couple should have enough "to be able to maintain their independence."

Ken Knox, 24, married four years and father to two, offered, "They could have nothing — as long as they have sure prospects for the future."

Claiming to be "exceedingly poor," Knox said it has been no stumbling block to marital bliss.

The figure $2,000 appealed to photographer Tom Grieger, 35, father of two. Grieger stressed the need for savings if the bread winner is attending college.

He admits starting below his own set "recommended range," and adds it "has not been unbearable."

"The husband should have a bank account of $1,000 and a relatively secure job," said Dave Hanks, bachelor. He placed emphasis on the steady job.

News editor T. William Swinford volunteered at a $5,000 figure as savings for newlyweds.

"They should have a nest egg to start with. It will be eaten up quite rapidly when they buy a house and furnish it. Then there are baby expenses and so forth."

A SIZEABLE nest egg, he asserted, "makes things a lot easier."

"If you're not in college and your parents aren't helping to support, then the husband should earn enough to support both," according to society editor Marianne Scott.

"A young couple shouldn't count on a wife's salary. The boy should have a good job and be somewhat established in his career."

On today's Speak Up question, then, the consensus of "A young couple should people here seems to be: have somewhere from nothing to $5,000 saved up; both should have good jobs — or maybe one."

Most common answer: "It depends."

I didn't ask photographer Bob Finch. He was just married. Obviously too close to the situation to offer an objective reply.

Cummins Comments

The Organization Migrant

By BOB CUMMINS
Staff Writer

I suspect few people really appreciate the plight of the migrant worker in Suburbia.

I had a unique glimpse of it the other night at the home of Miguel and Maria Rodriguez, long-time acquaintances of mine.

CUMMINS

After supper, we sat down to a game of cribbage when the phone rang. Maria answered it. "Who was it?" Miguel asked, when she finished the coversation and returned to the table.

"The Lambshank Township Christian Council for Migrants," she replied. "They wondered when they could send out a pastor to counsel us. I told them the first date we have open was next Wednesday."

"Are you sure Wednesday is open?" Miguel asked. Let's see . . . on Monday we're meeting with Guillermo's teacher on the Operation Head Start program . . . on Tuesday we're booked for the forum of the Lambshank Township Council for Environmental Education . . . . and Wednesday, let's see . . . why that's the day of the language institute!

"WELL, I'LL JUST have to call them back and ask them to make it Thursday," Maria observed, as she dealt the cards.

Before long, the phone rang again and this time Miguel answered.

"It was the Economic Opportunity Council," he explained on his return. "They want me to help in a driver education program for Lambshank Township migrant workers."

"What did you tell them?" Maria inquired.

"I told them I couldn't do it," Miguel answered. "They're holding the program on Saturday mornings and it conflicts with the board meetings of Citizens United for Decent Housing."

I HOPED OUR game would not be interrupted again by the telephone ringing, but the hope was in vain. Scarcely five minutes passed before Miguel was called to the phone once again.

We could hear him talking: "Hello . . . yes, this is Miguel Rodriguez . . . .Fine, fine . . .the whole family's fine. . . And how about you, Mr. Gumprecht? Good. That's good. . . .So you got a lot of ripe tomatoes, eh? . . .When you need me? . . .No, not Monday, that's when I meet with Guillermo's teacher. . . . No, Tuesday is the forum. . . Wednesday is the language institute . . .Thursday the pastor is coming . . .Say, why don't you try my good friend Diego Hidalgo, his number is LA 7-3846 . . .Si, same to you . . .'Bye now."

When he returned, Miguel sighed. "There just isn't time enough anymore. I don't know what I'm going to do."

"And I'm a week behind with the laundry," Maria offered, "with so many forums, conferences, and institutos."

"WE'RE GOING TO have to do something," Miguel said. Then he grabbed a piece of paper, scribbled a few words on it, folded it and handed it to me.

"Here," he said. "Take that back to your paper and give it to the want ad department."

After our cribbage game was finished and I had said goodbye to my hosts and returned to my car, I unfolded the piece of paper and read it:

"HELP WANTED," it said. "Social secretary. Knowledge of driver training, laundering, public speaking and tomato picking helpful. Call Miguel Rodriguez, YO 9-3476."

Quotoons

The average man with his shoulder to the wheel usually is trying to support his wife and family.

People who like to be the whole show frequently have a very small audience.

It's easy to get a person to admit that there are two sides to every argument — especially if he's listening and enjoying them.

Clarifies Provisions Of School Code

Several points seem to have been overlooked in your issue of the 17th reporting on District 23's School Board meeting and their allocation of funds for some retarded children in their district. Too many people are totally unaware of the legal provisions made for ALL children by the State of Illinois.

1. The public schools in the State of Illinois are legally bound by state laws to provide an educational program for all eligible retarded children in their District over 7 years of age.

2. The Board of District 23 voted only to pay the tuition for one child from its district, now attending Clearbrook school for lack of space in the special education rooms of the public school. This child is over 7 years of age. The public school is not subsidizing any private school. Through an oversight provisions were not made for this child to enter the school districts' shared special education rooms, one in Mount Prospect, the other in Elk Grove Village.

3. The board of District 23 did not vote to provide any funds for children from their District under 7 years of age now attending Clearbrook school.

4. There is not a school district in the State of Illinois legally bound to provide a school program for ANY child under the age of 7 years. Many do not.

We feel very strongly that it is of utmost importance to set up an automatic workable system in handling these little ones as they become eligible for a program in the public school system. These retarded children, though they will never become world leaders, with proper training can take their place in society very nicely.

Questions Lack Of Seat Belts On School Buses

Your coverage of the school bus accident last week was excellent except that no one noted the absence of seat belts for children and driver.

If they had had seat belts on probably no one would have been injured.

Seat belts are required in private cars. Why aren't our children equally protected?

My two sons must ride the school bus and I am deeply concerned about their safety. The children are well disciplined enough to remain in their seats while the bus is in motion, they are quiet while going over a railroad crossing, surely, if they are properly instructed in the use and importance of seat belts they would automatically use them too. There can be little argument about the protection afforded by seat belts. Why can't they be installed and used?

Discouraged By Failure Of Referendum

I am writing this today, Sept. 16th, the day after the referendum failure. I know this letter might not agree with the paper's views but they are my views and as a citizen I would like to see it printed.

It is difficult for me to understand the recent failure of the referendum in School District 13. The third failure in 1965 of this desperately needed educational tax increase doesn't speak favorably of the people of Bloomingdale. For those of us who work and plan and try our best to convince — it is so discouraging.

Others will say "My referendum" failed. I cannot recall that it is "mine" personally. Our taxes will also be raised.

If our boys and girls come second to anything we had better look over our values in life. Your children and my children are our hope for the future. The best education we can offer is none too good. How many "no" voters have money for many luxuries? I don't begrudge luxuries — I like them too but is $13 that much?

For 6½ years Bloomingdale has been my home but today I'm not very proud to live here.

Papers Helped New Teacher Orientation

On behalf of the Teachers' Association of High School District 214 I would like to thank you for the newspapers you sent us for use at our orientation luncheon for new teachers. These were certainly helpful in making the teachers feel better acquainted with the community.

Thank you so much for your assistance in making this occasion a big success. If we can be of any service to you in the future, please let us know.

'Open Door' Series Praised By Chuck Percy

The "Open Door" series by Charles Hayes and Larry Cameron, following up the earlier report on Illinois poverty, is so excellent, I want to congratulate you once again on the important public service you provide in your publications. Your readership benefits from comprehensive, in-depth reporting far beyond that generally offered by the suburban press anywhere in the United States.

I was negligent not to suggest that Hayes and Cameron visit our 3-R Program of basic education in the Chicago Boys Clubs. Since February we have had about 600 students, and we are very proud of the results shown both in terms of learning and employment. A very large number of the students have advanced sufficiently that they are acquiring jobs for which they couldn't qualify just a few months ago.

Prices Up For Postal Envelopes

To halt an annual $3.3 million loss in the postal envelope sales service, the Post Office Department has announced an increase in the price of printed and plain stamped envelopes.

Under the law, stamped envelopes must be sold at not less than cost.

Excluding postage, the price of plain envelopes sold in box lots of 500 was increased about 10 per cent. For sales of less than box lots the price was raised one cent per envelope, to two cents above postage.

The cost of printing return addresses on envelopes was increased as follows: for orders of 1,000 or more, from $2.50 to $4 per 1,000; minimum orders of 500 envelopes, from $1.25 to $2.25.

OVER-THE-COUNTER sales or small quanities of envelopes account for a substantial amount of the loss eliminated by the envelope price increase.

During fiscal year 1964, the Post Office Department sold about two billion stamped envelopes, producing about $17 million in revenue. (A-15

Dismayed by Drivers Halting On Rail Tracks

The National Safety Council is periodically calling attention to the need for alert, courteous and careful motor vehicle driving. Nevertheless, I am astounded at the apathy and shortsightedness of some of our drivers.

Since Central Road in Mount Prospect has been closed, I have become increasingly aware of the number of motorists who drive onto the railroad tracks and stop, waiting for the traffic light to change to green.

In the past week, two motorists were observed doing this at the Central Road crossing and one at the Emerson Street crossing. A police officer stationed at Emerson noticed the errant motorist and administered a well-deserved lecture.

The surprising part is that the individuals at the wheel appear to be good, intelligent — but unthinking — persons.

It occurred to me that your paper could add to its efforts of service by periodically publishing a cartoon of safety council flier such as the one enclosed. Unfortunately, we don't seem to have enough desire and enough money to build underpasses or depress the railroad tracks, but at least the need for courtesy, alertness and safe driving methods can be kept in the forefront.

What a toll, 1,450 lives lost at grade crossings last year.

Wonder What Can Be Done About Speeding

It's a narrow and heavily traveled street. When you're west bound on it you see two signs that make a great deal of sense. The first sign announces "Careful — Children" and the second warns "25 MPH." I see these signs daily. And just as regularly I see evidence whiz by me that other people don't see the signs. I'm sure that if they saw the signs they would certainly heed them.

Recently, as I approached the first sign, I happened to glance in my rear mirror and saw a car approaching me rather rapidly. He swerved out to pass but since the street is only two lanes an oncoming car forced him back. I took advantage of the situation and gestured as obviously as I could toward the two signs, particularly the one reading "25 MPH," since that seemed to be the one he had the most trouble seeing. It didn't help him, however, for, as soon as he could, he pulled out to pass me.

But I didn't let him. I was probably wrong. But I had just plain had it over some people treating Thomas like the back stretch at the "500." Since Thomas is so narrow a simple maneuver on my part gave me the middle and the control of the street. We rolled along at 25 mph and I gestured dramatically toward another speed limit sign. And he honked his horn. I don't think he was telling me he had seen the sign, however.

I signaled for a right hand turn and he followed. He gunned his engine and pulled out to pass me. That's when he noticed I was now signaling for a left turn. He slowed quite quickly and I completed my turn. I glanced in the rear mirror and saw him gesture. I got his message. I'm quite sure he didn't get mine, however.

And that bothers me. What can a plain ole citizen do to help others obey signs and speed limits? I'm quite sure they apply to everyone. . .not just me and the other square drivers who respect them. So what do we do? A "vigilante" type action like mine isn't the answer. And "setting a good example" doesn't seem to do the job. . . particularly when you try to obey the speed limits on Palatine Road. Doing that is an invitation to wear a car in your trunk. I don't know what the answer is. And the recent Labor Day carnage indicates others don't know what the key is to highway sensibility. It's a bit of a dilemma. Tragic. Expensive. And so utterly unnessary. Maybe if each of us drove just a little slower. . .just a little more carefully. . .just a little more courteously. . .

'The Open Door' Series Liked By Congressman

I want to thank you for the most recently published Paddock Publications' series, "The Open Door," one more Hayes-Cameron triumph in reporting.

I remember reading the first series on poverty in 1960. I can at this time — five years later — still see some of the outstanding photographs which accompanied your writing. The problem became impressed on my mind then, only to be re-impressed with the latest series.

I believe the Human Investment Act of 1965, a bill which I joined in sponsoring last week, will work toward a part of the problem — unemployment. I feel this bill represents the kind of positive alternatives that the Republican Party in the House is proposing to deal with the nation's great problems.

Looking forward to your next series, whatever subject it may cover.

Parade Marshal Replies to Criticism on Public Safety

I read with interest the letter of Mr. Gallaga of Buffalo Grove in the Sept. 9 edition of the Fence Post. Normally I would not bother to reply to this sort of letter, for it gives it credence. However, in this instance there are so many misrepresentations and half truths that a reply must be made.

First, let us understand the real motive that prompted Mr. Gallaga's letter. It was not his interest in public safety as was so piously expressed, instead it was irritation at the inconvenience that the Buffalo Grove Day parade caused him personally.

I could have understood his annoyance at the slight delay that he encountered at leaving the village, and perhaps been in sympathy with him if he had written an honest report. However, his irresponsible charges and half truths lead one to believe that the situation he encountered is one that he created. This is confirmed by the statement of the police department radio that he spoke to. But to be perfectly honest, I doubt if any newspaper would have printed this conversation.

Secondly, the truth of the matter is that the police and fire depts. are more prepared for emergencies on this day than on any day throughout the year. For in addition to the four regular units that are on emergency call, there were three additional vehicles in service. There was also additional first aid equipment and mobile radio communications to take care of any problems.

The policemen and firemen who manned these posts are truly interested in the public welfare for they again volunteered to serve as they do every other day of the year. They and their families were truly inconvenienced and not for just a few minutes but instead for the entire day. Strange, but they never seem to get around to writing a letter of complaint about it; must be a different breed.

Thirdly, it seems odd that Mr. Gallaga knew so little about the parade or the meaning about the origin of Buffalo Grove Day. The events and the program of the day are publicized for months in advance both by the local newspapers and house to house distribution in the village. The final flyer was delivered to each home on the day previous. This incorporated once again, the parade route, the time, the assembly area and the traffic restrictions that would be in effect. The route, the time, the assembly area and the parking restrictions have not changed in the past four years.

Your unconcern as to my identity is duly noted, but for your edification I have been the parade marshal for the past four years and consider it a great honor.

In addition to my duties as an elected trustee of this village I am the chairman of the police and traffic committee. In this role my real concern for public safety is well known as newspapers and home bulletins will testify. I am very happy to see that someone else shares this concern over the welfare of the public. Now that the truth is known, please accept my apologies for the few minutes delay that you encountered. Once again the people of Buffalo Grove had a safe and wonderful day.

Youth Must Be Attracted to Health Careers

I just wanted to congratulate you on the excellent article that appeared in your Sept. 9 issue entitled "What's Behind Hospital Costs?"

Beyond the range of problems and challenges you mention is one that now concerns us most seriously. It is the problem of insufficient health man power.

The very large amounts of federal money that will be pumped into our health care system through Medicare and certain other federal programs can have a highly inflationary effect on hospital costs. The reason this is a threat is that the present supply of nurses, technicians and therapists of various kinds is quite short at the present time.

Assuming the numbers of these professionals is not radically increased, we may have a situation where all health care facilities will be competing ever more furiously for the same personnel with the certain effect that wages will spiral and the patient will not get much more either qualitatively or quantitatively than he received before.

Our hospital system in Illinois, therefore, must do some very exceptional work to bring more young people into the health careers field. The opportunities for young people are nearly unlimited. We will need in this effort all of the help we can get from the press and from other opinion molders in our society.

Again, our congratulations on an excellent presentation.

'Fearful Rely on Myths To Come to Conclusions'

Today we live in a world faced with rapid technological, scientific, and most important social advances. We have to be aware of change so that we can help make the change from one condition to a better condition—in other words so the change is for the good of all.

We can only make this adjustment if we understand, and understanding is only fruitful when comprehended by an open mind. This open mindedness is stressed much by higher education — the liberal education. The man who is liberally educated is striving to be a whole man —a man who can judge with objectiveness and scrutiny.

Whether this education is self-acquired or formal makes little difference, but it is essential for self-government to work. John Kennedy realized this when he said, "Every citizen holds office."

We can no longer be content living in our own little worlds because we live in the community of the world. What happens in Berlin, Vietnam, Washington, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, and the next block, all have direct bearings on our lives. Pope Paul VI put it this way: "We are responsible for our times, for the life of our brothers, and we are responsible before our Christian consciences."

Unfortunately, some people have yielded to fear — the fear of discovering the truth. They make quick, rash, and inaccurate judgements. For example, a teen-ager on his own block might be known as a good boy, three blocks away he becomes a hoodlum, and 10 blocks away he becomes an adulterated criminal. Berkeley is another example. Suddenly all college students become subversives and fanatic radicals.

Of all those who condemn, I wonder how many bothered to uncover the facts. The American Negro is probably the best example of all fear judgements. What are the facts? The facts aren't important to the fearful because they can rely on myths to arrive at their conclusions. They are afraid to discover the truth because their TV world and backyard living would be shattered, and they would be forced by conscience to act as rational citizens.

This would demand a giving of time and energy — basic charity — but this is too much to ask from them. They are capable of writing books filled with excuses for every occasion. How long can a free society last with this type of person at the voting poll? Remember Kennedy's words. What kind of world are they leaving for their children? It scares me.

More specifically, what if a Negro family moved into your neighborhood? Would you go screaming property values will decrease, my daughter will be raped, and other stereotyped myths? Or will you examine what happened in Skokie and other integrated communities with the calmness of rational adulthood? What do you really know about the Negro? Do you think his greatest ambition is to marry your daughter? Do your realize the complexities of his life? An example from the Josephite Harvest, July-August issue, gave a brief outline of this complexity:

"Negro poverty is not white poverty. Many of its causes and many of its cures are the same. But there are differences — deep corrosive, obstinate differences — radiating painful roots into the community, the family, and the nature of the individual.

"Perhaps most important — its influence radiating to every part of life — is the breakdown of the Negro family structure. For this, most of all, white America must accept the responsibility. The family is the cornerstone of our society. More than any other force it shapes the attitude, the hopes, the ambitions, and the values of the child. When the family collapses, the child is usually damaged. When it happens on a massive scale, the community itself is crippled."

Why do you suppose there are thousands of people working in the Peace Corps, civil rights organizations, summer camps, and other responsible organizations? They realize the truth and know something must be done. Kennedy's words ring out: "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

Remember it is your life hanging in the balance and your children's lives.

Michael McLean
Long Grove.

Says School Buses Speed on Prindle Ave.

Monday afternoon at approximately 4:25 p.m. I was in my living room when I heard a loud bang.

As I looked down the street I saw a school bus lying on its side and another one in a neighbors driveway.

I immediately ran to the scene of the accident and did what I could to help get the girls out of the overturned bus and help to comfort them, as of speed the men and women in this area.

My thoughts, and the thoughts of so many, were that this was inevitable due to the high rate of sped the men and women drive the school buses.

Miraculously no one was critically injured and I hoped this would serve as a reminder to all school bus drivers to keep their speed down to the posted speeds. Evidently it had no effect whatsoever.

This is the third day after the accident and, school bus drivers are back to the same practice of speeding on Prindle Avenue, and ignoring the intersections.

It doesn't seem fair that our children should have to risk their lives riding in school buses with drivers who aren't the least bit concerned with their safety. If they were, they certainly wouldn't be driving at the rate of speed they are now.

I sincerely hope the school systems will take immediate action to correct this hazard before another such disaster occurs. One which may involve the life or lives of children riding these buses or of those who are innocently playing in their own front yards.

'Americans For Freedom Not Extremist'

In a recent Fence Post letter, a charge was made that the Young Americans for Freedom was an extremist group. I hope this letter will help to clarify that statement somewhat.

Information regarding YAF is available to me because my college brother is president of a YAF chapter at St. Vincent College in Latrobe, Pa.

Young Americans for Freedom has been in existence since September of 1960. It has been endorsed by Richard Nixon, former President Eisenhower and our late President John F. Kennedy.

The late Herbert Hoover called this group "American youth dedicated and devoted to the preservation of American freedoms. There are 39 members of Congress serving on the Young Americans for Freedom national advisory board.

YAF has received the George Washington Honor Medal from the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge. It has also received a national award from the All-American Conference to Combat Communism, which is composed of such groups as the American Legion, the Catholic War Veterans, the Jewish War Veterans, the Elks and Lions International.

At the present time there are 400 chapters and well over 40,000 members of this organization on various campuses throughout the United States. Should readers desire any more information regarding this organization, it can be had by writing to YAF at 514 C St., N.E., Washington, D.C.

Gentlemen, this group deserves the support of all Americans. It is unfortunate that this organization would be labeled "extremist." At a time when many young adults are entering and returning to college it is important that the above information be available to them and I would like to thank Paddock Publications for allowing me this privilege.

Likes Efforts Described in 'The Open Door'

Thanks for sending me the reprint of your excellent articles "The Open Door."

As I read the results of the Illinois experiment I began to have hope that a way can be found out of the jungle of frustration.

"Compulsory education for those on relief." It was indeed a bold experiment. But I believe we must face up to the fact that there must be firm but courteous discipline.

The beauty of the Illinois program is that it starts at the grass roots. And it seems to me that it has the elements of self help, with those who are taught becoming participants in the program of taking care of the work at the centers in which others are taught. This in itself brings respect for work and achievement.

The dole may in some instances be cheaper at the start. But one thing that struck me about reports from Los Angeles was rather frequent reference to the frustration of depending on relief without prospect of honest work.

One thing that has bothered me about newspapers in general is that I have feared all too many are getting too far away from the people. And I think the same thing may apply to some parts of education and of government.

There's an old one-room school house across the road from my house. I went to that school. It no longer operates but I and my neighbors who attended the school frequently talk of the way that older children helped in the education of the younger ones in that school. And we all pitched in to keep the woodbox filled and in the janitor work. It provided a pretty good start. It seems to me the Illinois program has some of the advantages of the old one-room school system.

Candidate Asked to Resign Village Post

Paddock Publications announced that Mr. Richard Mugalian has declared himself for Democratic Committeeman of Palatine Township. Although your newspaper said nothing about it, I would hope that Mr. Mugalian also declared his intention to resign as village attorney for Palatine.

The local village board in Palatine won office, running under the United Citizens label, on the claim that it is nonpartisan and divorced from all national politics. I helped work for that victory in the last election, and I hope the voters have not been fooled.

Serious doubt would be raised if we now find that the leader of one of the national parties is the paid counselor and advisor to the Village.

Whatever national political ambitions Mr. Mugalian has are his own business and he has every right, as a private citizen, to pursue those ambitions. However, he should not be allowed to use an appointed village post for his own partisan advantage. And the taxpayers should not be required to finance his campaign.

Certainly there must be other qualified attorneys who could advise Palatine and not raise these kind of doubts.

Thinks Officials Concealed Rossmoor Plans from Public

It is rather disillusioning for a citizen to find upon his first venture into local politics, that "politics" indeed is involved.

Testimony was given at the public zoning hearing that I would like to question.

1) Melvin Porter, real estate agent, stated under oath that his firm was hired on Nov. 15, 1964, by the Rossmoor Corp. concerning land acquisition as to the proposed Planned Adult Community.

2) Consoer, Townsend and Assoc. were hired in mid-1964, it was revealed.

3) William Lawrence stated that his firm, concerned with land planning, was hired April 1, 1965.

4) Dr. Carl Bays stated, also under oath, that his firm was hired in May of 1965 to investigate ground water resources for the Rossmoor Corp. in the proposed development.

It is certain that someone in the village was aware that these gentlemen and the firms they represent were busy in their particular fields.

I hereby demand that the individual or individuals, as the case may be, who had knowledge of the above information come forth and honestly identify themselves before the voters of this community, who were unaware at the time of village elections, which were held in April, that anything of this nature was even being explored. This community was given no information of any sort until July of this year.

As our group has previously stated, when a village of approximately 4,000 home-owning residents face a proposal to project themselves within the next ten years to an apartment-type city of more than 70,000 in population, the people have a right to be aware of what is being planned for them when it is being done.

I also request that the owners of the land that Rossmoor has optioned for this planned community be identified publicly by this newspaper. I request that all land that is optioned by this firm be identified publicly. I plead for honest information and a realistic evaluation of the costs of maintaining such a development.

We have witnessed a "hard sell" campaign that I am sure has never been done before in this community or surrounding communities. Why?

People representing the business interests involved have prevailed upon our zoning board to pass ordinances of the kind that are clearly not in the best interests of this community and of the stature and quality that we have and were accustomed to having heretofore. Again, may I ask why?

Asks: What's Wrong with Integrating?

In the recent, very excellent article by Kathy Gosnell on human relations groups it is stated, "As a whole human relations groups are concerned that their image not be a group of people who wish to integrate their communities." WHY NOT?

To quote an official statement by the Catholic Interracial Council, which has been highly praised by Cardinal Meyer, "The good community cannot be a segregated community. The good community must be open to all decent citizens who are economically able to live there. For the good community racial integration is a desirable goal because it is the condition of justice. For the good citizen, therefore, there is a clear duty to help his community desegregate."..."For the Christian, this obligation is even deeper because his faith pledges him not only to justice, but to the far deeper commitment of love for his fellowman." May I add that Christians share this deeper commitment of love with our Jewish brethren.

Since our community is made up mostly of Christians and Jews our commitment of love for fellowmen should make us precisely "a group of people who wish to integrate their community."

DEAR MOTHERS:

We have received many letters from college students expressing how much they enjoyed working with us this summer. Perhaps one was your daughter.

We appreciate those letters and their sentiment. We wish to take this opportunity to thank all these fine people for their conscientious efforts in our behalf—they contributed much to maintaining the prestige of "Preferred."

Now that your daughter has returned to school, perhaps you would like to fill her vacancy a few days a week with time off between jobs if you wish. We would be happy to help you brush-up on your typing, shorthand, or comptometry.

Since 1947 we have been serving a majority of firms throughout the city and suburbs. You will receive top hourly rates, weekly paychecks and many other benefits if you have experience as a

HELP! HELP! HELP! We need a new home! We were models in a model home and the builder "evicted" us when he sold the home. We are modern in style, beautifully built and bright and shiny because we've never been used. There are 4 of us—living room, dining room, bedroom & kitchen. We may be had separately, but if you'll take us all together, the 4 of us, we're only $500.00 (including carpet). Our chauffeur will deliver us to your door and you may take 2 years to pay.

Social Security

Children, Widows Gain More Benefits

(Part of a series)

Benefit eligibility requirements for children and widows were changed by the 1965 amendments to the Social Security Act, Henry T. Williamson, northwest Social Security district manager, at 4255 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago, commented this week.

A child of a retired, disabled, or deceased worker who could not inherit personal property from his father under state law, as previously was required, will be able to receive monthly benefits under this new provision, Williamson continued.

In order for the child to get benefits under this provision, the worker must have acknowledged in writing that the child is his; or the worker have been decreed by a court to be the father; or the worker have been ordered by a court to contribute to the child's support because the child was his; or the worker must show by evidence that he is the father of the child and was living with or contributing to the support of the child when he became entitled to benefits or reached age 65, became disabled, or died.

ANOTHER provision allows widows or dependent widowers to continue getting benefits on their deceased spouse's earnings record if they remarry, after age 60 if a widow, or after age 62 if a widower, Williamson continued. A widow who remarried after 60 (or 62 in the case of a widower) will get a benefit equal to half that of her deceased spouse.

If the remarried widow's benefit as a wife on the record of the new husband is greater than that payable to her as a remarried widow, she will receive the higher benefit, Williamson stated.

Anyone having questions about these new provisions should get in touch with the nearest Social Security district office, Williamson concluded.

Volunteer Training Set at Elgin State

New volunteers at Elgin State Hospital will attend an orientation training program on Tuesday, Sept. 28, and Oct. 5 starting at 6:45 p.m.

"There are 100 openings for volunteers," according to Doris Czarobski, ESH associate volunteer supervisor. Men and women are needed in areas from pianist and group discussion leaders, to assisting activity and recreational therapists and chaplains.

Volunteers are also needed as instructors of knitting, guitar, grooming, and academic tutors. "We especially need volunteers as friendly visitors," the associate supervisor said.

THE NEW volunteers will be welcomed by Dr. Ernest S. Klein, superintendent, on Sept. 28. The session will lead into discussions of the basic needs and drives of people to understanding the emotionally disturbed.

The second session on Oct. 5 will discuss treatment methods, the patient, hospital, and community, and the role of the volunteer as a member of the team.

Persons wishing to be volunteers and attend the meetings should contact Mrs. Czarobski, 742-1040, extension 258.

State Society Offers Free Eyesight Checks

The Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness has conducted free preschool vision screening programs in 67 communities in the state during the past year in cooperation with local community organizations and local departments of public health, according to Frank F. Fowle, president of the society.

A total of 7,498 children between the ages of three and a half and five years have had their vision screened, and 315 of these children were referred to doctors for diagnostic testing and any necessary treatment.

THE SOCIETY is prepared to take this program into any community in the state upon an invitation from a local organization such as a service club, a woman's club, a church group or a fraternal club. The society provides the technicians and equipment for the screening, the publicity and all necessary materials.

Such a program is under way in Elk Grove Village, sponsored by the Lions Club.

It is necessary to register the children before the date of the screening so that the parents may be given a "readiness" game to play with the children at home. The games prepare the children for the screening and they are able to cooperate more successfully. Members of the club serve as volunteers to register the children and assist with the screening.

If the children do not meet the standards of the screening, they are referred to the eye doctor of the parents' choice. The public health nurses contact the parents at a later date to see that the child has been taken for further examination.

FEW PARENTS realize the necessity for regular eye examinations during the preschool years, the society says. If the child's eyes appear to be all right, it is assumed that the child is seeing properly. The parent would not know that the world may appear to be a distorted blur to the child. Children don't know how they are meant to see so a child rarely complains about vision.

Organizations are invited to contact the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, 220 S. State St., Chicago 60604, or telephone its office, 922-8710, for information on preschool vision and a free preschool vision screening program. (A15

License Deadline

Just one week remains for motorists who wish to retain their present license numbers to submit applications before the new reassignment deadline of Sept. 30 the office of Secretary of State Paul Powell has pointed out.

This year's session of the General Assembly made the deadline a month earlier than in past years to allow time to process the steadily increasing number of reassignment requests. These requests have more than doubled in recent years, reaching a total of 500,000 last year.

The law grants to each natural person the right to retain his license number from year to year, provided he applies before the deadline and asks that the number be assigned to him again. There is no extra charge for this service.

ALL LICENSE fees have been increased 50 cents, however, to cover the added manufacturing cost of the reflectorized plates Illinois will begin using with the 1966 series. Of the 50 cents, 31.9 cents represents the added cost of the plates, and the remaining 18.1 cents will go into the road fund for general highway purposes.
